Plot Announced In Highjack Of S.F.-Bound Flight

Skyjacker Wants $2 Million For Crippled Vietnamese Children

VANCOUVER, B.C. (UPI)—A hijacker who said he was part of a plot to bomb commercial airliners until the Vietnam War is ended, hijacked a United Air Lines jet from Reno, Nev., to Canada today and demanded $2 million in ransom to be given to crippled children in Vietnam.

The plane carrying the hijacker and three crewmembers landed at Vancouver International Airport at 9:32 a.m. PDT.

Passengers on the regularly scheduled Boeing 727 flight from Reno to San Francisco were released before the plane took off from Reno.

A spokesman for United Air Lines in Chicago said the hijacker had demanded that a message be read over a Vancouver radio station saying "he was part of an organized effort to destroy United Air Lines aircraft until the war in Vietnam was ended and that the ransom money be donated to crippled children in Vietnam."

The message was read several times over radio station CJOR, and the hijacker apparently tuned in on the broadcasts from the plane.

The hijacker demanded the plane be readied for takeoff to Seattle, Wash., when Canadian officials said they could not supply the amount of money he wanted in American currency and gold.

Vancouver officials said the hijacker had asked for $500,000 in unmarked 20-dollar bills, $500,000 in unmarked 50-dollar bills and 15 pounds of gold in one-ounce unmarked bars. He also demanded a submachine gun and pistols to be delivered by the Royal Canadian Mounted Police (RCMP).

The Canadian Department of Transport told the hijacker that his demands could not be met in Vancouver because there was not that much American currency in "all of British Columbia."

According to transportation officials the hijacker then said, "Let's go back to Seattle and get this thing settled once and for all." They said the pilot of the plane then told them he would refuel and then go "back to Seattle and wind up this whole ball of wax."

A radio message from the captain of the plane said at one

Conklin Asks Ouster Of 2 EOC Trustees

Director Claims Pair 'Would Destroy' Agency

By ERIK M. INGRAM

The Marin County Economic Opportunity Council's executive director has called for the ouster of two board members whom he claims are out "to destroy the agency."

The Marin County Economic Opportunity Council's executive director has called for the ouster of two board members whom he claims are out "to destroy the agency."

In a letter to all 21 board members, executive director Alfred R. Conklin III requested the full board "to consider and vote on the removal of Mr. William J. Bielser and Mr. J. Kevin Donovan . . . at the next regular meeting, Sept. 6."

Conklin said he was requesting their removal for what he considers improper action last month when they urged state officials to block a $90,000 federal grant earmarked for the agency.

Conklin's letter was condemned by Bielser and Donovan, who labeled it "insanity, but typical of how the EOC operates." Other board members gave mixed reaction.

Conklin yesterday told the Independent-Journal he will ask the full board to amend agency by-laws so that the removal — currently not permitted — can take place.

Cause of this, the latest EOC controversy, is a telegram sent Gov. Ronald Reagan in which Bielser and Donovan said they coukdn't support continuation of the agency as it exists. They urged funding be withheld.

Conklin said he considered their action to be in direct conflict with trust placed in board members to "refrain from doing anything that would work injury" to EOC.

"The sending of this telegram by these board members proves that they seek not the success of the agency but its destruction, and that they are willing to refute their legal and moral duties as board members in order to bring this about," he wrote.

The 31-year-old attorney, hired to head the agency administration in June despite protests by Bielser and Donovan, said he believed their removal was necessary "if the agency is to succeed."

"There's no legal basis for what he's proposing," said Donovan, also an attorney.

(Under the agency's by-laws, a member can only be removed by the board if he misses more than three consecutive meetings.)

Donovan and Bielser long have been at odds with other board members over agency spending which calls for spending more than $150,000 this year, mostly on staff salaries.

Both have urged that the EOC close its doors and reopen under a different name with a new staff and board of directors. They were instrumental in bringing about federal investigation into the EOC misuse last year of about $100,000.

Bielsen said yesterday, "My position was much the same as the county board of supervisors when it recently denied county funding, namely that the agency isn't providing services to the poor of Marin County but rather is acting as kind of a 'gadfly,' encouraging other charitable agencies to do what they already are doing.

"For that, we are spending $150,000 and have seven employees. It's a waste of the taxpayers' money since the monew isn't getting to the people who need it — the poor."

Donovan said he agreed "in spades" with Bielser. "This is the biggest rip-off in the county. Conklin doesn't care, he's got a job — in a cinerarium. This is not an antipoverty agency, it's a debating society for foggy ideas."

Meanwhile, board chairman Barbara Eaton backed up Conklin's move to bust her two fellow board members.

"I think it was intended as an ultimatum," she said, adding she saw nothing wrong with the executive director urging removal of those for whom he works.

She said she shared Conklin's view on the impropriety of the telegram to Reagan and said, "It has become impossible to do anything but counterattack."

Mrs. Eaton said the letter was not an attempt to intimidate or muzzle board members who voice criticism of the agency. "I have no objection to criticism," she said, "but those who are opposed to exist-

U. S. Reveals 7 Bombing Errors

SAIGON (UPI) — A series of seven mistake bombings by American planes has killed 25 South Vietnamese soldiers and wounded 85 in the past 45 days, U.S. command figures showed today.

The command reported that six such incidents occurred during the period, but a check of daily communiques showed there had been seven such episodes.

Two of the incidents, including one Thursday, are still under investigation, a U.S. command spokesman reported. The others were blamed, variously, on failure of ground troops to mark their position, a faulty bomb release mechanism.

In action today Communist gunners hidden in nearby mountains slammed a 43-rocket barrage into the sprawling American air base at Da Nang killing an American airman, wounding 21 and destroying or damaging eleven U.S. aircraft.

Ten of the rounds landed on the South Vietnamese portion of the base and a village just outside, killing 27 civilians and wounding one government soldier and 24 civilians.

It was the third and largest attack on Da Nang this month and came one week after the last American ground combat unit in Vietnam —in charge of curbing rocket activity against the base —was deactivated. Protection of the key air base was turned over to the South Vietnamese.

Field reports said the two-hour shower of rockets destroyed one 02 Super Skymaster light observation plane and an HH53 Super Jolly Green Giant helicopter in their bunkered revetments, heavily damaged two more 02s, lightly amaged four others and damaged three EC47 electronic spy planes. Two buildings on the base also were damaged.

In the air war, U.S. Air Force F4 Phantom jet fighter-bombers wrecked a key bridge on a rail line between Hanoi and China Thursday for the fourth time, the command said. Near the North Vietnamese main port of Haiphong, a surface to air missile (SAM) destroyed a U.S. Navy F4. The command said the two crewmen are missing.

In addition to Da Nang, Communist gunners put 24 rounds of 122mm rockets into the South Vietnamese base and refugee camp at Chu Lai—35 miles south of Da Nang—killing two persons and wounding 18, the Saigon command said.

A Communist artillery barrage aimed at government soldiers trying to recapture Quang Tri City, South Vientam's northernmost provincial capital, killed an American adviser Thursday, the U.S. command said.

The spokesmen reported that eight other aircraft were lightly damaged.

A team of Phantoms hit the CaoNung railroad bridge 50 miles northeast of Hanoi again Thursday, knocking it out for the fourth time in four months. The Phantoms used laser-guided bombs to destroy one of the five spans on the 190-foot-long bridge on a line that runs from the North Vietnamese capital to the China frontier.

GI Pullback To Be Told By Sept. 1

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The White House announced today that President Nixon will make another announcement of troop withdrawals from Vietnam before Sept. 1.

Presidential Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler confirmed the President's plans shortly after Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird said Nixon probably would announce the next U.S. troop cut within 10 days.

Fischer Is Hit By Suit, Chess Draw

REYKJAVIK (UPI)—Bobby Fischer, possibly worried by a $1.75 million lawsuit filed against him, offered a draw today in the 15th game of the world chess championship after two moves. Boris Spassky immediately accepted.

Fischer heard about the lawsuit on radio before the start of today's game although aides had hoped to keep the news from him until after the game. The suit was brought by Chester Fox alleging breach of contract because Fischer refused to allow televison coverage of the games.

Today Fischer played through two quick moves, then offered his hand to Spassky and the champion agreed on the draw.

Fischer retained a full three-point lead in the $250,000 match, 9 points to 6, but failed in his hope to pull off a victory which some grandmasters had forecast when the game was adjourned Thursday evening.

Neither player was on stage when arbiter Lothar Schmid walked up and started Fischer's clock. Spassky, his king in check, had sealed his 41st move before adjournment.

GUADALCANAL INCIDENT

Hero Gets His Due —30 Years After

By PAT PERRY

Just 30 years ago, at 1:53 a.m. on Aug. 9, 1942, Quartermaster Royal Radke was standing watch on the bridge of the heavy cruiser Astoria off Savo Island, protecting the first U.S. landing on Guadalcanal.

A seasoned battle veteran, Radke, then 23, knew immediately what the sudden drone meant — Japanese planes. He requested permission to sound the general alarm, but the officer on watch, an inexperienced young lieutenant, hesitated.

Radke asked again, but was told the captain must make the decision.

Placing what he believed to be his obligation to the men aboard ahead of respect for rank, the young sailor yanked the red lever which sounded the alarm.

The Astoria suffered several direct hits in the ensuing attack, but because of his early warning the crew had time to seal the ship's water-tight doors.

When the Astoria sank 10 hours later more than 800 of its 1,200 crew members were rescued.

Radke, a most modest man who is now a foreman mason in Larkspur, forgot about the entire incident. He was discharged from the Navy as a chief quartermaster in 1945, then settled in California.

Forgot about the incident, that is, until last week when he learned through a newspaper clipping from the Los Angeles Times that survivors of the Astoria's crew had been searching for him for months, searching so hard that they had enlisted the help of the FBI and sundry congressmen.

When Radke got in touch with the survivors — who were organizing the 30th reunion of the Astoria crew — he was promptly catapulted into such honor and acclaim that he blushed on recalling it the other day at his home at 145 Magnolia Avenue, Larkspur, where he lives with his wife, Berta, and their three children, 19-year-old twins Kirk and Lisa and 15-year-old Melanie.

"They flew me up by jet Friday to Gerhardt by the Sea in Oregon," recounted Radke at

Officials Call Talks 'A Review'

Kissinger flew direct to Tokyo after six hours of secret talks with South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu Thursday and today in Saigon. Neither side disclosed details of the conferences.

"These talks provided an opportunity for a general review of all aspects of the situation in South Vietnam as well as of the talks which have taken place in Paris with representatives of the Democratic Republic of Vietnam," an official statement said.

It did little to lift the secrecy which surrounded his visit, which began with almost no warning Wednesday night.

Kissinger was seen off at Saigon's Tan Son Nhut air base by his South Vietnamese counterpart, Nguyen Phu Dug, who is President Thieu's foreign affairs assistant, and U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker.

Prior to the Kissinger's arrival, Japanese authorities stationed hundreds of riot police on the tarmac, around the terminal and along roads near the airport. Scores of police vans parked in strategic areas.

Authorities apparently were taking precautions against increased leftist activity that in past weeks has seen demonstrators trying to block shipments

Ross Town Council Passes Final Budget

The Ross Town Council last night approved a $330,542 budget for the 1972-73 fiscal year, an increase of $126,196 from the previous budget.

The tax rate was set at $1.83 per $100 assessed valuation, a 17-cent boost over last year's $1.66 tax rate (the steepest increase in 10 years).

The budget approved at last night's special meeting was the same as the tentative budget discussed in the last few weeks.

It includes $15,000 for expansion of police headquarters and the town clerk's office, $5,500 for consultant work to bring the community's master plan into compliance with new state planning laws and $4,500 for legal work arising from the Corte Madera Creek Flood Control Project.

Those items represent 20 cents of the tax rate.

The year's spending program also includes 2.5 per cent cost-of-living pay increases for all employees and 5 per cent merit raises for nine employees. The raises will cost $5,808.

The town of Ross will realize $229,482 from the new property tax rate, with the balance of the town's income coming from sales taxes, licenses and fees, fines, and other sources.

Fire, $52,196 ($47,765); police, $76,915, ($70,689); streets $33,549 ($31,808); general government, $62,623 ($47,964); parks and boulevards, $36,861 ($32,816); storm drains and flood control, $25,000 ($23,473); retirement fund, $13,000 ($12,000); workmen's compensation, $8,065 ($9,600).

Typhoon's Toll Is Raised To 12

TAIPEI (UPI)—Typhoon Betty's death toll rose to 12 today as nine more bodies were recovered, a police spokesman said.

Four other persons were reported missing and feared dead, he said.

The typhoon, the first to hit the island this summer, caused flooding that destroyed 270 houses, the spokesman said. Eleven flood control dikes were breached but the damage was not serious, he said.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Mrs. Irving Released

NEW YORK (UPI) — Edith Irving has completed a two-month term in Nassau County Jail for her part in the Howard Hughes "autobiography" hoax and now expresses deep reservations about the future of her marriage.

Mrs. Irving

The wife of author Clifford Irving, who is to begin serving a 2½ year term Aug. 28, told reporters yesterday that "prison can change people." She was interviewed in the office of Sheriff Michael Senuik one day before her release.

"I don't want to make plans for the future, I just don't know if it is the best thing to stay together", she said of her marriage. She described Irving as "desperate at the thought that our marriage might break up."

The slender 36-year-old blonde, clad in prison garb, was generally composed during the interview. But the thought that her two children might have to be placed in a home if she is jailed in Switzerland brought her to the verge of tears.

She said she is voluntarily returning to her native Switzerland to face charges of forging identification documents in connection with the hoax. She is charged with using a false passport — identifying her as Helga R. Hughes — to deposit and cash checks made out to H.R., meaning Howard R. Hughes.

Colonial Rule?

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — The United Nations Decolonization Committee was called into session today to hear Cuban charges that Puerto Rico has been under U.S. colonial rule for the past 73 years.

About 100 representatives of Puerto Rican independence organizations flew into New York yesterday to bring their cause before the United Nations. They also called a demonstration outside U.N. headquarters this afternoon.

The door for a debate on whether Puerto Rico is a U.S. colony was formally opened when the 22-member Decolonization Committee decided to take up today the problem of territories not specifically listed as colonies.

GIs Evacuated

HONOLULU (UPI) — Hurricane Celeste changed course last night, forcing evacuation of some of the American 580 servicemen stationed on remote Johnston Island.

An aircraft carrier was dispatched to the tiny atoll 800 miles south of the Hawaiian chain to pick up 65 persons. Celeste is expected to pass 175 miles east of the island today.

The National Weather Service said tropical storm Diana, with winds up to 50 miles per hour would hit the island of Hawaii today, causing heavy showers and surf with the possibility of some local flooding.

Celeste had earlier been expected to pass 300 miles from Johnston, the storehouse for America's nerve and mustard gas. The hurricane's winds near the center were 85 knots with gusts to 110 knots and accompanying thunderstorms.

Segregation Push

SALISBURY (UPI) — New moves toward formal racial segregation in Rhodesia will be taken by the ruling Rhodesian Front Party next month, sources in the party said.

They said provisions would be made to segregate by race public parks, swimming pools, cinemas, buses and toilets.

A confidential document prepared by a special party subcommittee said that while the races are interdependent in Rhodesia "there are differences which must be acknowledged and respected," the sources said.

Riot Troops Due

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Starting today about 2,500 U.S. troops trained in riot control will be flown to Florida to stand by in the event of trouble at the Republican National Convention.

A Pentagon spokesman said the troops would start arriving at Homestead Air Force Base about 30 miles south of the Miami Beach Convention site today. The airlift will be completed Saturday.

The GOP convention starts Monday. Federal trooops also were sent to Florida for the Democratic Convention in July, but the event was peaceful and the troops were not used.

Economy Is Moving At Fast Pace

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Inflation slowed sharply and real growth in the economy achieved its fastest pace in almost seven years during this year's second quarter, Commerce Department reports showed today.

The quarterly reports said corporate profits jumped during the April through June period despite the effects of tropical storm Agnes.

At the same time, the Commerce Department said, the inflation rate fell to 1.8 per cent, compared to 5.1 per cent for the January to March quarter. With the exception of the fourth quarter of last year, when prices were held artificially low by the government's freeze, it was the best inflation report since the fourth quarter of 1965.

A separate report said before-tax book profits of U.S. businesses in the April-June quarter rose $4.9 billion over the first three months of the year to a seasonally adjusted annual rate of $93.1 billion.

The quarter-to-quarter profit increase would have reached $6.7 billion at an annual rate without the losses in plant and equipment and inventories resulting from the Atlantic seaboard flooding.

The second quarter also saw a growth in the Gross National Product (GNP) of 11.4 per cent at an annual rate. This was slightly less than the 12 per cent growth rate of the first three months of 1972.

Real growth in the economy— output minus the effects of price increases—was estimated at 9.4 per cent in the second quarter. This was the best quarterly growth record since the fourth quarter of 1965.

Commerce Department officers estimated there was a $2.9 billion increase in after-tax profits—the sixth consecutive quarterly rise.

"The up trend in profits is encouraging for the economy as a whole because they provide both the incentive and part of the funds for expanding production and adding new facilities, which create more jobs and more income," said Assistant Commerce Secretary Harold C. Passer.

Among the major components of the GNP, only net exports and personal savings declined. Increases were noted in inventory investment, consumer spending, business fixed investment, residential construction and federal, state and local government purchases.

School Busing Curb Gets 282-102 Win In House

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The House early today voted for strong new antibusing restrictions, going one step further than President Nixon proposed but stopping just short of banning school racial busing of any sort.

The bill would require a court to first try a list of alternative methods of desegregating a school before it could order busing. If busing is ordered, as a last resort, students still could not be sent beyond the second nearest school to their home.

The measure, passed on a 282-102 roll call vote after a 13-hour session, went to the Senate where it faces its stiffest test.

Rep. Don Clausen, R-First District, voted for the bill while Rep. William S. Mailliard, R-Sixth District, voted against it.

Nixon had proposed that a "second nearest school" provision apply only to grade school pupils, but it was widened to cover all students in an amendment by Rep. Edith Green, D-Ore., which was approved on a 178-88 vote.

Black members of the House, defeated on repeated efforts to insert nullifying language on the busing restrictions, bitterly attacked the measure as an affront to blacks.

"The solution to this whole problem is for the House to instruct the Supreme Court to stop enforcing the 13th amendment and return us to involuntary slavery," said Rep. William Clay, D-Mo.

"Maybe I am asking too much that this body be decent, honest and just," said Rep. Parren Mitchell, D-Md.

The Green amendment, the key proposal among nearly 30 amendments offered to the measure, would also permit schools now under desegregation orders to get them reopened in court and make them comply with the new restrictions.

The amendment also provided for immediate termination, upon enactment of the bill into law, of old desegregation court orders brought against a unitary school system. That is described as "one within which no person is to be effectively excluded from any school because of race, color or national origin."

Southerners who prepared that provision of the Green amendment described it as more important than the reopening clause since most of their schools ordered integrated over the years now qualify as unitary systems and can get immediate relief from those orders.

Nixon orginally proposed that all court ordered busing end five years after enactment of the bill into law and all other court ordered desegregation not involving busing end after 10 years.

The House rejected, on a 211-174 vote, an amendment by Rep. James G. O'Hara, D-Mich., that would have flatly banned court ordered busing under any conditions.

Backers of the measure predicted courts would find the bill constitutional and said it was needed to stop "the emotional crisis in our land over busing of children."

Rep. William M. Colmer, D-Miss., a veteran busing foe, said "this matter of achieving racial balance is equally as important as the Vietnam war itself in the minds of the people. The great majority of the people, including the President, want to see an end to the war today and they also want to see an end at the earliest date to this intolerable situation of taking children and transporting them up to 20, 30, even 40 miles away from their homes."

Ofkir Death May Have Weakened King Hassan

RABAT, Morocco (UPI)— Mohamed Oufkir fired a bullet through his brain allegedly out of anguish for failing to prevent an attempt to assassinate his king, Hassan II. But the sacrifice may have weakened the position of the very man to whom he was so devoted.

Diplomatic observers said today the king faced great pressure from various factions in this North African nation without the aid of Oufkir, the strongman of his regime.

An Army uprising in July, 1971, nearly took Hassan's life. A referendum on resulting constitutional reforms was boycotted by the nation's two leading political parties.

Oufkir, 48, Hassan's defense minister, was a pillar of the king's regime because rebellion, Oufkir, a mystical person, and army. At the time of the 1971 the bloody attempted assassination that threatened in the middle of a cabinet meeting to kill himself in remorse over the bloody attempted assassination that cost 92 lives, official circles said.

Official sources said the king's altered position was discussed at a cabinet meeting Thursday night. Oufkir's interim successor, Communications Minister Gen. Driss Ben Aomar El Alami said the armed forces remained loyal to the king.

3 p.m.—Air Force officers at the Kenitra air base, 40 miles north of Rabat, order American military and civilian training personnel into a clubhouse for their protection.

4 p.m.—F5 fighter planes from Kenitra attack the king's royal aircraft returning him from a private visit from France. The king seizes the plane radio, and, pretending to be a mechanic, tells the mutinous pilots that the king is dying and the two royal pilots dead. He asks that the plane with its survivors be allowed to land.

4:20 p.m.—Plane lands. The king cooly reviews an army honor guard and greets ambassadors and members of his government as if nothing had happened.

5 p.m.—Rebel pilots, realizing they were tricked, strafe the airport, killing eight and wounding 47. The king escapes by hiding in a grove of pine trees.

Approximately 7 p.m.—Tanks of the loyal army crash into the Kenitra base. Eight rebel pilots are captured, two escape and two others fly to Gibraltar.

12:30 a.m. Thursday—Oufkir commits suicide, officials nnounced.

Officials announced Oufkir's funeral would be held today

McGovern Has SCLC Support

DALLAS (UPI)—Mrs. Martin Luther King Jr., widow of the founder of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC), and SCLC President Ralph Abernathy Thursday night appealed to the membership to work against re-election of President Nixon.

"I made it clear we weren't going to endorse anyone in the Republican or Democratic party," Abernathy said. The SCLC in its 15-year history has not endorsed a presidential candidate.

"But the spirit of the Lord is upon me tonight and I am going to give an endorsement tonight. We are going to go out there and with your help we're going to elect Democrat George McGovern as the next president."

Mrs. Coretta King, who spoke during an emotional moment at the SCLC convention at the Fair Park outdoor bandshell, said Nixon should not be re-elected because of his failure to end the war in Vietnam as he had promised.

She said in 1967 her husband was criticized for "calling this an unjust and immoral war."

"Now, five years later," she said, "more than 59 per cent of the working people in America believe it to be a war that is unjust and immoral."

British Dockworkers Approve Pact

LONDON (UPI)—Longshoremen in London today joined a nationwide back-to-work stampede in defiance of appeals by left-wing militants to carry on the 21-day-old port shutdown.

A mass meeting of about 3,000 London dockers voted to return to the job Monday.

They left dockers in Liverpool and Manchester as the only real hardline holdouts against ending the strike.

Some longshoremen jumped the gun on the end of the strike and began unloading fruit, iron ore, animal feed and other cargo for the first time since the strike began.

Shop stewards barred all entrances to an East London port where 3,000 of London's 10,000 longshoremen staged a mass meeting. They barred newsmen, photographers and television crews.

Several photographers were attacked physically and manhandled. Militants threatened tc throw bricks through windows of houses whose owners had amitted reporters and photographers to watch from a distance.

The voting figures were not at once apparent. But some dockers who attended said the majority for ending the strike was between three and four to one.

The back-to-work vote came at the end of a stormy meeting during which militant leaders Bernie Steer and Vic Turner appealed to longshoremen to stay off the job.

Elsewhere, thousands more longshoremen voted to end the walkout—some before the Sunday midnight deadline set by their delegates in a 53-30 majority vote Wednesday to end the strike.

In ports where work already had resumed, longshoremen began unloading bananas for the first time since the start of the port shutdown. Cotton bales, animal feed and iron ore, stacked since July 28 in holds of strikebound ships, came ashore too.

Longshoremen walked out nationwide July 28 in a dispute over job security. They demanded dock workers be employed at inland depots which pack complete containers for sea shipment. They also wanted guarantees of future jobs.

NBC To Produce Series On China

Smog Board Postpones Action On Critical Organization Study

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

SAN FRANCISCO — Bay Area smog officials yesterday took their first official action on a report highly critical of their performance — they shelved it for at least a month.

The chairman of the Air Pollution Control District insisted that the directors needed more time to digest the report for which they paid management consultants $45,000.

The 18 directors received the report, which takes about one hour to read, on Aug. 9.

The board chairman, San Mateo County Supervisor Robert B. St. Clair, also argued that the staff needed time to respond to recommendations by the consultants. The district's top administrator, D. J. Callaghan, said even more than one month will be needed for the staff to review and comment on the report.

Despite that need for study, the board rejected a key recommendation that the district's attorney report o the board rather than to Callaghan. It was an acrimonious dispute between Callaghan and the former attorney that led to the management study.

Callaghan initiated a board move to fire the former attorney, Matthew S. Walker, but the move was stymied in a split vote. Walker, the district's attorney for 17 years, resigned in July to take a federal job.

Yesterday's unanimous vote to put aside the report for a month was contrary to the board's announced intention to dig into the report in an all-day session. The meeting instead was devoted almost exclusively to a description of their report by the consultants and subsequent debate over the attorney's position.

The board also avoided deciding how to handle the report, referring it to the executive committee, which promised to take it up as soon as possible.

Director William R. Jelavich, a Mountain View city councilman, warned that "if things start dragging, we'll be several months down the line without much action, and end up with a nice package sitting on a shelf in the library."

Despite its critical tone, the report was praised by most directors. An exception was Alameda County Supervisor Joseph P. Bort, who said "a lot of what they told us we could have done ourselves a lot cheaper."

The report, by Cresap, McCormick and Paget Inc. of San Francisco, said district directors frequently do not know what is going on and do not know what they want to do or how to do it because they spend too little time at their jobs and get too little help from the staff.

It also said Callaghan has too much power and should share it with subordinates. They recommended additional staff at a cost of up to $111,600 a year plus upgrading of existing staff at an annual additional cost of up to $69,300. They also suggested directors' maximum annual pay be doubled to $2,400, which would cost up to an additional $21,600 a year, and that the advisory council be given $10,000 a year to hire outside consultants.

The consultants were silent yesterday on their proposal in the report that district business first be screened behind closed doors in committees of directors before public airing. Neither was the proposal mentioned by the directors, nor cited in a staff summary of the report.

The only other point discussed was the report's finding that widespread morale problems afflict the staff of the district. It said that its findings of a confidential survey of the staff "tend to suggest the existence of a rather authoritarian administrative philosophy."

Mayor Joseph L. Alioto, a district director, objected that staff dissatisfaction detected by the consultants was typical of any organization. The consultants, however, repeated their assertion that a normal level of dissatisfaction would be up to 30 per cent of the staff, while they had found up to 82 per cent of the staff dissatisfied with some district practices.

It was also Alioto who criticized the consultants' recommendation that the attorney be responsible to the board instead of Callaghan. He argued this would be "somewhat disruptive of responsibility," adding that attorneys "by their nature make bad executives" and that "countless businesses have been ruined when attorneys attempted to take them over."

The board, with four members absent, voted 8-6 to make the attorney responsible only to the board, two votes short of the majority needed to approve the change. The issue then was referred with the full report to the executive committee.

Among the absent was Marin County Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. Sausalito City Councilman Stephen Fraser voted for making the change.

St. Clair summed up the outcome of the debate over the attorney's position: "We haven't accomplished a thing."

Bort commented that some board members' votes were based on "whether you are particularly fond of Mr. Callaghan."

Callaghan, questioned by Jelavich, acknowledged that he had "informally" sought candidates to fill the vacancy created by Walker's resignation. Jelavich noted that Callaghan did so without any instructions by the board.

The position pays $23,800 to $28,000 a year.

In related business, the board hired two former directors as $50-a-day consultants to guide handling of the report. The two are former Sausalito City Councilman Wyman Hicks and Dr. Nevin K. Hiester of Portola Valley. Both have professional experience as consultants.

Cotati Approves Preliminary Budget, Tax Rate Unchanged

The Cotati City Council last night approved a preliminary 1972-73 budget of $435,201 which would leave the tax rate unchanged.

The council had been scheduled to adopt the budget but said more changes may be made. The council has already cut $3,935 from the $439,136 budget proposed by City Mgr. Paul W. Salfen and said more juggling of department allotments will be considered.

The council agreed to boost the pay for police chief from $10,000 to $11,500 per year and said the increase will be helpful in seeking a replacement for Tony Locarini who has resigned as of Sept. 30. Mayor Annette Lombardi said 16 applications have been received for the chief's job even though the pay is still less than patrolmen make in other departments.

The city tax rate will remain at $1.25 per $100 assessed valuation.

The Cotati City Council also:

POLICE — Hired Charles W. Snyder, 37, a sergeant on the Martinez Police Department and Blaine W. Kimball, 34, of Rohnert Park, a member of the Cotati Police Reserves. They will replace William Jones who resigned last month and William Stewart who will leave Aug. 31 to join the Mendocino County Sheriff's Department.

RESIGNATION — Accepted the resignation of Michael Ohannesian from the planning commission because of ill health. Mayor Lombardi appointed Alfred Falleti, a former councilman, to serve on the commission until a permanent replacement is named Sept. 21.

BANDSTAND — Heard the parks and recreation commission suggest that a bandstand of weathered redwood be built at Plaza Park with volunteer labor and donated materials but asked that more study be given at the commission meeting next Wednesday at 8 p.m.

TRAFFIC — Received a petition from residents of Myrtle and Willow Avenues objecting to using their quiet streets as access routes to the Country Manor subdivision and urged the Rohnert Park City Council and Sonoma County Local Agency Formation Commission to follow the wishes of the residents.

MEETING — Adjourned to Sept. 7 at 7:30 p.m.

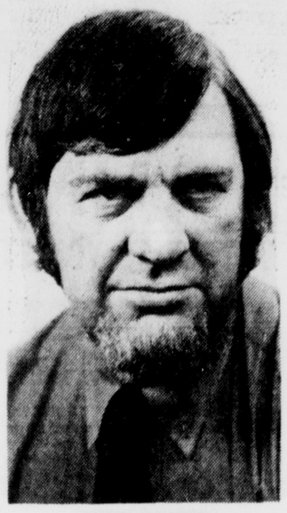
I-J Reporter Wins News Writing Award

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — The San Francisco Press Club at its annual awards banquet yesterday awarded Independent-Journal newsman Jeff Greer honorable mention for a story published Oct. 28 in the I-J.

Greer's story recounted how he and a dog became ordained ministers of the fledgling Hilltop House Church in San Rafael.

Other award winners from Marin at last night's banquet were Alice D. Yarish for her story entitled "The Narc Squad" in the Pacific Sun, judged best news story in a weekly paper, and Stepehen McNamara, the paper's publisher, who received honorable mention.



JEFF GREER
An honorable mention

The Press Club awarded San Francisco Examiner reporter Larry D. Hatfield of San Rafael first prize of $250 for the best daily cityside news story. Hatfield, a former I-J reporter, was honored for his story called "For III Guards — III Cons."

Other first place winners: Arthur Spander of the San Francisco Chronicle for the best daily sports story; Don West of the Examiner for the best daily story involving the writer's initiative; Kenneth Yim of the Palo Alto Times for best photograph by a daily or weekly news photographer, and Juan Vergara Hovey of the Oakland Tribune for the best daily cityside feature.

CHESS

Rev.) William Lombardy, then he called up Sammy Paalsson (his Icelandic policeman friend) and they went bowling."

"Of course, Bobby knew the law suit was in the offing but his business here is to play chess, to win the world title, not to bother with other matters," Cramer said.

One minute later Spassky strolled in. A sparse crowd gave him a round of applause and the Russian sat down to await Fischer. Another minute later he got up and left the stage.

About eight minutes late, Fischer charged into the hall and sat down.Schmid walked up with the brown envelope containing Spassky's 41st move, slit it open and handed it to the American challenger.

Spassky had opted to move his rook back to his knight seven square, blocking Fischer's check from the American's queen. U.S. Grandmaster Larry Evans, sitting in the corridor, nodded his head and said, "Yes, it was the only move."

Fischer arose and greeted Spassky, thought for 10 seconds, and made his next move —his queen to his rook eight square.

For the next two moves Fischer kept Spassky in check but the Russian systematically moved out. Then came the draw.

Fischer wheeled from his chair, extending his hand to arbiter Schmid—the man to whom he has directed three protests over playing conditions —and stalked from the stage.

his home, "and when I got there I found I was the guest of honor, all expenses paid.

"They said I saved their lives.

"I was very embarrassed, I can tell you, but I had a great time."

It was the first time he had met his old shipmates from the cruiser. "But when I was leaving they said, 'See you in three years in Monterey,' so I guess we'll have another reunion."

Radke, very reluctant to talk of his Navy experiences, did admit he came uncomfortably close to a court martial for his action.

"Two days after we got aboard the President Jackson troop transport, the minute the captain walked up he said: 'Who sounded the alarm?' and I said 'Yes Sir,' but nothing more happened to me."

Radke said he got a clearer picture of the 30-year-old battle last weekend at Oregon than he ever did on the Pacific.

"They showed us movies and photos from both U.S. and Japanese sources. You can see the Astoria's lower decks got hit hard, but they had set the water-tight doors when I sounded battle stations and about 700 of them down there got off.

"But the three heavy cruisers ahead of us sank very quickly."

Radke, who enlisted in the Navy in 1938 at Minneapolis when he was 17, explains how he came to disobey orders and pull that lever:

"I guess by that time I'd been in so many battles I could smell the torpedoes and that deck officer had never fought a battle before. I knew there wasn't any time to waste."

Lassen Area Wilderness Bill Progresses

WASHINGTON (UPI) —A large portion of Lassen Volcanic National Park and the Lava Beds National Monument in California would be preserved in a primitive state under a bill that cleared a major legislative hurdle Thursday.

The House Interior Committee approved a measure to designate 79,000 acres of the 106,000-acre park as wilderness — which would prohibit roads or other manmade structures.

About 28,340 acres of the 46,000-acre monument would also be added to the National Wilderness Preservation System.

Environmentalist groups argued for more area in the wilderness designation. Amendments to that affect by Rep. John P. Saylor, R-Pa., were rejected by two committees in favor of compromise proposals by Rep. Harold T. Johnson, D-Calif.

Sadat To Campaign For U.S. Support

CAIRO (UPI)—President Anwar Sadat will launch a worldwide campaign including the United States to secure moral and material support for Egypt in its conflict with Israel, parliamentary sources said today.

They said Sadat announced his plans in a secret session of Parliament yesterday.

of tanks and other vehicles bound for South Vietnam from an American repair and supply depot near Yokohama. However, there was no evidence of demonstrators at the airport for Kissinger's arrival.

In addition to talks with Japan's new leadership, including Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka who took over the reins of government in July, Kissinger reportedly had an unscheduled, secret meeting with leaders of Nationalist China.

U.S. Ambassador Robert S. Ingersoll and John Holdridge, a member of the President's National Security Council, met Kissinger at the airport. Kissinger entered a car immediately after disembarking from the plane and headed for his hotel without meeting newsmen.

Holdridge told UPI that Kissinger's trip to Japan was "just a chance to get things straightened out. He was in the area and the President thought it was a good idea to get things straightened out for the meeting in Hawaii.(when Nixon meets Japan's leaders)."

Meanwhile in Paris the North Vietnamese delegation to the Paris peace talks said Thursday that neither private talks nor the peace conference itself has made any progress towards a settlement of the Vietnam war.

Briefing news reporters after the 155th session of the deadlocked talks, Hanoi delegation spokesman Nguyen Thanh Le said, "There has been no progress either in private or public talks.

"At the same time President Nixon is intensifying the bombing," Le charged.

Since the departure of private negotiator Henry A. Kissinger and Le Duc Tho for Vietnam, the Communist side has discounted speculation that a negotiating breakthrough was imminent.

William J. Porter, chief United States negotiator, said there was nothing new except a "little verbal ping-pong about the next meeting."

North Vietnamese delegation chief Xuan Thuy told reporters the United States seemed to be threatening a new boycott of the weekly semi-public talks.

U.S. delegation spokesman David Lambertson later denied this. He said that Porter had accepted the Communist proposal to meet again next week.

When reporters asked Le specifically about the private negotiations, he replied, "This is just one form of negotiation. I cannot discuss it."

Rusk Disputes Shriver Peace Chance Claim

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) —Former Secretary of State Dean Rusk took issue Thursday with the current Democratic ticket by saying he knew of no opportunity to end the Vietnam war in 1969.

Democratic vice presidential candidate Sargent Shriver has said the Nixon administration "blew" a chance for peace in early 1969 by failing to recognize the withdrawal late in 1968 of some North Vietnamese troops behind the DMZ as a "signal" for peace.

"If there was a signal in 1968 the North Vietnamese (negotiators) were very quiet about it," Rusk said in answer to a question from a member of the Sacramento Comstock Club.

Woman Critical From Accident

A Lucas Valley woman was critically injured at 7 p.m. yesterday in an automobile accident on Lucas Valley Road, about 230 feet west of Sequiera Road in Marinwood, the California Highway Patrol reported today.

Dolores Roberta Carlson, 39, of 1295 Idylberry Road, was reported under intensive care at Marin General Hospital with facial cuts and broken ribs and a fractured leg.

According to the patrol, she was eastbound on Lucas Valley Road when her car ran off the road and knocked down two county road paddle markers, a road sign and light pole. Her car then rolled over and crashed into a second pole.

Extra Showings Set For 'Wizard Of Oz'

The Marin Shakespeare Festival production of "The Wizard of Oz" has been extended for four additional shows — matinees and evening performances Aug. 28 and 29.

The show is shown in repertory at the Forest Meadows open-air theater, San Rafael. Matinees are at 2:30 p.m. and evening shows at 8:30 p.m.

McGovern Hits Nixon On Welfare

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI)— Sen. George McGovern accused President Nixon today of engineering a "calculated program for throwing people out of work" and onto the welfare rolls.

McGovern turned his continuing barrage of criticism of Nixon policies to the domestic front after assailing the administration's efforts at the Paris peace talks, and accusing it of trying to manipulate public opinion.

In a statement, the Democratic presidential nominee said aid for dependent children under Nixon had climbed by 70 per cent to nearly $5 billion a year and the number of families depending on this assistance doubled from the time Nixon took office.

Pledging again to replace "the welfare mess" with a new system of a guaranteed annual income, McGovern said Nixon has tried "to load the bulk of the cost on middle-income taxpayers" in his welfare program, by adding more than $2 billion to welfare costs "while flatly opposing any effort to make the rich corporations and wealthy individuals pay their fair share."

"My program is conditioned on tax reform; the Nixon program refuses to even consider any change of the loophole-ridden tax structure," McGovern said.

San Quentin To Present Annual Show

San Quentin Prison's 18th annual arts and crafts show will be held from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. tomorrow.

More than 2000 art works in all media created by inmates will be on sale.

Radio personality Carter B. Smith of San Rafael will conduct an auction at 3 p.m.

No one in blue denim will be admitted to the show because of similarity to prison garb.

Prisoners receive 75 per cent of the selling price. The rest goes to the inmate welfare fund. Prisoners purchase their own materials.

The 1971 show was attended by 10,000 people and netted $30,000.

ence of the agency are not entitled to sit on the board."

Board member Albert St. Cyr, Sausalito city manager, expressed another opinion of Conklin's "Kind of unusual letter."

"I think he has misconstrued or misinterpreted their (Donovan's and Bielser's) action," St. Cyr said. The telegram was sent not to spite the agency, but out of concern for the poor, he added.

St. Cyr, who said he would oppose any move to dump Bielser and Donovan, said he believed dissenting points of view are needed.

State Relaxes G.I. Aid Rule

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—State Welfare Director Robert B. Carleson has formally filed regulations that would not automatically exclude families with fathers absent on military duty from receiving welfare payments.

The U.S. Supreme Court last year struck down a 20-year-old California law preventing children with fathers absent from home on military duty from receiving Aid to Families with Dependent Children benefits.

The high court ordered that each case must be decided on its own merits.

A spokesman for Carleson said California counties were ordered last fall to begin following the court's directive and "presumably they have."

He said Carleson's action Thursday formally put the new regulation on file with the Secretary of State's office.

Request For Zoning Gets Public Hearing

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — The Sonoma County Planning Commission yesterday set a public hearing for Sept. 7 on the request of Donald W. Thompson for commercial zoning in Rohnert Park.

Thompson requested that property at 5019 Santa Rosa Avenue be rezoned for agricultural to commercial to permit a garage for minor auto repairs.

M. P. SLOBODNIK

An Air Force reservist died yestarday at Letterman General Hospital in San Francisco's Presidio of head injuries he sustained in a fall Monday at Hamilton Air Force Base.

Sgt. Martin P. Slobodnik, a reservist on a three-day tour of duty with the 904th Consolidated Air Craft Maintenance Squadron, fell 10 feet from the roof of a prefabricated building under construction at the base.

He was rushed to the base hospital, and later transferred to Letterman Hospital's intensive care unit.

Slobodnik, 34, was also a civil service employee employed at Hamilton.

LEE F. JANISEN

Private services were held yesterday for Lee Frank Janisen, 46, a retired maintenance contractor, who died Wednesday at a local hospital after a long illness.

Janisen of 9 Jules Drive, Novato, had been a resident of Marin County for 30 years. He was a native of San Francisco and had served as a Navy radarman in World War II.

Surviving are his wife, Rae Ann of Novato; two daughters, Rebecca and Laura Janisen of Novato; three sons, Frank, James and Anthony Janisen of Novato; three sisters, Nancy Sellman of Sebastopol, Jerry Shabica of Meadeville, Pa., and Eileen Janisen of San Rafael and a brother, John Janisen of the Navy.

The family prefers that memorial contributions be to a favorite charity. Inurnment followed the services.

HIJACK

point that: "You are aware we have explosives aboard."

A woman at the Reno airport said the hijacker rode his bicycle through an unattended gate at the field's north concourse with a rifle across the handlebars.

She said he was wearing a ski mask and told her he had just come from a costume party.

Bob Gardner, United's manager at Reno, said the hijacker boarded along with other passengers and took it over without fuss.

The passengers were questioned by FBI agents and took other flights to San Francisco.

The plane took off shortly before 7 a.m. PDT from Reno and 90-minutes later it was tracked over Scappoose, Ore., on the Washington State border.

The flight was UAL flight 877, a morning run to San Francisco. The Boeing 727 has been a frequent target by air pirates.

The airline said only the pilot, Capt. C.J. Lennahan, two crew members and the hijacker were aboard. The stewardesses had been released, along with passengers, at Reno.

Last June 3 a similar United Air Lines plane was seized at the same airport by a hijacker

JOHN F. ALLISON

Private service for John F. Allison, father of California Highway Patrolman John Allison of Petaluma and Mill Valley fireman Edward Allison, has been held in Fremont.

He died in Fremont Wednesday following a long illness. He was 70.

A native of New York, he lived in Mill Valley for many years, moving to Mendocino County in 1964.

He was a longshoreman in San Francisco for many years, retiring eight years ago.

He was a member of the International Longshoremen Workers Union and George Washington Lodge No. 525 of Free and Accepted Masons.

In addition to two sons, he leaves his wife, Edna Allison of Mendocino County; another son, William Allison of Union City, and four grandchildren.

Memorial contributions to the American Cancer Society are preferred.

HENRY GALLOW

Funeral will be in Cheyenne, Wyo., for Henry Gallow of Inverness who died at a local hospital Wednesday. He was 77.

A Marin resident for six years, he was a retired railroad employee.

Surviving is his son, John with whom he lived in Inverness.

VERONA JAYNE

Private memorial service for Verona P. Jayne, mother of Richard Jayne of Novato was held today in Palo Alto. Mrs. Jayne died in San Francisco Wednesday at the age of 76.

A native of Portland, Ore., she lived in Palo Alto most of her life. She was associated with her husband, the late Burton H. Jayne, in his insurance agency.

She was a member of the National Federation of Republican Women, Palo Alto Historical Society and the Sigma Kappa sorority at Stanford University.

In addition to her son, surviving are two sisters, Muriel P. Jones of Palo Alto and Francis C. Price of Carmel, and five grandchildren.

CHRISTIAN BEKKE

Funeral for Christian M. Bekke of San Rafael will be held 1:30 p.m. Monday at Keaton's Mortuary.

Bekke, who was 89, died yesterday in his room at the Aldersly Danish Retirement Home in San Rafael.

A native of Denmark, Bekke came to California 40 years ago. The retired poultry worker moved to Marin County from Santa Rosa in 1957 and had lived at the retirement home since that time.

Inurnment will be private.

M. A. DOOLITTLE

Funeral was held today in Novato for Marcella A. Doolittle, of Novato, former employee of the Novato telephone company. Mrs. Doolittle died in a local hospital Wednesday following a long illness. She was 72.

A native of San Francisco, she lived in Illinois for many years. During the 1920's, she traveled around the country with circuses and carnivals, according to her husband, Ronald H. Doolittle. He said that among her acts were riding a motorcycle through a barrel and walking on the wing of an airborne plane.

She and her husband moved to Novato 30 years ago. She worked at the Novato telephone company and as a telephone operator at Hamilton Air Force Base where her husband was stationed. He has since retired.

In addition to her husband, surviving are a daughter, Gaynell Hawk of Akron, Ohio; a son, Ivan B. Aaron of Fullerton, and five grandchildren.

'Quotas' Attacked For 1976

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — California delegates to the Republican convention will oppose any move to "McGovernize" the party by requiring a set "quota" of representation by women, minorities and youth at the 1976 convention, a survey showed yesterday.

The 96 GOP delegates — young, old, women, political novices and pros —said they felt Democrats, prodded by Sen. George McGovern, overstepped and actually harmed the party by opening their convention to wider representation.

"I'm firmly against the quota system. It's a sham. Quotas are just for the press and to make headlines," said Wesley Beverlin, 20, of Montclair, youngest male member of the delegation.

The delegates told UPI they generally believe delegate status should be granted as a reward for party service, that Democrats rankled longtime party workers by replacing them with newcomers, and that fair convention representation cannot be determined by mathematical percentages alone.

HOTTEST ISSUE

With President Nixon and Vice President Spiro T. Agnew assured of renomination, the hottest issue facing the Republican convention beginning Monday is how —and whether —to grant larger states more representation in 1976 and provide more delegate seats for women, minorities and the young.

The Californians generally are taking a "wait and see" attitude toward various proposals to grant larger states more representation. But they agree with convention Rules Subcommittee decisions to reject any system of allocating delegate seats based on the percentage of women, minorities and young in the population.

"If you get stuck with a quota system pretty soon the left handed Lithuanians are going to be worried about their representation," said Miss Janet Johnston, 32, a Winters rancher who will become the new Republican National committeewoman from California.

"That's not the way to get people on a delegation who really understand politics," said Miss Cathy Swajian, 21, of Indio. "I'd like to see people of all political persuasions on the delegation —not necessarily young people, minorities or the poor.

OLD PEOPLE, TOO

"Young people don't have all the progressive ideas. A lot of old people have them too."

"I think the quota system is discriminatory. It does not represent a party's strength — the people who do the work and help elect candidates," said Gordon Luce, president of a San Diego savings and loan association and vice chairman of the California Republican party.

"I think the Democrats made a serious mistake booting out half their party and going to the 'new politics,' as they called it."

Steve Jeong, a Chinatown realtor in San Francisco, said "I don't believe in this quota business. Young, minority, or women —if they are interested in politics, they can get into it."

Richard Gulbranson, 64, chairman of the Los Angeles County GOP Central Committee, noted there are fewer blacks in the Republican party than in the population as a whole.

California's Republican delegation is comprised of 30 per cent women, 9 per cent minorities and 14 per cent persons under age 30. The Democratic delegation was 48 per cent women, 38 per cent minorities and 35 per cent under 30.

FOREIGN DOCTORS

Need Is Great, But The Test . . .

LOS ANGELES (AP) — At the University of California Medical Center one recent morning, Gary Fitzgerald, 24, presented himself for admission at a guarded door.

The woman there compared his face with a file photograph and passed him into the room.

Next came Francisco Levin, 66. In all, several dozen men and women from perhaps a dozen countries filed into three lecture halls.

They silently took every other seat, nervous tension etched on their faces as they waited to begin a gruelling day plodding through a hated and feared medical examination, the examination of the Educational Council for Foreign Medical Graduates.

Each was hoping to score a passing 75 and earn what for the foreign doctor has become literally a ticket of admission to the American medical system — whether for just advanced training or state licensure.

For Gary Fitzgerald, an American citizen who grew up in San Bernardino, it was his first experience with the test. For Francisco Levin, 40 years a physician who fled Castro's Cuba in 1969, it was the fifth.

That both men sweated over the same difficult test is testimony to the breadth of the foreign doctor problem, one of the most lingering, baffling issues facing American medicine.

The main difficulty is that the United States needs the foreign-trained doctor because American medical schools aren't turning out enough doctors. In 1970, for example, 3,016 or one-third of the newly licensed physicians received their basic medical education abroad.

No one wants to be treated by a licensed physician who received a substandard medical education.

To prevent this, a complex system has evolved that now involves the legislature and medical licensing board of every state, the U.S. State Department, the American Medical Association, American Hospital Association, Association of American Medical Colleges and the Federation of State Medical Boards.

"It's complicated. There's no doubt about it. It's hard for me to keep abreast, and that's my job," said Louise Ball, an administrative official at the University of Southern California who spends half her time helping that school's foreign doctors wander through the bureaucratic maze.

Focus of the regulatory system has become the Educational Council for Foreign Medical Graduates-ECFMG-and its test, formed in 1958 by several involved medical groups. The system has been so tightened that a foreign doctor must pass the ECFMG to obtain a visa, gain admission to a hospital training program and, in most states, take further examinations to be licensed.

For several years, the ECFMG failure rate has hvered at 61 per cent. In 1970, almost 30,000 people took the test at nearly 200 centers around the world. Only 11,916 passed.

Only recently did a passing score become necessary to obtain a visa. Before that, thousands of foreign doctors came to the United States without passing the test, hoping to receive training or licensure without it. But they couldn't. Nor could they pass the test, despite repeated tries.

So many still remain, forced to work as medical technicians, morgue attendants, surgical technicians or whatever each state's laws allow. Many have left medicine.

Groups of foreign doctors, young and old, here and abroad, have sprung up who say the ECFMG is unfair, that it is barring qualified physicians badly needed in the United States. They're demanding a change, a reduction in the accompanying red tape.

Francisco Levin isn't so angry as bewildered. He has taken the test five times. Once he was a respected Cuban pediatrician with a handsome home, automobiles and a yacht. Now, as a Cuban refugee, his wife works in a shoe factory, he receives welfare checks and they live in an old apartment in a rundown section of Hollywood.

Even if he passes the test, at 66 Levin has little hope of gaining admission to a hospital internship, which would be necessary in California and many other states before he could take further examinations for licensure.

Solutions?

Most medical authorities agree that some type screening test always will be necessary, considering the diversity of medical education standards around the world.

But what could streamline allegations of discrimination, doctors have suggested, would be a standard test applied to both United States and foreign medical graduates.

Taken by the U.S. graduate, it would be a licensure test. Taken by the foreign graduate, it would admit him to the United States and a training program which, if he finished it satisfactorily, would lead to licensing. In addition, they say, special training programs should be available to those who fail the test. They would allow the failing doctor to come to the United States and take a one-year "medical clerkship" to prepare for the test.

Support Is Voiced For Billboards

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Americans don't mind a few billboards if they are informative and not merely commercial, Rep. Jim Wright, D-Tex., head of the congressional Commision on Highway Beautification, said today.

"The public draws a sharp distinction between highway billboards that give information to motorists and those that merely tout a product," Wright said.

He said the commission asked the polling companies of Sindlinger and Co. and deKadt Marketing and Research to survey the public's attitudes.

"Each survey organization, working independently, came up with basically the same conclusion—that most people do not resent billboards telling them how to get to gas stations, restaurants, hotels or other places they need to go," Wright said. "On the other hand, there was little support for commercial signs which offered nothing more than brand product advertising along the highways."

Wright said the surveys surprised him in one regard — Americans are more concerned about litter removal and screening of junkyards than about controls over signs and billboards.

"Highway beautification is of moderate concern and interest to the general public, but is of relatively less importance than other public issues which have a more direct effect on the quality of life," the deKadt survey said. "To some degree, this lesser concern may also be due to the general acceptability in which interstate highways are currently viewed."

More than two thirds of the people questioned put "a high degree" of importance on clearing litter from roads, the deKadt survey found.

"Just slightly behind" came the concern over junkyards and the need to screen or eliminate them.

The Sindlinger survey said 67.4 per cent of the replies said commercial billbords "in general" perform a service to the traveling public. Only 8.8 per cent "attach serious importance to brand product advertising," the Sindlinger report said.

Japanese Planning Strict New Automobile Emission Standards

TOKYO (UPI)—The Japanese government, trying to cut back clouds of pollution that blanket urban areas each summer, is planning strict new standards on auto emissions, it was announced today.

Almost immediately after the announcement, the Japan Automobile Manufacturers' Association issued a statement denouncing the proposal, claiming the standards were too severe and that the industry would have to receive special government compensation, including tax privileges, to offset a drastic rise in auto prices.

The auto emission standards, currently in draft form, are expected to be an almost exact replica of standards submitted in the United States by Sen. Edmund Muskie, D-Maine. Like Muskie's proposed standards, the Japanese version will have an effective date of 1975.

Currently, there are no auto emission standards in force in Japan on a nationwide basis, although Japanese cars produced for export must meet standards of the country where they are sent.

The standards are now being prepared by Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka's Central Pollution Control Council. They will be submitted to the Transport Ministry which will draw up new laws to conform with the standards.

Under the draft proposal, no new automobile produced in Japan after April of 1975 will be permitted to release more than 2.1 grams of carbon monoxide per kilometer. Currently cars in Japan emit about 10 times that much.

The cars will also be required to emit no more than 0.25 grams of hydrocarbon and 1.2 grams of nitrous oxides.

Special Meeting

The Tamalpais Community Services board will hold a special meeting on Monday at 7 p.m. in the district office to discuss parks and recreation aspects of a proposed development (Muir Meadows 2) with the developers.

Weddings And Divorces Boom In Carson City

CARSON CITY, Nev. (UPI)—Nevada is experiencing a boom in the wedding and divorce business this year.

"It's fantastic but I don't know why," said John Sullivan, chief of the vital statistic section of the state health department.

While marriages leveled off in most of the country the number of matrimonial licenses in Nevada during the first six months of 1972 increased to 53,085, a 14.4 per cent jump from the same period last year.

Divorces totaled 5,626 for the first six months, an increase of 44.8 per cent.

Nevada, with a sparse population, trailed only California, New York, Texas and Illinois in the number of marriages performed.

Leukemia Isolated In Mice

SAN DIEGO — Researchers for the first time have isolated leukemia viruses from the cells of mice and say this indicates the same virus may cause more than one disease.

The discovery was announced Wednesday by a research team from Scripps Clinic and Research Foundation.

"I think the most important thing we have learned is that the same virus may cause many diseases and that the expression of disease can be dependent on the genetics or environment of the host as well as the virus," said Dr. Richard Lerner, a microbiologist and a primary investigator in the study.

INDICATION

Basically, the discovery indicates it takes a genetic defect plus the normally harmless virus to cause a tumor or any other kind of disease that might result. It has been felt that each disease is caused by a different virus and each virus would require a different cure.

The researchers used New Zealand black mice which invariably die of an autoimmune disease—that is, a disease in which the body rejects some of its cells by making antibodies against them.

The mice, which seldom die of leukemia, were found to be genetically abnormal. They have an extra chormosome and one part of one of the chromosomes is deleted. They have an inborn predisposition to a disease, which, when found in humans, is called systemic lupus erythematosis (SLE).

Isolation of the leukemia virus indicates it may be directly related not only to SLE but possibly to other autoimmune diseases such as multiple sclerosis and arthritis.

NEXT STEP

Lerner said the next step will be to put the virus back into a mouse bred specifically to have the genetic defect and cause the disease where the mouse ordinarily would not get it.

He said Scripps also is looking at SLE patients "to see if these people, first of all, have a genetic defect and, second, to see if a virus can be isolated."

The discovery, he said, provides a new outlook on viruses, tumors and viral diseases.

"You see, right now everybody focuses on tumors," he said. There is this assumption that if you have a leukemia virus you must have a tumor.

"There is this widespread idea that (tumor) viruses are evil by nature and that they only go one way—that is, to tumor formation. Well, now we know that this may not be true."

Antismoking Program Set

Seventh-day Adventist Churches of Marin are to sponsor an antismoking five-day plan from Aug. 27 through 31 from 7 to 9 p.m. at the Bank of Marin's community room, Fifth Avenue and B Street.

The 10-year-old program is said by the church to have achieved great success in helping people kick the smoking habit nationwide. It consists of five group therapy sessions with films, lectures and demonstrations.

Ida B. Resanovich, spokesman for the Seventh-day Adventist Churches of Marin, said the program is being sponsored as a community service, and will be directed by Dr. Glenn S. Rasmussen and Preston Smith, both of Novato.

A Roller Skate Marathon Set

A marathon on roller skates to raise money to fight muscular dystrophy will be held at Marin Skateland at 863 Francisco Boulevard, San Rafael on Sunday from 1 p.m. to 10 p.m.

Donations of $2 per person will be contributed to the Jerry Lewis Telethon on Labor Day weekend for the benefit of the Muscular Dystrophy Associations of America.

Those attending will receive free skate rental, and there will be prizes, games, exhibition skating, and music.

Cattle Rustling Booms On Ranges

By MONTY HOYT
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

CHICAGO — From out of the past come the thundering hoofbeats of yesteryear . . . the Lone Ranger? No — it's the old cattle rustler. Only this time he has traded his horse and branding iron for a cattle truck or a helicopter.

From Virginia to California, cattle rustling has never been such big business.

And rustling is not limited to cattle either. Iowa and Illinois, the two major hog-producing states, report increasing instances of swine rustling.

While range cattle may carry an identifying brand, "it's hard to tell by the curl of a pig's tail where he came from," swine producers admit.

As far as cattle rustling goes, the biggest deterrent is branding, most cattlemen agree. The trouble is that few states require mandatory branding.

Only a dozen or so of the Western states have brand-inspection laws and inspectors that check cattle sold at auction houses or terminal markets.

Still, sales to smaller slaughterhouses and sales between livestock operators are seldom scrutinized. There is nothing to keep a rustler from selling cattle in a non-inspection state, either.

Penalties against rustling vary from state to state while sentences usually run from one to ten years in most Western states, more often than not the cattle thief is off with a suspended sentence.

Texas, through the 95-year-old Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association, has developed the most sophisticated documentation and microfilm system in the country to recover lost and stolen cattle.

Special coding equipment can scan and search the material at a rate of 1,400 branding documents in 10 seconds if any suspicious animals turn up.

As a result of this ready information and the dedicated work of 120 brand inspectors, Texas reported recovering more than 8,000 lost or stolen cattle last year at an estimated value of nearly $1.4 million.

Since last December, 127 investigations by Texas inspectors have led to arrests. During 1971, officials took 381 cases to court in western states with brand-inspection laws resulting in 222 convictions.

Many other states now, like Iowa and Wisconsin, are considering brand-inspection legislation because of the growing problem with livestock rustling.

But while many livestock raisers look to branding as the solution, some argue it is cheaper to absorb the loss than to go to the expense of branding, setting up record files, and hiring inspection teams.

"Having some sort of positive identification on aminals may slow down the illegal movement of livestock, but it won't eliminate it," says Dr. Paul B. Doby of the Illinois Agriculture Department. "Automobiles are clearly marked — yet stolen every day."

Here are some recent cases:

On a dark, stormy night earlier this month, thieves backed a truck up to a barn of a feedlot operator in Watertown, Wis., and made off with 57 Holstein heifers in a matter of 20 minutes. By the time the farmer was alerted to the $10,000 loss by barking dogs there was not time to give chase. Rain had obliterated all tracks.

"It was pretty well planned," says William Zellner, supervisory investigator for the U.S. Department of Agriculture in Wisconsin. "There are roughly 35 licensed auction markets and a number of slaughtering plants in the state." Rustlers could drive to any one of these or into neighboring states and sell the calves the next morning. There's almost no way of tracing and recovering the animals.

An enterprising 21-year-old rustler "working" the range of the Texas panhandle, made off with 138 head of beef worth $25,000, in a 60-day period early this year. Finally, he slipped, left some tire tracks behind, and one of Texas' crack brand inspectors (commissioned as special rangers) tracked him down to his ranch near Atoka, Okla.

Taking to the air, rustlers in Idaho were shooting cattle from planes, swooping down and slaughtering them on the spot, carrying off only the hind quarters. These prime cuts of beef were appearing on the Los Angeles market as T-bones, sirloins, and prime ribs within 24 hours.

A particular problem is the growing number of "Sunday rustlers," who are out to beat rising meat prices. They may shoot a single calf, slaughter it, and takethe steaks home to fill the family freezer.

The American National Cattlemen's Association (ANCA) in Denver reports that 8,919 head of cattle worth $1.6 million were stolen in 1971 in 13 western states and two Canadian provinces where brand-inspection laws make it possible to make some accurate count. One-third of these rustled cattle were reported recovered.

However, figures are likely to be two or three times as high in the West because at least four brand-inspection states, including Texas, the largest cattle producing state with nearly 13 million head, make no attempt to determine the number missing or the cause.

"We wouldn't hazard a guess how many are stolen. In many cases we have nothing to work on except the rancher's word. Often cattle will be reported stolen and after we begin an investigation the missing animals will turn up dead or in a neighbor's pasture," says Donald C. King, general manager for the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association.

"Sometimes we'll recover cattle that the owner didn't even know were gone."

Cattle rustling, as cattlemen and feedlot operators see it, is directly proportional to the price of beef on the open market. And meat prices are high now, as any housewife will testify.

With more than 112 million head of cattle in this country, double what it was 30 years ago, incidents of rustling have never been as high — certainly not in the rootin'-tootin', gun-toting days of the wild West.

"It's a lot easier to rustle cattle than it was in the old cattle-drive days," says Burton Eller, secretary of ANCA. "A truck can carry a lot of value, long distances, in a short time, and find a ready market."

Cattle thieves have the added incentive that they can easily find full value for the animals they take to an auction market, unlike most stolen goods where the thief has to settle for a fraction of the value.

Study On Rezone Moratorium Set

The San Anselmo Planning Commission will consider a moratorium on rezonings and subdivisions when it meets at 8 p.m. Monday in city hall.

The measure would delay zoning and lot split applications for a period of four months if approved as an emergency measure.

The commission will also consider a two-lot subdivision application filed by Dennis B. Canning proposed for 30 Oakwood Avenue.

Non-Lawyer's 'Divorce Kits' Get Him In Trouble With Law

DETROIT (UPI)—Ever since Harry Gordon started selling $75 "divorce kits" he's had problems with the Detroit Bar Association attorneys he has undersold. Lawyers in these parts charged $400 to $500 per divorce case, Gordon says.

A Detroit judge doesn't like Gordon's brand of law, either, and has ordered the former restaurant equipment salesman to appear in court next Wednesday to answer charges of illegally practicing law.

Understandably, Gordon is having problems finding a lawyer to represent him.

Oakland County Circuit Court Judge William J. Beers was hearing what he thought was a routine divorce Wednesday when Mrs. Sybil Bales pulled out a set of divorce papers in preparation for her case. She and her husband, Matthew, had agreed to a property settlement and the case was uncontested. There were no children.

Beers asked Mrs. Bales who prepared her papers, and she explained that she got them from Gordon's firm.

"I'm not going to let you proceed," Beers said, "not because you're not represented by counsel, but because when a non-lawyer prepares papers like this he is illegally practicing law."

Gordon was promptly subpoenaed, and Mrs. Bales left the courtroom a married woman.

Gordon said he was performing a "necessary public service" since many people can't afford the fees most attorneys charge for a divorce. The 51-year-old Detroit enterpreneur said he has sold about 150 of the divorce kits in the last three months through newspaper ads.

Gordon said for his $75 fee he interviews the prospective divorcee, prepares the dgcuments and gives the client a list of "instructions" on what to do in court.

Another Oakland County jurist, Judge Farell E. Roberts, granted a divorce last week to a woman using one of Gordon's kits. Roberts said that "any person has the right to represent himself in court."

"The issue is whether they're giving legal advice and that is between the bar association and the (divorce kit) company," Roberts said.

But Beers was critical of Gordon's selling "25-cent forms for $75."

"If he says we're paying 25 cents for forms and charging too much," Gordon said, "what right does an attorney have to charge $400 to $500?"

Couple To Celebrate First Anniversary

NEW YORK (UPI)—Valeri and Deborah Kremniov, the Russian medical student and the Jewish girl from Great Neck, N.Y., who last year married in the Soviet Union, will celebrate their first wedding anniversary today by dining at the Russian Tea Room in Manhattan.

Mrs. Kremniov's father, Arthur Brackman, said the couple was "doing very well" since Soviet authorities allowed Kremniov to emigrate to the United States earlier this year after months of red tape. Kremniov has been working at his father-in-law's photography agency where "he's learning the business," Brackman said.

Reagan Vetoes Profs' Raise, Signs A Flurry Of New Laws

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —Gov. Ronald Reagan signed a bill Thursday granting a $12-a-month increase in grants to blind, disabled and elderly welfare recepients but vetoed a $21.6 million pay hike proposal for university and college faculty members.

The governor worked steadily to clear his legislative desk before he heads for the Republican National Convention next week in Miami Beach. He has until Aug. 28 to make a decision on the bills before him.

In the flurry of bills acted upon Thursday, Reagan also signed a $7 million anti-smog bill and another measure exempting from consideration as income up to $750 which adult children contribute to the support of their elderly welfare parents.

He also vetoed a bill to give disabled citizens a property tax break and a measure requiring the state Department of Corrections and the California Youth Authority to establish a training program for prison guards.

The pay raise bill for University of California and state college faculty members would have granted a 13 per cent wage hike this year to the teachers.

The bill, authored by Assemblyman E. Richard Barnes, R-San Diego, would have restored the appropriation, and added some, for the 12.5 per cent increase the Legislature authorized for the faculty members.

Reagan vetoed the pay raise back to the original 7.5 per cent he had asked for in the state budget.

In his veto message on the Barnes bill, Reagan said the "budgeted amount has already provided substantial salary inequity relief for this group of employees." He said that he has "already stated that I am planning to budget funds in 1973-74 to correct remaining salary inequities for all employee groups."

Reagan said he vetoed the prison guard training program bill, authored by Sen. John Nejedly, R-Walnut Creek, because it was "overly detailed" in spelling out the curriculum and thus does not give the affected departments flexibility to keep the curriculum up to date.

In signing the welfare grant bill, Reagan credited reforms enacted last year with providing the basis for the increases to recipients of Old Age Security, Aid to the Blind and Aid to the Disabled.

The increases, effective Oct. 1, will be federally financed.

The legislation, carried by Assemblyman Leo McCarthy, D-San Francisco, will affect an estimated 500,000 recipients, the governor said.

Under the other welfare bill, authored by Assemblyman John Burton, D-San Francisco, recipients of Old Age Security no longer will be required to count $750 of the contributions by their children as "outside" income. The sum no longer will be considered in determining the size of their welfare grant.

The smog control measure by Sen. W. Craig Biddle, R-Riverside, earmarks $4.6 million in state aid on a matching basis to local air pollution control districts and air basins and another $2.4 million to the state Air Resources Board.

The bill, which Reagan called a "big step forward in our struggle against air pollution," is aimed mainly at dealing with nonvehicular pollution dischargers such as factories.

In vetoing the bill to give disabled citizens a property tax break, Reagan said he didn't "object" to providing needed assistance to the totally disabled but was against extending the benefits under the Senior Citizens Property Tax Assistance Law, as proposed in the measure.

The Governor said the elderly citizens program was established for "senior citizens only."

Under the bill by Sen. Nicholas Petris, D-Oakland, a person could be eligible for property tax relief if he had been employed or actively seeking a job in the year proceeding his disability.

The governor also vetoed bills:

By Sen. George Moscone, D-San Francisco, to establish a binding arbitration procedure in the California State University and Colleges system for grievance and disciplinary cases. Reagan said there is no evidence that the current system doesn't work.

By Assemblyman Alex P. Garcia, D-Los Angeles, requiring foreign-language speaking election officials in precincts with substantial numbers of non-English-speaking voters. Reagan said the measure was "unnecessary and unworkable" and would cause abuses in polling practices.

Reagan also signed a bill requiring cities and towns by 1982 to establish "911" as a siegle statewide telephone number for public emergency assistance. The bill was carried by Assemblyman Charles Warren, D-Los Angeles.

Weary Men Finally Ring Sierra Fire

PORTOLA (UPI) —A stubborn blaze that has burned through 2,200 acres in two national forests since last week was contained Thursday by weary firefighters.

U.S. Forest Service officials said they expected the blaze near this historic town in the Sierra to be finally controlled today.

The fire was controlled last Monday but high winds caused the flames to jump established lines and rage out of control again.

A crew of 900 men worked the fire, but officials said some of the men were released when the flames were contained.

Official Sees Farm Labor Jobless Pay

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — State Agriculture Director Charles B. Christensen said today the Reagan administration plans to propose legislation next year to extend unemployment protection to 235,000 California farmworkers.

Just two days ago Gov. Ronald Reagan vetoed for the second consecutive year a Democratic-sponsored bill providing agricultural unemployment benefits.

Reagan said any such program should be established nationwide by Congress. Otherwise, he said, it would work "tremendous economic disadvantage" for California growers.

"That would be ideal," said Christensen. But he said there was "no move at all at the national level" for a federal farmworkers measure. If there was, he said, Southern congressmen would block the proposal.

"We can't wait" for national action, Christensen said. "California must lead the way."

Christensen said a committee of the state Board of Agriculture is preparing legislation currently "in order not to have to face the governor with another veto message next year."

"I'm sure we'll get it (the bill) through the legislature," he said. "I don't think farm laborers should be treated any differently than any other laborer in the nation."

Christensen said the measure likely would differ from the vetoed bills by Assemblyman Jack Fenton, D-Montebello, in three key ways. It would:

Require employe contributions to the unemployment compensation fund. The Fenton measure placed the entire cost on the employers, as it is in other industries.

Establish minimum employment levels before the worker could qualify for benefits. He suggested the limit might be six months employment. Under the Fenton bill, the worker would have to earn $750 before he qualified.

Draw less from the overall unemployment fund for farm workers than under the Fenton measure, which would have spent about $34 million in contributions by nonfarm employers.

SEED SPITTIN' CONTEST

Okies Go Ape Over Watermelon

By JO ANN LEVINE
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

PAULS VALLEY, Okla. — Chest thrown out, the contestant rares back behind the freshly painted yellow starting line — and blows: "Kap-flooey!"

A mere black speck speeds down a marked-off lane. Two men toting a tape measure chalk off the distance reached by the farthest speck.

This was Pauls Valley's annual World Championship Watermelon Seed Spittin' Contest.

Contestants ranged from boys and girls under eight to "smoothed-mouthed grandpas" and "sweet grandmas." The winner, however, was actually 15 years old and his distance was 43 feet 6 inches.

But that wasn't the world's record. It was set back in 1966 by Gary Archer who spit a seed 52 feet 6 inches. (Around Pauls Valley, they say that he spit "52 in '66.")

The contest rules are not too strict. They read that "any person able to stand up at the spittin' tee is eligible to enter this contest."

And it evidently takes little practice to do well. Novice Raymond Ferguson, manager of the Pauls Valley Chamber of Commerce, and contest master of ceremonies bragged that on his first try "I spit 32 feet — little-mouthed as I am!"

The rules add that a variety of spittin' stances are acceptable.

"Contestants may take their choice of standing flatfooted, standing on tiptoes, taking a running start (as in bowling) or may jump (as in basketball) so long as they neither touch nor go over the foul line before or after spittin' the seed."

Although Oklahoma ranks sixth among watermelon-producing states (preceded by Texas, Florida, Georgia, South Carolina, and Alabama), it may rank first in "watermelon sports" — an offshoot from a larger category known as "something to do."

For example, Pawhuska, Okla., is said to be the home of the real World Championship contest because as Bill Robinson, chairman of the contest, says, "Pawhuskans thought of it first." ("A group of guys were sitting around one day trying to think of something to do.")

There have been annual Pawhuska seed spittin' contests since 1962, and Neosho, Mo., has contests, too.

Although Oklahoma's neighboring state of Texas will produce 70,000 acres of water melons this year, compared with Oklahoma's 13,300 acres, Oklahoma still has a town — Rush Springs — which claims to be the "Watermelon Capital of the World."

The Rush Springs chief of police, WayneSluder, admits "that Marlowe (a nearby town) probably raises more than we do, now."

But it is in Rush Springs on Aug. 12 that the town will hold its "big git-together" which, says Sluder, will consist of a "watermelon feed," and a contest in which biggest, the sweetest, the longest and the roundest of the orange, yellow and the red watermelons will be chosen. (Last year's winner in the "biggest" category weighed in at 119 pounds.)

Now ripening in Oklahoma's sandy watermelon patches are the Charleston Gray, the Jubilee Fairfax, the Tender Sweet, the Texas Golden, and the Oklahoma Black Diamond (sometimes called the Florida Giant, the Texas Giant, and the Clara Lee). There are also smaller icebox varieties known as the Dixie Lee or Cuban Queen, the Kansas Sweet, Petit Sweet, Sugar Baby and All Sweet."

The average Oklahoma watermelon farmer can expect to produce about four tons of watermelons per acre. This crop, however, yields twice that amount on irrigated land in California and Arizona, reports Kirby Cavett of the Oklahoma Crop and Livestock Reporting Service.

Two More Are Killed During Violence In Northern Ireland

BELFAST (UPI)—A man was found shot to death in a Belfast Protestant area today shortly after bomb explosions damaged several Roman Catholic homes and a Catholic club.

Thursday night, sniper fire in the city's Catholic Lower Falls area killed British Army Cpl. Michael Boddy, 24.

The two latest killings brought to 514 the number of persons killed in Northern Ireland violence altogether, and lifted the death toll this year to 302.

Police said today's shooting "has all the appearances of a gun fight at the doorway" of the house on Island Street in East Belfast where the body was found.

Neighbors heard shots from the house but were too terrified to notify police, the spokesman said.

The bombings in the Catholic areas followed pledges by Protestant vigilantes of revenge for the bombing of a Protestant-owned pub and nearby houses Thursday.

In a Catholic section of Belfast's Springfield Road area, two soldiers on patrol were critically injured when a bomb exploded in an empty house, the army said.

The army said several homes in the Catholic Short Strand enclave were slightly damaged when a keg packed with 100 pounds of powder exploded in the district. Another bomb went off in a parked car outside the Catholic Hibernian Club in the downtown district and badly damaged the building, the army said. A spokesman said there were no injuries in either incident.

Earlier today, men clad in combat clothing and armed with pickaxe handles prowled the Protestant Shankill Road area where a 200-pound bomb Thursday demolished the Standard Bar, ripped roofs off several nearby houses and injured about 50 bystanders. Firemen and rescue workers waded through streets flooded by a water main smashed in the blast to reach the injured. The illegal Irish Republican Army (IRA) claimed responsibility for the explosion.

It marked the first time Protestant vigilantes have taken to the streets since the army occupied IRA strongholds across the province Aug. 1.

The Ulster Defense Association (UDA), a militant Protestant para-military organization that mounted the patrols, said in a statement: "We warn the bombers that if we catch them, they will be subjected to UDA justice."

A statement issued by the extremist Provisional wing of the IRA said its men bombed the bar because it has been "used by certain groups responsible for recent sectarian assassinations" of Catholics.

The army said the bomb exploded in a hijacked telephone repair truck parked outside the pub. Army officers said they received an anonymous 15-minute warning before the blast but had difficulty clearing the area of curious bystanders.

"We had to forcibly usher them from the immediate danger area," a British soldier said. "People went on shopping and we had to drive them away. Some were reluctant to go."

GM Will Roll Back Prices; Ford Mulls

DETROIT (UPI) — General Motors Corp. has bowed to government pressure and cut $31 from the extra $85 it planned to charge for 1973 cars and trucks.

GM Chairman Richard C. Gerstenberg, in a letter to Donald Rumsfeld, director of the President's Cost of Living Council, said Thursday that the $31 concession would have gone for "product improvement" and plant safety and environmental costs.

Gerstenberg told Rumsfeld that "there is a serious question of principle involved in your request that General Motors withdraw its requested price increase."

Ford Motor Co., which had remained silent prior to the GM letter, said in a one-line statement that it had asked for and received "time to consider" Rumsfeld's request to back down on a price hike. Ford had asked for a $92 price hike.

The rollback request came after auto executives and Nixon administration officials met earlier in the week in Washington.

American Motors Corp., smallest of the major automakers, has told Rumsfeld AMC would forego increases it attributed to "economic costs" of labor and materials, but "we cannot withdraw the request for the federally mandated product changes." That would amount to a $78 increase for AMC cars, rather than the $146 the company had requested.

"We believe the workings of our economy are endangered," said Gerstenberg, "when one agency of government can establish standards that a manufacturer's product must meet, and another agency should seek to prevent the same manufacturer from having at least an opportunity to recover the costs of such mandated equipment in the marketplace under competitive conditions.

"Moreover, we are concerned with the precedent that might be established. In the months and years immediately ahead, governmental standards already published will require the addition of numerous and costly items of equipment to every vehicle."

Gerstenberg said higher labor and materials costs, with the new government equipment requirements, would add $200 to the cost of each 1973 GM vehicle. The remaining $54 GM hopes to salvage from its price request, Gerstenberg said, would cover only 27 per cent of GM's cost per vehicle.

Pair Attacked By Park Bear

YELLOWSTONE NATIONAL PARK, Wyo. (UPI)—A female bear with two cubs by her side attacked two hikers in Yellowstone National Park, mauling one on the head, legs and arms and knocking the other one over, park officials said Thursday.

It was the second reported attack by a bear on tourists in the park this year. An Alabama camper was killed earlier by a maurauding grizzly.

Park officials said the latest incident occurred Wednesday when Kenneth A. Bill of Sacramento, Calif., was hiking with his sister, Mrs. Stephen Blackwood, in the Fawn Pass area along the Gallatin Range.

The two said they were sitting beside a trail when the bear and two cubs approached. The bear, apparently in an effort to protect the cubs, charged the couple.

MYSTERY COIN DISPLAYED

This drawing portrays what is almost invisible to the naked eye, the flaws which a San Rafael man said made this penny worth $25,000 to him. At the time he bought it from a barber in Ohio, Daniel W. Wilkins, an investment company executive, declined to disclose the penny's peculiarities. The 1936 penny, held just below its portrait, appears to have the last few letters of the phrase "E Pluribus Unum" stamped under the phrase "In God We Trust." Also portrayed are the wheat stalks which like the letters of the partial phrase belong on the other side of the coin.

Building Plan Wins Approval From State

The Old Adobe School District board of Petaluma heard last night that its application to build an administration center has been approved by the state department of education.

Schools Supt. Dean D. Magowan said drawings for the building are being prepared and should be ready for study by the state and district in two months.

District offices have been located in mobile homes at La Tercera School for several years and will be moved into the new building on Crinella Drive near the school.

The Old Adobe School District board also.

AIR CONDITIONING — Heard Magowan report he has approached the state for funds to air condition La Tercera and Miwok Valley schools since students attend year-round. He estimated cost at between $80,000 and $100,000.

POLICY — Approved a policy prohibiting a union or organization membership drive at schools during school hours.

INTERN — Heard a report that the intern psychologist program had proven very successful and lauded the work of Carl Marschall, an intern from Sonoma State College.

Committee Rules On Nominations

MIAMI BEACH (UPI)—The Republican National Committee approved without debate Thursday a new regulation that has the effect of keeping Rep. Paul N. McCloskey, R-Calif., from having his name offered as a presidential candidate on the convention floor.

The committee ratified a recommendation by its Rules Committee that a candidate must have the support of the majority of at least three state delegations before his name could be placed in nomination.

McCloskey, the antiwar congressman who briefly challenged President Nixon in the spring primaries, has only one delegate vote—in New Mexico.

State Panel Names Ross Man Counsel

A Ross resident has been named principal counsel of the Califonria Public Utilities Commission.

Vincent V. MacKenzie was tapped for the $1,793 to $2,179per-month post Wednesday, according to Vernon L. Sturgeon, commission president.

MacKenzie, 43, has been an associate and then senior counsel of the commission since 1965. He previously worked as an attorney and administrative adviser in the governor's office of consumer counsel and was an attorney with the Standard Oil Co. of California before his stints with the state.

MacKenzie received a bachelor's degree from Bradley University in 1952 and a law degree from the University of Illinois in 1954.

He is a member of the bar association of Illinois and California.

He and his wife Carolyn have three children and live at 79 Shady Lane.

Council Decree Upheld In Court

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — A Sonoma Superior Court judge yesterday upheld the Petaluma City Council in its denial of a service station permit.

City Atty. Edouard R. Robert said Judge John Moskowitz ruled that the city acted within its proper powers in rejecting the service station request of the Urich Oil Co. of Los Angeles.

The firm had been denied permission last year to build a station at East Washington and Lakeville Streets. The city council said traffic congestion and hazards would be created by the station. The oil company claimed the city had no legal basis to deny the permit.

Modular Concept Considered For Tomales School

Shoreline Unified School District trustees will consider modular buildings to house fourth through eight-grade pupils at Tomales Elementary School.

Tomales Elementary School pupils are housed on two campuses, mainly in portable buildings, and two bond measures which would have provided funds to establish permanent classrooms have failed.

The board next meets at 7:30 p.m. Sept. 21 at Tomales High School.

San Rafael Woman Hurt In Accident

A San Rafael woman suffered multiple injuries when her car struck a power pole at 447 Francisco Boulevard today in San Rafael, police reported.

The driver, Barbara Lamb, 40, of 148 Highland Avenue, suffered a dislocated hip, multiple cuts, a fractured nose and fractured skull. She was reported in satisfactory condition today at Marin General Hospital.

Officers said Mrs. Lamb's car, westbound on Francisco Boulevard at 12:06 a.m., struck the pole shortly after she had turned onto the boulevard from the Dominic's restaurant exit.

Details of the accident were unavailable because Mrs. Lamb was in pain, officers said.

GOP Platform Group Votes To Back Nixon's Withdrawal Plan

MIAMI BEACH (UPI)—The Republican Platform Committee voted early today to support President Nixon's offer to withdraw all American troops from Indochina four months after release of all U.S. prisoners and imposition of a cease-fire throughout Indochina.

As the committee began deliberations on a platform already written by GOP leaders and approved by the White House, most of Nixon's foreign policy was approved with no major amendments. The committee did not complete consideration of the foreign policy section before it broke up shortly after midnight.

Sources said all amendments proposed to the Vietnam plank were turned down, but there were several undisclosed amendments to the Middle East section, none of them significant.

The committee was expected to rubber-stamp most sections of the draft platform although the section on women's rights was expected to be strengthened and there was conservative agitation for support of right-to-work laws and an even stronger antibusing plank than proposed by the draft.

The White House approved Vietnam plank omitted reference to an "internationally supervised" cease-fire in Indochina as a condition for U.S. withdrawal, and there was some speculation that the omission could signal a possible revision in President Nixon's policy.

But Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said the omission was inadvertent—that it "does not represent a change in our policy" as outlined May 8 when Nixon laid out a revised set of U.S. peace proposals.

In what may turn out to be a floor fight at the convention, the President has decided to stay out of a power struggle between large states and small states for control of the 1976 Republican National Convention.

Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, who would benefit most from keeping the balance of power in the party with the small, conservative states if he seeks the GOP presidential nomination four years hence, also has decided not to intervene.

Their joint decision was revealed by a White House source. It means that the Republican convention will almost certainly have a floor fight over GOP liberals' efforts to attract to the party more women, young people and minorities.

A platform subcommittee Thursday toughened the antibusing provision by proposing a constitutional amendment to outlaw the use of busing to achieve racial desegregation should Nixon's legislative proposals, seeking the same result, fail.

(The House went beyond the GOP platform writers by approving early today a bill not only to ban crosstown busing of any students but to allow schools under court busing orders to get these orders changed to conform with new legislation. The Senate is unlikely to accept the House version.)

Women's rights groups expected to succeed in adding a pet project — comprehensive child day care centers. There also was considerable support for a plank to end the seniority system in Congress and another to require strict laws on lobbying disclosure.

But the convention's major battle—in what otherwise is expected to be a sedate three days to renominate the Nixon-Agnew ticket—centered on an attempt by reformers to give greater voting power to the large, urban states at the 1976 convention.

The reformers have been decisively turned back by both the Convention Rules Committee and the GOP National Committee.

They plan to take their fight to the convention floor Monday before a nationwide television

Commission Asks For Restricted Use Of Facility

The Sausalito tennis courts at Martin Luther King School should be open only to residents, the Sausalito Recreation Commission decided last night, though putting off a final determination on the courts to its Sept. 21 meeting.

Chairman H. Thomas Rogers said the commission also urged the city to proceed with the purchase of Central School for a new city hall and acquire any other school property which comes up for sale and asked that the city provide funds when needed to equip the new community park.

LIES ABOUT AMERICA: 'We Must Have Revolution'

By ARNOLD BEICHMAN

There is no surer way to attract a reading or listening audience than to intone that America needs a revolution, that is revolution in America is long overdue, and, best of all, that we are in the midst of a revolution.

The overriding question which revolution-mongers like Dr. Marcuse and his disciples will not — or cannot, or dare not — answer is what happens after the revolution. We know what happens because there have been several revolutions since 1918 which foreclosed reform.

Not even Marx was certain that violence was needed to effect major changes in capitalist societies. In fact, he said at a public meeting at The Hague in 1872:

"We know that the institutions, manners, and customs of the various countries must be considered, and we do not deny that there are countries, like England and America . . . where the worker may attain his object by peaceful means."

ONE OF THE "explanations" for revolutionary violence in America in recent years has been that the system will not be changed until it is somehow exploded from within, that try as one will, patiently and peacefully, nothing is changed. So we are asked by a New Left spokesman to sympathize with "the impotence, irrelevance, and despair attendant on the realization that what one feels, believes, and demands are neither shared nor acted upon by the overwhelming majority of one's society."

As I read this "cri de coeur" of the New Left, I begin to feel that, indeed, it must be a deplorable injustice that a vast majority of the heterogeneous American people prefer (in Michael Oakeshott's words) "the familiar to the unknown . . . the tried to the untried, fact to mystery, the actual to the possible, the limited to the unbounded, the near to the distant, the sufficient to the superabundant, the convenient to the perfect, present laughter to utopian bliss."

As Hugh Gaitskell, the late leader of British socialism, used to insist:

"The right to dissent is not something that can be made to depend on the fewness of those who dissent. It must be allowed to a majority."

ANY ANALYST of the intellectual temper of our time must ask this question: Why is there this passion for revolutionism when so much of its achievements (by the admission of the achievers) has cost so much? The apologists for revolutionism — particularly for the Russian Revolution — have made statements which, in the light of the anti-Stalin revelations, make frightful reading.

"In 1936, in a Soviet Russia isolated, threatened, and unable to preserve the Revolution except at the price of monolithic severity, all opposition assumed the objective aspect of treason."

Just like that — and that "objective aspect" took the lives, by mistake it turns out, of how many Soviet citizens — 10, 15, 20 million?

The most serious indictment of revolutionists in America (as indeed the world over) is that, fundamentally, their revolutions, whether they call themselves left or right, are against people. They are the anti-people revolutions, and they are intended as such.

THE NEED for an American revolution — violent and fundamental, bloody and cleansing — is, according to its exponents, a matter of sheer survival for the country.

Among the revolutionists, it is taken for granted that the evils in America are systemic, no longer episodic. America is in a quagmire from which it cannot emerge; and if it were able, it should not be allowed to do so. By and large, things always seem to be improving in certain faraway countries; in America things are always going from bad to worse to indescribably worse, if that is possible.

Even to believe that anything could conceivably get better in America — short of a violent revolution — is to demonstrate a benighted, counterrevolutionary chauvinism. All the countries of the world, particularly those which go by the name "revolutionary" or "people's republics" or "people's democracies," are privileged to have their faults and virtues judged by the standards of history. America is the one country in the world which is to be judged by the standards of sociology.

THIS DOUBLE STANDARD of judgment, of course, makes it impossible ever to grant America the benefit of either doubt or credit for good intentions. To view a nation through history is to allow the nice possibility of a melioristic future. To judge a nation by sociology is to inhibit an agreeable comparison of its hopeful present with an inglorious past.

In short, whatever America does, for whatever reason, America is "Amerika" and "Amerika" is wrong.

Unlike the other 143 countries in the world, only America is to be judged by the exacting and unattainable standards of a Utopia. If there is full, high-wage, plenty-of-overtime employment in America for a decade, then capitalism is merely buying off the workers so that they will not rebel. When unemployment comes, that is the real capitalism. If the gross national product rises and consumer income with it, it merely reflects the materialism of American civilization. If the gross national produce falls slightly, it is the beginning of the end!

IT WAS BETTER to vote for Nixon than for Humphrey, because as President, Nixon will bring fascism to America sooner. (This strategy in Weimar Germany was, it will be recalled, expressed by the German Communist Party as "nach, Hitler, Kommen wir" — after Hitler, we will take over.)

Then when Nixon is elected President, whatever he does is "no worse" than anything Humphrey might have done as President. General Motors "runs America"; but if the United Auto Workers shuts down General Motors for a few months, it proves that its workers are regretably "trade union conscious," otherwise they'd be tearing the factories down brick by brick.

If black candidates are elected, with white support, it is only because "the whites are terrified of black power" or they insidiously prefer a black to handle the black ghetto. If black candidates are defeated, it proves the "honkyism" of the American voter.

RACISM, TRIBALISM, communalism, religious hate burden India, Pakistan, Nigeria, Sudan, Japan, Ceylon, Australia, Britain, Yugoslavia, Algeria (with its Berbers), Spain (with its Catalans and Basques), Latin America (and its Indians), the Soviet Union and China (and their repressed minorities). The world crackles with hate, with racial and nationalistic and irredentist passions — but only America is racist.

(What distinguishes America from the rest of the world is that most Americans happen to be ashamed of their prejudices, while almost everybody else is busy explaining the rationale of racial and religious discrimination, and why it is impossible to end them overnight.)

Ask a Singhalese sometime to explain his feelings about a Tamil, or a Sudanese Arab about a Sudanese black Christian, or a Japanese about the Eta people, or an Egyptian about a Copt, an Afrikaner about a Bantu, a Hausa about an Ibo, and listen to what they say! And I could list dozens more of such tragic complexes of community hate and human rivalry. But "only in America . . . "

AUTHOR'S NOTE — If my preoccupation with some of the main currents in the contemporary intellectual scene and the dispiriting level of our public political discourse has not been an attractive or a regaling one, it is because my theme has not been the "greening" but rather the lynching of America.

A school of falsification has grown up in the land, and with the help of ideological passion, its spokesmen — sincere, eloquent, deluded — have been gathering supporters as if to a movement or a political party.

Yet as Nietzsche said, "At every step one has to wrestle for truth . . . The service of truth is the hardest service."

What Would Open Space Issue Buy?

The City of San Rafael will have $2,250,000 to spend on acquisition of open space lands if a bond issue proposal is approved at the polls on Sept. 19.

What will that buy?

To try to answer that question the city planning department has prepared a list of 23 properties which now are open but may be subject to development — in fact, proposals to develop nine of them already are in the works. This has been offered to the city council as an inventory of available open space.

The 23 parcels total 3,738 acres — which is some six times the 638.5 acres the city now has in parks and open space (of which 539 acres is the former Frank Sinatra property between Black Canyon and the former Nike missile site).

According to the county assessment roll, these 23 properties have aggregate "fair market value" of about $12 million. What the owners might ask for them, however, is of course another matter.

OBVIOUSLY, the proposed bond issue won't buy all of them.

It might, however, buy a big enough portion to make quite a difference in the future of San Rafael.

For example, the list includes the balance of Chinn Ho's property from Peacock Gap to Santa Venetia, which embraces 1,260 acres and for which no development plan has yet been proposed.

To buy it all probably would more than wipe out the bond issue. But one or more sizeable pieces might be acquired to assure that the area would retain its rural character.

For another example, on the list is the 11-acre Dollar estate fronting on Mission Avenue, with its historic mansion. The assessor puts the fair market value of this piece — on which 80 townhouse and apartment units already are proposed — at $185,000.

OTHER PROPERTIES on the list include numerous hilltop areas, large bayfront lands, and the 440-acre Smith Ranch extending from Gallinas Creek to Northgate Industrial Park.

The hilltops might be acquired within the bond issue, along with portions of some of the larger properties.

The cost to San Rafael residents would be 10 cents on the tax rate initially. Presumably, this would decline from year to year.

Terra Lindans, incidentally, would not be subject to the special tax, even if Terra Linda is annexed to the city, for the bond election in September will be prior to the earliest possible date of annexation so Terra Lindans will not have a vote on it.

The proposed outlay certainly won't buy all the remaining open areas listed by the planning department. But it might buy a significant share of them.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

How Far Will City Censorship Extend?

It was only recently Mill Valley became the only city of the North Bay counties where the council took on themselves the authority to muzzle our police department. This, to delete the addresses of Mill Valley citizens who suffered a loss by robbery or other crimes when issuing police reports to the press and the public.

Mill Valley is a cohesive community of intelligent citizens. The censorship by the city council of our police department in this matter was simply a knitty-petty-picky.

One must question how far the wedge of self-styled censorship will penetrate into other functions of our city government.

The fair-minded citizens of Mill Valley do not buy or condone this brand of censorship.

Pieter Toal Deserves Public Commendation

County school trustee Patrick Pollock's vilification of citizen Pieter Toal, who forced the board to reveal names of candidates for its vacancy, was a fine capper to the board's violation of the public's right to know.

Although its own attorney advised against such undemocratic secrecy, Mr. Pollack saw Mr. Toal's public-spirited action as that of an "obstructionist" seeking a "name for himself." Pieter Toal's interest in and service to public education and the betterment of civic affairs is well established. Mr. Pollock's petulance and poor sportsmanship is unworthy of an elected official. The Independent-Journal, with its own crusading interest in the right of the public to know the public's business, ought to commend Toal for a job well done on behalf of the public.

Plenty Of Gun Laws; Enforcement Needed

Although I enjoy your paper and agree with most of your viewpoints, your gun control editorial of Aug. 1 leaves me cold.

You headline with the question, "Why Not Restrict Use of Handguns?" Do you really believe we are so ignorant as to think that there are no restrictions on handguns?

In the matter of the attempted assassination of Governor Wallace. . .are you aware that Arthur Bremer had violated at least 28 laws, many of them gun control laws?. . .

What I am saying is that enforcement of existing laws is sorely lacking, so why ask for another one?

You refer to the findings of Franklin Zimring as some kind of authority to reach conclusions by. Now really! You may as well use the writings of Marx and Lenin as arguments to abolish our free enterprise system. . .

This clamor for more gun laws is merely a cop-out on the part of the advocates. They gain great publicity from their demands without really doing anything.

Why not support the position of Senator Towers of Texas? He supports a law that would require a mandatory 10-year prison term for anyone using a firearm in the commission of a crime.

I repeat, what we need is more enforcement of existing laws, not new laws that will not be enforced anyway.

Open Space Purchase Needs Higher Priority

I agree with your editorial of Aug. 9 in which you discuss the purchase of open space as a means of retaining the beauty of Marin and compensating landowners as well.

I believe that the public purchase of our hillsides and ridgelands is in the best interest of homeowners, commuters, renters, realtors, children, elderly — all of whom have a great stake in our environment.

In my mind the question of priorities is the key. Governing bodies at all levels must end the waste, inefficiency and bureaucracy that has been responsible for soaring budgets and a growing mistrust of politicians. Then funds will be available to really make an impact on our environment and our daily lives. Citizens will begin to receive tangible benefits for their taxes.

For a county such as Marin which fortunately has so much left to save, matching funds should be forthcoming from state and federal sources as their priorities change. Marinities certainly pay their share of state and federal taxes.

Your editorial helped to focus on one of the most important issues facing Marin County today — the issue of public vs. private interests. This is a challenge for all of us which I believe can be successfully met if we all work together for a beautiful Marin.

REMEMBER WHEN?

10 YEARS AGO

Aug. 18, 1962

A threatened strike of Bay Area carpenters, who had demanded a pay increase of $1.05 per hour, was averted by an agreement reached at negotiations in Washington, D.C. The agreement was reportej to include an 80-cent hourly pay hike.

Fort Ross became a national landmark on the 150th anniversary of its original dedication by Russian settlers.

20 YEARS AGO

Aug. 18, 1952

Chairvan T. Fred Bagshaw of the Marin County Board of Supervisors said it apparently would be impossible to get a bond issue for courthouse expansion or civic center construction on the November ballot.

The San Rafael Mayor's Committee, headed by J.B. Rice, opened its campaign for passage of a $1,040,000 bond issue for drainage, sewers, streets, courthouse and library expansion and construction of a second firehouse.

ROSCOE DRUMMOND

Nixon, McGovern 'Poles Apart'? No, They Agree In Many Areas

MIAMI BEACH — The thrust of much that is being said on the eve of this Republican convention is that President Nixon and Sen. George McGovern are poles apart on nearly everything.

It isn't true.

They are poles apart on hardly anything.

Their differences are substantial and the choice between a Nixon and a McGovern presidency is more meaningful than in most national elections.

But you may be surprised at the extent of the agreements in principle between the two nominees. Here are examples:

REDUCING WORLD COMMITMENTS — Nixon and McGovern agree that the United States is overcommitted around the world. McGovern says so; Nixon's acts say so. Both propose to reduce these commitments and to contract the American military presence.

That is the essence of the Nixon doctrine — that the weaker, exposed nations must put more reliance on themselves and not assume that the United States will come to their defense under all circumstances.

REDUCING U.S. FORCES IN EUROPE — McGovern and Nixon agree that American troops can and should be cut.

McGovern would unilaterally cut them in half. Nixon would negotiate with the Russians for mutual reduction and would not cut our strength in Europe while NATO and Warsaw Pact powers are negotiating.

CUTTING DEFENSE SPENDING — Both favor cutting the defense budget so that more money can be used on domestic programs.

Nixon contends McGovern would be risking the nation's international security. McGovern contends Nixon is risking the nation's domestic security. Nixon relates further major reductions of costly nuclear weapons to agreements with the Soviet Union. McGovern wouldn't wait.

WELFARE GRANTS AND FAMILY ASSISTANCE — Both agree that the present welfare system is an unworkable, inadequate, deteriorating mess, and that changes are imperative.

Both propose some form of guaranteed annual income for families at or under the poverty line. This is the goal of Nixon's Family Assistance Program. McGovern's grant program is somewhat vague and subject to revision, but it is headed in the same direction as Nixon's — only farther.

TAX REFORM — Both propose to plug loopholes in the revenue laws by which many escape from paying any federal income tax. Nixon has yet to spell out his proposals. McGovern has talked much about redistribution of wealth by upping the tax on middle and high incomes but he remains vague on how.

VIETNAM POLICY — Both want to end the war.

Nixon offers to stop the fighting on condition the U.S. prisoners are released. McGovern offers to stop the fighting even if the prisoners are not released.

ERNEST B. FURGURSON

It Was All Going To Be So Different This Election

WASHINGTON — How fresh and inspirational it promised to be — at long last, the year of clean politics, the year when our President was chosen on the basis of the issues!

What a new breed George McGovern's friends said he was, with his championing of youth, amateurism and candor! What a relief it would be to have Mr. Nixon operating for once on the thesis that the best politics for him is to pretend to be above politics!

What a naive and short-lived dream it all was!

THE TROUBLE with politics, of course, is that it is an enterprise of men rather than theories, much more of an art than a science.

And thus, though we are still nearly three weeks away from Labor Day and the traditional opening date of presidential campaigns, we are embroiled already in some of the most ill-tempered name-calling since the debut of Archie Bunker.

Sargent Shriver maintains that Mr. Nixon "blew it" by not accepting a wonderful chance for peace in Vietnam back in 1969, although he himself waited to speak out about it until a few hours after he was nominated for vice president. William P. Rogers, in a theoretically nonpartisan job at the State Department, says of course he is not going to get involved in partisan politics — and then proceeds to blast Shriver with a salvo equivalent to all the TNT carried by a sortie of B-52s.

Milton Shapp, as governor of Pennsylvania, is appropriately indignant because federal aid has been slow in arriving for victims of the floods accompanying Hurricane Agnes. He happens to be so in front of the one politican who holds the world's championship for righteous indignation, George Romney, who is in a theoretically non-partisan job at HUD.

Mr. Romney not only says indignantly that Mr. Shapp is letting politics intrude into flood relief, but then he comes back to Washington and is indignant again outside the White House, apparently this time about the way John Ehrlichman tries to play Henry Kissinger in domestic affairs.

AND SPEAKING of domestic affairs, there is still the matter referred to affectionately by the media as the Watergate Caper. The Democrats' effort to sue the Committee to Re-Elect the President over the bugging tx Democratic National Committee headquarters produced some of the most heart-tugging pleas of the season.

After Republican personnel, campaign funds, telephones, lawyers and what-all else have been tied to the break-in, a U.S. district court denies a GOP effort to delay the $1 million suit until after the election. But what brings tears to the eyes of any objective outsider is not the ruling, rather the grounds on which the Committee to Re-Elect had asked the delay. It said hearing the case before the first Tuesday in November might cause "incalculable" damage to the President's re-election prospects — all the while still denying all complicity, of course. Oh, sadness!

But if it seems from this that I am bemoaning the short life of the sunshine and sweetness campaign, it is not quite so. Such a campaign for the presidency of the United States never was and never should be.

Treasures In City Hall Safe Redolent Of Coffee Breaks

Most employees treasure their coffee breaks and holidays, and the denizens of Sausalito City Hall are no exception.

Ever wonder what valuables that massive antique safe at City Hall contains? Well, it isn't pieces of eight from Sausalito's Spanish days or skeletons from the city closet (at least not visibly).

Would you believe about 10 dozen plastic coffee cups, coffee, cream and sugar, an old coffee pot and a box of Christmas ornaments? Along with some city documents, of course.

The city people laughingly explain that, with cramped conditions at the hall, the safe is the best and most convenient place to put all those mundane items.

A quick look around the crowded quarters confirms this observation. It sometimes seems like a single additional pencil or piece of paper might be enough added bulk to bring the millenium to Sausalito City Hall.

When are these long-suffering employees — who are constantly bumping into each other as they try to maneuver through the perilous trails between desks — going to get those new offices the city council keeps talking about?

The city is expected to bid on Sausalito School District's Central School within the next few weeks and, if that offer is accepted, Sausalito may have a new city hall — and happier employees too.)

ABOUT 200 of Bob Anderson's family and associates gathered to toast and cheer him last week at a dinner marking his retirement from the Marin Municipal Water District board after 24 years of service.

There were presentations, testimonials and witty remarks by such recognized district humorists as Gen. Mgr. Bill Seeger and diractor Eugene Miller (two of the better wits in Marin officialdom).

To while away those lonely hours of retirement in his beautiful Lake Tahoe home, Anderson's fellow board members gave him a case of vintage wine and a lot of compliments.

THE PLANTER BOXES lining the downtown portion of Bridgeway in Sausalito are more than two years old now, but few residents gathered to celebrate their recent birthday.

By this time almost everyone would like to see them go the way of the Whooping crane and passenger pigeon, to be replaced by wider sidewalks, but the date of their departure is still uncertain.

Right now a petition to determine how many downtown businessmen are willing to join an assessment district to finance improvements to downtown Bridgeway (including wider sidewalks) is being passed around and the city should know the result in the next couple of weeks. If the businessmen agree, the planter boxes may be gone by winter. But if the merchants turn thumbs down on the plan, the city will either have to come up with the cash for the changes — or plant perennials in those boxes.

ED FITZSIMMONS, who has been battling the City of Sausalito for over two years to get permission to develop Wolfback Ridge (to date unsuccessfully) showed up at a city council meeting this week, when his project wasn't even on the agenda.

"What in the world are you here for? Don't you get enough of these things?" someone asked Fitzsimmons, who is in danger of becoming a permanent fixture at council sessions and planning commission meetings.

"Oh," quipped the Wolfback Ridge man, "I'm just here as a student of good government."

GOP Platform Hearings Are Conducted With Great Secrecy

That's how tight the security —and secrecy—is as the Republican party's platform is being put into final form for next week's convention.

The platform committee members themselves were not allowed to see a White House approved draft of the platform until three days after they began committee hearings.

Even then, only subcommittee chairmen were permitted to actually clutch a copy in their hands, and they were ordered to return them promptly after each session to the committee chairman Rep. John Rhodes of Arizona.

The extreme secrecy angered some Republicans, especially liberals who have been pushing for a more open convention and who succeeded in getting the Rules Committee open. They said it could be a bad image, particularly following open gatherings by the Democrats preceding their convention.

Rep. Donald Riegle, R-Mich., said the GOP's professed "open door" policy might better be termed "open door and closed mind."

The physical security was no less tight than the political security. GOP leaders drafted the platform long before committee members gathered in Miami Beach, and it was then revised and approved by the White House.

Rhodes and GOP executive committee members went to great lengths to see that any changes proposed here did not stray from the White House approved language, but the White House document—116 pages, bound in red—praises Nixon to such lengths that some of it was toned down to avoid embarrassment.

To begin with, subcommittees were carefully chosen to see that there was a majority of members who would favor the particular platform planks their group was considering.

Then, even after the subcommittees suggested some rather mild changes, the executive committee rewrote the changes before submitting the revised platform to the full committee.

As the committee began its first drafting session, the fourth floor hallway of the meeting room in the Fontainebleau Hotel was declared "sealed off." Only persons on an approved list were even allowed to walk past the door.

Two GOP girl staff members heading for nearby platform committee offices made the mistake of coming up stairs at the wrong end of the hall.

"Unless you're on that list, you cannot come through that hallway," said a policeman, sending them back downstairs to come up another stairway at the other end of the hall.

When two hotel employes appeared with two large wagons of coffee for the members, they were abruptly stopped. Although they did not enter the room, a GOP staff member was summoned to determine whether the pair could even push the carts another 30 feet to the hearing room door.

Man, 78, Goes Back To Jail

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI) —A 78-year-old man who already has spent more than 25 years in prison was back in custody today for another 20-year term.

Worley James, who was paroled two years ago from a 1944 sentence for a sexual assault, will begin serving a new term for attacking an elderly woman.

In the 1944 case, James was sentenced to die for having carnal knowledge of a girl under 12, but the sentence was commuted to life in prison.

COUNTY COMMENT

By WILLIAM D. (BILL) FUSSELMAN

Mail(?) Service Mighty Slow Between Civic Center And Hub

Here's a story to ponder on: You will recall that last week, in commenting on the "balanced transportation" study the old depression word "boon dogling" kept emerging and that the dictionary defined it as "work of little or no practical value done to keep or look busy."

It would seem that some feathers were ruffled. I said I would mail my check for a copy of the report so that I might study it first-hand. Well, I called up the Civic Center and asked for the planning commission. When connected I asked, "Is this the planning commission?" The answer was "planning department," with emphasis on "department." I said I was going to order a copy and was inquiring how much the postage would be. She put me on "hold" and after a considerable wait the answer was 30 cents.

I mailed the check on Thursday, a week ago ($2.30). I called the post office to be sure and have the right zip code. My typewriter has extra large letters, so it would be a most remarkable thing to have it go astray between San Anselmo and the Civic Center. As I write this, one week later, I have not received the report, nor has my check, made out to the County of Marin, been received by the treasurer. Checks received by departments like this are supposed to be turned in immediately or the next day I was told.

I have devoted considerable space to this because as the saying goes, "Straws show where the wind blows."

"FATIGUE STALLS Ag Zoning" — Sp went the heading on a four-column story about the throne room gents. "Marin County supervisors battled for three hours and a half last night (Tuesday) with controversial rezoning of the county's agricultural preserves but finally gave up in exhaustion... 'I'm too tired to think straight,' said Supervisor Michael Wornum. Others agreed."

They didn't start until 5 t.m. The board meeting had begun at 9 a.m. Presumably they had taken time out for lunch. Kind of tough to earn the $1,100 a month for a change. Wonder what they would do if they were sitting as a board of equalization, taking testimony all day (morning session, afternoon session and then after dinner until beyond midnight) day after day through a 21-day series of sessions? Reams and reams of forms for each supervisor were stacked up in front of us. One year they ran a picture of me in the I-J, which showed a big guy just able to make it to the elevator, one of the "good old days" that was not so good — 400 bucks a month and we fed ourselves.

FROM THE WEDNESDAY I-J: "Angry Marin County supervisors lashed out yesterday at their counterparts in San Francisco... "for wanting the bridge district to keep at least $10 million in reserve. That attitude of San Francisco is as old as the bridge itself. So what's to do about it, other than cuss them out?

I was impressed with the statement to the board of supervisors by attorney Warren Perry (mayor of my home town). He was appearing for his clients, the Finley family, objecting to the rezoning of their land at Bolinas. He offered his clients' land to the county for a reasonable price. Said he, "If your intention is to preserve the land for open space then be forthright and take the necessary steps... Otherwise exclude the Finley's 800 acres from the preserve and its rezoning."

That word "forthright" is a word that applies to the upcoming Regional park and Recreational district matter.

BARBARA LODEN both directed and starred in her film, "Wanda." "I found in making 'Wanda' that the non-actors in the film couldn't relate to me at all," she said about her role as director. Here she is in a scene from the film.

THE FRENCH film, "A Very Curious Girl," starred Bernadotte Lafont, and was directed by filmmaker Nelly Kaplan, who also directed "Papa les Petites Bateaux." It was one of 120 films made by women shown at the first international women's film festival.

ONE OF the new and growing group of women filmmakers, Claudia Weill angles in for a close-up shot during the shooting of a new film. Women filmmakers are beginning to produce films depicting women in a more realistic manner, both in America and in Europe.

New York Festival For Women's Films

A surprising number of women are getting behind zoom lenses. Viewers screened 510 films recently for the first International Festival of Women's Films in New York. A Monitor critic examines how and why these films are being made.

By LOUISE SWEENEY
Christian Science Monitor News Service

NEW YORK, N.Y. — The carton was full of raw stock for a film called "Three Lives" which the group was making, and the carton was properly addressed all right: "To the Women's Liberation Cinema Company."

But there was something else written on the label from some wag at Eastman Kodak to these women filmmakers: The message was simple and symptomatic: "Stay in the kitchen."

The man who wrote that to the makers of Kate Millet's excellent documentary might be surprised to know how many women there are opting for zoom lenses.

"WE SCREENED 510 films by women," says Kristina Nordstrom, director of the First International Festival of Women's Films. "We've shown 120 of them, and we have the names of 700 women filmmakers."

The festival, which ran for three weeks at a Village theater, included 14 feature fiction films (from the United States, Germany, Italy, Hungary, Czechoslovakia, France, Sweden), three documentaries, and 15 programs of short films divided into subjects like "Maternal Images" and "The Feminine Mystique."

A highlight of the festival was a series of conferences on women in film: their image, their involvement in scriptwriting, editing, acting, directing, programming and distribution, television and making documentaries.

Although the panels varied, the same themes kept cropping up: women don't yet have the power, money, proper image, or confidence to make a major contribution in film. Scriptwriter Renee Taylor has two successful films behind her ("Lovers and Other Strangers," "Made for Each Other," both written with her husband, Joe Bologna) and is turning director. She says, "The reality is, whoever has the creative control is in charge."

Tamara Assayev, a University of California at Los Angeles Film School graduate filmmaker who has done three films outside the Hollywood system, reeled off figures on filmmaking union memberships there which indicate where the power is:

Directors Guild, 2,343 men, 23 women; Producers Guild, 400 men, 10 women; Cinematographers Union, 1,464 men, 6 women; Writers Guild, 2,575 men, 318 women.

Veteran scriptwriter Helen Deutsch ("King Solomon's Mines") says after 25 years at the big studios: "If you were a man and wrote two scripts of any kind the next thing you were made a producer or director, but if you were a woman you just went on writing scripts."

EVEN WHEN a woman works her way into directing, she may be blocked by society's resistance to a woman taking a traditionally male role and by her own insecurities.

Barbara Loden, who turned from acting to directing with her film, "Wanda," explains, "We (women) think people won't take us seriously or people think we don't have enough ability ... I found in making 'Wanda' that the non-actors in the film couldn't relate to me at all. I would have to get one of the men — my husband (director Elia Kazan) or my cameraman — to say I really knew what I was doing in directing it that way ..."

Karen Sperling, a wealthy girl from a film family, tried to find backing in traditional ways and finally had to finance her own film, "Make a Face." She says, "Women have to prove themselves on an industrialized production level. Basically you're talking to Gulf and Western (they own Paramount Pictures) or some stockholder, a man who looks at you and says, 'Wait a minute, why don't you go home and have babies.'"

CANADIAN FILMMAKER Sylvia Spring says, "The hardest thing was convincing men I had validity ... I'm aware my being a woman hasn't helped me in my career." In another part of the panel she noted her own hesitations as a director: "I had been so intimidated by thinking men knew everything."

And French filmmaker Nelly Kaplan (represented in the festival by "A Very Curious Girl" and "Papa les Petites Bateaux") said, "If you are a woman, you have no right to be nervous, no right not to know what to do. I was obliged to be better than myself." Ms. Kaplan noted that It's easier for a woman to be an editor than a director in France "because men loathe editing, they think it's like sewing, you know, feminine work .."

Even actresses have trouble with film. Some famous faces commented in the panel on acting.

Estelle Parsons ("Bonnie and Clyde") said, "I don't think you act in film anyway, films belong to the director and editor. If you want to make an impact you direct or edit. There are not an awful lot of really good womanly roles written in the American culture. Women are written as sex objects, hopeless neurotics, nymphomaniacs, or on the other hand, butch comedians ..."

ACTRESS BARBARA Harris says the actress is often "repressed by what the director in films wants." She told about a typical difference with the director of hew newest film, "The War Between Men and Women." "He wanted me to laugh through the scene where my husband's going blind and my ex-husband has just been killed in Vietnam."

When she argued that no normal woman would laugh there, the answer was, "Well, war has its ironic moments." "I was blacking out with rage," she told the audience.

Actress-author Viva, who came up through underground movies, carried on a sort of James Joyce monologue which delighted the audience. Among the paragraphs she noted, "Any film I've seen lately is totally male — there are never good female parts — you have to go back to Ann Bancroft in "The Miracle Worker." Men have the control, men have the power in film, and it looks as though they really love men rather than women — all the women in films today are shadows, cardboard."

Which brings up the image of women in film. Panelist Jean Faust studied the subject for New York State Human Rights Commission hearings. "Women in movies are for sex," she says. "Our society has rejected movies concerned with women's inner life."

Writer Gloria Steinem said, "I would like to see films about women who are not losers and masochists ... I want to see a film about a strong, passionate, beautiful woman."

"Village Voice" film reviewer Molly Haskell said, "I'm interested in seeing women doing things in film, handling both a career and marriage."

JEANINE BASINGER, who teachers a course on women in film at Wesleyan University, said, 'I want to see real women on screen, intelligent, strong, kind women, doing something, maybe marvelously or not, but doing something."

The feature films directed by women at the festival do show women a more whole image of themselves than the Hollywood stereotypes so many panelists objected to. In every film but two, the heroines were the central characters. Women directors tend to make films about women or girls, and their heroines are vibrant, individual, often strong characters. The festival feature films included:

"CLEO FROM 5 to 7," Agnes Varda's film about a young singer spending the hours between 5 and 7 waiting for a diagnosis of a possibly fatal disease and discovering that her lover, her fame, her beauty, and her closest friendship are insubstantial.

Hungarian Marta Meszaros has directed "The Girl," about an illegitimate child brought up in an orphanage who traces her mother only to find that "you can't go home again." Leontine Sagan's 1931 film, "Maedchen in Uniform," is a study of the effects of a boarding school's Prussian authoritarianism on a motherless student starved for love.

American director Dorothy Arzner made the festival's "The Wild Party" in 1929 with Clara Bow, the "it" girl, as an unbridled co-ed who falls in love with her anthropology professor (Frederic March). Barbara Loden's film "Wanda" deals with a drifter of a woman from a Pennsylvania mining town who wanders into a "Bonnie and Clyde" relationship with a traveling thief. "The Bigamist," American director Ida Lupino's 1953 film, deals subtly with the feelings of two diverse women (Ida Lupino and Joan Fontaine) both married to the same, guilt-ridden man (Edmund O'Brien).

A lonely old woman moving from one apartment to another is the heroine of Hungarian Judit Elek's film, "The Lady From Constantinople"; an Olympic gymnast and a housewife are the dual heroines of Vera Chytilova's Czechoslovakian film, "Something Different."

TWO OF the films are based on classic plays: Mai Zetterling's provocative fantasy, "The Girls", about actresses in a production of Aristophanes's "Lysistrata" who suddenly see its theme (women refusing to sleep with their husbands until war becomes peace) in terms of their own lives.

In "The Year of the Cannibals" Italian director Liliani Cavani attempts a contemporary version of the Antigone theme, with Britt Ekland striding through streets full of rebel corpses. French director Nelly Kaplan, a highly original directing intelligence, made "A Very Curious Girl" about a provincial gypsy who revenges herself on the townspeople who have degraded her by turning prostitute and eventually destroying the town.

Only two of the feature films do not focus on women: Mary Ellen Bute's lyrical black-and-white translation of "Passages from Finnegan's Wake" by James Joyce and Italian director Lina Wertmuller's "The Lizards," about three aimless men who are the film's antiheroes.

Marin Women

Miss Mwenga Wed To Peter K. Mutunga

St. Andrew Presbyterian Church in Marin City was the setting for the wedding Saturday morning of Monicah Kaveke Mwenga to Peter Kiilu Mutunga, both of San Rafael.

Monicah is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mwenga Kiilu of Kangundo, Masaku, Kenya, and Peter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Mutunga Munyilu, also live there.

The attendant for Monicah was Joyce Kasiva Kitavi of Terra Linda, and Fancis Mwanzia Kilonzo of San Rafael served as best man.

The reception followed afterward at the latter's home in San Rafael. The couple will make their home in San Rafael.

Monicah attended Machakos Girls High School in Kenya, East Africa, and is a graduate of Tamalpais High School. She is now attending the College of Marin.

She is the sister of Annah Nthambi, Alice Mumbua, Jane Mutuli, Agnes Ndunge and Francis M. Mwenga, all of Kagundo, Masaku, Kenya.

Peter is a graduate of Kagundo, the College of Marin and California State University, San Francisco. He is employed in San Rafael.

Peter's brothers are Simon Kilonzo, Peter Wambua, Muithya and Joshua Ndambuki, all of Kenya, and Steve Mutunga of Claremont.

William Rolfe Takes Miss Linman As Bride

Meredith Linman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Linman of Tiburon, became the bride of William Rolfe III of Sacramento on Sunday at the Ralston-White Memorial Retreat in Mill Valley.

Her maid of honor was Margie McLean of Mill Valley and bridesmaids were Kris Zealear of San Francisco, Marylou Colombo of Sacramento and Kay Rolfe of Burbank.

Meredith is a graduate of Redwood High School, College of Marin and California State University, Chico. She is a teacher at Riverside School in the Sacramento school district.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hogan of Sacramento. A graduate of Bakersfield High School, he attended San Fernando College, Loyola and was graduated from California State University, Chico. Currently attending McGeorge School of Law, he is hearings officer for the State Department of Public Welfare.

William's sister is Kay Rolfe of Burbank.

His best man was Michael Campos of Chico. Ushers were Jeff Eklund, John Peeples, and Gary Owens, all of Chico, and Ed Webb of Red Bluff.

Venet Completes Resort Fashions

Parisian designer Philippe Venet has completed his first resort collection.

He plans to open a boutique in the Philippines and in Monte Carlo within six months.

Venet resort clothes include a multi-colored lame blazer over a bare-back white crepe jumpsuit and a boxy red linen shirt over red and white paisley printed pants.

TOY SAFETY

Continuing Controversy

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI)—The continuing controversy about toy safety gets a midsummer airing, although the heaviest buying holiday season is months away.

What comes from the airing in which parents and experts "rap" are tips for safe toy play, news of new safety standards and durability criteria.

THE TIPS for safe toy play agreed on: Think before you buy. Don't impulse buy. Read and keep informed of developments in toy safety.

Teach your child proper safe play with toys. Set good examples. Supervise toy play according to the situation. Consider the child's age, personality, surroundings and experience.

Check the broken toys. Repair or discard them. Protect the young child from the potentially dangerous toys of the older child.

The experts' meeting with three mothers ("they're the experts when it comes to preventing accidents...") came about recently in Boca Raton, Fla., when the Toy Manufacturers of America, Inc., held a membership meeting.

The women were Mrs. Marilyn Martin, mother of seven, president of Boca Raton Elementary School Parent-Teachers Organization (PTO); Mrs. Sandra Grieser, mother of four, secretary of the PTO, and Mrs. Shirley Justin, mother of two, vice president of the J.C. Mitchell Parent-Teacher Association (PTA)

Ross told the group the association's board of directors had approved unanimously a set of "comprehensive" safety standards that covered essentially the entire industry and submitted them to the National Board of Standards for action.

The women who'd done their homework (three meetings plus phone consultations) had varied comments on safety. Mrs. Martin, who said it'd been an interesting time trying to raise her seven "safely but always open to new learning experiences" commented, "There are times when you take all safety precautions and then take a calculated risk. Children can't be kept locked in a closet for safety..."

THEY AGREED parents should keep informed of developments in toy safety. One said she'd read "an article in her paper just" two Sundays ago on cap guns. It was about the results of excessive use— particularly for children who have hearing aids."

The parents discussed the need for checking against sharp points, use of toxic materials possibly, flammable materials. Is lead free paint used? "Particularly when you've got a small child you've got to be more discriminating," said one.

On electrical toys, the women advised always giving special attention to their having the Underwriters Laboratory approval seal.

THE WOMEN agreed that durability could be a relative thing. Mrs. Grieser said she expected a children's riding tractor to last a long time—"you pay quite a bit for it." But she didn't expect long life out of little balsa wood planes she'd given for birthday party favors—"the kids play with it one afternoon in the backyard ... I expect it to be broken."

Patterned Ankle Big Newsmaker

Whether a person wears solids or patterns, color selection is important. For sports wear, anything goes. For more conservative wear, a good tip is to have the color of socks either the same shade as trousers or a bit darker.

The most popular length for casual wear is the anklet, or crew length. For business midcalf and over-the-calf lengths are recommended.

Jumpsuit Considered The In Fashion

Designer Vivian Wang believes the jumpsuit is the in fashion, and has done an entire collection of them for forthcoming holiday season wear.

New Book Out On Decoupage

For the past seven years Leslie Linsley has been transforming hundreds of ordinary wooden objects — planters, wall plaques and boxes of all shapes — into works of art. Now she has written a book that explains her craft — known as decoupage.

Decoupage, which dates back to the 18th century and is the rage again, means applying decorative cutouts to an object. The technique involves painting, sanding and lacquering, as well as careful snipping around the cutout.

Leslie's directions are clear and not intimidating. She delights in the search for objects that, she says, "can lead you through lumberyards, hobby shops and attics."

Fairfax Couple Returns After 50th Anniversary

Back in Fairfax after a trip to Las Vegas to celebrate their 50th anniversary are Mr. and Mrs. Thomas M. Humphrey.

Their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas M. Humphrey Jr., now live in Las Vegas. They gave a luncheon at their home to honor the Golden Anniversary couple, and entertained them at a dinner party at a Las Vegas restaurant.

Mr. and Mrs. Humphrey were married in Los Angeles on July 31, 1922 and moved to Fairfax in 1935. Humphrey, who retired in 1960 as a supervisor with Mackay Radio in San Francisco, was one of the first telegraphers in the west. He started his career with the railroads.

Assisting with the celebration were the pair's granddaughters, Ana and Marlena. Their daughter-in-law, Camilla Humphrey is the daughter of the late Rev. George Loftness of Corte Madera.

Mrs. Humphrey is a member of the Dorcas Society of the Fairfax Community Church, and has served as president. Her husband has been a member of the Los Angeles Mesa Lodge of the Masonic Order for 51 years.

While in Las Vegas, the Fairfax couple toured the desert mountain country nearby and visited Boulder Dam.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Answering Services Too Slow; What If There's An Emergency?

DEAR HELEN:

I am an insurance man with the company that "sells life insurance but our business is life." This is why I am writing: I'm concerned with saving lives.

In the course of my work I must contact many doctors, most of whom subscribe to an answering service. The switchboards are usually busy, thus a polite voice comes on, saying, "This is Dr. Doe's wire. Please hold." The phone goes dead in your hands and you wait until an operator is free to take a message. This can be several minutes. Occasionally you are forgotten in the rush.

On routine calls, these minutes aren't important, but what if there is an emergency? A poisoning or cardiac victim could die in that time.

Here is my plea: Could answering service operators add, "Is this an emergency call?" If the answer is yes, valuable time would be saved — perhaps a life.

I'm sure that a short note from you, a nationally syndicated writer, would bring results, Helen. Thank you. — C.R.F.

DEAR C.:

I have forwarded your letter to the American Medical Association. Let's hope it will also be read by doctors' answering services all over the country. Thanks for your life-saving suggestion. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

If our son was grown and on his own, I'd expect him to manage his own love life, but he's only 17, and has never been serious about a girl before.

Here are some of the things she does:

Though she is engaged to another boy, she won't let our son look at any other girl. She threw a fit when he sat next to an old family friend (female) in the school cafeteria.

She expects him to "talk" with her fiance, getting him to break off with her — but we suspect she only wants to see the two boys in a big fight. She has done this before, with other fellows.

She is erratic. Insisted our son jump in a lake (fully clothed) to "prove he loves her." He nearly drowned.

She wants things, many things. They fight a lot because of her demands — such as a $900 stereo and a one-carat diamond ring.

She has threatened to commit suicide if he does not do everything she asks. (Or else she alternates with a threat to run away and marry her fiance.)

She has turned our son into a very confused and unhappy boy, who can't see that he is being used for her latest ego trip. Love does strange things to a teen who has never experienced it before, even a very level-headed guy, usually.

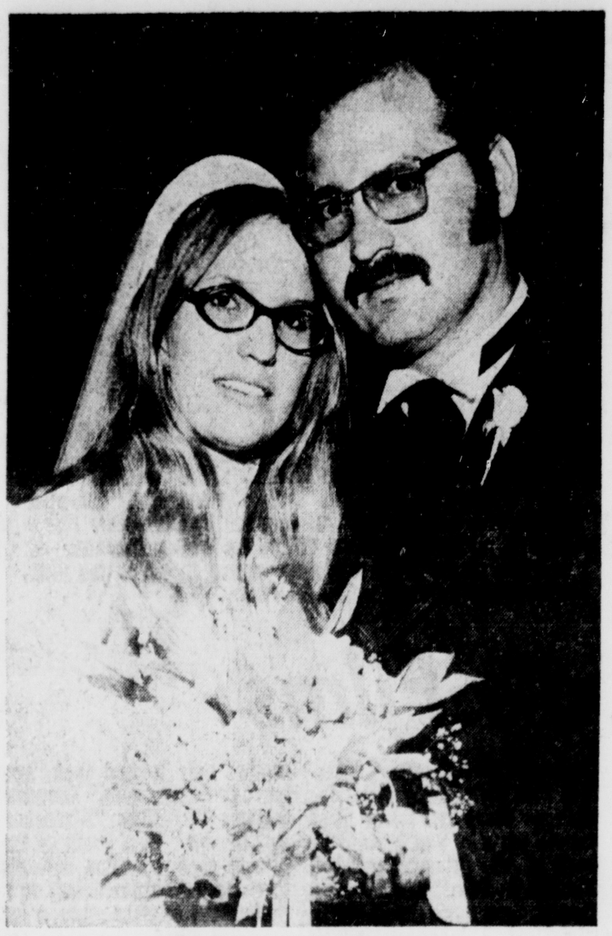
What can we do? — J.K.C.

DEAR J.:

You can sometimes open a lovestruck offspring's eyes by playing blind yourselves.

Don't see the girl's faults. Take her side on every foolish command. Be sympathetic and understanding about her dislike of adults, her demands for attention and possessions. Slip in a few "After you're married . . . " comments.

In other words, throw them together until he's ready to throw her out. It's a calculated risk, but remember: level-headed guys seldom stay off balance long — if they get a little "help" from their parents — H.



MR. AND MRS. FRANK R. STEPHENS
Will live in Santa Paula.

Frank R. Stephens Marries Miss Ennis

Karen Jean Ennis became the bride of Frank R. Stephens at an 8 p.m. ceremony Aug. 11 at the First Baptist Church in San Rafael.

Sheryl Ennis of San Rafael was maid of honor for her sister. The bridesmaids were Janice Harrop of Mill Valley, Kathy Moore of San Rafael and Laura Flynn of Corte Madera.

Gregory Hetland of Sacramento was the best man. The ushers were George Ennis of San Rafael, the bride's brother; Dean Stephens of Huntington Beach, the bridegroom's brother; Gerald Lanford of San Rafael, Rodger Miller of San Rafael and David Wallace of Novato.

Karen is a graduate of Redwood High School and will continue her education at Ventura College in Ventura. She has been employed at Land Investors Research in Larkspur.

The bridegroom was graduated from Santa Ana High School in Santa Ana, and attended Santiago College in Santa Ana. He is employed by the Santa Paula Daily Chronicle.

The newlyweds will live in Santa Paula.

Lawrence Carpenter Is Wed To Susan E. Quale

Susan Elaine Quale of Petaluma became the bride of Lawrence Carpenter of San Rafael at noon Saturday in a ceremony at Maple Lawn in San Rafael.

The bride's sister, Mrs. Edward Moore of Petaluma, was matron of honor, and Norman Ortman of San Rafael was the best man.

A reception followed at Maple Lawn. When the couple return from a wedding trip along the Northern California coast, they will live in San Rafael.

Susan is the daughter of Raymond Quale of Arnold, formerly of Greenbrae.

She is a graduate of Tamalpais High School and the University of California at Riverside. She also attended College of Marin and the University of San Francisco. She is now a private tutor.

Lawrence is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Parlan Carpenter of Mill Valley. He also was graduated from Tamalpais High School and received a degree from California State College, Sonoma. Lawrence is employed with Sylvania in San Francisco.

He is the brother of Donna Loper of Novato and the grandson of Mrs. Elma Wilson of Mill Valley.

Jeanne Shephard Davis Married To Bruce Imai

Jeanne Shephard Davis of San Anselmo became the bride of Bruce Imai of San Carlos on Saturday afternoon at the First Presbyterian Church in San Anselmo.

Mrs. Bradley M. Busch of Mill Valley was matron of honor for her sister, and another sister, Mrs. Terry Tadlock of Cupertino, was the bridesmaid.

After the nuptials a reception was held at the Meadow Club.

The newlyweds will live in Davis when they return from a Lake Tahoe wedding trip.

Jeanne, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William R. Davis of San Anselmo, is a graduate of Sir Francis Drake High School and the University of California at Davis. She has been employed with the Yolo County shelter workshop in Woodland.

She is the granddaughter of Judge and Mrs. Fredrick Crisp of San Anselmo.

Bruce is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Yuki Imai of San Carlos. He was graduated from Burlingame High School and Willamette University and the University of California at Davis Law School.

I-J OFFERS FORMS FOR ENGAGEMENTS & WEDDING STORY INFORMATION

Forms for engagement and wedding story information to be printed in the Independent-Journal are available from the I-J offices in San Rafael, Mill Valley, Novato and Petaluma.

Wedding forms should be returned promptly to the I-J office in your area and information will be printed after the wedding. No wedding story or photograph will be printed if received later than seven days after the wedding. Photographers should be urged to submit a print of the wedding picture promptly. Color photos cannot be used.

An engagement form may be accompanied by a professional black and white photograph, which may be picked up at the I-J office after its publication. Snapshots, polaroid or color photos are not suitable. Engagement announcements are not printed unless received at least 30 days prior to wedding date.

ON BEING BLACK

Nostalgia—Still We Remember

By SANDRA HAGGERTY

Nostalgia for the past continues to plague us, even though we know that times continue to change. Whether it be yesterday morning or 100 years ago, the past is a curious container. We laugh at many of the contradictions and wince at some of the sad realities. Still, we remember:

When the most unlucky kid was the one who got the black gum ball out of the penny machine.

When Daddy was called Poppa.

When you had to designate your race on a job application form and/or the interviewer marked your application with a dot or special code. And if you forgot a detail on your application form and rushed back to the office to make the adjustment, you found your application had been filed —accidentally, of course — in the wastebasket.

When bologna was a new and exquisite food for gourmets.

When skin-bleaching cream was the biggest cosmetic seller in black communities. (It still is in South Africa.)

When all blacks were Democrats.

When, if a man disliked cooking, the trait was called "masculine," and if a woman disliked cooking, the trait was called "lazy."

When a trip to Africa was more than we could fathom.

When smocks were worn only by pregnant women.

When soul was that part of your being that went to heaven upon your demise.

When you stared straight ahead as your first-grade teacher read "Little Black Sambo" and "Ten Little Niggers" aloud in class.

When being "different" was a liability instead of an asset.

When your pets ate food scraps off the table.

When girls went to college to get a husband instead of an education.

When "crazy" people were kept behind locked doors.

When plaited hair, especially very short hair, was a source of shame. Today you see black male athletes running around the Olympic track with naturals — plaited!

When women wore aprons.

When cooked coon was a main meat dish.

When the South was the place to be "from."

When traditions were respected and valued.

When parental respect was demonstrated — even if not merited.

When a "smart nigger" was a number-one lynch candidate. Today the Madison Avenue "head hunters" are in desperate search of "smart niggers" to complete their integration goals as fat government contracts and the like enter into the ball game.

When the value of black Southern colleges was obscured because they were black.

When being polite was considered a strength rather than a weakness.

When black journalism referred only to the white press.

When all the foreign students you met on campus told you they were the sons of kings and chiefs. And many an American girl married such a royal Romeo only to find that home was far removed from Buckingham Palace.

When being married was the only respectable life for a woman.

When being an athlete was equated with being dumb.

When your grandfather lived with you and told stories over and over about the olden days and there was no thought of "dumping" him in an old folks' home.

When the black plague referred to a disease, not busing and the integration of white neighborhoods.

When a bald head was a sign of waning masculinity, not a symbol of sexy masculinity, to wit, Isaac Hayes.

When houses had porches.

Remember?

Beauty Care Is Done In Kitchen

For housewives too busy for daily beauty care, Alice Woynicki, fashion and beauty consultant, says, "Simply take your beauty preparations right along with you to the kitchen where you spend so much of your working day. If a jar of cold cream is at hand the housewife is more likely to use it as dinner is cooking.

Eva Baumgardner To Head Session

Eva Baumgardner, who formerly operated a nursery school in Sacramento, has been named director of the prekindergarten session at the Novato Parents Nursery School, starting next month at the Novato United Methodist Church.

The sessions, for four and five year olds, will be held Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays from 1 to 3:30 p.m. School information can be obtained from Mona Stryker, 1225 Cambridge Street, Novato.

THE ALUMNAE

"I hope you won't feel out of place as an artist and poet among all these advertising executives, corporation lawyers and PR men."

Safety Margin

Lumber used for floor joists, roof rafters and wall studa snd plates must be of sizes and grades required by building codes. Strength and siffness of lumber is known from hundreds of laboratory tests — ansd a wide margin over these is specified for added safety.

Women, Men And Pornography

A psychoanalyst believes that women's "greater maturity" and lesser concern with sexual adequacy makes them less interested in pornography than men.

Dr. Theodore Isaac Rubin also asserted that the "vast majority" of men interested in pornography are "generally 'normal'," that pornography does not produce perverts or sex criminals, and that it poses no terrible dangers to society.

Writing for Ladies' Home Journal magazine, the psychoanalyst said, "It is the childish part of man that is interested in pornography," primarily because of "enormous curiosity about what other people are doing."

Rubin said, "I find that our culture somehow gives women greater maturity. Women generally ... grow up, leaving most of the 'little girl' in the past. Men grow up and bring most of the 'little boy' with them into adulthood."

A-Frame Sites

A-frame vacation homes are more suitable in hilly terrain or on steep hillsides among tall trees, states a nationally known architect. On flat lakeside sites, more horizontal structures seem better.

CHANGING FACE OF TARGET

Mill Valley Workers Get An Agency Shop

The Mill Valley City Council reluctantly adoped a memorandum of understanding between the city and its nonsafety employees, including a controversial provision establishing an "agency shop" for municipal workers.

The agency shop requires employees either to join the union or pay a service charge equal to its regular dues of $4 per month.

The agreement was accepted by a 3-0 vote, with councilmen Edward J. Boessenecker and Gerald J. Hood abstaining because they had not attended the council's two final sessions with the city's bargaining representative.

The Independent-Journal learned today that all five councilmen were disappointed with the establishment of the agency shop.

According to Mayor Jean S. Barnard, the council agreed to establish the agency shop in return for the union's agreement to cut its salary and fringe benefits demand by about $18,000 and accept a two-year contract.

"We all found the agency shop unpalatable," Mrs. Barnard said. "But it was the best package we could get."

Agency shops are still uncommon in agreements between municipalities and their employees, according to Councilman Robert E. Capron, a San Francisco attorney. The legality of the agency shop recently established in Hayward is presently being challenged in the courts, he said.

"I have serious reservations about the legality of an agency shop," Capron said. While he does not anticipate a legal challenge to the agency shop in Mill Valley, Capron expects the results of the Hayward case to serve as a precedent for the entire state.

"An agency shop limits the freedom of employees in that it compels an employee to pay the union what, in effect, amounts to union dues. This gives him another reason to feel he should join the union," Capron said.

Mrs. Barnard said she already has received a letter from four nonunion employees who have asked the city to pay their service charges. The charges for the four employees would be about $200 a year.

The agreement declares that the city's nonsafety employees will be granted pay increases of 5 per cent, effective July 1, 1972, and an additional increase of 2.5 per cent, effective Jan. 1, 1974. The employees' two-year contract expires June 30, 1974.

According to City Mgr. William H. Cunningham, those salary increases will add about $30,000 to the 1972-1973 budget.

The city council last night also added $9,770 for an additional fireman and $3,200 for new fireproof clothing to the city's 1972-1973 budget of approximately $2,925,000.

The council found part of the new expenditures by cutting $10,000 from the city's account to purchase a new fire truck.

The net additions to the spending program amounted to about $3,000 and would raise the tax rate less than one cent per $100 assessed valuation.

The council adjounred to a 7:30 p.m. closed meeting Monday, prior to its regular meeting, to confer with its representatives in contract talks with city police employees. The police employees are the only ones who have not yet reached agreement with the city.

The council also scheduled budget sessions at 8 p.m. Tuesday and Wednesday to review the accounts of governmental buildings, library, police, streets, sewers and debt service.

Astrology Class Is Slated In Petaluma

A beginning class in astrology will be offered starting Sept. 6 by the Petaluma Adult Education Department.

Franklin Pershina, a member of the American Federation of Astrologers, will instruct the class, which will meet on Wednesdays at 7 p.m. at Petaluma Senior High School.

The class will include understanding the horoscope, zodiacal signs, planets natal chart interpretation, analyzing planetary aspects and the historical basis of astrology.

Registration for the two-semester course may be made by calling the Adult Education Department at the Petaluma Schools Administration building.

New Service Is Scheduled Through Bank

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Beginning next month, Californains will be able to work, get paid, settle bills and spend what is left without ever seeing or touching so much as a dime.

The new service is scheduled to begin at banks in the Los Angeles and San Francisco areas Oct. 16, allowing customers to have payroll checks automatically deposited and bills automatically paid. the balance would be routed into checking or savings accounts.

In announcing the program, Gene Thurman, vice president of City National Bank, Beverly Hills, and vice president of the new California Automated Clearing House Assn., which will handle the interbank transactions, told a news conference the automatic payment and deposit services "will be completely voluntary."

He said the banks "will have no real indication of how many companies will sign up for the payroll deposit plan until Oct. 1," the first day banks and corporations can begin signing agreements.

However, many firms including some aerospace employers have already expressed interest in the new service, he said.

The system would operate with the employer sending notification of a worker's salary to the individual bank, where the information would be forwarded to the clearing house.

The salary would then be transferred from the employer's account to the worker's account.

Bills would work the same way. The clearing house would transfer funds from the worker's account to the creditor's account and notify them of the amount 10 days in advance.

"If there is a difference of opinion over the size of the deduction," Thurman said, "the individual would have plenty of time to tell his bank to stop payment."

Thurman said banks would save money as a result of the new system but it was impossible to say how much. He was reluctant to discuss the cost to the customer. "Different banks will have different charges," he said.

Later, a spokesman for the Bank of America said charges at his firm "will not be higher" than the cost of current checking account.

Church Group School Lease Urged

The Marin City Community Services District board agreed last night to recommend that the Sausalito School District lease the vacant Manzanita School to Bethesda Mission, a community church organization.

District secretary Lillian Lee said the board acted on a request from the mission that it be the community group which leases the school, which has been empty since last September.

Earlier this month, a committee of the Sausalito School District board said it will recommend the facility be turned over to Marin City organizations for their use.

At that time the committee said the entire school board would have to decide on the disposition of the school and what group will have charge of Manzanita.

Use of the school will be considered by the school board at 7:30 p.m. Monday in the district office.

In other business, the services district board voted to reduce its year-round supervised play program at St. Andrew's United Presbyterian Church to a summer operation and move the program to Manzanita Center.

Mrs. Lee said the board thought the program was too costly for the number of children now participating. She said the program cost the district $9,336 last year and a recent survey showed fewer than 20 children per day using the service.

The board also agreed to accept applications, beginning Monday, for the board seat vacated by the recent death of C. J. Williams.

Decision On Shaheen Postponed

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The Board of Education has postponed for one week a decision on whether to replace San Francisco schools Supt. Thomas A. Shaheen.

The board's decision to grant a delay requested by Shaheen's attorney, Frederick Furth, came late yesterday after two days of negotiations over Shaheen's contract.

An overflow crowd of more than 300 persons, some of them shouting "we want Shaheen," attended the lengthy meeting.

Most of the board members are publicly pledged to dump Shaheen, a supporter of integration throughout the school system.

Dr. Carlton Goodlett, representing the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, issued a statement blaming Mayor Joseph Alioto and other local officials for using "every conceivable maneuver to thwart the order of the federal courts which directs school board action to remove racism and inequality in public education."

Meeting Postponed

The regular meeting of the Marin Municipal Water District board, scheduled for Wednesday at 1:30 p.m. in the district office in Corte Madera, will be postponed until Aug. 30 at the same time and place. The postponement is due to the fact several directors will be out of town next week.

Gallinas Community District Fails To Resolve A Dispute

The Gallinas Village Community Services District board last night failed to resolve a dispute over fill involving a county order which prohibits dumping on Gallinas Village Yacht Club grounds.

The county department of public works last week issued an order banning the dumping of fill on yacht club grounds adjacent to John McPhail School, according to Marguerite F. Clark, board secretary.

She said that the yacht club had allowed a local contractor to dump fill on club grounds without district approval. The club — which rents the property from the district for $1 per year — wants to raise the lot level of the parcel, she said.

"They (the club) don't seem to think they're responsible to us for anything," Mrs. Clark said, adding that the matter was the result of a "lack of communication".

According to Mrs. Clark, Robert Sherman, the commodore of the yacht club said last night that the club was working within the law in filling the 100 by 150-square-foot parcel.

She said that the board continued discussion of the fill matter to the district's Sept. 7 meeting.

The board hired Carolyn Jauch, summer recreation director, to administer the district's 10-week fall recreational program at $4 an hour and authorized $100 to retain two rented mini-buses for another week. The buses are needed for a district sponsored backpacking trip in the sierras on Aug. 26, she said.

Campus Gets Funds For Police Patrol

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —Gov. Ronald Reagan signed a bill Thursday appropriating $76,500 for the University of California to provide a police foot patrol in the community of Isla Vista near the Santa Barbara campus.

Officers Elected By Marin Group

Juanita Cobb has been elected chairman of the new Marin City Project Area Committee, formed to advise the Marin County Redevelopment Agency in planning for redevelopment of the community.

Other new officers chosen this week are: Ollie Griffin, vice chairman; Daniel Hayden, secretary, and Rev. E. D. Perkins, treasurer.

Mrs. Cobb said the 11-member group agreed to add four persons. The new members, who must live within the redevelopment project, will be selected at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at a place to be announced.

The current committee members and the organizations they represent are: Marin City Community Services District, Arthur Miller and Griffin; Marin City Homeowners and Improvement Association, Mack Page, Leonard Turner and Mrs. Cobb; Marin City Council, Frank Phillips Sr., Melvin Atkins, Jackie Harris and Terrie Harris; Ministers' Alliance, Rev. Perkins; and commercial area, Hayden.

'ANNE FRANK' OPENS TONIGHT

College of Marin freshman Lisa Britt, playing Anne Frank, is teased by Sir Francis Drake High School senior Gregg Olsson, who plays Peter Van Dann in a scene from "The Diary of Anne Frank" which opens at 8 p.m. today in San Rafael High School's Little Theater. The Playmaker's Theater, a summerstock group composed of students throughout Marin, has also scheduled performances of the play for tomorrow night and Aug. 26 and 27. The group has been given a $100 production fund by the San Rafael Parks and Recreation Department, according to Stacy Scott, director.

MOTION PICTURE GUIDE

MOTION PICTURE GUIDE

The Marin Motion Picture and Television Council provides these ratings of movies now being shown in Marin County. The council's findings are from California and National Parent-Teacher Assn. magazines and Parents' Magazine unless otherwise noted. More complete reviews may be obtained by calling the San Rafael City Library.

FAMILY

"Now You See Him, Now You Don't" — Life on a gay college campus where an inept student produces a concoction which will make people invisible. This creates many complications for both the hero and the villian.

"Pufnstuf" — A colorful, imaginative adventure based on television show by the same name. A magic flute leads a boy to a fantasy land of life-sized puppets where everything talks and there are witches and a dragon. Classic entertainment.

"What's Up Doc?" — Set in San Francisco, treated with a sophisticated touch, this fast moving slapstick nutty comedy revolves around a mixup with four identical suitcases.

ADULTS AND TEENS

"Blacula" — In 1780 an African prince asks Count Dracula to help in ending the slave trade. The count curses the prince to a life of vampirism. In 1972 the prince is unwittingly turned lose to fulfill the curse.

"The Candidate" — A taut drama about an idealistic young lawyer running for the office of senator. The acting, direction and photography combine to give film realistic texture and adds impact to the vital theme of political disillusionment.

"The Frogs" — A terrifying science-fiction thriller in which the animal kingdom takes revenge on man for polluting the environment. Fine photography creates a chilling realism and the animals seem both intelligent and dedicated as they stalk their prey to a bloody kill. Cursing.

"Kansas City Bomber" — A slick noisy record of the violent punching brawl known as the "roller derby". A divorcee torn between her duty as a mother and her ambiion to gain money and fame is forced by a harrowing set of circumstances to make a critical decision. (Motion Picture Daily)

"Kelly's Heroes" — A preposterous World War II satirical comedy about a group of American soldiers who sneak behind enemy lines in order to rob a bank of millions in gold bullion. Plenty of action and violence.

"Love Story" — Two young college students marry causing a rift between the young man and his father. When they decide to have a child they discover the wife has a fatal illness. Some sex and strong language.

BORDERLINE

(Most sources say Adults Only)

"Cabaret" — Set in Berlin in 1930 a zestful young American girl singer at a cabaret proclaims herself the symbol of "divine decadence". Her love affairs lead to a pregnancy where paternity is unsure. Well made film but sophisticated and bawdy with foul language and sex.

"The Carey Treatment" — A hip pathologist turns detective when a colleague is wrongly accused in the death of a young girl. This thought provoking film has sex, drugs, abortion, racy dialogue plus an indestructable hero who has style and money.

"Frenzy" — Hitchcock brings us a necktie murderer who is a sexual psychopath and on the loose in London. Very suspenseful with nudity and cursing.

"The Hospital" — A series of episodes scathingly and sometimes humorously presented point up the incompetence, emotional hangups and self-seeking drives of the medical staff. Nudity, sex and foul language.

"Play It Again, Sam" — In this sex comedy, Woody Allen is a dedicated movie buff and as a writer lives in a fantasy world where he gets advice from his favorite actor, Humphrey Bogart, on how to solve his sex problems.

"Summer of '42" — Three adolescent boys spending the summer with their families on an island are enlightened about sex by reading a medical book. They then proceed to apply the knowledge they have acquired.

ADULTS ONLY

"The Godfather" — Gripping epic ganster film filled with excessive violence. The head of Mafia leads two lives as a kindly head of a family and then as leader of a mob whose business is killing.

"The Graduate" — A young college graduate returns to his wealthy parents home unsure of what he wants to do with his future. He becomes involved with a married woman and also with her daughter. Nudity and sex.

"Klute" — A police officer and a call girl follow a clue given in an obscene letter which eventually leads them to a psychopathic killer. It is a sordidly explicit film which does not spare its audience.

"Play Misty For Me" — A terrifying suspense thriller about a radio disc jockey and an insane fan who pursues him. Many bloody deaths and some sex scenes.

"Shaft's Big Score" — The black James Bond is back, this movie is glossier and gorier than its predecessor. Gangsters trying to muscle in on a crime operation, assassinations, sexy chicks, bachelor pad, etc ... nudity, cursing.

"Sunday Bloody Sunday" — A divoreee and a doctor are both deeply and obsessively in love with an attractive young man. He divides his time between their beds, refusing to commit himself totally. Sex scenes and nudity.

Special Meeting

The Tiburon Fire Protection District board will hold a special meeting at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday to discuss the fire department's retirement program.

Tryouts For Play Slated

The Novato Community Players will hold tryouts Sunday and Wednesday for its November production, "Move Over, Dummy," an original musical written by a member, Elaine Bernardi.

Parts are open for more than 20 persons including singers, dancers, specialty performers and actors, according to Paul Terry, publicity chairman.

Theme of the show is activities of "both live and inanimate people" in a large department store after it is closed for the day, Terry said. Performances will be Nov. 3, 4, 10 and 11.

Tryouts will be at the Novato Community House at 1 p.m. Sunday and 8 p.m. Wednesday. Persons seeking roles must be at least 21 years of age and singers should bring a song of their choice for the auditions.

Mrs. Bernardi will direct. Co-producers are Linda Waller and Verta Hartsock.

DRAMA REVIEW

Mill Valley Players Win One, Lose One

By KAY KSANDA

It was a very good wind that wafted a new group of professional actors and technicians into Mill Valley.

So far they don't have a name or a permanent location but currently they are unobtrusively producing three plays at the Mill Valley Center for the Performing Arts. This group is really WOW!

Set designer is Bill Sherman, head of the Sonoma State College Drama Department and directors are associated with either a college or university.

The casts are local professionals and even a "walk-on" part is done with easy finesse. This is talent and know-how.

Last night the shows were two one-act plays, "The Respectful Prostitute" by Jean Paul Sartre, and "Out at Sea" by Mrozek. The first was a smash and the second was grisly. Both were done in the round with a coffee break between plays for set change.

In the first the brass bed was not the real focus of action. Lizzie, played by Pat Sherman, had just arrived in a southern town, and had witnessed the murder of a Negro next to her on the train.

The town power descends on her to falsify her testimony and say that she was raped by the second black man. The plot, the action, the dialogue and the pace are all absolutely marvelous. The acting is elegant, with even the town cops terrifying in their salacious seediness.

"Out At Sea" had a weird beginning and kept on getting uglier.

Three undefined hungry people had been cast away at9sea and two of them decided to eat the third, a rather nice young lady with bouncy curls.

When you see the old lifeboat scene, one expects some fundamental wisdom, perhaps a few bitter or sentimental words before sinking into the briney. But not here. It wasn't even funny, it was depraved.

Technical bits like lights, music, sounds and media flashbacks were all very good but could not lighten the second part of the two act play.

However, if you want a good slice of life, don't miss "The Respectful Prostitute." It runs every other night through Sept. 2. at 8 p.m.

Bangladesh Aid Is Waterproof

LONG BEACH, Calif. (UPI) —A relief agency has developed a method of dropping rice to flooded villages in Bangladesh.

The rice will be dropped into the villages in waterproof bags, a spokesman for the Foundation for Airborne Relief said Thursday. The foundation will drop rice into hundreds of villages during the coming monsoon season, he said.

"There have been few crops because of the war, and starvation will threaten manylives at the peak of the flood season," he said. "The greater part of the nation's 75 million people live in rural villages surrounded by farm fields."

HEALTH CENTER — Construction of a student health services building will begin this year at Sonoma State College. The redwood and stucco exterior will be an architectural change for the campus where other buildings are concrete. The $1.4 million project will be funded by student fees rather than by state funds and should be open to students in late 1973.

IN NEW STYLE

Projects Set On Campus

By BONNIE BARD

The 1972-73 school year will bring several construction projects to Sonoma State College including a health center and new classroom building.

The college will award construction contracts this fall for a $1.4 million student health services center and to complete plans early next year for a $2.2 million classroom building.

In addition to the new projects, workmen are nearing completion on the $3.5 million student residence halls.

The health services building is scheduled for completion in late 1973 and will represent a new architectural style on the campus. Rather than the predominant massive concrete structures, the health center will be a one-story frame building with a redwood and stucco exterior.

The 20,000 square foot center is being designed by Albert Hoover and Associates of Palo Alto. Like the residence halls, the building will be financed by student fees rather than state funds.

Plans for the 51,000 square foot classroom building should be complete next February. The building will house the three cluster colleges, the school's new nursing program, faculty offices and general classroom space. It is expected to accommodate 1,200 students and to be completed in the spring of 1975.

Also in the new architectural style of redwood with stucco, it will be a three-story building connected to a one-story building.

Other major campus projects underway include working drawings for a four-story addition to the library which will also house administrative offices. It will be the largest construction project in the college's 12-year history and will cost $6.7 million. The 147,000 square foot addition es expected to be completed by the fall of 1975.

Another student-funded project under way is a $2.5 million student union. It will have 44,000 square feet housing student oriented activities such as recreation rooms, meeting rooms, lounge areas, a snack bar and additional bookstore space.

An architect will be named for the student union early next fall and completion is expected in the spring of 1975.

Plans are also set to add 200 more units to the nearly complete student residence halls by 1974 at a cost of $1.5 million. The project would include units for couples and would also be financed by students.

Capital improvement projects which are planned for completion by 1980 but have not yet been funded include an art building, computer center, natural science building, theatre arts complex, aquatic facility, allied health building, cluster school complex and another classroom-office building.

Grant Boosts Senior Citizen Kitchen Work

A $3,000 grant has put construction of a central kitchen facility for the Whistlestop Depot in San Rafael six months ahead of schedule.

Earlier construction — which will begin in about three weeks — has been sparked by a grant from the Catholic Charities of the Archdiocese of San Francisco, according to Edward T. Ryken, executive director of the Marin Senior Coordinating Council.

The grant is part of $18,000 distributed in the Bay Area in connection with the Catholic Campaign for Human Development, the Church's antipoverty education program.

The donation brings to $14,000 the Whistlestop's kitchen building fund. The San Francisco Foundation previously donated $10,000 and $1,000 has been collected from individual contributors, Ryken said.

"The kitchen has been a dream for five years and it looks like construction is finally just around the corner," he said.

He said that the kitchen would be used to prepare low cost meals for senior citizens who drop by the Whistlestop at 930 Tamalpais Avenue.

Senate Backs Switching U.S. To Metric System

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Senate today passed historic legislation that would convert the U.S. system of measurements to the metric system over the next 10 years.

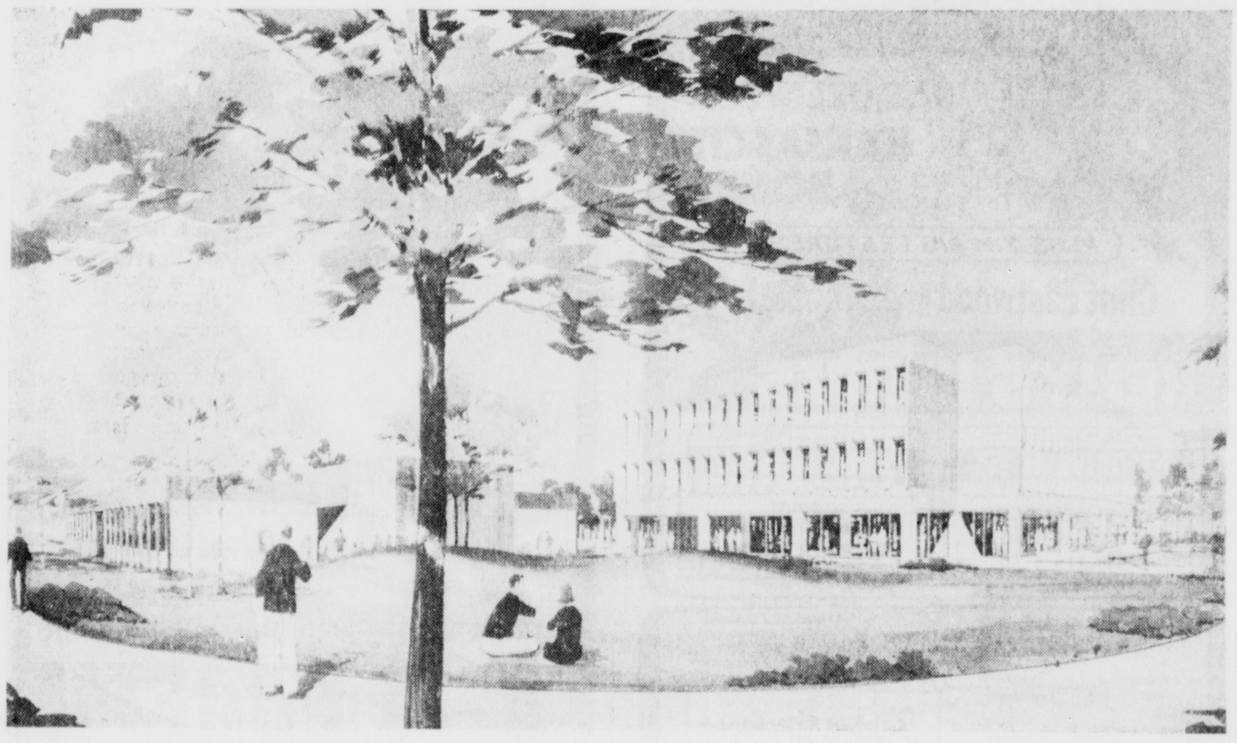
Passed by voice vote without opposition or debate, the bill would convert the federal government to the metric system and begin a voluntary conversion within industry, extending the change over a decade to ease the expense.

The system would replace inches, pounds and quarts with meters, kilograms and liters. A meter is equivalent to about 39 inches, a kilogram to 2.2 pounds and a liter to 1.01 quarts.

The reform was recommended in 1971 after the Commerce Department conducted a three-year, $4 million study called "A Metric America —A Decision Whose Time Has Come".

The bill, which now goes to the House, would establish an 11-member board representing business, education, labor, consumers, science and technology to encourage industry to convert. No compulsion would be involved.

The Senate Commerce Committee, which cleared the bill sponsored by Sen. Claiborne Pell, D-R.I., said 11 per cent of the nation's economy was already on the metric system.



NEW CLASSROOMS — A complex of classrooms and faculty offices will be under construction at Sonoma State College during the 1972-73 school year. Part of the complex will be a one-story building with redwood and stucco exterior while the main structure will be three-stories of reinforced concrete like other buildings on the campus. The center will house 1,200 students and should be open for classes in the spring of 1975 at an estimated cost of $2.2 million.

Sausalito Council To Set New Tax Rate

The Sausalito City Council will set the city's 1972-73 tax rate at an adjourned meeting at 8 p.m. Tuesday in city hall.

The council will also meet in closed session to instruct its negotiator, City Mgr. Albert St. Cyr, in salary negotiations with city employees.

Coming this Saturday in Marin Magazine

Coming up Aug. 27 is the colorful annual automobile show at Mill Valley's Strawberry Town and Country Village. And in the forefront of the preparations are the members of the Redwood Region, Porsche Club of America, one of the co-sponsoring organizations. But the car show is only one of the many activities of this club. Tomorrow's I-J Marin Magazine tells you about those programs, and also why Marin's Porsche owners take such special pride in their automobiles. It's a fascinating story for all car buffs.

So you want to go back to college? Hamilton Air Force Base isn't, ordinarily, the first place you would think of, if you were bent on earning a degree in higher education. But operating behind the gates of the Northern Marin air base is a varied educational program offering a diversity of courses and degrees. And it is open to civilian enrollments as well as military personnel. If it sounds like just the place for you to complete a college education begun years ago, read tomorrow's I-J supplement for details.

Marin Dining And Wining

DINING OUT AND INNS

By HARRY CRAFT

Holiday Inn Offers A Pleasing Place To Dine, Relax to Music

With the exception of the chain variety, no two restaurants are alike.

Their food may be. But not the restaurants themselves. Food servings follow a recipe pattern established and prepared somewhat uniformly over many years, embellished with the personal touches of the chef.

But you can't say of restaurants, "When you've seen one you've seen them all." The designer, builder, owner and operator each have had their influence on the final product, making it unlike anytning else.

And that's a good thing. It gives spice and variety to eating out, even though you may stick unimaginatively to ordering a steak wherever you go. It explains why people will throng to a new restaurant or change their dining out itinerary each week.

For example in Marin, you'll find that the Holiday Inn, located in Terra Linda, has no exact counterpart anywhere else in the county. Its cocktail lounge is different from others. So, too, is its dining room, which is quite spaciuos, a bit on the formal side and so carefully laid out that there doesn't seem to be a preferred table in the room.

If the staff seems unhurried, it's a mark of good training. Actually maitre d' Manfred Wolf and the waiters cover the ground as quickly as anyone without stirring up the dust.

Even in the kitchen, which may be the one place in the house hard to distinguish from other dineries of its size, chef Mark Lesley has a tendency to keep his calm — even when there's a banquet of 275 to serve, alocg with a full dining room. For one so young he is exceptionally well regulated under pressure. Or is it that this is one of the attributes of youth? I've forgotten.

London born and trained, Mark admits he didn't come from a family especially noted as food connoisseurs. So he left his home and board at an early age to remedy this situation and improve the Leslie culinary talents. Serving the necessary apprenticeship period that goes with success in this field, he made food preparation his life work, which he takes very seriously and spends long hours at it.

The Holiday Inn is well balanced, calculated to appeal to the visitors who take advantage of its hotel facilities, groups and the general public. If you want a suggestion, I'd say you shouldn't go wrong on ordering Mark's Veal Oscar. Or you might try one of his complete dinner specials for $5.50 on Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights.

The Holiday Inn was indeed a very timely addition to the Marin dining out picture when it opened three years ago. And it's well worth including in your schedule of places to go for a nice dinner and evening of music (the latter furnished by Steve Corley and his talent).

Incidentally I am pleased to see former Marin restaurant owner Frits Verburg in the dining room (he had L-Europe in San Rafael and still lives in the county). Recently he has been commuting from Marin to the Jack London Square in Oakland.

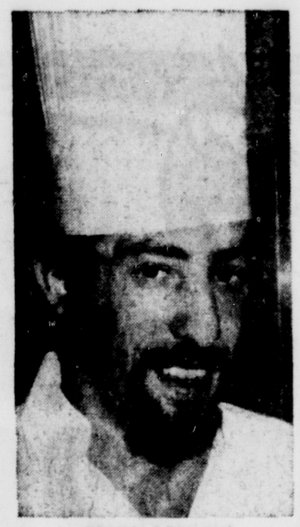
THERE'S A NEW MENU at the little downtown San Rafael Romulus Italian restaurant on Fourth Street, which celebrated its fourth anniversary last Tuesday.

On the seafood side, the Iachinos have added a combination plate, along with sauted or fried calamari and fried scallops. Another addition is veal piccata which has become very popular with its lemon flavor.



MARK LESLEY
Holiday Inn chef

But a new pizza oven has now been installed in the kitchen and a full dozen types of pizzas in small, medium and large sizes are being served nightly from 6 p.m. -- both for dinners and to take out.

Mondays through Thursdays Romulus features a number of $3.45 to $4.35 complete dinner specials which include veal scallopini and parmigiana, roast beef, cannelloni, lasagna and roast chicken. On Friday and Saturday night, complete dinner specials ($3.45-$4.95) include prime rib, veal scallopini, lasagna, roast chicken and broiled salmon.

IF IT APPEARS that many Marin restaurant owners are away from their accustomed posts during the next few days, they've probably gone to the Western National Restaurant Convention and Educational Exposition at the Civic Auditorium in San Francisco.

This big affair will be holding its trade show which features all kinds of new equipment — a tempting array of modern gadgets guaranteed to smooth out the rough spots in any commercial kitchen.

And it's quite likely more than one Marin restaurateur will come back with something bright and shiny which either should do its job faster or better than its predecessor.

ACCORDING TO RAMONA STALLINGS, at her downtown C Street restaurant in San Rafael, Mexican food is good hot weather fare.

And some of Ramona's aficianados will tell you the same thing. You don't necessarily have to douse your food with those hot sauces at Ramona's, but if you do, you'll probably find the climate a lot cooler outside when you leave the table.

And I've discovered one thing about hot sauces — the first mouthful is the hottest. After that they become progressively cooler, or at least more acceptable.

PORT WINE with dinner?

I know several people who like it that way, including my brother-in-law, though strictly speaking, port wine is a dessert wine, usually full bodied, tawny or ruby red, with about 20 per cent alcohol. Traditionally it is served with cheese or nuts or fruit after dinner. And it can also be used as a topping for fresh strawberries or ice cream. Some folks like it with soda or other mixers in tall drinks, iced and refreshingly cool.

Believe it or not, port (or the popular wine of Oporto, Portugal) was once actually a table wine. But apparently it was rough and harsh and would not make the voyage from Portugal to England without spoiling. Then in the 18th century the Portuguese started adding brandy to their fermenting wines to give them sweetness and additional keeping power.

The English really went for it and still do to this day. But in the changeover they tacked it on the end of dinner.

A SPECIAL WEEKEND DINNER at the Rafters in Corte Madera is now prime rib at $5.25. And Mondays through Fridays there's a special $3 dinner, complete with relish plate, salad, entree with baked potatoes and vegetables, bread and butter and wine — Mondays through Fridays only.

2 County Agencies Plan Office Move

A proposal to move the offices of the County Housing Authority and the Redevelopment Agency from Marin City to the Northgae Industrial Park in San Rafael has been tentatively approved by the housing authority board.

Keith Kelly, authority deputy director, said the board Wednesday set a special meeting to consider final approval of the lease for 6 p.m. Aug. 29 in planning chambers at the Marin Civic Center.

The authority and agency are considering leasing approximately 5,000 square feet of space at 47 Paul Drive in the park, according to Kelly. He said the rental agreement would be for five years with a five-year option to renew.

Cost would be $700 per month, plus any additional property tax on the building resulting from improvements the agency and authority will make.

The two agencies decided to move from Marin City recently because their present offices are too small and they favored a more central location in the county.

The housing authority also agreed to discuss the problems involved in developing turnkey housing in Marin at the special meeting. Under the turnkey program, a develop builds a house or apartment, then leases it to the authority on a long-term basis.

The authority has received authorization for 150 additional leased housing units in the county, including 100 units of new construction which might come under the turnkey program, Kelly said.

Xenia, Ohio Mayor Gives Resignation

Henry, 61, became the first black ever elected to the city commission in 1952. He was reelected in 1957, 1961 and 1965. He was elected mayor by his fellow commissioners in 1969.

San Rafael air quality yesterday:

Oxidants, clean air.
Nitrogen dioxide, clean air.
Carbon monoxide, clean air.
Smoke particles, clean air.

Other areas:

San Francisco, light air pollution.

San Jose, light air pollution.

Colorless oxidants, brownish nitrogen dioxide and smoke particles aggravate respiratory diseases. Carbon monoxide causes dizziness, headaches and slows reflexes. Smoke particles come largely from industrial sources, while the other three come primarily from motor vehicles.

EXCESS FAT — Dr. David A. Schoenstadt measures excess flab around the stomach of Tiburon volunteer fireman Dan Barber. Barber and about 40 other Tiburon firemen are participating in Dr. Schoenstadt's study of motivation and physical fitness.

FAT PEOPLE SEXIER?

Doctor Works To Help Chubby People

By JAY GOODWIN

"Being fat has its advantages," declares Dr. David A. Schoenstadt generously. "After all, fat people float better, tolerate freezing temperatures and starvation better and, in some cultures, are even sexier."

But beyond those rather dubious blessings, obesity doesn't have much on its side and Dr. Schoenstadt knows it.

Eighteen months and 50 pounds ago, Dr. Schoenstadt was a chubby anesthesiologist at Children's Hospital in San Francisco. His only contact with obesity was his own flabby stomach.

Today, after suffering from a mild heart attack and shedding bout 50 pounds of unwanted blubber, Dr. Schoenstadt is emerging as one of the Bay Area's most indefatigable fat fighters.

A resident of Tiburon where he lives with his wife and daughers, aged 7 and 3, Dr. Schoenstadt has recently reached over his backyard fence to find a group of subjects willing to participate in his most recent experiment in motivation and physical fitness. After a bit of explaining, the Tiburon Volunteer Fire Department agreed to help Dr. Schoenstadt answer some perplexing questions.

Will a simple lecture on the vital importance of physical fitness be enough to motivate a group of men to stick with a rigorous exercise program for four months?

If the subjects are shown what terrible shape they are in before the experiment begins, will that help motivate them?

If the Tiburon firemen aren't motivated, what hope is there to motivate the man on the street, whose career probably requires less physical exertion?

Schoenstadt will check the fat levels and fitness of about 40 volunteer firemen and after a brief description of the fitness program he will leave the firemen unsupervised for about four months with a prescribed set of exercises.

Then he will return and recheck the fat levels and fitness of his subjects. He hopes to learn a great deal about the motivation of his subjects by the success of their exercise program and their dedication to a daily routine of rigorous exercises.

Captain Thomas Murphey, 27, of the fire department is delighted with the experiment. "I'm looking forward to it and I know the men in the department are looking forward to it also. I'm pretty sure we'll all stick with the exercise program."

Schoenstadt may be far away from the Tiburon firemen for four months, but he won't be far from obesity.

At 36, he is founder and director of an organization dedicated to weight loss and physical fitness called the Medical Weight Control Foundation. The foundation (which has already opened branch centers in San Mateo, Hayward and El Cerrito) — currently treats about 55 Marin County residents at its San Francisco headquarters.

Schoenstadt became fascinated with medical weight loss in a roundabout fashion. Shortly after his heart attack about 18 months ago, he brought home a stationary bicycle and pedaled each day to get himself back in shape.

After three months of workouts, he noticed that he enjoyed the once-strenuous exercise, was becoming physically fit and was even losing weight. Before long, he had dropped about 50 pounds off his 230 pound body.

"It was the heart attack that got me into physical fitness and physical fitness that made me realize I didn't have to be a fat guy all my life," he recalls.

In November of 1971, he gave up his private practice to devote full-time to weight control and fitness. With a longtime friend, Harvey Glasser, a psychiatrist who was also overweight, he founded the weight control foundation.

He has been prodding, cajoling and driving fat people into physical fitness ever since.

"We literally push people through the program until they get turned on by the feeling," he admits. "If you just stay in the program for 30-40 days, it becomes a lifestyle or habit and you really begin to like it.

"Aerobic exercises are any exercises that last long enough and are tough enough to put a strain on a person's heart and lungs," said Schoenstadt. Golf, tennis and 100-yard dashes are of no value, says the doctor, because they only call for sporadic, short-lived outbursts of energy.

"People who play tennis are not doing themselves any good," he said. "In fact, they may be doing themselves some harm by putting themselves through stress without first building a foundation of fitness."

The principles of aerobics (first laid out by Air Force Dr. Kenneth Cooper in his book "The New Aerobics,") stress the value of jogging, swimming, walking, handball, basketball and bicycling.

Schoenstadt puts Dr. Cooper's theories to work by requiring 15-30 minutes of aerobics exercises by every weight loser each day.

Schoenstadt even cites President Nixon as an aerobics buff.

"Nixon is the least athletic and most physically fit president in history. He runs 20 minutes a day in his bedroom," he says.

AEROBICS — Tiburon volunteer fireman Dan Barber monitors his own heartbeat as he jogs around the firestation. Barber is participating in an experiment by Dr. Schoenstadt to determine what can motivate a person to stick with a strenuous physical fitness program. (Independent-Journal photos)

Of the nine risk factors associated with coronary diseases, seven can be reduced through daily exercise, said Schoenstadt.

Exercise cannot alter a person's sex or genetic makeup, he conceded, but it does reduce high bloodfats, high blood pressure, obesity, sedentary living, occupational stress, age-onset diabetes and smoking. Any reduction in these latter seven risk factors, said Schoenstadt, reduces the likelihood of coronary diseases.

Dr. Schoenstadt talks of weight loss and physical fitness with messianic zeal. "Many peopel are willing to give up on those older people who are overweight or out of shape. Well, we're not ready to write off a whole generation of people."

Larkspur Decides To Use 'Usual' Planning Methods

An unusual method of undertaking planning in Larkspur, proposed Wednesday night by the city's mayor, was described yesterday as a case of "being carried away by enthusiasm" over a developer's interest in some choice property.

"The city is going to go about planning in the usual way, in public and with public hearings," City Mgr. Kent B. Bathurst told the Independent-Journal.

That "usual way," Bathurst said, will be:

First, the preparation of general plan recommendations for the 105-acre Hutchinson Quarry site on San Quentin peninsula by Arthur Stout, the city's community development director.

Then, submission of those suggested planning regulations to the city council at a public meeting for council discussion, approval, amendment, or rejection.

And finally, public hearings before adoption of any plan agreed upon.

What Mayor William G. Fleckles had proposed — after John J. Ford III, attorney for the property owners, asked for some fast decisions on what uses would be allowed —was this:

That the mayor, Councilman Neil R. Brixon, Stout and Bathurst work together on preparing guidelines on acceptable use.

Bathurst acknowledged that that would be a case of councilmen establishing public policy privately and without participation by all city councilmen. Bathurst said the councilmen and the mayor had subsequently realized such was the case and repudiated the notion.

Bathurst said it was simply a case of "being carried away by enthusiasm." He noted that the property has long been the subject of intense official and citizen interest and said evidence of movement toward development and of developers' interest was an inevitable generator of enthusiasm.

Attorney Ford, who has worked with the city on projects for about three years, according to Bathurst, told the council Wednesday that the owners, T. I. Properties, had been approached by people who want to build hotels, recreational areas, multiresidential housing and commercial businesses on the site. Guidelines as soon as possible were desired he said.

Assistant Is Appointed By Prosecutor

Marin County Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales today appointed Joshua Thomas as assistant district attorney to succeed Gary W. Thomas who recently was appointed to the Marin Municipal Court.

Thomas graduated from the University of California Hastings Law School in 1960 and served as deputy district attorney in San Diego County before coming to the Marin office in 1963.

He lives with his wife and four children in Novato.

Signs Go Up To Combat Vandalism

In an effort to halt vandalism in the median island along Sunset Parkway, Lynwood Park Maintenace District will post "no loitering" signs, according to vice president Gloria Burnett.

Youths have been swinging in trees, sprinkler heads have been broken, the fountain at the Lynwood Park entrance has been damaged and there has been extensive littering, she said.

Lynwood Park Improvement Association directors, who also serve as maintenance district directors, voted Wednesday night to post the signs and seek Novato Police Department cooperation to halt vandalism, Mrs. Burnett said.

Directors also renewed efforts to get the city to purchase the 12-acre Sutter Hill site for a park, as indicated in the Scottsdale-Crossroads general plan.

The Novato Parks and Recreation Commission recommended that purchase of the land be included in a November bond election, but the Novato City Council limited the bond proposal to a community swimming pool.

Mickey Rooney To Seek Kids Custody

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (UPI)—Mickey Rooney planned court action today to gain custody of four children by his sixth wife, Barbara, who died in 1966.

The children, three girls and a boy ranging in age from 9 to 12, are presently in the custody of their maternal grandmother, Mrs. Helen Thomason, said a lawyer for Rooney.

Air, Sea Hunt For Fishermen Caught In Gale

BROOKINGS, Ore. (UPI) — Coast Guard vessels crisscrossed the Pacific Thursday searching for boats caught in a freak wind storm that battered the Northern California-Southern Oregon shores.

At least three persons drowned when gusts of 75 mile per hour winds smashed fishing boats and pleasure craft against rocks, sinking three crafts.

Airplanes and cutters were used by the Coast Guard Thursday to search for four unaccounted for boats with seven persons aboard.

Salmon fishing boats were caught unexpectedly Wednesday by the gale winds. Wives of fishermen stood vigil along the shore to watch for boats in trouble.

Calmer winds prevailed Thursday, but the Coast Guard asked small crafts to stay ashore so they could search without confusion for survivors and missing boats.

Kappas Requests Piers Permit

George Kappas of 765 Bridgeway, Sausalito, has applied to the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers for a permit to construct piers for houseboat mooring and to fill about 1.6 acres of shoreline at Kappas Marina, Richardson Bay.

The project has been approved by the San Francisco Bay Conservation and Development Commission and the State Water Resources Control Board.

Objections should be submitted in triplicate to the Corps, 100 McAllister Street, San Francisco, 94102, by Sept. 12.

County Fair Judges Film Contestants

A 3.5-minute film on prison life entitled "Zombies in the House of Madness" made by Michael Anderson of San Francisco has won first prize in the film competition of the 1972 Marin County Fair.

Other winners are: Second prize, 25-minute documentary, "Robert Wall, Ex-FBI Agent" by Paul Jacobs of San Francisco; third prize, 15-minute film, "Beatrice Cenci", by Ronald Chase of San Francisco; fourth prize, a four-minute film, "A Fable for Fleas", by Alexander Weiss of Tiburon; fifth prize, 30-minute film, "What Flirting Cost Me," by Richard Schmidt of Oakland. A special award for using a "man and nature" theme went to "Vietnam" by Armand Ruhlman of San Francisco.

Store Is Shut After Robberies

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—At age 72, Edward Kervin has decided he's had it with thieves.

His jewelry shop, which he operated for 51 years, was robbed for the last time Thursday. Kervin simply locked the door and bowed out.

"They held me up Saturday. They held me up again this morning. I've had eight holdups and four smashes of the show window altogether," he said. "I just can't afford it any more. I'm closing up."

Bentley 1960
Automatic transmission, AM-FM radio, and options too numerous to mention here. Two tone green exterior contrasting with its soft green leather interior. This is not only transportation but an experience.
The condition of this automobile carefully hides it years. Priced at a fraction of its original cost. Even if you can't buy it, come down and look.
We think it's the prettiest car on the entire auto row, perhaps in California. 795 FHK.

Leadership honor

Two At Hamilton In Honors Volume

Capt. John T. Coveleskie and First Lt. Wayne D. Neet of the 4661st Air Base Group at Hamilton Air Force Base have been included in the 1972 edition of Outstanding Young Men of America, the base announced today.

The two men were chosen for the annual awards volume "in recognition of their professional and community leadership," according to Lt. Col. Carmon L. Keyser, former base executive officer.

Sponsored by men's civic and service organizations, Outstanding Young Men of America, honors men from the ages of 21 to 35 "whose demonstrated excellence has marked them for future leadership in the nation," the base reported.

Holiday Magic Fraud Trial Close To End

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (UPI) —The trial of Holiday Magic, Inc., and two representatives of the California cosmetic firm was expected to close today after a week's testimony.

The firm and its representatives are on trial in Hennepin District Court on consumer fraud charges under a new state law which bans multilevel distributorships.

Two marketing professors testified. Thursday that Holiday Magic did not rely on an "endless chain" nor on referral selling.

Called as expert witnesses by the defense were Dr. Steven A. Baumgarten of the University of Wisconsin at Milwaukee and Dr. Orville C. Walker Jr., of the University of Minnesota.

Dr. Baumgarten said it was not unusual for a manufacturer to establish several levels in the distribution chain and he said such a practice usually resulted in lower prices for the ultimate consumer.

Dr. Baumgarten, who said he had testified for the company at other trials, defended Holiday Magic's practice of paying top distributors as much as $3,800 for recruiting new second-level distributors.

Dr. Walker said it was common for all business to recruit new accounts in the distribution system.

He said the new state law appears to restrict distribution systems to the basic manufacturer-wholesaler-retailer setup.

Other defense witnesses testified that the company has a quota system to limit distributors according to population.

Magee Calls Judge Crazy, Then Exits

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — San Quentin inmate Ruchell Magee walked out of pre-trial hearings Thursday after telling the judge: "Man, you is insane."

Magee had offered a motion for a change of venue to "any other state." He said "a conflict of interests exists between the defense and the entire California judicial system."

Superior Court Judge Morton Colvin said the motion was the same as one previously denied and that he would receive it but not file it.

"Man, you is insane," Magee declared.

Then he let out a long whoop and walked out of the court to a holding cell from which he could hear the proceedings.

Since Monday's hearings Magee has walked out seven times and been ejected by force twice.

Firemen Get Increase In Recall Pay

The Tamalpais Fire Protection District board reversed an earlier decision last night and approved an increase in recall pay for firemen. The vote was 3-1, with director Arthur Crebassa dissenting and director Bernard Lenhart abstaining.

Lenhart said the board agreed to pay firemen who respond to off-duty calls $5 for each hour, or fraction of an hour worked. This is in addition to their regular pay.

Currently, firemen who respond to call while off duty get $3 an hour for each full hour worked, but no pay for fires that take less than an hour to fight.

Last month the men asked for $5 for simply answering an alarm and an additional $5 for each hour — or part of an hour — worked during off-duty hours.

When the board declined to grant their requests and decided to scrap recall pay altogether, the firemen said they would no longer respond to alarms when they were not working. Most of the district's volunteer firemen, in support of the regular firefighters, also said they would no longer respond to calls.

Later both firemen and volunteers changed their minds and agreed to answer the calls in order to continue to provide adequate fire protection.

Chairman Jeanne Creemer siad the board decided to reconsider the matter of recall pay after the firemen "made it clear they regretted the hasty action they had taken" in refusing to respond to alarms. "In light of that, there seemed no reason why the men should have to respond to alarms without being paid," Mrs. Creemer said.

The board also set a special meeting to consider hiring of personnel for 9 a.m. Tuesday in the Tamalpais Community Services District office.

Mistake Is Made In Identifying Owner

Ingerborg Grete Higbee, identified in an Independent-Journal story Wednesday as the owner of the Little Lark Creek Shop, Larkspur, scene of an attempted robbery, is the manager. The owner is Janet Silva.

Mrs. Higbee spotted two men tapping the till at the shop, confronted them and was handed $60. The men walked away and are still sought by police.

County Contracts For Road Surfacing

The Marin County Public Works Department has let a contract for $68,499.05 with Bay Slurry Seal Co of Redwood City for blanketing asphalt on the subdivision streets in Bel Aire, Bayview Heights, Greenbrae, Strawberry Point and Gnoss Field.

Work is scheduled to begin Sept. 5.

Committee Upholds Rhodesia Inclusion

MUNICH (UPI)—The Executive Board of the International Olympic Committee held firm Friday to its decision to include Rhodesia in the Games starting next week despite the threatened withdrawal of 12 African nations.

In a statement issued at midday, the IOC called on the national Olympic Committees of the African nations to "convince their several governments" the teams should not be withdrawn.

The inclusion of Rhodesia, under its old name and flag of Southern Rhodesia, was approved by the IOC at a meeting last September and in Friday's statement the Board reminded the African nations that they theselves had taken part in that resolution of approval.

WITHDRAWAL

"The German Organizing Committee has cited in the spirit of this resolution and it is felt that a withdrawal by any National Olympic Committee from the Games would engender grave injustices to the Organizing Committee as well as to the athletes of the African countries themselves," the I. O. C. Board said.

Meanwhile, Janus Abdulla, the team manager of Tanzania, one of the nations which has unofficially withdrawn from the Games, showed up at the Olympic Village and went through processing to check in.

And O. Jolaoso, team manager of Nigeria, which has not joined the revolt, had his national flag officially raised in the Village and said, "We shall abide by the decision reached with the IOC."

Gay, bright banners of all colors float in the air over this Bavarian city eight days before the scheduled start of the Olympics with about one-fourth of the expected 10,000 athletes and team officials already on hand.

DAUME INSISTS

And trying to stick to that mood, Willie Daume, president of the German Olympic Organizing Committee, grimly insists that only one nation, Ethiopia, has "formally" withdrawn from the Games.

When pressed, however, Daume admits unofficial word from 11 other African nations that they, too, will depart if the Rhodesians are allowed to compete. And there was a report that Pakistan would join in, the first non-African nation to so act.

But U.S. officials here discount the possibility that black athletes from the United States will join the revolt.

And they emphatically insist there is no chance the U.S. would join as a team.

STATEMENT

"If any individual felt that way, we'd permit him to go home," said Art Lentz, executive director of the U. S. Olympic Committee. "But we're certainly not going to pull out our team."

Only some 40 U.S. athletes already are in the Olympic Village, most of them members of the track and field team, but the assistant coaches of the track team, two of them black, insist they have not heard any talk of a "sympathy" movement by the athletes.

"I haven't heard anything of a walkout," said assistant coach Stan Wright of Sacramento State. 'sI won't preclude or second guess whatever any individual wants to do, but right now it sounds ridiculous."

UNITED FRONT

Assistant coach Hoover Wright of Prairie View A&M said, "I certainly don't think the American public has any reason to fear a surprise attack from our guys. If there should be a walkout, it would be by all

Giants' Power Not Enough

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — You can look it up: The San Francisco Giants have the most home runs in major league baseball.

"Who cares," said Manager Charlie Fox after Thursday's 2-1 loss to the Chicago Cubs. "Sound, basic baseball is what helps you."

MCCOVEY

The Giants, fifth in the National League West, got their 112th homer of the year when Willie McCovey poked one — with one hand, yet — in the seventh inning offright-hander Milt Pappas, 9-7.

But their big chance for a victory that would have boosted them to fourth place evaporated in the eighth, when a successful bunt was needed. Alan Gallagher missed three straight sacrifice attempts after Garry Maddox led off with a single.

FOX SAID

"If we'd moved the man over there, it would have changed the whole game," Fox said.

Pinch hitter Jim Howarth singled after Gallagher's bunting strikeout, but Pappas got Bobby Bonds on a popup and reliever Jack Aker struck out Chris Speier to end the threat.

CARDENAL

Pappas got all the runs he needed when Jose Cardenal hit a two-run homer in the third off Jim Barr, 4-7, who turned in the Giants' best pitching performance of the week.

Nets Deny Release To Barry

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The New York Nets will not release Rick Barry from his contract until it expires Oct. 1, meaning Barry can't join Golden State until then.

Barry met Thursday with Nets' president Roy Boe and asked for an early release from the contract. But Boe told the star he could not allow him to go because of pending court action.

Boe has appealed the federal court decision that sent Barry back to Golden State.

North-South Grid Tonight

Nine players will start on both offense and defense for the South tonight when the seventh annual Ross Valley Kiwanis All-Star Football game gets underway at 8 o'clock at San Rafael High School.

"We're going to take our best athletes and put 'em on the field. We're not trying to be nice guys and let everybody play football. We're trying to win the game" said South head coach Bruno Banducci.

The South, composed of graduates of Marin Catholic, Redwood, Tamalpais and Drake High Schools, is an underdog to the North team, consisting of alumni from San Rafael, Terra Linda, Novato and San Marin.

The North carries an advantage of depth into the game. "For example, we'll be starting Pat Karinen (from Novato High) and Bob Brown (San Rafael) at tackles, but we'll use Pete Mumma (San Marin) as much," said Wylie.

The game will be broadcast on KTIM-FM radio, 100.9 on the dial, beginning at 7:55.

The starting lineups:

Last Inning Single Gives Clobber Win

Randy Raabe's bases-loaded single in the last inning gave Clobber Inc. a 5-4 victory over 39 Main in the San Rafael adult softball league yesterday.

In other games, the Wrecking Crew downed Marin Supply, 7-6, Specialized Services beat the Belly Wompers, 27-3 and ISI defeated Alains, 12-4.

Winning Ways Of Miss Brown

No one doubts any longer that Susan Brown of Oakland is headed for final victory in both girls' 16 and 18 singles in the Marin County Junior Hardcourt tennis championships. The only question is whether she will give up a game along the way.

Miss Brown, top-seeded in both classes, continued to play perfect tennis yesterday by shutting out Laurie James of Tiburon and Andrea Knight of Los Altos in quarter final play. The victories were her fourth and fifth in the tourney, all have been 6-0, 6-0.

Top-seeded Carrie Zarraonandia in girls 14 defeated Kathy Snelson of Sacramento in straight sets, 6-2, 6-0. The San Rafael player then teamed with sister Ann for a girls 16 doubles win, 6-1, 6-2 over Lisa Brown and Kathy Gundling of Napa.

In the upset of the day, the usually supreme duo of Tiburon's Dan Tierney and Eric Lee of San Francisco as beaten in boys 18 doubles by the team of King-Sylvan from Fresno.

Other Marin County players who continued to win included Charles Bolcom of Belvedere, second-seeded in boys 12, and Henry Jacobsen, also of Belvedere, the No. 4 seed in boys 16. Bolcom knocked off Raymond Miller of Stockton, 6-1, 6-0, while Jacobsen defeated Ron Lucky of Alameda, 3-6, 6-1, 6-1.

Top seeds Chip Hooper of Sunnyvale in boys 14, Butch Walts of Fresno in boys 18 and Lee in boys 16 all won their matches to advance to the semi-finals which were to be played today at the Mill Valley Tennis Club and other sites.

Spurrier Discusses Chargers

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — Steve Spurrier of the San Francisco 49ers says he's looking forward to his second start of the exhibition season, against the San Diego Chargers Saturday night.

He rates them better than the New York Jets, who beat the 49ers 17-10 two weeks ago despite Spurrier's 20 pass completions.

"San Diego has better personnel than the Jets and also has a better pass rush," Spurrier says.

"I felt I had a good game against the Jets. . .even though I had about three passes dropped. You can say I'll be trying to do more scoring against San Diego."

Spurrier, who came to the 49ers six years ago, says he did so at a time when both John Brodie and George Mira were ahead of him, and that he wasn't ready for a couple of years.

Now, says Spurrier, "I'm a better quarterback than I was, and I'm sure I'm better than last year at this time."

Pitcher Optioned

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago White Sox announced Thursday that pitcher Jim Geddes has been optioned to Knoxville of the Southern League.

Tourney Begins For Italian Club

Tournament director Gary Hughes admits he doesn't know much about the three teams that will play with the Italian Club in the Joe DiMaggio League regional baseball tournament starting tonight at Albert Park in San Rafael, but considering the Marin County team's pitching, he doesn't have to.

The Italian Club, made up largely of players who led Redwood High School to the Marin County Athletic League pennant last season, will be the favorite when it meets Fortune of the Eureka National League in the tourney opener at 6 o'clock. Loleta of the Eureka American League meets the Ukiah Elks at 8:15.

UKIAH TEAM

"The Ukiah team, which beat Rohnert Park in the final game for the Sonoma League title, is made up largely of the same players who went to the North Bay DiMaggio finals last year in San Francisco," says Hughes. About the Eureka teams he claims a limited knowledge.

The visiting teams probably know just as little about the Italian Club, but they'll know more soon. For example, they'll know that Gene Frey throws the ball with blinding speed, and Mark Ruggles serves up untouchable junk. They will pitch the first two tourney games, although coach Dan Abballo hasn't decided which will go tonight.

ABBALLO

After Frey and Ruggles, Abballo can count on a pair of pitcher-outfielders he is borrowing from another team for the tourney. Don Bianchini and John Billings, as well as shortstop Steve Sherry, were added to the roster under a tourney rule after they led Toby's Truckers to within a game of the Italians in the final standings.

The four of them — Frey, Ruggles, Bianchini and Billings — should be more than enough to overwhelm the visitors from the North. If they're not, the Italian Club can also play slugfest. Shortstop Mike Connor, a .435 hitter, and centerfielder Jeff Vogel, a long-ball threat

2 Floridians Tough On Marin Entrants

I-J Special Report

SEATTLE, Wash. — Two Floridians who decided to come all the way to the Pacific Northwest are making things miserable for Marin County's entrants and everybody else in the National Water Ski Championships on Green Lake here.

Wayne Grimditch of Hillsboro Beach and Mrs. Barbara Cleveland of Hawthorne set records yesterday in boys tricks and senior women's tricks, respectively, to open up hefty leads in the first day of a tournament which will continue through Sunday.

Mrs. Cleveland recorded 4,433 points in tricks, finishing well ahead of Mrs. Thelma Salmas of Novato, who recorded 2,673. Mrs. Salmas also was second to Mrs. Cleveland in senior women's slalom, with 34½ buoys to the winner's 47.

Grimditch racked up 5,225 points in boys tricks for his

A's Odom Vs. Perry In Cleveland Opener

CLEVELAND (UPI) — The Oakland Athletics open a three-game series tonight against Cleveland, a squad they have beaten six out of six so far this season.

John Odom takes on Gaylord Perry, an 18-game winner who has 11 defeats. Odom is 9-4. Vida Blue is slated to pitch Saturday.

Oakland was idle Thursday after downing Baltimore twice and extending their winning streak to three.

"This close race in the Western Division is a good thing for the American League," A's manager Dick Williams said Thursday after learning the Chicago White Sox downed the Orioles 6-1. The win moved the Sox within a half game of the A's.

"But I don't like it," Williams was quick to add.

Local Hunters Are Finding Bucks Scarce

By AL GIDDINGS

The deer hunters are generally finding the bucks scarce. It seems to be either foggy or too hot. With the Point Reyes National Seashore closed and encompassing much of the good hunting country, and the water company lands closed, along with the state parks, county parks and enlarged city limits areas, it's getting difficult to find a place to hunt.

One Inverness rancher, Al Grossi, who has always done most of his hunting in Marin County, found a new location up near Hopland. When he filled out his tag, he put down the area hunted as Hopland, Plumas County! He was surely lost.

Striped bass fishing is improving. Over last weekend Frank Spencer, keeper of the Marin Rod and Gun Club pier, logged in 36 fish with an average weight of 10 pounds. Henry Rossback of the Marin club took a 22-pounder. Most of the anglers trolled the Richmond Bridge area. Keith Frazier also took a couple of newcomers out fishing. One of the anglers, Gary Hughes, former athletic director at Marin Catholic High School, took a limit his first time out. Joe Dahlmann, San Rafael attorney, has limited three times running.

I TRY TO KEEP Sam Knoles name out of this column but it's almost impossible. He's come up with a new gimmick. A few columns back, I had mentioned that Sam had been a jinx to any boat that he had been on, even his own. He has since gone with Tom Overich of San Rafael; the oil pressure of the motor gave out on that trip, and they just made it back. His new gimmick? He's got a real good looking 23-year-old unmarried granddaughter named Sue. Sam has been taking her fishing, and he now has had no lack of customers wanting to go, too. The other day, Sam and Sue came in with a fish that was close to being under-sized. Usually when this happens, all of the Loch Lomond pros stand by eyeing and belittling the fish, sometimes threatening to call the game warden.

But this time, it was declared "a keeper."

I HOPE YOU wee all watching television Channel 20 Sunday night at 10 p.m. A new sportsmen's show called Western Outdoors was on with Hank Schram. Hank is the party boat skipper of the Salmon Queen out of Sausalito. His guests were Jackie Anderson, skipper of the famous party boat "Wacky Jackie" and Jerry Matt, a striped bass party boat skipper. They gave a summary of the local salmon and striper hot spots around San Francisco Bay. They also had a 36-pound salmon just caught for the audience to see. Jerry said the area around Alcatraz Island and the Harding Rock buoy were hot spots on the top of the incoming tides using live baits or trolling with jigs, hula skirts or bait.

He suggested using from an eight-ounce weight all the way up to three pounds, depending on the current.

Best fishing on the outgoing tides was at the South Tower of the Golden Gate Bridge, Mile Rock and in the areas between Point Bonita and the bridge. Party boats are available for both fisheries out of Sausalito. But if it's windy and you are running your own boat, it's best to stay home. It can be rough at times at all of those places.

I RECEIVED a report from Jim Roads of the Klamath River Guide Service, that the first good runs of steelhead have entered the Klamath River.

On a trial run, three miles up from the mouth, fishing with his brother, Jim and party, they hooked about 30 steelheads, two to five-pounders, in a couple of hours. Jim is taking fishing parties out from the Klamath Glen Resort.

For best results, use small lures, single eggs, brindle bug flies or glo-bugs, according to Jim.

Home Course Nod To Mrs. Wheeler

(Fourth in a Series)

To use the commercial phrase, Mrs. William Wheeler has "come a long way, baby." She took up golf four years ago, and next Wednesday she'll play in the fifth annual Marin County Women's Tournament of Champions.

But what she lacks in experience Joan Wheeler may make up for by using the home course advantage she will enjoy as women's club champion of Mill Valley. The tournament, pitting the representatives of Marin County's six regulation courses against each other in scratch medal play, will start at 8:30 a.m., with admission free to the public.

Mrs. Wheeler, who works at Scoma's restaurant in Sausalito, admits to having "maybe a little advantage. It's a funny little course, and I'm fairly down the middle, which helps." She considers herself a fairly long hitter, but says that since the Mill Valley course is not very long (4,300 yards), "Accuracy is going to count more than distance."

A 10 handicapper, Mrs. Wheeler took up golf less than five years ago. "I went out a few times and hit the ball at the driving range, and I really got interested in it," she says. "As far as tournaments, I've played in several and I think I played fairly well." She won the Mill Valley club title last fall in medal play with a 76-76-79 — 231.

Her opponents for the tourney will include Laura Cann of Meadow Club in Fairfax, Cookie Baer of San Rafael's Peacock Gap, Nancy Gapinski of San Geronimo, Tillie Gondak of Marin Country Club in Novato, and Peg Williams of Novato's Indian Valley.

Boxer Medrano Wins Decision Over Davilla

LOS ANGELES (UPI) —Joe Medrano, 125, Los Angeles, pounded out a unianimous decision over Mexico's Urbano Davilla, 128, in a 10-round fight at the Olympic Auditorium Thursday night.

Davilla bled from the mouth from the fifth round on but there were no knockdowns. He suffered his sixth defeat against 28 wins.

Five-Year Pact Signed By Kareem

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — The Milwaukee Bucks today announced that Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, highest scorer in the National Basketball Association last season, has signed a new five-year contract.

The contract replaces a pact Jabbar had signed upon graduation from UCLA three years ago and extends through the 1976-77 season.

The signing was done in Boston, where Jabbar is enrolled in college, Thursday night, and announced at a news conference here.

Jabbar, at times, had expressed some dissatisfaction in regard to Milwaukee itself. However, he purchased a home in a Milwaukee suburb last year and lived there until enrolling at Harvard for summer school courses in Arabic.

Financial terms of the contract were not announced, but it was believed to be one of the largest contracts in pro sports history for Abdul-Jabbar, who first was known as Lew Alcindor.

Denver Of ABA Signs Beck To Three-Year Pact

DENVER (UPI) — Byran Beck, the only remaining member of the original Denver Rockets, signed a three year contract Thursday with the American Basketball Association team.

The 27-year-old former University of Denver star, a five year veteran, signed for an undisclosed amount.

Beck has played 402 games with Denver and holds the team record in games played, minutes played (12,108), field goals (2,161), rebounds (3,848) and is second in total points (5,169).

HOPMAN'S ANALYSIS

Laver Needs Organization

By MILTON RICHMAN

NEW YORK (UPI)—Rod Laver keeps getting murdered with good advice.

That's how it is when you were on top of the mountain once and now you're 15th in the World Championship Tennis standings and struggling to stay even there.

Everybody knows what's wrong with you. That in itself wouldn't be so bad except that everybody has to tell you the way to correct what's wrong.

SLUMP

To give you an idea how things have been going for the slumping 34-year-old Australian redhead in his last half dozen tournaments, he'd have been better off playing bridge.

Marty Riessen beat him in the second round at Cleveland; Tony Roche knocked him off in the first round at St. Louis; John Alexander took care of him in the third round at Washington; Nikki Pilic swept past him in the second round at Louisville; Bob Lutz of Tiburon eliminated him in the quarterfinals of the U.S. Professional Championships at Boston, and Wednesday night Laver wound up all finished at Fort Worth when he was bounced out in the first round by Jeff Borowiak, one of those nice kids out of college in his first year as a pro.

All this time, Laver has been getting wonderful advice.

NOT EAGER

So Harry Hopman isn't particularly eager to put in his two cents even though he knows Rod Laver, tennis player, probably better than anybody else in the world.

Harry Hopman is to tennis what Vince Lombardi was to football and John McGraw was to baseball.

At the moment, he's keeping busy as coordinator for Pepsi-Cola's Mabile Tennis Program which is giving city kids in Philadelphia, Boston and New York a chance to play the game but despite this job and the fact he's also running his own tennis camp on the campus of Amherst College he still keeps an eye on all his old pupils.

Rod Laver is one of them, and when you ask Harry Hopman what's wrong with Laver he speaks about him the way he does about any of his pupils — objectively.

ANALYSIS

"First of all, Rod is past the age where he's liable to improve," says Hopman. "He's on the down-run. You have to remember he's 34. Many people are tracing Rod's decline from when he won all the money ($170,000) in that Madison Square Garden thing last year, but if you look at it closely, you see that in those 11 victories of his he met many players who weren't in match form. Dennis Ralston hadn't played for some time; the same for Tony Roche; and Arthur Ashe hadn't played for five weeks. So you can't really use that as a basis for Rod's decline."

"Well, you know he has all these many business obligations," says Hopman. "My feeling is it's all a matter of organization. I don't think Rod is practicing properly. I wouldn't try to give him any advice though. What I'd do, say a week before the U.S. Open Championships begin at Forest Hills the end of this month, is ring up Mark McCormack, Rod's agent, and say forget him, he's not interested in anything for a week, even if it's for a billion dollars.

'WORK'

"Then I'd book him in a hotel. I'd get two rooms. One would be empty and the other in the name of Mr. Jones or somebody like that so nobody could reach him. What would I do with him then? Work, work, work!"

Harry Hopman shys away from picking winners normally, but if you press him he says he likes Pasadena-born Stan Smith to win the singles title in the U.S. Open again.

"Why? Because he's an improver," says Hopman. He has a very good temperament. You say he has no color? I'm not concerned with things like that. I like concentration, ability to vary a game and power when it's needed. To me, that's what makes a tennis player."

It does not disturb 66-year-old Harry Hopman that he was called "Captain Bligh," "Svengali" and some worse names in his time. He says he knows the reason.

'WORK HARD'

"My father, mother, four sisters and one brother were school teachers and I feel there was something of this in me," he says. I remember my father coming home and saying 'young Johnny Brown is a bright lad. I'm going to get him a scholarship.' On the day Johnny Brown would win the scholarship, Mrs. Brown would say, 'I knew from the day Johnny was born he'd win a scholarship because his grandfather won a scholarship 5,000 years ago.' What I'm saying is as a youth I learned Johnny would have to work hard to win a scholarship, but my dad would have to organize him."

Harry Hopman organized quite a number of young Aussie tennis players in his day, players like Frank Sedgman, Lew Hoad, Roy Emerson, Neale Fraser, Ken Rosewall and Rod Laver, to name only a handful. He organized them so well they all went on to become champions and then make plenty of money as pros.

But the best player he ever saw came from Germantown, Pa., and was named Bill Tilden.

"He had no weakness," says Hopman.

Dallas Gains Concannon From Chicago In Trade

By U.P.INTERNATIONAL

Jack Concannon has his wish and the Dallas Cowboys have some insurance.

Concannon, who spent eight seasons in the National Football League with the Philadelphia Eagles and the Chicago Bears, played out his option last season and became a free agent on May 1.

JACK CONCANNON
To Dallas

COMPENSATION

He became a member of the Dallas Cowboys Thursday when the World Champions signed him and sent the Bears in return offensive tackle Bob Asher, Bill LIne, a rookie defensive lineman and their No. 2 draft choice next season.

The Cowboys signed Concannon after Roger Staubach, their No. 1 quarterback, suffered a shoulder separation last week and was knocked out for most of the season. Craig Morton will continue to be the No. 1 quarterback now with Concannon in reserve.

CONCANNON

"I'm very excited about it," said Concannon, a former Boston College star. "I think anybody would be happy to join a team that had just won the Super Bowl. I don't know how long it will take me to get ready but I have been doing a lot of running and some throwing."

Concannon will accompany the Cowboys to New Orleans for their Saturday exhibition contest against the New Orleans Saints but probably won't see action for some time since he must learn the Cowboy system.

Two games are scheduled for tonight. The Minnesota Vikings, who sparkled last week with the return of quarterback Fran Tarkenton, are in Buffalo to take on the Bills while the Washington Redskins entertain the Philadelphia Eagles.

OTHER GAMES

In Saturday action, San Francisco is at San Diego, Miami is at Cincinnati, St. Louis plays host to Denver, Pittsburgh is at Atlanta and Los Angeles entertains Oakland. The New York Jets meet the New York Giants Sunday at New Haven, Conn., Cleveland takes on Detroit at Ann Arbor, Mich., and Chicago is at New England on Sunday while in a Monday night game, Baltimore is at Kansas City.

In other news from the training camps Thursday, Duane Thomas, traded by the Cowboys to San Diego, arrived at the Chargers' camp, dresed in a sweat suit and then took off again.

SURGERY

The New York Jets announced that No. 3 draft choice Gary Hammond will undergo surgery Saturday for cartilage repair in his left knee. Hammond was injured in the Coaches All-America Game at Lubbock,Tex., and reinjurred reinjuredknee when the Jets' rookies took on a minor league club last month.

Wide receiver Bob Newland, tight end Carlos Bell and quarterback Edd Hargett returned to the New Orleans Saints' active list and may play against Dallas.

Aaron, Schlee Lead In Golf

SUTTON, Mass. (UPI) — Tommy Aaron is riding in the company of big money these days. With a little luck, he'll stay there.

Aaron, 35, of Calloway Gardens, Ga., has been on the Professional Golf Association tour, since 1961 and, in that time, has won only one tournament —the Atlantic Classic in 1970. He has finished second 13 times. But he feels things are looking up.

Aaron did everything right Thursday, while shooting a five-under par 67 to tie John Schlee, who has never won a tourney, for the opening round lead of the $200,000 USI Classic at Pleasant Valley Country Club.

OTHER SCORES

Rik Massengale, of Jacksboro, Tex., Bob Charles, of Christ Church, New Zealand, Marty Bohen of Eastchester, N.Y., and Tom Ulozas of Edison, N.J., were tied for third at 68, one stroke off the pace.

Pre-tournament favorite Lee Trevino, still feeling the effects of a heavy cold and fever that sidelined him earlier this week, had a two-over par 74.

First place in the USI Classic, sponsored by U.S. Industries Inc., carries $40,000 in prize money.

Schlee, who is still looking for his first victory since joining the pro tour in 1965, said he disregarded his wife's advice and putted cross-handed to shake off a slump and tie for the first round lead.

PUTTING TROUBLE

"I've been having trouble with my putting," Schlee said. "I was putting cross-handed earlier in the year, but my wife (Sherri) talked me out of it."

He said he had been getting nowhere with his game in recent weeks and decided during a practice round to drop the conventional putting grip and go back to the cross-handed approach.

"If nothing else, I think the change helps my game," he said.

Trevino, who started his game on the 10th tee because of the overcrowded field, was obviously tiring by the time he reached the second nine.

BOGEYS

He triple-bogeyed the dog-legged par-4, 450-yard second hole, the 11th hole in his round, and followed with bogeys on the fifth and eighth before finishing with a birdie on the ninth.

When Trevino completed his round, he headed directly to his hotel room, sending word to writers that he was "too tired" to talk with them.

The original field of 144 will be cut to the top 70 and ties after today's second round. That indicated a cutoff point based on Thursday's play of 146 for the final two rounds on Saturday and Sunday. Fifty-five men finished at par or better Thursday.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Expos' Infielder In Pitching Debut

By U.P.INTERNATIONAL

Infielder Hector Torres of the Montreal Expos made his major league debut as a pitcher Thursday night and found out one thing—it's not as easy as Steve Carlton makes it look.

Torres was summoned by manager Gene Mauch out of sheer disgust in the ninth inning after five other pitchers had failed miserably in an effort to stop an onslaught by the Houston Astros. But, alas, Torres was treated no differently than the rest of the Expos' pitchers as he was raked for five straight singles before retiring a batter.

CEDENO

The Astros ended up winning the game, 17-5, behind a 20-hit attack that featured a pair of home runs by Lee May and solo homers by Cesar Cedeno and Doug Rader. Cedeno also collected a pair of doubles as he and May each drove in four runs.

FASTBALLS

Carlton, the ace lefthander of the Philadelphia Phillies, also stuck primarily with fastballs Thursday night, but the Cincinnati Reds couldn't handle them too well and he went on to become the National League's first 20-game winner in a 9-4 victory for the Phillies.

The triumph was the 15th in a row for Carlton, who is now just four shy of Rube Marquard's single season record for most consecutive victories.

Deron Johnson and Willie Montanez each hit two-run homers to spark the Phillies' attack.

In other NL games, Los Angeles downed Pittsburgh 4-2, San Diego edged St. Louis 3-2, Chicago nipped San Francisco 2-1 and New York edged Atlanta 2-1.

Willie Davis collected two singles, scored twice and drove in a run with a sacrifice flyin the Dodgers' victory over Pittsburgh. Al Downing went 8 1-3 innings to gain credit for the victory while Bob Moose was the loser. Manny Sanguillen had a homer for the Pirates.

34TH HOMER

Nate Colbert belted his 34th homer and drove in another run with an infield out to pace the Padres' triumph over the Cardinals. Clay Kirby pitched two hit ball over seven innings before leaving with a sore elbow to notch his 10th victory. Ron Allen, brother of Dick Allen, hit a homer for the Cardinals.

Ed Kranepool's sacrifice fly in the eighth inning and the clutch relief pitching of Tug McGraw in the ninth enabled the Mets to defeat the Braves.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Veteran Fryman Gives Tigers Extra Pitching Mileage, Wins

By U.P.INTERNATIONAL

Woody Fryman appeared to be a major league retread when the Detroit Tigers picked him up on waivers earlier this month but leave it to Billy Martin to get the most mileage out of the veteran left-hander.

Fryman scattered six hits in winning his third straight game for Detroit as the Tigers whipped Minnesota 12-2 in the first game of a doubleheader. The Twins came back to win the nightcap 7-6 in 10 innings.

FRYMAN SHUT OUT

Detroit has won but five games in the month of August and has dropped eight of its last 11 contests. Fryman has gone the distance for Detroit's only victories during that span. The shutout was the second of the season for Fryman whose career has been hampered by an athritic left elbow.

Rich Reese's sacrifice fly in the 10th inning of the second game gave Minnesota a split of the twinbill. Detroit remained 1-2 game behind division-leading Baltimore in the American League East.

10TH INNING

Jim Nettles opened the 10th with a single but was forced at second by Rod Carew on a controversial play. Carew went to third when Steve Braun singled and Reese then followed with his game-winning sacrifice fly to Gates Brown and Carew scored when relay man Aurelio Rodriguez dropped the ball trying to make the throw.

In other American League games Chicago topped Baltimore 6-1, California beat Cleveland 4-2, and Boston edged Texas 4-3 in the only games scheduled.

Shortstop Luis Alvarado and Pat Kelly both doubled and drove in two runs each to lead Chicago to within a half game of the American League West lead.

Alvarado's two-run single and Kelly's two-run double in the sixth inning supplied all the firepower as Chicago unloaded on starter Pat Dobson and reliever Roric Harrison.

SMALLEST CROWD

The contest, a makeup of a July 16 rainout, was played in drizzling weather before 655 people, the smallest crowd in modern Baltimore baseball history.

Reggie Smith clubbed a three-run homer in eighth inning off Mike Paul to help Boston edge Texas. Smith's home run followed a two-out single by Luis Aparicio and a walk to Carl Yastremski.

A two-run homer by Bob Oliver and a pair of home runs by Leroy Stanton sparked California over Cleveland. Stanton, who banged out four hits, gave the Angels a 1-0 lead in the second inning with his ninth homer and Oliver's 15th homer followed a single by Ken Berry to make it 3-0 in the fourth. Stanton's second homer of the night came in the ninth inning off reliever Phil Hennigan.

Petaluma Swimmer Sets Record

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

SPOKANE, Wash. — David Nelson of Petaluma won two races, one in national record time, and seven other records were set in the sixth annual Amateur Athletic Union Junior Olympics which ended yesterday.

Nelson set a national record for boys 12 and under in the 100 meter breaststroke with a time of 1:17.3. He also won the 200 individual medley in 2:30.6.

Walt Hardin, 12, Carmichael, set marks in the 100 meter backstroke each time he swam. In the preliminaries, he broke the 1971 mark of 1:09.58, and, in the finals, he swam the distance in 1:07.53.

California youngsters also took three of the four gold medals in gymnastics. Debbie Hung, Albany, won the intermediate girls division, Lisa Buttrill, Dublin, won senior girls and Tom Weden, Belmont, won the senior boys.

Tennis

DENVER — Two more ranked players —fifth-seeded Kerry Melville and sixth-rated Wendy Overton— were eliminated from competition Thursday in the $25,000 Virginia Slims International of Denver Tennis Tournament.

Lesley Hunt upset fellow Australian Miss Melville, 1-6, 6-0, 6-3, while Kristy Pigeon ousted Miss Overton, 6-3, 6-2.

Wimbledon champion Billie Jean King, favored to win the tournament, scored two victories. She completed a rain-delayed match against Argentine's Raquel Giscafre, winning 6-1, 6-3, and followed that with a 6-4, 6-3 triumph over Australia's Karen Krantzcke.

TORONTO — South African Bob Hewitt, loudly jeered for his unsportsmanlike conduct, defeated Ivan Molina of Colombia Thursday to advance to the quarter-finals of the Canadian Open Tennis Championship.

The sixth-seeded Hewitt, who kicked a chair and bounced a few balls into the crowd, turned back a game Molina 6-7, 6-4, 7-5, coming back 0-3 in the final two sets.

Hewitt explained his rowdy court behavior by saying he was "physically pooped," following the U.S. Clay Court Championships in Indianapolis, where he won both singles and doubles laurels.

In women's quarter-finals, Margaret Court of Australia, second-seeded to Evonne Goolagong, turned back the last Canadian involved in singles play, Montreal's Andree Martin, 6-1, 6-2.

Miss Goolagong sidelined Pat Walkden-Pretorious of South Africa 6-3, 6-3 and England's Virginia Wade overcame Italy's Natalie Fuchs, 4-6, 7-5, 6-2.

Orioles Get Davis In Trade With Cubs

BALTIMORE (UPI) —The Baltimore Orioles, fighting to remain on top in the American League East, acquired two time National League batting champion Tommy Davis today from the Chicago Cubs in a straight waiver deal for catcher Elroy Hendricks.

The Orioles have suffered from low batting averages much of the season with a current team average of .229 and have depended on their strong pitching to remain in the pennant race. Davis has a lifetime batting average of .296 and was hitting .269 for the Cubs, mostly as a pinchhitter.

Davis, 33, joined Chicago in early July as a free agent after he was released before the season began by the Oakland Athletics.

Hendricks, 32, spent all of his five major league season with the Orioles and has a lifetime average of .232 but is hitting only .155 this year.

Lee Nets 42; Paradise Wins In Drake Cage

Dave Lee scored 42 points to nullify Bob Tait's 31 and led Paradise Pharmacy to an 82-70 victory over Perry's Poor Boys yesterday in a Drake Summer League adult division basketball game.

In the only other clash, San Rafael Travel beat Buresh, Vallarino, Costamagna and Claxon in overtime, 54-52, as Tom Butler scored 22 for the winners.

Paradise and Olympic Club tied for first place at 7-2 and will play off Tuesday night at 7:30 to determine who will be seeded No. 1 in the post-season tournament, which begins Wednesday.

Houston Golf Tourney Locale Is Selected

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Open Golf Tournament will be played the next two years at Quail Valley Country Club, sponsors announced Thursday.

Prize money for the 1973 tournament has been increased from $125,000 to $205,000, making it the richest tournament in Texas.

It had been announced previously that the 1973 tournament would be played at the Westwood Country Club, site of this year's event.

San Rafael Driver's Qualifying Clocking

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. — Pat McNulty of San Rafael recorded the seond fastest time in qualifying for Sunday's Grand National Quarter Midget auto race. McNulty, 15, drove his heavy A class entry to a 7:12 clocking.

Qualifying closed yesterday.

CARROLL IS PLAYING ON SCHEDULE

Pete Carroll, a graduate of Redwood High School and now a senior at the University of the Pacific, is featured with a color photograph on UOP's pocket football schedules being distributed by the Sports Information Department.

Carroll, according to Information Director Tony Sauro, is "an All-America candidate safety," and is listed as the top defensive player for the Tigers, according to coach Chester Caddas.

Quarterback Chastang Quits Cal Football

BERKELEY (UPI) — University of California coach Mike White says quarterback Reed Chastang quit the Bears because he felt he could not fit into the squad's new pro-type offense.

Chastang opened the season last year as the starting signal-caller but an injured shoulder hampered his play for the rest of the year.

Seattle Babe Ruth Nine Takes Crown

MONROE, N.C. (UPI) — Seattle won a doubleheader over San Antonio by identical 2-0 scores Thursday night to take the championship of the Babe Ruth tournament.

2 Athletic Aides At Sonoma

He joines Joel Spears, sports information director, as the newest appointees. Sion is a 1961 graduate of New Mexico Highlands University in Las Vegas, New Mexico, and also attended St. Michael's College in Santa Fe, New Mexico (presently College of Santa Fe) where he played basketball.

Sion will coach the recently initiated freshmen basketball team at Sonoma as well as assisting on the varsity level.

Spears, a 28-year-old physical education major, has been appointed to a part-time position made possible through college work-study funds. Spears will be responsible for the sports publicity and much of the public relations work associated with the college athletic program.

Aside from his duties as the sports information director, Spears will be a full-time student in the physical education department and is working toward a teaching and coaching career.

Team Canada's Defenseman Park Leaves Hospital

TORONTO (AP) — Defenseman Brad Park, injured Wednesday during a Team Canada practice, was released from the hospital Thursday and was expected to rejoin the team this morning.

The 24-year-old New York Ranger was hit on the cheekbone when the puck from a Dennis Hull slapshot deflected off a stick. He was unconscious for about two minutes.

Team Canada, made up of stars from the National Hockey League, continued scrimmaging Thursday in preparation for its hockey series with the Soviet Union, beginning in Montreal Sept. 2.

Raiders' Highsmith Seeks Starting Nod

SANTA ROSA, Calif. (AP) — Don Highsmith, who finally has won his way into contention as a starting Oakland Raider halfback partly because of injuries to other players, says he was so discouraged he "nearly gave up football during the last two years."

Highsmith, drafted No. 13, started and starred in Monday night's 16-0 win over the Baltimore Colts and will open against the Rams Saturday night in Los Angeles.

He says he's been coming from behind ever since he left high school in New Brunswick, N. J.

"Sure I was disappointed to be drafted low," Highsmith says, "but not surprised. I've had that kind of trouble all my life."

Highsmith is back at halfback because Charlie Smith is coming off a 1971 injury and the Raiders' No. 3 all-time rusher is being brought along slowly in the exhibition season.

Clarence Davis, who had a good 1971 rookie season, will be out for about 10 weeks with a fractured scapula (shoulder blade) suffered in Monday's game.

Jeff Queen, recently traded from San Diego, will make his debut as a Raider in the Rams game.

"Queen is strictly a fullback type. We haven't thought about him playing the other spot now, but if the situation arises, I'm sure he could," Coach John Madden said yesterday.

THE DEFENSE

When not pitching, Bianchini, a third baseman-outfielder, and Billings, an outfielder, will join with Sherry to help tighten the defense. And largely because of them, Abballo thinks his chances of winning the tourney are good. "The boys we picked up are really going to help us defensively," he says. "And, of course we have more pitching than in recent years."

The tourney will be double elimination, with semi-final games tomorrow and finals Sunday.

Three Marinites competed in boys tricks. Bob La Point of Novato was ninth with 2.577, Larry Boivie of Bel Marin Keys 12th with 1,903 and Mike McGinley of San Rafael last in the field of 15 with 1,250. La Point and Boivie each fell on the second of two passes, and McGinley fell on both.

In action today, Mike Suyderhoud of Petaluma and Charles Sugarman of Mill Valley will compete in men's slalom, Joe Mitch of Bel Marin Keys and James Salmas of Novato (Thelma's husband) will compete in senior women's jumping, and La Point, Boivie and McGinley will compete in boys jumping.

GAMES

Hoover Wright decried the fact that the whole controversy had come up virtually on the eve of the quadrennial Games.

"I think it's a pity that any country would allow its athletes to work so hard and then use them as tools," he said. "As far as I'm concerned, it's a shame that politics has to get involved."

"It's a shame we can't run these Games without any overtones of politics," Lentz agreed. "This is unnecessarily hurting some very fine athletes."

DAUME ATTITUDE

Daume's attitude that only Ethiopia had "officially" withdrawn from the games through Thursday is based on very technical grounds, according to the rules of the International Olympic Committee. The IOC, a non-government group, accepts as official only communications from the National Olympic Committees of the various countries, not from the governments of those countries.

Daume admits that five countries have indicated their intention to withdraw through government agencies, "nonofficial" in Olympic eyes. These are Tanzania, Sierra Leone, Liberia, Uganda, and Mali.

In addition, Daume says he has heard "through newspaper reports" about the intentions of Sudan, Somali, Zambia, Kenya, Nigeria, and Ghana.

Meanwhile, Olga Connally, a veteran of the U.S. women's Olympic track squad, has charged that team members are subject to censorship that smacks of Communist or Nazi dictatorship, the Washington Star-News reported today.

Mrs. Connally said: "We are constantly watched like children. Our names are written down for doing things. We cannot talk with the press.

"After the games, we are not permitted to write anything or make a statement about the trip unless you first submit your statement for Olympic approval by the Olympic Committee.

"There is a word for this — censorship. I had nine years of Communist Party censorship in Czechoslovakia and five years of the German Nazis. I don't want it anymore."

GOLF NOTES

Red Cross Tourney Deadline Is Slated

Peacock Gap golf course in San Rafael has announced that Wednesday is the deadline for entering the Aug. 25 Marin County Red Cross tournament.

The tourney is open to the public. A $20 registration fee will cover green fees, electric golf cart and luncheon.

Tournament chairman Allan Howells says that more than 90 prizes will be awarded, ranging from liquor to a silver wine cooler. The prizes have been donated by Marin merchants.

In action last week on Marin and Conoma County courses:

Dr. Cecil Coggins of Bel Marin Keys, a 71-year-old retired Navy admiral, shot a hole-in-one last Friday at Las Gallinas. He used a six-iron on the 125-yard, par-3 second hole. The shot was witnessed by Nat Arnold, Mrs. Dorothy Anderson and Mrs. May Salt.

PUSH BUTTON SELLING

By simply inserting a cartridge into a special video tape player (as shown at left), Ford and Lincoln-Mercury dealers will soon have at their fingertips the latest in electronic communications systems. The new system, called Ford Video Network, will be installed in nearly 4,000 dealerships by the end of this year. It will demonstrate new product features for customers and detail division merchandizing programs and marketing strategies. In time it will replace training films.

Artist At Heart Raises Profits

NEW YORK (UPI)—Individuals and corporations trying to succeed in the business world might analyze the unusual and successful career of Karabet (Gary) Simonyan.

The bearded Armenian from Turkey didn't want to be president of Computer Diode Corp. of Fair Lawn, N.J., even insisted he wasn't qualified. But he took over 15 months ago and increased the company's sales by more than 25 per cent in 1971.

Gary, 35, wanted to be an artist but wound up as an engineer and corporate "head chopper." He doesn't own a suit and seldom wears a tie, but he's as "square" as a toy block when it comes to worrying about the "bottom line" of a P-and-L statement. He's against war, yet he schemed his way into the U.S. Army.

What makes Gary run? Essentially, it's a determination to survive and prosper. And this desire is developed to a high degree. Originally he was motivated by a consuming desire to get out of Turkey where an Armenian holds minority status. Even though he really wanted to be an artist or architect, Gary took up engineering when he went to the United States on a student visa in 1954.

The Turkish government favored such "skill enrichment" courses, and he didn't want to lose the chance to study in the U.S.

Working almost literally day and night, Gary studied at the RCA Institute, two years at Brooklyn Polytechnic Institute and was graduated cum laude from Hofstra College, N.Y. with a B.S. degree in applied physics...all while holding a fulltime job.

"I wouldn't recommend that schedule to anyone," Gary told UPI. "I almost cracked up. But it was a way out of Turkey."

Late in 1959 Gary decided to enlist in the U.S. Army so he eventually could become a citizen of the United States. But he didn't have a passport.

"I did have a notebook full of Turkish writing and my photograph," said Simonyan. "So I decided to bluff it through as a passport. It was around Christmas. Everyone at the draft office was in a happy mood, so it worked and I got into the Army."

Three years later Gary joined Computer Diode and was named a vice president in 1967. Even though the company produced sophisticated electronic equipment and sold it tosuch bluechippers as the Bell System, RCA, Motorola, Lockheed, General Dynamics and the U.S. government, it had been losing money. Too much energy and money had gone into esoteric research that didn't sell. Too much fat in the staff.

"How to make a profit was my problem," said Gary. "It came right down to controlling expenses and concentrating on actual and meaningful business."

Heads rolled. Eighteen months ago C-D's semi-conductor operation had 125 employes. Today it has 60. "And we've maintained productivity even though the level of business climbed back to the original point," said Gary.

After getting the company "lean and fit," Gary turned to pricing. A unit that sold for 60 cents in 1970 sells today for $1.10.

One glamor product that does excite Gary is a "white diode and noise generating module." It's a tiny semi-conductor device that generates microwave and radio signals and spreads them evenly over the radio frequency spectrum.

Prices Higher In First Two Hours Of Trading

NEW YORK (UPI)—Prices moved higher in the first two hours today on the New York Stock Exchange. Trading was moderately active.

Market analysts said prices were responding to a degree to possible accords between the Nixon administration and the auto industry over the prices of 1973 model cars. General Motors has proposed cutting its planned increases by about one-third.

Franklin Mint, heading the most active issues on the Big Board, was off 3 at 36 5-8 on 382,600 shares.

Prices also moved higher on the American Stock Exchange. STP Corp. led the Amex activies, up 1 to 22 on 29,300 shares.

Steels were mostly mixed. Chemical stocks showed firmness. Union Carbide, Monsanto, Dow and Eastman Kodak were higher in fractions.

Among the oils, Superior, a big gainer recently moved ahead. United Airlines, Pan American and TWA all added fractions.

Rails and aircrafts were mixed to slightly higher while elections and computers pushed ahead significantly.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

IBM Growth Rate Is Difficult One To Beat

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I have been investing for nine years and hold American Express, Merck, American Hospital Supply, International Business Machines, Taylor Wine and Xerox. I have $2,000 available for investment now and would like a strong moving stock. I wonder if I should switch IBM and Taylor to Xerox? — P.T.

A. Your portfolio, now worth $36,000, is comprised of high-grade growth stocks. American Hospital (NYSE), Merck (NYSE) and Taylor Wine (OTC) have five-year annual average compound growth rates of 10 per cent. IBM (NYSE), Xerox (NYSE) and American Express(OTC) grew at 11 per cent, 17 per cent and 18 per cent, respectively.

Taylor Wine reported operating gains for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1972. Sales rose 6 per cent year-to-year and set a new record, as did earnings.

Although net income was up 10 per cent, per share results were up 3 to $1.29 a share, reflecting an increase in outstanding common. Institutional selling has been a major factor in the drop in share price from the record high at 58¾, although more than a dozen funds continue to hold about 5 per cent of the shares. Retain.

IBM, your smallest holding, continues to turn in superior sales and earnings growth, 23 per cent and 21 per cent, respectively, for the first half. Since December, shares have moved up 100 points, a rate of gain which is hard to beat.

Again, shares are rated hold. New capital should be invested in Tampax (OTC). At 17 per cent this company's growth rate is consistent with your other holdings. While shares command a rich multiple, long-term results should prove rewarding.

Astro Foods Inc. Plans Move Into New Building Next Year

Du Bain Gardiner

Astro Foods Inc. of 647 Irwin Street, San Rafael, will move into a new building next year behind the San Rafael Post Office and Blue Chip Stamp building.

Owner Paul H. Debes said he will build a 10,000-square-foot structure at the end of a cul-de-sac off Simms Street to double his space. This is the second major expansion for Astro Foods, which prepares custom package foods for commercial airlines.

About seven years ago, Debes opened Astro Foods in San Francisco, then moved to an expanded plant on Irwin Street in San Rafael four and one-half years ago.

Debes, a resident of Marin for 24 years, lives in San Rafael.

MYRON DU BAIN of Kentfield, senior vice president of Fireman's Fund American Insurance Companies, was one of the speakers at the American Bar Association convention in San Francisco on Wednesday.

DuBain urged greater cooperation in crime deterrence by cities, state and federal governments and industry, along with changes in the law to cut crime and eliminate the drug pusher.

JOHN J. GARDINER Jr. of Kentfield has joined the San Francisco investment firm of Davis, Skaggs & Co. Inc. as a vice president.

Gardiner has been with the Irving Lundborg division of Clark, Dodge & Co., Inc. for the past 18 years. He served as branch manager of the Sansome Street office, as general partner and vice president following incorporation of the firm. He is a graduate of Princeton University and was a captain in the U.S. Army field artillery during World War II.

Davis, Skaggs & Co. has branch offices in Sacramento and San Jose.

SAUSALITO CELLARS, a gourmet liquor shop with 800 selections of domestic and imported wines, opened today at 2951 Bridgeway in Sausalito, just north of the Shell Car Wash.

Owners Bette-Lou and Douglas F. Woods of San Rafael remodeled the building, which was formerly occupied by an auto supply store.

In addition to the wines, the Cellars carries a full line of domestic and imported beer, ale and malt liquor; a gourmet section, cheeses, cigars and a large selection of chilled champagnes.

The store is open from 9 a.m. to 10 p.m. seven days a week. "We have free delivery and ample free parking," said Woods.

HOLIDAY BOX OFFICE, which sells tickets for major attractions and special events in the Bay Area, opened this week in the lobby of San Rafael's Hoiday Inn at 1010 Northgate Drive.

Gary Koch, owner of the service, said the box office has tickets to such events as the Ringling Bros. Circus, Ice Follies, and legitimate shows at the Curran and Geary Theaters in San Francisco. Holiday Box Office is open Monday through Saturday from 10 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.

Koch has been associated with the Downtown Center Box Office in San Francisco. He lives in Santa Rosa but is moving to Terra Linda.

PROSPECTIVE BUSINESSMEN — The U.S. Small Business Administration will give a free one-day workshop for prospective business owners and managers on Monday, Aug. 21. The workshop will be from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. in room 15018 in the Federal Building, 450 Golden Gate Avenue, San Francisco. Advance registrations should be made with the United States Small Business Administration in San Francisco.

MOTOR HOMES are perfect companions for summer vacations and periodic tours but where do you keep them the rest of the year? And how about storage costs?

A new San Rafael firm called Fun World at 1532 Fourth Street has the answers to those questions. It has a purchase-rental investment plan which makes the motor home an income producer during its off hours and a tax shelter too.

Creators of this plan are John A. Schaller of Tiburon and Norman Germain of Mill Valley, former vice presidents of United California Bank, who set up Fun World. This is how the plan works:

The customer has the privilege of storing his motor home on the Fun World lot when he's not using it. The two former bank executives will act as agents and rent it out for him.

Fun World also has a factory pick-up plan which allows a customer to fly free to one of the factories in Boise, Idaho or Los Angeles, see how the motor home is made, then drive it back home on part of the free 100 gallons of gasoline that go with the offer.

KILMER & SPENCER, management consultants on Montgomery Street in San Francisco, will be moving to new and expanded quarters at 650 California Street near Kearny at the end of this month.

The principals are David C. Kilmer of Belvedere and William M. Spencer Jr. of Mill Valley.

ROSS VALLEY SAVINGS and Loan Association, with headquarters in San Anselmo, has installed a major new computer system to increase customer services in its Fairfield and Vallejo offices.

Ross Valley Savings, a subsidiary of Financial Corporation of Santa Barbara, has new branches under construction in Greenbrae, Milpitas and Walnut Creek.

JANE FORSTER Realty office on Bolinas Roadin Fairfax has added two new staff members. They are Edna de Spain, who has had 30 years experience in the restaurant and catering field and William Heaney, who was district manager for Sunshine Biscuit Co. for 20 years. Both are long time residents of Marin.

BIRTHDAY QUIZ

By GORDON B. GREB

Dear Mr. Quiz:
I have been told that in the Far East people count their birthdays differently. Orientals add one year to their ages on New Year's Day. So a baby born December 31st is considered one year old the next day, January 1st. Is that right?
Signed: Westerner

Dear Wes:
Almost right! True, this is the custom for people living in China, Korea, and Japan. Observing a person's birthday came into existence only after we began recording time by a calendar. However, the Chinese use a different calendar. January 1st is our New Year's, not theirs! Also customs differ according to religion. They believe that youth lasts from birth to 32 years of age, middle age from 32 to 40, and old age from 40 to 60. So it's a happy day for the Oriental who becomes 60, because he believes a new life cycle begins on his 61st birthday. Young again in your 60s? Yes and a good idea for a lot of us westerners to adopt!

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Quality Of Play Counted More Than Nationality in Olympiad

Several players in the recent World Bridge Olympiad represented countries in which they had not been born. The Swiss team included among its six members an American, an Italian, a Lebanese and a Bolivian. Expatriate Hungarians played for Australia and Brazil, among other countries. What counted was the qulity of their bridge rather than their birthplace.

Opening lead — ♠ 2

When this hand came along in an international tournament in London, Claude Rodrigue, a leading British expert born in Egypt, demonstrated that first-class bridge has no nationality.

Rodrigue took the ace of spades and returned the suit to get on with the job of setting up dummy's long suit. East won and returned a diamond to dummy's ace.

Rodrigue ruffed a spade, drew one round of trumps with the ace and led a club to dummy's ace to ruff another spade. This set up dummy's last spade.

LEADS CLUBS

To reach dummy Rodrigue led the ing of clubs and continued with a low club. West could not afford to ruff, since then declarer would discard the losing diamond from dummy.

When West discarded, dummy could ruff and declarer could lead dummy's last spade and discard the losing diamond from his own hand. No matter what West did, declarer could surely ruff dummy's remaining diamond and then ruff his own last club in dummy.

TRUMP LOSS

The defenders could get only two trumps and one spade. If Rodrigue had tried to limit the trump loss to one trick he would have wound up with only nine tricks instead of ten. Live and let live is a good motto in all countries, at least at the bridge table.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one club, and the next player passes.

You hold:
♠ Q J
♥ 6
♦ 9 8 7 6 2
♣ Q J 7 4 3.
What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two clubs. As a rule, you show a new suit rather than raise partner's minor suit.

In this case, your diamond suit is not worth showing. The important feature of the hand is your club support.

Billboards Receive Michigan Reprieve

LANSING, Mich. (UPI — Because of the cost involved— an estimated $15 million —the job of removing 15,000 illegal billboards dotting Michigan highways will be spread over a five-year period.

The billboards became illegal when the legislature passed a stiff control law to qualify for federal funds. About 75 per cent of the cost of the removal will be for compensation of billboard owners whose signs are torn down.

Anti-Nixon Group Hit In U.S. Suit

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Justice Department filed suit Thursday against a group which seeks to impeach President Nixon, saying the group should be prevented from collecting or spending funds unless it complies with the Federal Campaign Election Act.

The department said that on May 31 the National Committee for Impeachment paid for an advertisement in the New York Times which "had the purpose of influencing the election of persons to federal office."

The full-page ad reproduced a resolution calling for the impeachment of Nixon and sought support for congressional and presidential candidates advocating impeachment.

The suit filed in Manhattan Federal Court seeks both permanent and preliminary injunctions. The injunctions would prevent the group from collecting or disbursing funds until they submit reports on such activities as required by federal law. The suit also requests that they be required to comply in the future with federal law.

Attorney General Richard G. Kleindienst, in Washington, said the suit is the first of its kind to be filed under the law which took effect April 7.

Earthquake Hits Southwest Pacific

BOULDER, Colo. (UPI)—The National Earthquake Information Center said a large earthquake hit the Southwest Pacific Thursday near New Britain and Bougainville Islands.

Europe May Enter Mideast Picture

LONDON (UPI)—A Middle East peace initiative led by the European Common Market countries is under active consideration, diplomatic sources reported today.

Egypt has put out feelers to European governments and apparently favors a European initiative to coincide with the opening of the U.N. General Assembly next month.

The plan is for members of the expanded European Community, including the Common Market countries and Britain, to join the new initiative, which would group key European and Mediterranean nations outside superpower activities.

Foreign ministers of the "Ten"—the six Common Market countries, Britain and the other three candidate members, Denmark, Norway and Ireland —are to meet next month, when the idea of a Middle East initiative will be seriously considered and elaborated, the sources said.

France reportedly is showing strong interest. It is especially the French in whom Egypt is placing its trust. Cairo, however, also has been sounding London recently and Anglo-Egyptian relations have shown a marked improvement.

Egyptian soundings were said to be continuing, though no specific cut and dried proposals have so far been advanced for a new concrete peace plan of the Auropeans.

The United States is standing aside at present from this proposed venture, following its own strategy. Pending the presidential election, the Europeans apparently might prefer to do their own peace probing.

These developments are linked to the latest remarks by Egyptian President Anwar Sadat to the Egyptian National Assembly, referring to impending "moves by Western Europe" among other possible international efforts to break the Middle East deadlock.

Egypt's latest soundings in Europe have also been for possible arms supplies, to replace and supplement Russian weapons, amid indications that the Soviets may block further arms deliveries altogether unless basic Russian demands are met.

Those in the West favoring a major European initiative hold that it would provide a singular opportunity for the European Community to establish itself as a major political force outside the activities of the superpowers.

Belated Rescue In Utah Road Accident

BEAVER, Utah (UPI) —The Utah Highway Patrol found a 19-year-old California motorcyclist Thursday nearly 36 hours after he ran his bike off the highway near here.

Troopers said John Bunzell, Canoga Park, was incoherent and couldn't remember the wreck. He was taken to Beaver Valley Hospital where he was listed in satisfactory condition with neck injuries.

Eight Picked To National Arts Panel

WASHINGTON (AP) — Eight persons from the fields of art, entertainment and television were appointed by President Nixon yesterday to six-year terms on the National Council on the Arts.

The 26-member council advises on the distribution of millions of dollars to encourage and support U.S. cultural programs.

The new members are actress Rosalind Russell of Beverly Hills, Calif.; motion picture actor-producer-director Clint Eastwood of Sherman Oaks, Calif.; James Drobertson, director and treasurer of the San Francisco Opera Association, trustee and executive board member of the San Francisco Conservatory of Music and governor of the San Francisco Symphony;

Novelist Eudora Welty of Jackson, Miss., and Henry U. Cauthen of Columbia, S.C., general manager of the South Carolina Educational Television Network and president of the Southern Educational Communications Association.

Plot Announced In Highjack Of S.F.-Bound Flight

Skyjacker Wants $2 Million For Crippled Vietnamese Children

VANCOUVER, B.C. (UPI)—A hijacker who said he was part of a plot to bomb commercial airliners until the Vietnam War is ended, hijacked a United Air Lines jet from Reno, Nev., to Canada today and demanded $2 million in ransom to be given to crippled children in Vietnam.

The plane carrying the hijacker and three crewmembers landed at Vancouver International Airport at 9:32 a.m. PDT.

Passengers on the regularly scheduled Boeing 727 flight from Reno to San Francisco were released before the plane took off from Reno.

A spokesman for United Air Lines in Chicago said the hijacker had demanded that a message be read over a Vancouver radio station saying "he was part of an organized effort to destroy United Air Lines aircraft until the war in Vietnam was ended and that the ransom money be donated to crippled children in Vietnam."

The message was read several times over radio station CJOR, and the hijacker apparently tuned in on the broadcasts from the plane.

The hijacker demanded the plane be readied for takeoff to Seattle, Wash., when Canadian officials said they could not supply the amount of money he wanted in American currency and gold.

Vancouver officials said the hijacker had asked for $500,000 in unmarked 20-dollar bills, $500,000 in unmarked 50-dollar bills and 15 pounds of gold in one-ounce unmarked bars. He also demanded a submachine gun and pistols to be delivered by the Royal Canadian Mounted Police (RCMP).

The Canadian Department of Transport told the hijacker that his demands could not be met in Vancouver because there was not that much American currency in "all of British Columbia."

According to transportation officials the hijacker then said, "Let's go back to Seattle and get this thing settled once and for all." They said the pilot of the plane then told them he would refuel and then go "back to Seattle and wind up this whole ball of wax."

A radio message from the captain of the plane said at one

Conklin Asks Ouster Of 2 EOC Trustees

Director Claims Pair 'Would Destroy' Agency

By ERIK M. INGRAM

The Marin County Economic Opportunity Council's executive director has called for the ouster of two board members whom he claims are out "to destroy the agency."

The Marin County Economic Opportunity Council's executive director has called for the ouster of two board members whom he claims are out "to destroy the agency."

In a letter to all 21 board members, executive director Alfred R. Conklin III requested the full board "to consider and vote on the removal of Mr. William J. Bielser and Mr. J. Kevin Donovan . . . at the next regular meeting, Sept. 6."

Conklin said he was requesting their removal for what he considers improper action last month when they urged state officials to block a $90,000 federal grant earmarked for the agency.

Conklin's letter was condemned by Bielser and Donovan, who labeled it "insanity, but typical of how the EOC operates." Other board members gave mixed reaction.

Conklin yesterday told the Independent-Journal he will ask the full board to amend agency by-laws so that the removal — currently not permitted — can take place.

Cause of this, the latest EOC controversy, is a telegram sent Gov. Ronald Reagan in which Bielser and Donovan said they coukdn't support continuation of the agency as it exists. They urged funding be withheld.

Conklin said he considered their action to be in direct conflict with trust placed in board members to "refrain from doing anything that would work injury" to EOC.

"The sending of this telegram by these board members proves that they seek not the success of the agency but its destruction, and that they are willing to refute their legal and moral duties as board members in order to bring this about," he wrote.

The 31-year-old attorney, hired to head the agency administration in June despite protests by Bielser and Donovan, said he believed their removal was necessary "if the agency is to succeed."

"There's no legal basis for what he's proposing," said Donovan, also an attorney.

(Under the agency's by-laws, a member can only be removed by the board if he misses more than three consecutive meetings.)

Donovan and Bielser long have been at odds with other board members over agency spending which calls for spending more than $150,000 this year, mostly on staff salaries.

Both have urged that the EOC close its doors and reopen under a different name with a new staff and board of directors. They were instrumental in bringing about federal investigation into the EOC misuse last year of about $100,000.

Bielsen said yesterday, "My position was much the same as the county board of supervisors when it recently denied county funding, namely that the agency isn't providing services to the poor of Marin County but rather is acting as kind of a 'gadfly,' encouraging other charitable agencies to do what they already are doing.

"For that, we are spending $150,000 and have seven employees. It's a waste of the taxpayers' money since the monew isn't getting to the people who need it — the poor."

Donovan said he agreed "in spades" with Bielser. "This is the biggest rip-off in the county. Conklin doesn't care, he's got a job — in a cinerarium. This is not an antipoverty agency, it's a debating society for foggy ideas."

Meanwhile, board chairman Barbara Eaton backed up Conklin's move to bust her two fellow board members.

"I think it was intended as an ultimatum," she said, adding she saw nothing wrong with the executive director urging removal of those for whom he works.

She said she shared Conklin's view on the impropriety of the telegram to Reagan and said, "It has become impossible to do anything but counterattack."

Mrs. Eaton said the letter was not an attempt to intimidate or muzzle board members who voice criticism of the agency. "I have no objection to criticism," she said, "but those who are opposed to exist-

U. S. Reveals 7 Bombing Errors

SAIGON (UPI) — A series of seven mistake bombings by American planes has killed 25 South Vietnamese soldiers and wounded 85 in the past 45 days, U.S. command figures showed today.

The command reported that six such incidents occurred during the period, but a check of daily communiques showed there had been seven such episodes.

Two of the incidents, including one Thursday, are still under investigation, a U.S. command spokesman reported. The others were blamed, variously, on failure of ground troops to mark their position, a faulty bomb release mechanism.

In action today Communist gunners hidden in nearby mountains slammed a 43-rocket barrage into the sprawling American air base at Da Nang killing an American airman, wounding 21 and destroying or damaging eleven U.S. aircraft.

Ten of the rounds landed on the South Vietnamese portion of the base and a village just outside, killing 27 civilians and wounding one government soldier and 24 civilians.

It was the third and largest attack on Da Nang this month and came one week after the last American ground combat unit in Vietnam —in charge of curbing rocket activity against the base —was deactivated. Protection of the key air base was turned over to the South Vietnamese.

Field reports said the two-hour shower of rockets destroyed one 02 Super Skymaster light observation plane and an HH53 Super Jolly Green Giant helicopter in their bunkered revetments, heavily damaged two more 02s, lightly amaged four others and damaged three EC47 electronic spy planes. Two buildings on the base also were damaged.

In the air war, U.S. Air Force F4 Phantom jet fighter-bombers wrecked a key bridge on a rail line between Hanoi and China Thursday for the fourth time, the command said. Near the North Vietnamese main port of Haiphong, a surface to air missile (SAM) destroyed a U.S. Navy F4. The command said the two crewmen are missing.

In addition to Da Nang, Communist gunners put 24 rounds of 122mm rockets into the South Vietnamese base and refugee camp at Chu Lai—35 miles south of Da Nang—killing two persons and wounding 18, the Saigon command said.

A Communist artillery barrage aimed at government soldiers trying to recapture Quang Tri City, South Vientam's northernmost provincial capital, killed an American adviser Thursday, the U.S. command said.

The spokesmen reported that eight other aircraft were lightly damaged.

A team of Phantoms hit the CaoNung railroad bridge 50 miles northeast of Hanoi again Thursday, knocking it out for the fourth time in four months. The Phantoms used laser-guided bombs to destroy one of the five spans on the 190-foot-long bridge on a line that runs from the North Vietnamese capital to the China frontier.

GI Pullback To Be Told By Sept. 1

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The White House announced today that President Nixon will make another announcement of troop withdrawals from Vietnam before Sept. 1.

Presidential Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler confirmed the President's plans shortly after Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird said Nixon probably would announce the next U.S. troop cut within 10 days.

Fischer Is Hit By Suit, Chess Draw

REYKJAVIK (UPI)—Bobby Fischer, possibly worried by a $1.75 million lawsuit filed against him, offered a draw today in the 15th game of the world chess championship after two moves. Boris Spassky immediately accepted.

Fischer heard about the lawsuit on radio before the start of today's game although aides had hoped to keep the news from him until after the game. The suit was brought by Chester Fox alleging breach of contract because Fischer refused to allow televison coverage of the games.

Today Fischer played through two quick moves, then offered his hand to Spassky and the champion agreed on the draw.

Fischer retained a full three-point lead in the $250,000 match, 9 points to 6, but failed in his hope to pull off a victory which some grandmasters had forecast when the game was adjourned Thursday evening.

Neither player was on stage when arbiter Lothar Schmid walked up and started Fischer's clock. Spassky, his king in check, had sealed his 41st move before adjournment.

GUADALCANAL INCIDENT

Hero Gets His Due —30 Years After

By PAT PERRY

Just 30 years ago, at 1:53 a.m. on Aug. 9, 1942, Quartermaster Royal Radke was standing watch on the bridge of the heavy cruiser Astoria off Savo Island, protecting the first U.S. landing on Guadalcanal.

A seasoned battle veteran, Radke, then 23, knew immediately what the sudden drone meant — Japanese planes. He requested permission to sound the general alarm, but the officer on watch, an inexperienced young lieutenant, hesitated.

Radke asked again, but was told the captain must make the decision.

Placing what he believed to be his obligation to the men aboard ahead of respect for rank, the young sailor yanked the red lever which sounded the alarm.

The Astoria suffered several direct hits in the ensuing attack, but because of his early warning the crew had time to seal the ship's water-tight doors.

When the Astoria sank 10 hours later more than 800 of its 1,200 crew members were rescued.

Radke, a most modest man who is now a foreman mason in Larkspur, forgot about the entire incident. He was discharged from the Navy as a chief quartermaster in 1945, then settled in California.

Forgot about the incident, that is, until last week when he learned through a newspaper clipping from the Los Angeles Times that survivors of the Astoria's crew had been searching for him for months, searching so hard that they had enlisted the help of the FBI and sundry congressmen.

When Radke got in touch with the survivors — who were organizing the 30th reunion of the Astoria crew — he was promptly catapulted into such honor and acclaim that he blushed on recalling it the other day at his home at 145 Magnolia Avenue, Larkspur, where he lives with his wife, Berta, and their three children, 19-year-old twins Kirk and Lisa and 15-year-old Melanie.

"They flew me up by jet Friday to Gerhardt by the Sea in Oregon," recounted Radke at

Officials Call Talks 'A Review'

Kissinger flew direct to Tokyo after six hours of secret talks with South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu Thursday and today in Saigon. Neither side disclosed details of the conferences.

"These talks provided an opportunity for a general review of all aspects of the situation in South Vietnam as well as of the talks which have taken place in Paris with representatives of the Democratic Republic of Vietnam," an official statement said.

It did little to lift the secrecy which surrounded his visit, which began with almost no warning Wednesday night.

Kissinger was seen off at Saigon's Tan Son Nhut air base by his South Vietnamese counterpart, Nguyen Phu Dug, who is President Thieu's foreign affairs assistant, and U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker.

Prior to the Kissinger's arrival, Japanese authorities stationed hundreds of riot police on the tarmac, around the terminal and along roads near the airport. Scores of police vans parked in strategic areas.

Authorities apparently were taking precautions against increased leftist activity that in past weeks has seen demonstrators trying to block shipments

Ross Town Council Passes Final Budget

The Ross Town Council last night approved a $330,542 budget for the 1972-73 fiscal year, an increase of $126,196 from the previous budget.

The tax rate was set at $1.83 per $100 assessed valuation, a 17-cent boost over last year's $1.66 tax rate (the steepest increase in 10 years).

The budget approved at last night's special meeting was the same as the tentative budget discussed in the last few weeks.

It includes $15,000 for expansion of police headquarters and the town clerk's office, $5,500 for consultant work to bring the community's master plan into compliance with new state planning laws and $4,500 for legal work arising from the Corte Madera Creek Flood Control Project.

Those items represent 20 cents of the tax rate.

The year's spending program also includes 2.5 per cent cost-of-living pay increases for all employees and 5 per cent merit raises for nine employees. The raises will cost $5,808.

The town of Ross will realize $229,482 from the new property tax rate, with the balance of the town's income coming from sales taxes, licenses and fees, fines, and other sources.

Fire, $52,196 ($47,765); police, $76,915, ($70,689); streets $33,549 ($31,808); general government, $62,623 ($47,964); parks and boulevards, $36,861 ($32,816); storm drains and flood control, $25,000 ($23,473); retirement fund, $13,000 ($12,000); workmen's compensation, $8,065 ($9,600).

Typhoon's Toll Is Raised To 12

TAIPEI (UPI)—Typhoon Betty's death toll rose to 12 today as nine more bodies were recovered, a police spokesman said.

Four other persons were reported missing and feared dead, he said.

The typhoon, the first to hit the island this summer, caused flooding that destroyed 270 houses, the spokesman said. Eleven flood control dikes were breached but the damage was not serious, he said.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Mrs. Irving Released

NEW YORK (UPI) — Edith Irving has completed a two-month term in Nassau County Jail for her part in the Howard Hughes "autobiography" hoax and now expresses deep reservations about the future of her marriage.

Mrs. Irving

The wife of author Clifford Irving, who is to begin serving a 2½ year term Aug. 28, told reporters yesterday that "prison can change people." She was interviewed in the office of Sheriff Michael Senuik one day before her release.

"I don't want to make plans for the future, I just don't know if it is the best thing to stay together", she said of her marriage. She described Irving as "desperate at the thought that our marriage might break up."

The slender 36-year-old blonde, clad in prison garb, was generally composed during the interview. But the thought that her two children might have to be placed in a home if she is jailed in Switzerland brought her to the verge of tears.

She said she is voluntarily returning to her native Switzerland to face charges of forging identification documents in connection with the hoax. She is charged with using a false passport — identifying her as Helga R. Hughes — to deposit and cash checks made out to H.R., meaning Howard R. Hughes.

Colonial Rule?

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — The United Nations Decolonization Committee was called into session today to hear Cuban charges that Puerto Rico has been under U.S. colonial rule for the past 73 years.

About 100 representatives of Puerto Rican independence organizations flew into New York yesterday to bring their cause before the United Nations. They also called a demonstration outside U.N. headquarters this afternoon.

The door for a debate on whether Puerto Rico is a U.S. colony was formally opened when the 22-member Decolonization Committee decided to take up today the problem of territories not specifically listed as colonies.

GIs Evacuated

HONOLULU (UPI) — Hurricane Celeste changed course last night, forcing evacuation of some of the American 580 servicemen stationed on remote Johnston Island.

An aircraft carrier was dispatched to the tiny atoll 800 miles south of the Hawaiian chain to pick up 65 persons. Celeste is expected to pass 175 miles east of the island today.

The National Weather Service said tropical storm Diana, with winds up to 50 miles per hour would hit the island of Hawaii today, causing heavy showers and surf with the possibility of some local flooding.

Celeste had earlier been expected to pass 300 miles from Johnston, the storehouse for America's nerve and mustard gas. The hurricane's winds near the center were 85 knots with gusts to 110 knots and accompanying thunderstorms.

Segregation Push

SALISBURY (UPI) — New moves toward formal racial segregation in Rhodesia will be taken by the ruling Rhodesian Front Party next month, sources in the party said.

They said provisions would be made to segregate by race public parks, swimming pools, cinemas, buses and toilets.

A confidential document prepared by a special party subcommittee said that while the races are interdependent in Rhodesia "there are differences which must be acknowledged and respected," the sources said.

Riot Troops Due

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Starting today about 2,500 U.S. troops trained in riot control will be flown to Florida to stand by in the event of trouble at the Republican National Convention.

A Pentagon spokesman said the troops would start arriving at Homestead Air Force Base about 30 miles south of the Miami Beach Convention site today. The airlift will be completed Saturday.

The GOP convention starts Monday. Federal trooops also were sent to Florida for the Democratic Convention in July, but the event was peaceful and the troops were not used.

Economy Is Moving At Fast Pace

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Inflation slowed sharply and real growth in the economy achieved its fastest pace in almost seven years during this year's second quarter, Commerce Department reports showed today.

The quarterly reports said corporate profits jumped during the April through June period despite the effects of tropical storm Agnes.

At the same time, the Commerce Department said, the inflation rate fell to 1.8 per cent, compared to 5.1 per cent for the January to March quarter. With the exception of the fourth quarter of last year, when prices were held artificially low by the government's freeze, it was the best inflation report since the fourth quarter of 1965.

A separate report said before-tax book profits of U.S. businesses in the April-June quarter rose $4.9 billion over the first three months of the year to a seasonally adjusted annual rate of $93.1 billion.

The quarter-to-quarter profit increase would have reached $6.7 billion at an annual rate without the losses in plant and equipment and inventories resulting from the Atlantic seaboard flooding.

The second quarter also saw a growth in the Gross National Product (GNP) of 11.4 per cent at an annual rate. This was slightly less than the 12 per cent growth rate of the first three months of 1972.

Real growth in the economy— output minus the effects of price increases—was estimated at 9.4 per cent in the second quarter. This was the best quarterly growth record since the fourth quarter of 1965.

Commerce Department officers estimated there was a $2.9 billion increase in after-tax profits—the sixth consecutive quarterly rise.

"The up trend in profits is encouraging for the economy as a whole because they provide both the incentive and part of the funds for expanding production and adding new facilities, which create more jobs and more income," said Assistant Commerce Secretary Harold C. Passer.

Among the major components of the GNP, only net exports and personal savings declined. Increases were noted in inventory investment, consumer spending, business fixed investment, residential construction and federal, state and local government purchases.

School Busing Curb Gets 282-102 Win In House

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The House early today voted for strong new antibusing restrictions, going one step further than President Nixon proposed but stopping just short of banning school racial busing of any sort.

The bill would require a court to first try a list of alternative methods of desegregating a school before it could order busing. If busing is ordered, as a last resort, students still could not be sent beyond the second nearest school to their home.

The measure, passed on a 282-102 roll call vote after a 13-hour session, went to the Senate where it faces its stiffest test.

Rep. Don Clausen, R-First District, voted for the bill while Rep. William S. Mailliard, R-Sixth District, voted against it.

Nixon had proposed that a "second nearest school" provision apply only to grade school pupils, but it was widened to cover all students in an amendment by Rep. Edith Green, D-Ore., which was approved on a 178-88 vote.

Black members of the House, defeated on repeated efforts to insert nullifying language on the busing restrictions, bitterly attacked the measure as an affront to blacks.

"The solution to this whole problem is for the House to instruct the Supreme Court to stop enforcing the 13th amendment and return us to involuntary slavery," said Rep. William Clay, D-Mo.

"Maybe I am asking too much that this body be decent, honest and just," said Rep. Parren Mitchell, D-Md.

The Green amendment, the key proposal among nearly 30 amendments offered to the measure, would also permit schools now under desegregation orders to get them reopened in court and make them comply with the new restrictions.

The amendment also provided for immediate termination, upon enactment of the bill into law, of old desegregation court orders brought against a unitary school system. That is described as "one within which no person is to be effectively excluded from any school because of race, color or national origin."

Southerners who prepared that provision of the Green amendment described it as more important than the reopening clause since most of their schools ordered integrated over the years now qualify as unitary systems and can get immediate relief from those orders.

Nixon orginally proposed that all court ordered busing end five years after enactment of the bill into law and all other court ordered desegregation not involving busing end after 10 years.

The House rejected, on a 211-174 vote, an amendment by Rep. James G. O'Hara, D-Mich., that would have flatly banned court ordered busing under any conditions.

Backers of the measure predicted courts would find the bill constitutional and said it was needed to stop "the emotional crisis in our land over busing of children."

Rep. William M. Colmer, D-Miss., a veteran busing foe, said "this matter of achieving racial balance is equally as important as the Vietnam war itself in the minds of the people. The great majority of the people, including the President, want to see an end to the war today and they also want to see an end at the earliest date to this intolerable situation of taking children and transporting them up to 20, 30, even 40 miles away from their homes."

Ofkir Death May Have Weakened King Hassan

RABAT, Morocco (UPI)— Mohamed Oufkir fired a bullet through his brain allegedly out of anguish for failing to prevent an attempt to assassinate his king, Hassan II. But the sacrifice may have weakened the position of the very man to whom he was so devoted.

Diplomatic observers said today the king faced great pressure from various factions in this North African nation without the aid of Oufkir, the strongman of his regime.

An Army uprising in July, 1971, nearly took Hassan's life. A referendum on resulting constitutional reforms was boycotted by the nation's two leading political parties.

Oufkir, 48, Hassan's defense minister, was a pillar of the king's regime because rebellion. Oufkir, a mystical person, and army. At the time of the 1971 the bloody attempted assassination that threatened in the middle of a cabinet meeting to kill himself in remorse over the bloody attempted assassination that cost 92 lives, official circles said.

Official sources said the king's altered position was discussed at a cabinet meeting Thursday night. Oufkir's interim successor, Communications Minister Gen. Driss Ben Aomar El Alami said the armed forces remained loyal to the king.

3 p.m.—Air Force officers at the Kenitra air base, 40 miles north of Rabat, order American military and civilian training personnel into a clubhouse for their protection.

4 p.m.—F5 fighter planes from Kenitra attack the king's royal aircraft returning him from a private visit from France. The king seizes the plane radio, and, pretending to be a mechanic, tells the mutinous pilots that the king is dying and the two royal pilots dead. He asks that the plane with its survivors be allowed to land.

4:20 p.m.—Plane lands. The king cooly reviews an army honor guard and greets ambassadors and members of his government as if nothing had happened.

5 p.m.—Rebel pilots, realizing they were tricked, strafe the airport, killing eight and wounding 47. The king escapes by hiding in a grove of pine trees.

Approximately 7 p.m.—Tanks of the loyal army crash into the Kenitra base. Eight rebel pilots are captured, two escape and two others fly to Gibraltar.

12:30 a.m. Thursday—Oufkir commits suicide, officials nnounced.

Officials announced Oufkir's funeral would be held today

McGovern Has SCLC Support

DALLAS (UPI)—Mrs. Martin Luther King Jr., widow of the founder of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC), and SCLC President Ralph Abernathy Thursday night appealed to the membership to work against re-election of President Nixon.

"I made it clear we weren't going to endorse anyone in the Republican or Democratic party," Abernathy said. The SCLC in its 15-year history has not endorsed a presidential candidate.

"But the spirit of the Lord is upon me tonight and I am going to give an endorsement tonight. We are going to go out there and with your help we're going to elect Democrat George McGovern as the next president."

Mrs. Coretta King, who spoke during an emotional moment at the SCLC convention at the Fair Park outdoor bandshell, said Nixon should not be re-elected because of his failure to end the war in Vietnam as he had promised.

She said in 1967 her husband was criticized for "calling this an unjust and immoral war."

"Now, five years later," she said, "more than 59 per cent of the working people in America believe it to be a war that is unjust and immoral."

British Dockworkers Approve Pact

LONDON (UPI)—Longshoremen in London today joined a nationwide back-to-work stampede in defiance of appeals by left-wing militants to carry on the 21-day-old port shutdown.

A mass meeting of about 3,000 London dockers voted to return to the job Monday.

They left dockers in Liverpool and Manchester as the only real hardline holdouts against ending the strike.

Some longshoremen jumped the gun on the end of the strike and began unloading fruit, iron ore, animal feed and other cargo for the first time since the strike began.

Shop stewards barred all entrances to an East London port where 3,000 of London's 10,000 longshoremen staged a mass meeting. They barred newsmen, photographers and television crews.

Several photographers were attacked physically and manhandled. Militants threatened to throw bricks through windows of houses whose owners had amitted reporters and photographers to watch from a distance.

The voting figures were not at once apparent. But some dockers who attended said the majority for ending the strike was between three and four to one.

The back-to-work vote came at the end of a stormy meeting during which militant leaders Bernie Steer and Vic Turner appealed to longshoremen to stay off the job.

Elsewhere, thousands more longshoremen voted to end the walkout—some before the Sunday midnight deadline set by their delegates in a 53-30 majority vote Wednesday to end the strike.

In ports where work already had resumed, longshoremen began unloading bananas for the first time since the start of the port shutdown. Cotton bales, animal feed and iron ore, stacked since July 28 in holds of strikebound ships, came ashore too.

Longshoremen walked out nationwide July 28 in a dispute over job security. They demanded dock workers be employed at inland depots which pack complete containers for sea shipment. They also wanted guarantees of future jobs.

NBC To Produce Series On China

NEW YORK (UPI)—Mrs. Lucy Jarvis, who once filmed a documentary on the Kremlin, has obtained permission to film a series of programs on China for NBC-TV.

Mrs. Jarvis and her five-man production crew are expected in China within five weeks.

Smog Board Postpones Action On Critical Organization Study

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

SAN FRANCISCO — Bay Area smog officials yesterday took their first official action on a report highly critical of their performance — they shelved it for at least a month.

The chairman of the Air Pollution Control District insisted that the directors needed more time to digest the report for which they paid management consultants $45,000.

The 18 directors received the report, which takes about one hour to read, on Aug. 9.

The board chairman, San Mateo County Supervisor Robert B. St. Clair, also argued that the staff needed time to respond to recommendations by the consultants. The district's top administrator, D. J. Callaghan, said even more than one month will be needed for the staff to review and comment on the report.

Despite that need for study, the board rejected a key recommendation that the district's attorney report o the board rather than to Callaghan. It was an acrimonious dispute between Callaghan and the former attorney that led to the management study.

Callaghan initiated a board move to fire the former attorney, Matthew S. Walker, but the move was stymied in a split vote. Walker, the district's attorney for 17 years, resigned in July to take a federal job.

Yesterday's unanimous vote to put aside the report for a month was contrary to the board's announced intention to dig into the report in an all-day session. The meeting instead was devoted almost exclusively to a description of their report by the consultants and subsequent debate over the attorney's position.

The board also avoided deciding how to handle the report, referring it to the executive committee, which promised to take it up as soon as possible.

Director William R. Jelavich, a Mountain View city councilman, warned that "if things start dragging, we'll be several months down the line without much action, and end up with a nice package sitting on a shelf in the library."

Despite its critical tone, the report was praised by most directors. An exception was Alameda County Supervisor Joseph P. Bort, who said "a lot of what they told us we could have done ourselves a lot cheaper."

The report, by Cresap, McCormick and Paget Inc. of San Francisco, said district directors frequently do not know what is going on and do not know what they want to do or how to do it because they spend too little time at their jobs and get too little help from the staff.

It also said Callaghan has too much power and should share it with subordinates. They recommended additional staff at a cost of up to $111,600 a year plus upgrading of existing staff at an annual additional cost of up to $69,300. They also suggested directors' maximum annual pay be doubled to $2,400, which would cost up to an additional $21,600 a year, and that the advisory council be given $10,000 a year to hire outside consultants.

The consultants were silent yesterday on their proposal in the report that district business first be screened behind closed doors in committees of directors before public airing. Neither was the proposal mentioned by the directors, nor cited in a staff summary of the report.

The only other point discussed was the report's finding that widespread morale problems afflict the staff of the district. It said that its findings of a confidential survey of the staff "tend to suggest the existence of a rather authoritarian administrative philosophy."

Mayor Joseph L. Alioto, a district director, objected that staff dissatisfaction detected by the consultants was typical of any organization. The consultants, however, repeated their assertion that a normal level of dissatisfaction would be up to 30 per cent of the staff, while they had found up to 82 per cent of the staff dissatisfied with some district practices.

It was also Alioto who criticized the consultants' recommendation that the attorney be responsible to the board instead of Callaghan. He argued this would be "somewhat disruptive of responsibility," adding that attorneys "by their nature make bad executives" and that "countless businesses have been ruined when attorneys attempted to take them over."

The board, with four members absent, voted 8-6 to make the attorney responsible only to the board, two votes short of the majority needed to approve the change. The issue then was referred with the full report to the executive committee.

Among the absent was Marin County Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. Sausalito City Councilman Stephen Fraser voted for making the change.

St. Clair summed up the outcome of the debate over the attorney's position: "We haven't accomplished a thing."

Bort commented that some board members' votes were based on "whether you are particularly fond of Mr. Callaghan."

Callaghan, questioned by Jelavich, acknowledged that he had "informally" sought candidates to fill the vacancy created by Walker's resignation. Jelavich noted that Callaghan did so without any instructions by the board.

The position pays $23,800 to $28,000 a year.

In related business, the board hired two former directors as $50-a-day consultants to guide handling of the report. The two are former Sausalito City Councilman Wyman Hicks and Dr. Nevin K. Hiester of Portola Valley. Both have professional experience as consultants.

Cotati Approves Preliminary Budget, Tax Rate Unchanged

The Cotati City Council last night approved a preliminary 1972-73 budget of $435,201 which would leave the tax rate unchanged.

The council had been scheduled to adopt the budget but said more changes may be made. The council has already cut $3,935 from the $439,136 budget proposed by City Mgr. Paul W. Salfen and said more juggling of department allotments will be considered.

The council agreed to boost the pay for police chief from $10,000 to $11,500 per year and said the increase will be helpful in seeking a replacement for Tony Locarini who has resigned as of Sept. 30. Mayor Annette Lombardi said 16 applications have been received for the chief's job even though the pay is still less than patrolmen make in other departments.

The city tax rate will remain at $1.25 per $100 assessed valuation.

The Cotati City Council also:

POLICE — Hired Charles W. Snyder, 37, a sergeant on the Martinez Police Department and Blaine W. Kimball, 34, of Rohnert Park, a member of the Cotati Police Reserves. They will replace William Jones who resigned last month and William Stewart who will leave Aug. 31 to join the Mendocino County Sheriff's Department.

RESIGNATION — Accepted the resignation of Michael Ohannesian from the planning commission because of ill health. Mayor Lombardi appointed Alfred Falleti, a former councilman, to serve on the commission until a permanent replacement is named Sept. 21.

BANDSTAND — Heard the parks and recreation commission suggest that a bandstand of weathered redwood be built at Plaza Park with volunteer labor and donated materials but asked that more study be given at the commission meeting next Wednesday at 8 p.m.

TRAFFIC — Received a petition from residents of Myrtle and Willow Avenues objecting to using their quiet streets as access routes to the Country Manor subdivision and urged the Rohnert Park City Council and Sonoma County Local Agency Formation Commission to follow the wishes of the residents.

MEETING — Adjourned to Sept. 7 at 7:30 p.m.

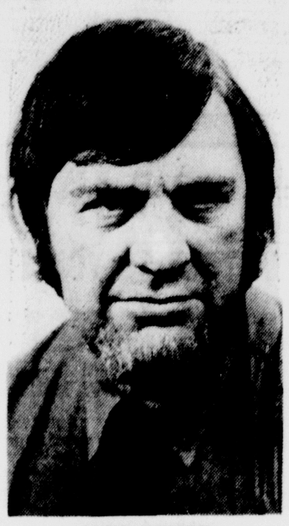
I-J Reporter Wins News Writing Award

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — The San Francisco Press Club at its annual awards banquet yesterday awarded Independent-Journal newsman Jeff Greer honorable mention for a story published Oct. 28 in the I-J.

Greer's story recounted how he and a dog became ordained ministers of the fledgling Hilltop House Church in San Rafael.

Other award winners from Marin at last night's banquet were Alice D. Yarish for her story entitled "The Narc Squad" in the Pacific Sun, judged best news story in a weekly paper, and Stepehen McNamara, the paper's publisher, who received honorable mention.



JEFF GREER
An honorable mention

The Press Club awarded San Francisco Examiner reporter Larry D. Hatfield of San Rafael first prize of $250 for the best daily cityside news story. Hatfield, a former I-J reporter, was honored for his story called "For III Guards — III Cons."

Other first place winners: Arthur Spander of the San Francisco Chronicle for the best daily sports story; Don West of the Examiner for the best daily story involving the writer's initiative; Kenneth Yim of the Palo Alto Times for best photograph by a daily or weekly news photographer, and Juan Vergara Hovey of the Oakland Tribune for the best daily cityside feature.

CHESS

Rev.) William Lombardy, then he called up Sammy Paalsson (his Icelandic policeman friend) and they went bowling."

"Of course, Bobby knew the law suit was in the offing but his business here is to play chess, to win the world title, not to bother with other matters," Cramer said.

One minute later Spassky strolled in. A sparse crowd gave him a round of applause and the Russian sat down to await Fischer. Another minute later he got up and left the stage.

About eight minutes late, Fischer charged into the hall and sat down.Schmid walked up with the brown envelope containing Spassky's 41st move, slit it open and handed it to the American challenger.

Spassky had opted to move his rook back to his knight seven square, blocking Fischer's check from the American's queen. U.S. Grandmaster Larry Evans, sitting in the corridor, nodded his head and said, "Yes, it was the only move."

Fischer arose and greeted Spassky, thought for 10 seconds, and made his next move —his queen to his rook eight square.

For the next two moves Fischer kept Spassky in check but the Russian systematically moved out. Then came the draw.

Fischer wheeled from his chair, extending his hand to arbiter Schmid—the man to whom he has directed three protests over playing conditions —and stalked from the stage.

his home, "and when I got there I found I was the guest of honor, all expenses paid.

"They said I saved their lives.

"I was very embarrassed, I can tell you, but I had a great time."

It was the first time he had met his old shipmates from the cruiser. "But when I was leaving they said, 'See you in three years in Monterey,' so I guess we'll have another reunion."

Radke, very reluctant to talk of his Navy experiences, did admit he came uncomfortably close to a court martial for his action.

"Two days after we got aboard the President Jackson troop transport, the minute the captain walked up he said: 'Who sounded the alarm?' and I said 'Yes Sir,' but nothing more happened to me."

Radke said he got a clearer picture of the 30-year-old battle last weekend at Oregon than he ever did on the Pacific.

"They showed us movies and photos from both U.S. and Japanese sources. You can see the Astoria's lower decks got hit hard, but they had set the water-tight doors when I sounded battle stations and about 700 of them down there got off.

"But the three heavy cruisers ahead of us sank very quickly."

Radke, who enlisted in the Navy in 1938 at Minneapolis when he was 17, explains how he came to disobey orders and pull that lever:

"I guess by that time I'd been in so many battles I could smell the torpedoes and that deck officer had never fought a battle before. I knew there wasn't any time to waste."

Lassen Area Wilderness Bill Progresses

WASHINGTON (UPI) —A large portion of Lassen Volcanic National Park and the Lava Beds National Monument in California would be preserved in a primitive state under a bill that cleared a major legislative hurdle Thursday.

The House Interior Committee approved a measure to designate 79,000 acres of the 106,000-acre park as wilderness — which would prohibit roads or other manmade structures.

About 28,340 acres of the 46,000-acre monument would also be added to the National Wilderness Preservation System.

Environmentalist groups argued for more area in the wilderness designation. Amendments to that affect by Rep. John P. Saylor, R-Pa., were rejected by two committees in favor of compromise proposals by Rep. Harold T. Johnson, D-Calif.

Sadat To Campaign For U.S. Support

CAIRO (UPI)—President Anwar Sadat will launch a worldwide campaign including the United States to secure moral and material support for Egypt in its conflict with Israel, parliamentary sources said today.

They said Sadat announced his plans in a secret session of Parliament yesterday.

of tanks and other vehicles bound for South Vietnam from an American repair and supply depot near Yokohama. However, there was no evidence of demonstrators at the airport for Kissinger's arrival.

In addition to talks with Japan's new leadership, including Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka who took over the reins of government in July, Kissinger reportedly had an unscheduled, secret meeting with leaders of Nationalist China.

U.S. Ambassador Robert S. Ingersoll and John Holdridge, a member of the President's National Security Council, met Kissinger at the airport. Kissinger entered a car immediately after disembarking from the plane and headed for his hotel without meeting newsmen.

Holdridge told UPI that Kissinger's trip to Japan was "just a chance to get things straightened out. He was in the area and the President thought it was a good idea to get things straightened out for the meeting in Hawaii.(when Nixon meets Japan's leaders)."

Meanwhile in Paris the North Vietnamese delegation to the Paris peace talks said Thursday that neither private talks nor the peace conference itself has made any progress towards a settlement of the Vietnam war.

Briefing news reporters after the 155th session of the deadlocked talks, Hanoi delegation spokesman Nguyen Thanh Le said, "There has been no progress either in private or public talks.

"At the same time President Nixon is intensifying the bombing," Le charged.

Since the departure of private negotiator Henry A. Kissinger and Le Duc Tho for Vietnam, the Communist side has discounted speculation that a negotiating breakthrough was imminent.

William J. Porter, chief United States negotiator, said there was nothing new except a "little verbal ping-pong about the next meeting."

North Vietnamese delegation chief Xuan Thuy told reporters the United States seemed to be threatening a new boycott of the weekly semi-public talks.

U.S. delegation spokesman David Lambertson later denied this. He said that Porter had accepted the Communist proposal to meet again next week.

When reporters asked Le specifically about the private negotiations, he replied, "This is just one form of negotiation. I cannot discuss it."

Rusk Disputes Shriver Peace Chance Claim

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) —Former Secretary of State Dean Rusk took issue Thursday with the current Democratic ticket by saying he knew of no opportunity to end the Vietnam war in 1969.

Democratic vice presidential candidate Sargent Shriver has said the Nixon administration "blew" a chance for peace in early 1969 by failing to recognize the withdrawal late in 1968 of some North Vietnamese troops behind the DMZ as a "signal" for peace.

"If there was a signal in 1968 the North Vietnamese (negotiators) were very quiet about it," Rusk said in answer to a question from a member of the Sacramento Comstock Club.

Woman Critical From Accident

A Lucas Valley woman was critically injured at 7 p.m. yesterday in an automobile accident on Lucas Valley Road, about 230 feet west of Sequiera Road in Marinwood, the California Highway Patrol reported today.

Dolores Roberta Carlson, 39, of 1295 Idylberry Road, was reported under intensive care at Marin General Hospital with facial cuts and broken ribs and a fractured leg.

According to the patrol, she was eastbound on Lucas Valley Road when her car ran off the road and knocked down two county road paddle markers, a road sign and light pole. Her car then rolled over and crashed into a second pole.

Extra Showings Set For 'Wizard Of Oz'

The Marin Shakespeare Festival production of "The Wizard of Oz" has been extended for four additional shows — matinees and evening performances Aug. 28 and 29.

The show is shown in repertory at the Forest Meadows open-air theater, San Rafael. Matinees are at 2:30 p.m. and evening shows at 8:30 p.m.

McGovern Hits Nixon On Welfare

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI)— Sen. George McGovern accused President Nixon today of engineering a "calculated program for throwing people out of work" and onto the welfare rolls.

McGovern turned his continuing barrage of criticism of Nixon policies to the domestic front after assailing the administration's efforts at the Paris peace talks, and accusing it of trying to manipulate public opinion.

In a statement, the Democratic presidential nominee said aid for dependent children under Nixon had climbed by 70 per cent to nearly $5 billion a year and the number of families depending on this assistance doubled from the time Nixon took office.

Pledging again to replace "the welfare mess" with a new system of a guaranteed annual income, McGovern said Nixon has tried "to load the bulk of the cost on middle-income taxpayers" in his welfare program, by adding more than $2 billion to welfare costs "while flatly opposing any effort to make the rich corporations and wealthy individuals pay their fair share."

"My program is conditioned on tax reform; the Nixon program refuses to even consider any change of the loophole-ridden tax structure," McGovern said.

San Quentin To Present Annual Show

San Quentin Prison's 18th annual arts and crafts show will be held from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. tomorrow.

More than 2000 art works in all media created by inmates will be on sale.

Radio personality Carter B. Smith of San Rafael will conduct an auction at 3 p.m.

No one in blue denim will be admitted to the show because of similarity to prison garb.

Prisoners receive 75 per cent of the selling price. The rest goes to the inmate welfare fund. Prisoners purchase their own materials.

The 1971 show was attended by 10,000 people and netted $30,000.

ence of the agency are not entitled to sit on the board."

Board member Albert St. Cyr, Sausalito city manager, expressed another opinion of Conklin's "Kind of unusual letter."

"I think he has misconstrued or misinterpreted their (Donovan's and Bielser's) action," St. Cyr said. The telegram was sent not to spite the agency, but out of concern for the poor, he added.

St. Cyr, who said he would oppose any move to dump Bielser and Donovan, said he believed dissenting points of view are needed.

State Relaxes G.I. Aid Rule

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—State Welfare Director Robert B. Carleson has formally filed regulations that would not automatically exclude families with fathers absent on military duty from receiving welfare payments.

The U.S. Supreme Court last year struck down a 20-year-old California law preventing children with fathers absent from home on military duty from receiving Aid to Families with Dependent Children benefits.

The high court ordered that each case must be decided on its own merits.

A spokesman for Carleson said California counties were ordered last fall to begin following the court's directive and "presumably they have."

He said Carleson's action Thursday formally put the new regulation on file with the Secretary of State's office.

Request For Zoning Gets Public Hearing

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — The Sonoma County Planning Commission yesterday set a public hearing for Sept. 7 on the request of Donald W. Thompson for commercial zoning in Rohnert Park.

Thompson requested that property at 5019 Santa Rosa Avenue be rezoned for agricultural to commercial to permit a garage for minor auto repairs.

The family prefers memorial contributions to the American Cancer Fund.

M. P. SLOBODNIK

An Air Force reservist died yestarday at Letterman General Hospital in San Francisco's Presidio of head injuries he sustained in a fall Monday at Hamilton Air Force Base.

Sgt. Martin P. Slobodnik, a reservist on a three-day tour of duty with the 904th Consolidated Air Craft Maintenance Squadron, fell 10 feet from the roof of a prefabricated building under construction at the base.

He was rushed to the base hospital, and later transferred to Letterman Hospital's intensive care unit.

Slobodnik, 34, was also a civil service employee employed at Hamilton.

He lived at 201 Alden Avenue in Rohnert Park with his wife, Verna, and two sons.

LEE F. JANISEN

Private services were held yesterday for Lee Frank Janisen, 46, a retired maintenance contractor, who died Wednesday at a local hospital after a long illness.

Janisen of 9 Jules Drive, Novato, had been a resident of Marin County for 30 years. He was a native of San Francisco and had served as a Navy radarman in World War II.

Surviving are his wife, Rae Ann of Novato; two daughters, Rebecca and Laura Janisen of Novato; three sons, Frank, James and Anthony Janisen of Novato; three sisters, Nancy Sellman of Sebastopol, Jerry Shabica of Meadeville, Pa., and Eileen Janisen of San Rafael and a brother, John Janisen of the Navy.

The family prefers that memorial contributions be to a favorite charity. Inurnment followed the services.

point that: "You are aware we have explosives aboard."

A woman at the Reno airport said the hijacker rode his bicycle through an unattended gate at the field's north concourse with a rifle across the handlebars.

She said he was wearing a ski mask and told her he had just come from a costume party.

Bob Gardner, United's manager at Reno, said the hijacker boarded along with other passengers and took it over without fuss.

The passengers were questioned by FBI agents and took other flights to San Francisco.

The plane took off shortly before 7 a.m. PDT from Reno and 90-minutes later it was tracked over Scappoose, Ore., on the Washington State border.

The flight was UAL flight 877, a morning run to San Francisco. The Boeing 727 has been a frequent target by air pirates.

The airline said only the pilot, Capt. C.J. Lennahan, two crew members and the hijacker were aboard. The stewardesses had been released, along with passengers, at Reno.

Last June 3 a similar United Air Lines plane was seized at the same airport by a hijacker

JOHN F. ALLISON

Private service for John F. Allison, father of California Highway Patrolman John Allison of Petaluma and Mill Valley fireman Edward Allison, has been held in Fremont.

He died in Fremont Wednesday following a long illness. He was 70.

A native of New York, he lived in Mill Valley for many years, moving to Mendocino County in 1964.

He was a longshoreman in San Francisco for many years, retiring eight years ago.

He was a member of the International Longshoremen Workers Union and George Washington Lodge No. 525 of Free and Accepted Masons.

In addition to two sons, he leaves his wife, Edna Allison of Mendocino County; another son, William Allison of Union City, and four grandchildren.

Memorial contributions to the American Cancer Society are preferred.

HENRY GALLOW

Funeral will be in Cheyenne, Wyo., for Henry Gallow of Inverness who died at a local hospital Wednesday. He was 77.

A Marin resident for six years, he was a retired railroad employee.

Surviving is his son, John with whom he lived in Inverness.

VERONA JAYNE

Private memorial service for Verona P. Jayne, mother of Richard Jayne of Novato was held today in Palo Alto. Mrs. Jayne died in San Francisco Wednesday at the age of 76.

A native of Portland, Ore., she lived in Palo Alto most of her life. She was associated with her husband, the late Burton H. Jayne, in his insurance agency.

She was a member of the National Federation of Republican Women, Palo Alto Historical Society and the Sigma Kappa sorority at Stanford University.

In addition to her son, surviving are two sisters, Muriel P. Jones of Palo Alto and Francis C. Price of Carmel, and five grandchildren.

CHRISTIAN BEKKE

'Quotas' Attacked For 1976

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — California delegates to the Republican convention will oppose any move to "McGovernize" the party by requiring a set "quota" of representation by women, minorities and youth at the 1976 convention, a survey showed yesterday.

The 96 GOP delegates — young, old, women, political novices and pros —said they felt Democrats, prodded by Sen. George McGovern, overstepped and actually harmed the party by opening their convention to wider representation.

"I'm firmly against the quota system. It's a sham. Quotas are just for the press and to make headlines," said Wesley Beverlin, 20, of Montclair, youngest male member of the delegation.

The delegates told UPI they generally believe delegate status should be granted as a reward for party service, that Democrats rankled longtime party workers by replacing them with newcomers, and that fair convention representation cannot be determined by mathematical percentages alone.

HOTTEST ISSUE

With President Nixon and Vice President Spiro T. Agnew assured of renomination, the hottest issue facing the Republican convention beginning Monday is how —and whether —to grant larger states more representation in 1976 and provide more delegate seats for women, minorities and the young.

The Californians generally are taking a "wait and see" attitude toward various proposals to grant larger states more representation. But they agree with convention Rules Subcommittee decisions to reject any system of allocating delegate seats based on the percentage of women, minorities and young in the population.

"If you get stuck with a quota system pretty soon the left handed Lithuanians are going to be worried about their representation," said Miss Janet Johnston, 32, a Winters rancher who will become the new Republican National committeewoman from California.

"That's not the way to get people on a delegation who really understand politics," said Miss Cathy Swajian, 21, of Indio. "I'd like to see people of all political persuasions on the delegation —not necessarily young people, minorities or the poor.

OLD PEOPLE, TOO

"Young people don't have all the progressive ideas. A lot of old people have them too."

"I think the quota system is discriminatory. It does not represent a party's strength — the people who do the work and help elect candidates," said Gordon Luce, president of a San Diego savings and loan association and vice chairman of the California Republican party.

"I think the Democrats made a serious mistake booting out half their party and going to the 'new politics,' as they called it."

Steve Jeong, a Chinatown realtor in San Francisco, said "I don't believe in this quota business. Young, minority, or women —if they are interested in politics, they can get into it."

Richard Gulbranson, 64, chairman of the Los Angeles County GOP Central Committee, noted there are fewer blacks in the Republican party than in the population as a whole.

California's Republican delegation is comprised of 30 per cent women, 9 per cent minorities and 14 per cent persons under age 30. The Democratic delegation was 48 per cent women, 38 per cent minorities and 35 per cent under 30.

FOREIGN DOCTORS

Need Is Great, But The Test . . .

The woman there compared his face with a file photograph and passed him into the room.

Next came Francisco Levin, 66. In all, several dozen men and women from perhaps a dozen countries filed into three lecture halls.

They silently took every other seat, nervous tension etched on their faces as they waited to begin a gruelling day plodding through a hated and feared medical examination, the examination of the Educational Council for Foreign Medical Graduates.

Each was hoping to score a passing 75 and earn what for the foreign doctor has become literally a ticket of admission to the American medical system — whether for just advanced training or state licensure.

For Gary Fitzgerald, an American citizen who grew up in San Bernardino, it was his first experience with the test. For Francisco Levin, 40 years a physician who fled Castro's Cuba in 1969, it was the fifth.

That both men sweated over the same difficult test is testimony to the breadth of the foreign doctor problem, one of the most lingering, baffling issues facing American medicine.

The main difficulty is that the United States needs the foreign-trained doctor because American medical schools aren't turning out enough doctors. In 1970, for example, 3,016 or one-third of the newly licensed physicians received their basic medical education abroad.

No one wants to be treated by a licensed physician who received a substandard medical education.

To prevent this, a complex system has evolved that now involves the legislature and medical licensing board of every state, the U.S. State Department, the American Medical Association, American Hospital Association, Association of American Medical Colleges and the Federation of State Medical Boards.

"It's complicated. There's no doubt about it. It's hard for me to keep abreast, and that's my job," said Louise Ball, an administrative official at the University of Southern California who spends half her time helping that school's foreign doctors wander through the bureaucratic maze.

Focus of the regulatory system has become the Educational Council for Foreign Medical Graduates-ECFMG-and its test, formed in 1958 by several involved medical groups. The system has been so tightened that a foreign doctor must pass the ECFMG to obtain a visa, gain admission to a hospital training program and, in most states, take further examinations to be licensed.

For several years, the ECFMG failure rate has hvered at 61 per cent. In 1970, almost 30,000 people took the test at nearly 200 centers around the world. Only 11,916 passed.

Only recently did a passing score become necessary to obtain a visa. Before that, thousands of foreign doctors came to the United States without passing the test, hoping to receive training or licensure without it. But they couldn't. Nor could they pass the test, despite repeated tries.

So many still remain, forced to work as medical technicians, morgue attendants, surgical technicians or whatever each state's laws allow. Many have left medicine.

Groups of foreign doctors, young and old, here and abroad, have sprung up who say the ECFMG is unfair, that it is barring qualified physicians badly needed in the United States. They're demanding a change, a reduction in the accompanying red tape.

Francisco Levin isn't so angry as bewildered. He has taken the test five times. Once he was a respected Cuban pediatrician with a handsome home, automobiles and a yacht. Now, as a Cuban refugee, his wife works in a shoe factory, he receives welfare checks and they live in an old apartment in a rundown section of Hollywood.

Even if he passes the test, at 66 Levin has little hope of gaining admission to a hospital internship, which would be necessary in California and many other states before he could take further examinations for licensure.

Solutions?

Most medical authorities agree that some type screening test always will be necessary, considering the diversity of medical education standards around the world.

But what could streamline allegations of discrimination, doctors have suggested, would be a standard test applied to both United States and foreign medical graduates.

Taken by the U.S. graduate, it would be a licensure test. Taken by the foreign graduate, it would admit him to the United States and a training program which, if he finished it satisfactorily, would lead to licensing. In addition, they say, special training programs should be available to those who fail the test. They would allow the failing doctor to come to the United States and take a one-year "medical clerkship" to prepare for the test.

Support Is Voiced For Billboards

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Americans don't mind a few billboards if they are informative and not merely commercial, Rep. Jim Wright, D-Tex., head of the congressional Commision on Highway Beautification, said today.

"The public draws a sharp distinction between highway billboards that give information to motorists and those that merely tout a product," Wright said.

He said the commission asked the polling companies of Sindlinger and Co. and deKadt Marketing and Research to survey the public's attitudes.

"Each survey organization, working independently, came up with basically the same conclusion—that most people do not resent billboards telling them how to get to gas stations, restaurants, hotels or other places they need to go," Wright said. "On the other hand, there was little support for commercial signs which offered nothing more than brand product advertising along the highways."

Wright said the surveys surprised him in one regard — Americans are more concerned about litter removal and screening of junkyards than about controls over signs and billboards.

"Highway beautification is of moderate concern and interest to the general public, but is of relatively less importance than other public issues which have a more direct effect on the quality of life," the deKadt survey said. "To some degree, this lesser concern may also be due to the general acceptability in which interstate highways are currently viewed."

More than two thirds of the people questioned put "a high degree" of importance on clearing litter from roads, the deKadt survey found.

"Just slightly behind" came the concern over junkyards and the need to screen or eliminate them.

The Sindlinger survey said 67.4 per cent of the replies said commercial billbords "in general" perform a service to the traveling public. Only 8.8 per cent "attach serious importance to brand product advertising," the Sindlinger report said.

Japanese Planning Strict New Automobile Emission Standards

TOKYO (UPI)—The Japanese government, trying to cut back clouds of pollution that blanket urban areas each summer, is planning strict new standards on auto emissions, it was announced today.

Almost immediately after the announcement, the Japan Automobile Manufacturers' Association issued a statement denouncing the proposal, claiming the standards were too severe and that the industry would have to receive special government compensation, including tax privileges, to offset a drastic rise in auto prices.

The auto emission standards, currently in draft form, are expected to be an almost exact replica of standards submitted in the United States by Sen. Edmund Muskie, D-Maine. Like Muskie's proposed standards, the Japanese version will have an effective date of 1975.

Currently, there are no auto emission standards in force in Japan on a nationwide basis, although Japanese cars produced for export must meet standards of the country where they are sent.

The standards are now being prepared by Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka's Central Pollution Control Council. They will be submitted to the Transport Ministry which will draw up new laws to conform with the standards.

Under the draft proposal, no new automobile produced in Japan after April of 1975 will be permitted to release more than 2.1 grams of carbon monoxide per kilometer. Currently cars in Japan emit about 10 times that much.

The cars will also be required to emit no more than 0.25 grams of hydrocarbon and 1.2 grams of nitrous oxides.

Special Meeting

The Tamalpais Community Services board will hold a special meeting on Monday at 7 p.m. in the district office to discuss parks and recreation aspects of a proposed development (Muir Meadows 2) with the developers.

Weddings And Divorces Boom In Carson City

CARSON CITY, Nev. (UPI)— Nevada is experiencing a boom in the wedding and divorce business this year.

"It's fantastic but I don't know why," said John Sullivan, chief of the vital statistic section of the state health department.

While marriages leveled off in most of the country the number of matrimonial licenses in Nevada during the first six months of 1972 increased to 53,085, a 14.4 per cent jump from the same period last year.

Divorces totaled 5,626 for the first six months, an increase of 44.8 per cent.

Nevada, with a sparse population, trailed only California, New York, Texas and Illinois in the number of marriages performed.

Leukemia Isolated In Mice

SAN DIEGO — Researchers for the first time have isolated leukemia viruses from the cells of mice and say this indicates the same virus may cause more than one disease.

The discovery was announced Wednesday by a research team from Scripps Clinic and Research Foundation.

"I think the most important thing we have learned is that the same virus may cause many diseases and that the expression of disease can be dependent on the genetics or environment of the host as well as the virus," said Dr. Richard Lerner, a microbiologist and a primary investigator in the study.

INDICATION

Basically, the discovery indicates it takes a genetic defect plus the normally harmless virus to cause a tumor or any other kind of disease that might result. It has been felt that each disease is caused by a different virus and each virus would require a different cure.

The researchers used New Zealand black mice which invariably die of an autoimmune disease—that is, a disease in which the body rejects some of its cells by making antibodies against them.

The mice, which seldom die of leukemia, were found to be genetically abnormal. They have an extra chormosome and one part of one of the chromosomes is deleted. They have an inborn predisposition to a disease, which, when found in humans, is called systemic lupus erythematosis (SLE).

Isolation of the leukemia virus indicates it may be directly related not only to SLE but possibly to other autoimmune diseases such as multiple sclerosis and arthritis.

NEXT STEP

Lerner said the next step will be to put the virus back into a mouse bred specifically to have the genetic defect and cause the disease where the mouse ordinarily would not get it.

He said Scripps also is looking at SLE patients "to see if these people, first of all, have a genetic defect and, second, to see if a virus can be isolated."

The discovery, he said, provides a new outlook on viruses, tumors and viral diseases.

"You see, right now everybody focuses on tumors," he said. There is this assumption that if you have a leukemia virus you must have a tumor.

"There is this widespread idea that (tumor) viruses are evil by nature and that they only go one way—that is, to tumor formation. Well, now we know that this may not be true."

Antismoking Program Set

Seventh-day Adventist Churches of Marin are to sponsor an antismoking five-day plan from Aug. 27 through 31 from 7 to 9 p.m. at the Bank of Marin's community room, Fifth Avenue and B Street.

The 10-year-old program is said by the church to have achieved great success in helping people kick the smoking habit nationwide. It consists of five group therapy sessions with films, lectures and demonstrations.

Ida B. Resanovich, spokesman for the Seventh-day Adventist Churches of Marin, said the program is being sponsored as a community service, and will be directed by Dr. Glenn S. Rasmussen and Preston Smith, both of Novato.

A Roller Skate Marathon Set

A marathon on roller skates to raise money to fight muscular dystrophy will be held at Marin Skateland at 863 Francisco Boulevard, San Rafael on Sunday from 1 p.m. to 10 p.m.

Donations of $2 per person will be contributed to the Jerry Lewis Telethon on Labor Day weekend for the benefit of the Muscular Dystrophy Associations of America.

Those attending will receive free skate rental, and there will be prizes, games, exhibition skating, and music.

Cattle Rustling Booms On Ranges

By MONTY HOYT
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

CHICAGO — From out of the past come the thundering hoofbeats of yesteryear . . . the Lone Ranger? No — it's the old cattle rustler. Only this time he has traded his horse and branding iron for a cattle truck or a helicopter.

From Virginia to California, cattle rustling has never been such big business.

And rustling is not limited to cattle either. Iowa and Illinois, the two major hog-producing states, report increasing instances of swine rustling.

While range cattle may carry an identifying brand, "it's hard to tell by the curl of a pig's tail where he came from," swine producers admit.

As far as cattle rustling goes, the biggest deterrent is branding, most cattlemen agree. The trouble is that few states require mandatory branding.

Only a dozen or so of the Western states have brand-inspection laws and inspectors that check cattle sold at auction houses or terminal markets.

Still, sales to smaller slaughterhouses and sales between livestock operators are seldom scrutinized. There is nothing to keep a rustler from selling cattle in a non-inspection state, either.

Penalties against rustling vary from state to state while sentences usually run from one to ten years in most Western states, more often than not the cattle thief is off with a suspended sentence.

Texas, through the 95-year-old Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association, has developed the most sophisticated documentation and microfilm system in the country to recover lost and stolen cattle.

Special coding equipment can scan and search the material at a rate of 1,400 branding documents in 10 seconds if any suspicious animals turn up.

As a result of this ready information and the dedicated work of 120 brand inspectors, Texas reported recovering more than 8,000 lost or stolen cattle last year at an estimated value of nearly $1.4 million.

Since last December, 127 investigations by Texas inspectors have led to arrests. During 1971, officials took 381 cases to court in western states with brand-inspection laws resulting in 222 convictions.

BY HELICOPTER NOW — Helicopters similar to this one are one of the many tools used by modern-day cattle rustlers. Not only is cattle being stolen, but Iowa and Illinois have reported increasing instances of swine rustling. (Christian Science Monitor photo)

Many other states now, like Iowa and Wisconsin, are considering brand-inspection legislation because of the growing problem with livestock rustling.

But while many livestock raisers look to branding as the solution, some argue it is cheaper to absorb the loss than to go to the expense of branding, setting up record files, and hiring inspection teams.

"Having some sort of positive identification on aminals may slow down the illegal movement of livestock, but it won't eliminate it," says Dr. Paul B. Doby of the Illinois Agriculture Department. "Automobiles are clearly marked — yet stolen every day."

On a dark, stormy night earlier this month, thieves backed a truck up to a barn of a feedlot operator in Watertown, Wis., and made off with 57 Holstein heifers in a matter of 20 minutes. By the time the farmer was alerted to the $10,000 loss by barking dogs there was not time to give chase. Rain had obliterated all tracks.

"It was pretty well planned," says William Zellner, supervisory investigator for the U.S. Department of Agriculture in Wisconsin. "There are roughly 35 licensed auction markets and a number of slaughtering plants in the state." Rustlers could drive to any one of these or into neighboring states and sell the calves the next morning. There's almost no way of tracing and recovering the animals.

An enterprising 21-year-old rustler "working" the range of the Texas panhandle, made off with 138 head of beef worth $25,000, in a 60-day period early this year. Finally, he slipped, left some tire tracks behind, and one of Texas' crack brand inspectors (commissioned as special rangers) tracked him down to his ranch near Atoka, Okla.

Taking to the air, rustlers in Idaho were shooting cattle from planes, swooping down and slaughtering them on the spot, carrying off only the hind quarters. These prime cuts of beef were appearing on the Los Angeles market as T-bones, sirloins, and prime ribs within 24 hours.

A particular problem is the growing number of "Sunday rustlers," who are out to beat rising meat prices. They may shoot a single calf, slaughter it, and takethe steaks home to fill the family freezer.

The American National Cattlemen's Association (ANCA) in Denver reports that 8,919 head of cattle worth $1.6 million were stolen in 1971 in 13 western states and two Canadian provinces where brand-inspection laws make it possible to make some accurate count. One-third of these rustled cattle were reported recovered.

However, figures are likely to be two or three times as high in the West because at least four brand-inspection states, including Texas, the largest cattle producing state with nearly 13 million head, make no attempt to determine the number missing or the cause.

"We wouldn't hazard a guess how many are stolen. In many cases we have nothing to work on except the rancher's word. Often cattle will be reported stolen and after we begin an investigation the missing animals will turn up dead or in a neighbor's pasture," says Donald C. King, general manager for the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association.

"Sometimes we'll recover cattle that the owner didn't even know were gone."

Cattle rustling, as cattlemen and feedlot operators see it, is directly proportional to the price of beef on the open market. And meat prices are high now, as any housewife will testify.

With more than 112 million head of cattle in this country, double what it was 30 years ago, incidents of rustling have never been as high — certainly not in the rootin'-tootin', gun-toting days of the wild West.

"It's a lot easier to rustle cattle than it was in the old cattle-drive days," says Burton Eller, secretary of ANCA. "A truck can carry a lot of value, long distances, in a short time, and find a ready market."

Cattle thieves have the added incentive that they can easily find full value for the animals they take to an auction market, unlike most stolen goods where the thief has to settle for a fraction of the value.

Study On Rezone Moratorium Set

The San Anselmo Planning Commission will consider a moratorium on rezonings and subdivisions when it meets at 8 p.m. Monday in city hall.

The measure would delay zoning and lot split applications for a period of four months if approved as an emergency measure.

The commission will also consider a two-lot subdivision application filed by Dennis B. Canning proposed for 30 Oakwood Avenue.

Non-Lawyer's 'Divorce Kits' Get Him In Trouble With Law

DETROIT (UPI)—Ever since Harry Gordon started selling $75 "divorce kits" he's had problems with the Detroit Bar Association attorneys he has undersold. Lawyers in these parts charged $400 to $500 per divorce case, Gordon says.

A Detroit judge doesn't like Gordon's brand of law, either, and has ordered the former restaurant equipment salesman to appear in court next Wednesday to answer charges of illegally practicing law.

Understandably, Gordon is having problems finding a lawyer to represent him.

Oakland County Circuit Court Judge William J. Beers was hearing what he thought was a routine divorce Wednesday when Mrs. Sybil Bales pulled out a set of divorce papers in preparation for her case. She and her husband, Matthew, had agreed to a property settlement and the case was uncontested. There were no children.

Beers asked Mrs. Bales who prepared her papers, and she explained that she got them from Gordon's firm.

"I'm not going to let you proceed," Beers said, "not because you're not represented by counsel, but because when a non-lawyer prepares papers like this he is illegally practicing law."

Gordon was promptly subpoenaed, and Mrs. Bales left the courtroom a married woman.

Gordon said he was performing a "necessary public service" since many people can't afford the fees most attorneys charge for a divorce. The 51-year-old Detroit enterpreneur said he has sold about 150 of the divorce kits in the last three months through newspaper ads.

Gordon said for his $75 fee he interviews the prospective divorcee, prepares the dgcuments and gives the client a list of "instructions" on what to do in court.

Another Oakland County jurist, Judge Farell E. Roberts, granted a divorce last week to a woman using one of Gordon's kits. Roberts said that "any person has the right to represent himself in court."

"The issue is whether they're giving legal advice and that is between the bar association and the (divorce kit) company," Roberts said.

But Beers was critical of Gordon's selling "25-cent forms for $75."

"If he says we're paying 25 cents for forms and charging too much," Gordon said, "what right does an attorney have to charge $400 to $500?"

Couple To Celebrate First Anniversary

NEW YORK (UPI)—Valeri and Deborah Kremniov, the Russian medical student and the Jewish girl from Great Neck, N.Y., who last year married in the Soviet Union, will celebrate their first wedding anniversary today by dining at the Russian Tea Room in Manhattan.

Mrs. Kremniov's father, Arthur Brackman, said the couple was "doing very well" since Soviet authorities allowed Kremniov to emigrate to the United States earlier this year after months of red tape. Kremniov has been working at his father-in-law's photography agency where "he's learning the business," Brackman said.

Reagan Vetoes Profs' Raise, Signs A Flurry Of New Laws

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —Gov. Ronald Reagan signed a bill Thursday granting a $12-a-month increase in grants to blind, disabled and elderly welfare recepients but vetoed a $21.6 million pay hike proposal for university and college faculty members.

The governor worked steadily to clear his legislative desk before he heads for the Republican National Convention next week in Miami Beach. He has until Aug. 28 to make a decision on the bills before him.

In the flurry of bills acted upon Thursday, Reagan also signed a $7 million anti-smog bill and another measure exempting from consideration as income up to $750 which adult children contribute to the support of their elderly welfare parents.

He also vetoed a bill to give disabled citizens a property tax break and a measure requiring the state Department of Corrections and the California Youth Authority to establish a training program for prison guards.

The pay raise bill for University of California and state college faculty members would have granted a 13½ per cent wage hike this year to the teachers.

The bill, authored by Assemblyman E. Richard Barnes, R-San Diego, would have restored the appropriation, and added some, for the 12.5 per cent increase the Legislature authorized for the faculty members.

Reagan vetoed the pay raise back to the original 7.5 per cent he had asked for in the state budget.

In his veto message on the Barnes bill, Reagan said the "budgeted amount has already provided substantial salary inequity relief for this group of employees." He said that he has "already stated that I am planning to budget funds in 1973-74 to correct remaining salary inequities for all employee groups."

Reagan said he vetoed the prison guard training program bill, authored by Sen. John Nejedly, R-Walnut Creek, because it was "overly detailed" in spelling out the curriculum and thus does not give the affected departments flexibility to keep the curriculum up to date.

In signing the welfare grant bill, Reagan credited reforms enacted last year with providing the basis for the increases to recipients of Old Age Security, Aid to the Blind and Aid to the Disabled.

The increases, effective Oct. 1, will be federally financed.

The legislation, carried by Assemblyman Leo McCarthy, D-San Francisco, will affect an estimated 500,000 recipients, the governor said.

Under the other welfare bill, authored by Assemblyman John Burton, D-San Francisco, recipients of Old Age Security no longer will be required to count $750 of the contributions by their children as "outside" income. The sum no longer will be considered in determining the size of their welfare grant.

The smog control measure by Sen. W. Craig Biddle, R-Riverside, earmarks $4.6 million in state aid on a matching basis to local air pollution control districts and air basins and another $2.4 million to the state Air Resources Board.

The bill, which Reagan called a "big step forward in our struggle against air pollution," is aimed mainly at dealing with nonvehicular pollution dischargers such as factories.

In vetoing the bill to give disabled citizens a property tax break, Reagan said he didn't "object" to providing needed assistance to the totally disabled but was against extending the benefits under the Senior Citizens Property Tax Assistance Law, as proposed in the measure.

The Governor said the elderly citizens program was established for "senior citizens only."

Under the bill by Sen. Nicholas Petris, D-Oakland, a person could be eligible for property tax relief if he had been employed or actively seeking a job in the year proceeding his disability.

The governor also vetoed bills:

By Sen. George Moscone, D-San Francisco, to establish a binding arbitration procedure in the California State University and Colleges system for grievance and disciplinary cases. Reagan said there is no evidence that the current system doesn't work.

By Assemblyman Alex P. Garcia, D-Los Angeles, requiring foreign-language speaking election officials in precincts with substantial numbers of non-English-speaking voters. Reagan said the measure was "unnecessary and unworkable" and would cause abuses in polling practices.

Reagan also signed a bill requiring cities and towns by 1982 to establish "911" as a sicgle statewide telephone number for public emergency assistance. The bill was carried by Assemblyman Charles Warren, D-Los Angeles.

Weary Men Finally Ring Sierra Fire

PORTOLA (UPI) —A stubborn blaze that has burned through 2,200 acres in two national forests since last week was contained Thursday by weary firefighters.

U.S. Forest Service officials said they expected the blaze near this historic town in the Sierra to be finally controlled today.

The fire was controlled last Monday but high winds caused the flames to jump established lines and rage out of control again.

A crew of 900 men worked the fire, but officials said some of the men were released when the flames were contained.

Official Sees Farm Labor Jobless Pay

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — State Agriculture Director Charles B. Christensen said today the Reagan administration plans to propose legislation next year to extend unemployment protection to 235,000 California farmworkers.

Just two days ago Gov. Ronald Reagan vetoed for the second consecutive year a Democratic-sponsored bill providing agricultural unemployment benefits.

Reagan said any such program should be established nationwide by Congress. Otherwise, he said, it would work "tremendous economic disadvantage" for California growers.

"That would be ideal," said Christensen. But he said there was "no move at all at the national level" for a federal farmworkers measure. If there was, he said, Southern congressmen would block the proposal.

"We can't wait" for national action, Christensen said. "California must lead the way."

Christensen said a committee of the state Board of Agriculture is preparing legislation currently "in order not to have to face the governor with another veto message next year."

"I'm sure we'll get it (the bill) through the legislature," he said. "I don't think farm laborers should be treated any differently than any other laborer in the nation."

Christensen said the measure likely would differ from the vetoed bills by Assemblyman Jack Fenton, D-Montebello, in three key ways. It would:

Require employe contributions to the unemployment compensation fund. The Fenton measure placed the entire cost on the employers, as it is in other industries.

Establish minimum employment levels before the worker could qualify for benefits. He suggested the limit might be six months employment. Under the Fenton bill, the worker would have to earn $750 before he qualified.

Draw less from the overall unemployment fund for farm workers than under the Fenton measure, which would have spent about $34 million in contributions by nonfarm employers.

SEED SPITTIN' CONTEST

Okies Go Ape Over Watermelon

By JO ANN LEVINE
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

PAULS VALLEY, Okla. — Chest thrown out, the contestant rares back behind the freshly painted yellow starting line — and blows: "Kap-flooey!"

A mere black speck speeds down a marked-off lane. Two men toting a tape measure chalk off the distance reached by the farthest speck.

This was Pauls Valley's annual World Championship Watermelon Seed Spittin' Contest.

Contestants ranged from boys and girls under eight to "smoothed-mouthed grandpas" and "sweet grandmas." The winner, however, was actually 15 years old and his distance was 43 feet 6 inches.

But that wasn't the world's record. It was set back in 1966 by Gary Archer who spit a seed 52 feet 6 inches. (Around Pauls Valley, they say that he spit "52 in '66.")

The contest rules are not too strict. They read that "any person able to stand up at the spittin' tee is eligible to enter this contest."

And it evidently takes little practice to do well. Novice Raymond Ferguson, manager of the Pauls Valley Chamber of Commerce, and contest master of ceremonies bragged that on his first try "I spit 32 feet — little-mouthed as I am!"

The rules add that a variety of spittin' stances are acceptable.

"Contestants may take their choice of standing flatfooted, standing on tiptoes, taking a running start (as in bowling) or may jump (as in basketball) so long as they neither touch nor go over the foul line before or after spittin' the seed."

Although Oklahoma ranks sixth among watermelon-producing states (preceded by Texas, Florida, Georgia, South Carolina, and Alabama), it may rank first in "watermelon sports" — an offshoot from a larger category known as "something to do."

For example, Pawhuska, Okla., is said to be the home of the real World Championship contest because as Bill Robinson, chairman of the contest, says, "Pawhuskans thought of it first." ("A group of guys were sitting around one day trying to think of something to do.")

There have been annual Pawhuska seed spittin' contests since 1962, and Neosho, Mo., has contests, too.

Although Oklahoma's neighboring state of Texas will produce 70,000 acres of water melons this year, compared with Oklahoma's 13,300 acres, Oklahoma still has a town — Rush Springs — which claims to be the "Watermelon Capital of the World."

The Rush Springs chief of police, WayneSluder, admits "that Marlowe (a nearby town) probably raises more than we do, now."

But it is in Rush Springs on Aug. 12 that the town will hold its "big git-together" which, says Sluder, will consist of a "watermelon feed," and a contest in which biggest, the sweetest, the longest and the roundest of the orange, yellow and the red watermelons will be chosen. (Last year's winner in the "biggest" category weighed in at 119 pounds.)

Now ripening in Oklahoma's sandy watermelon patches are the Charleston Gray, the Jubilee Fairfax, the Tender Sweet, the Texas Golden, and the Oklahoma Black Diamond (sometimes called the Florida Giant, the Texas Giant, and the Clara Lee). There are also smaller icebox varieties known as the Dixie Lee or Cuban Queen, the Kansas Sweet, Petit Sweet, Sugar Baby and All Sweet."

The average Oklahoma watermelon farmer can expect to produce about four tons of watermelons per acre. This crop, however, yields twice that amount on irrigated land in California and Arizona, reports Kirby Cavett of the Oklahoma Crop and Livestock Reporting Service.

Two More Are Killed During Violence In Northern Ireland

BELFAST (UPI)—A man was found shot to death in a Belfast Protestant area today shortly after bomb explosions damaged several Roman Catholic homes and a Catholic club.

Thursday night, sniper fire in the city's Catholic Lower Falls area killed British Army Cpl. Michael Boddy, 24.

The two latest killings brought to 514 the number of persons killed in Northern Ireland violence altogether, and lifted the death toll this year to 302.

Police said today's shooting "has all the appearances of a gun fight at the doorway" of the house on Island Street in East Belfast where the body was found.

Neighbors heard shots from the house but were too terrified to notify police, the spokesman said.

The bombings in the Catholic areas followed pledges by Protestant vigilantes of revenge for the bombing of a Protestant-owned pub and nearby houses Thursday.

In a Catholic section of Belfast's Springfield Road area, two soldiers on patrol were critically injured when a bomb exploded in an empty house, the army said.

The army said several homes in the Catholic Short Strand enclave were slightly damaged when a keg packed with 100 pounds of powder exploded in the district. Another bomb went off in a parked car outside the Catholic Hibernian Club in the downtown district and badly damaged the building, the army said. A spokesman said there were no injuries in either incident.

Earlier today, men clad in combat clothing and armed with pickaxe handles prowled the Protestant Shankill Road area where a 200-pound bomb Thursday demolished the Standard Bar, ripped roofs off several nearby houses and injured about 50 bystanders. Firemen and rescue workers waded through streets flooded by a water main smashed in the blast to reach the injured. The illegal Irish Republican Army (IRA) claimed responsibility for the explosion.

It marked the first time Protestant vigilantes have taken to the streets since the army occupied IRA strongholds across the province Aug. 1.

The Ulster Defense Association (UDA), a militant Protestant para-military organization that mounted the patrols, said in a statement: "We warn the bombers that if we catch them, they will be subjected to UDA justice."

A statement issued by the extremist Provisional wing of the IRA said its men bombed the bar because it has been "used by certain groups responsible for recent sectarian assassinations" of Catholics.

The army said the bomb exploded in a hijacked telephone repair truck parked outside the pub. Army officers said they received an anonymous 15-minute warning before the blast but had difficulty clearing the area of curious bystanders.

"We had to forcibly usher them from the immediate danger area," a British soldier said. "People went on shopping and we had to drive them away. Some were reluctant to go."

GM Will Roll Back Prices; Ford Mulls

DETROIT (UPI) — General Motors Corp. has bowed to government pressure and cut $31 from the extra $85 it planned to charge for 1973 cars and trucks.

GM Chairman Richard C. Gerstenberg, in a letter to Donald Rumsfeld, director of the President's Cost of Living Council, said Thursday that the $31 concession would have gone for "product improvement" and plant safety and environmental costs.

Gerstenberg told Rumsfeld that "there is a serious question of principle involved in your request that General Motors withdraw its requested price increase."

Ford Motor Co., which had remained silent prior to the GM letter, said in a one-line statement that it had asked for and received "time to consider" Rumsfeld's request to back down on a price hike. Ford had asked for a $92 price hike.

The rollback request came after auto executives and Nixon administration officials met earlier in the week in Washington.

American Motors Corp., smallest of the major automakers, has told Rumsfeld AMC would forego increases it attributed to "economic costs" of labor and materials, but "we cannot withdraw the request for the federally mandated product changes." That would amount to a $78 increase for AMC cars, rather than the $146 the company had requested.

"We believe the workings of our economy are endangered," said Gerstenberg, "when one agency of government can establish standards that a manufacturer's product must meet, and another agency should seek to prevent the same manufacturer from having at least an opportunity to recover the costs of such mandated equipment in the marketplace under competitive conditions.

"Moreover, we are concerned with the precedent that might be established. In the months and years immediately ahead, governmental standards already published will require the addition of numerous and costly items of equipment to every vehicle."

Gerstenberg said higher labor and materials costs, with the new government equipment requirements, would add $200 to the cost of each 1973 GM vehicle. The remaining $54 GM hopes to salvage from its price request, Gerstenberg said, would cover only 27 per cent of GM's cost per vehicle.

Pair Attacked By Park Bear

YELLOWSTONE NATIONAL PARK, Wyo. (UPI)—A female bear with two cubs by her side attacked two hikers in Yellowstone National Park, mauling one on the head, legs and arms and knocking the other one over, park officials said Thursday.

It was the second reported attack by a bear on tourists in the park this year. An Alabama camper was killed earlier by a maurauding grizzly.

Park officials said the latest incident occurred Wednesday when Kenneth A. Bill of Sacramento, Calif., was hiking with his sister, Mrs. Stephen Blackwood, in the Fawn Pass area along the Gallatin Range.

The two said they were sitting beside a trail when the bear and two cubs approached. The bear, apparently in an effort to protect the cubs, charged the couple.

Here's an utterly new whiskey.
Not a Bourbon. Not a blend. Not a Canadian.
It's not a pale imitation of anything.

New CROW LIGHT is 100% Light Whiskey. So smooth that "light" seems like a heavy word to describe it.
This is real whiskey all right. There's nothing shy about it.
But it may well be the most civilized whiskey ever made.

New CROW LIGHT.
A clean break with the past.

MYSTERY COIN DISPLAYED

This drawing portrays what is almost invisible to the naked eye, the flaws which a San Rafael man said made this penny worth $25,000 to him. At the time he bought it from a barber in Ohio, Daniel W. Wilkins, an investment company executive, declined to disclose the penny's peculiarities. The 1936 penny, held just below its portrait, appears to have the last few letters of the phrase "E Pluribus Unum" stamped under the phrase "In God We Trust." Also portrayed are the wheat stalks which like the letters of the partial phrase belong on the other side of the coin.

Building Plan Wins Approval From State

The Old Adobe School District board of Petaluma heard last night that its application to build an administration center has been approved by the state department of education.

Schools Supt. Dean D. Magowan said drawings for the building are being prepared and should be ready for study by the state and district in two months.

District offices have been located in mobile homes at La Tercera School for several years and will be moved into the new building on Crinella Drive near the school.

The Old Adobe School District board also.

AIR CONDITIONING — Heard Magowan report he has approached the state for funds to air condition La Tercera and Miwok Valley schools since students attend year-round. He estimated cost at between $80,000 and $100,000.

POLICY — Approved a policy prohibiting a union or organization membership drive at schools during school hours.

INTERN — Heard a report that the intern psychologist program had proven very successful and lauded the work of Carl Marschall, an intern from Sonoma State College.

Committee Rules On Nominations

MIAMI BEACH (UPI)—The Republican National Committee approved without debate Thursday a new regulation that has the effect of keeping Rep. Paul N. McCloskey, R-Calif., from having his name offered as a presidential candidate on the convention floor.

The committee ratified a recommendation by its Rules Committee that a candidate must have the support of the majority of at least three state delegations before his name could be placed in nomination.

McCloskey, the antiwar congressman who briefly challenged President Nixon in the spring primaries, has only one delegate vote—in New Mexico.

GOP Platform Group Votes To Back Nixon's Withdrawal Plan

MIAMI BEACH (UPI)—The Republican Platform Committee voted early today to support President Nixon's offer to withdraw all American troops from Indochina four months after release of all U.S. prisoners and imposition of a cease-fire throughout Indochina.

As the committee began deliberations on a platform already written by GOP leaders and approved by the White House, most of Nixon's foreign policy was approved with no major amendments. The committee did not complete consideration of the foreign policy section before it broke up shortly after midnight.

Sources said all amendments proposed to the Vietnam plank were turned down, but there were several undisclosed amendments to the Middle East section, none of them significant.

The committee was expected to rubber-stamp most sections of the draft platform although the section on women's rights was expected to be strengthened and there was conservative agitation for support of right-to-work laws and an even stronger antibusing plank than proposed by the draft.

The White House approved Vietnam plank omitted reference to an "internationally supervised" cease-fire in Indochina as a condition for U.S. withdrawal, and there was some speculation that the omission could signal a possible revision in President Nixon's policy.

But Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said the omission was inadvertent—that it "does not represent a change in our policy" as outlined May 8 when Nixon laid out a revised set of U.S. peace proposals.

In what may turn out to be a floor fight at the convention, the President has decided to stay out of a power struggle between large states and small states for control of the 1976 Republican National Convention.

Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, who would benefit most from keeping the balance of power in the party with the small, conservative states if he seeks the GOP presidential nomination four years hence, also has decided not to intervene.

Their joint decision was revealed by a White House source. It means that the Republican convention will almost certainly have a floor fight over GOP liberals' efforts to attract to the party more women, young people and minorities.

A platform subcommittee Thursday toughened the antibusing provision by proposing a constitutional amendment to outlaw the use of busing to achieve racial desegregation should Nixon's legislative proposals, seeking the same result, fail.

(The House went beyond the GOP platform writers by approving early today a bill not only to ban crosstown busing of any students but to allow schools under court busing orders to get these orders changed to conform with new legislation. The Senate is unlikely to accept the House version.)

Women's rights groups expected to succeed in adding a pet project — comprehensive child day care centers. There also was considerable support for a plank to end the seniority system in Congress and another to require strict laws on lobbying disclosure.

But the convention's major battle—in what otherwise is expected to be a sedate three days to renominate the Nixon-Agnew ticket—centered on an attempt by reformers to give greater voting power to the large, urban states at the 1976 convention.

The reformers have been decisively turned back by both the Convention Rules Committee and the GOP National Committee.

They plan to take their fight to the convention floor Monday before a nationwide television

State Panel Names Ross Man Counsel

A Ross resident has been named principal counsel of the Califonria Public Utilities Commission.

Vincent V. MacKenzie was tapped for the $1,793 to $2,179per-month post Wednesday, according to Vernon L. Sturgeon, commission president.

MacKenzie, 43, has been an associate and then senior counsel of the commission since 1965. He previously worked as an attorney and administrative adviser in the governor's office of consumer counsel and was an attorney with the Standard Oil Co. of California before his stints with the state.

MacKenzie received a bachelor's degree from Bradley University in 1952 and a law degree from the University of Illinois in 1954.

He is a member of the bar association of Illinois and California.

He and his wife Carolyn have three children and live at 79 Shady Lane.

San Rafael Woman Hurt In Accident

A San Rafael woman suffered multiple injuries when her car struck a power pole at 447 Francisco Boulevard today in San Rafael, police reported.

The driver, Barbara Lamb, 40, of 148 Highland Avenue, suffered a dislocated hip, multiple cuts, a fractured nose and fractured skull. She was reported in satisfactory condition today at Marin General Hospital.

Officers said Mrs. Lamb's car, westbound on Francisco Boulevard at 12:06 a.m., struck the pole shortly after she had turned onto the boulevard from the Dominic's restaurant exit.

Details of the accident were unavailable because Mrs. Lamb was in pain, officers said.

Commission Asks For Restricted Use Of Facility

The Sausalito tennis courts at Martin Luther King School should be open only to residents, the Sausalito Recreation Commission decided last night, though putting off a final determination on the courts to its Sept. 21 meeting.

Chairman H. Thomas Rogers said the commission also urged the city to proceed with the purchase of Central School for a new city hall and acquire any other school property which comes up for sale and asked that the city provide funds when needed to equip the new community park.

Council Decree Upheld In Court

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — A Sonoma Superior Court judge yesterday upheld the Petaluma City Council in its denial of a service station permit.

City Atty. Edouard R. Robert said Judge John Moskowitz ruled that the city acted within its proper powers in rejecting the service station request of the Urich Oil Co. of Los Angeles.

The firm had been denied permission last year to build a station at East Washington and Lakeville Streets. The city council said traffic congestion and hazards would be created by the station. The oil company claimed the city had no legal basis to deny the permit.

Modular Concept Considered For Tomales School

Shoreline Unified School District trustees will consider modular buildings to house fourth through eight-grade pupils at Tomales Elementary School.

Tomales Elementary School pupils are housed on two campuses, mainly in portable buildings, and two bond measures which would have provided funds to establish permanent classrooms have failed.

The board next meets at 7:30 p.m. Sept. 21 at Tomales High School.

LIES ABOUT AMERICA: 'We Must Have Revolution'

By ARNOLD BEICHMAN

There is no surer way to attract a reading or listening audience than to intone that America needs a revolution, that is revolution in America is long overdue, and, best of all, that we are in the midst of a revolution.

The overriding question which revolution-mongers like Dr. Marcuse and his disciples will not — or cannot, or dare not — answer is what happens after the revolution. We know what happens because there have been several revolutions since 1918 which foreclosed reform.

Not even Marx was certain that violence was needed to effect major changes in capitalist societies. In fact, he said at a public meeting at The Hague in 1872:

"We know that the institutions, manners, and customs of the various countries must be considered, and we do not deny that there are countries, like England and America . . . where the worker may attain his object by peaceful means."

ONE OF THE "explanations" for revolutionary violence in America in recent years has been that the system will not be changed until it is somehow exploded from within, that try as one will, patiently and peacefully, nothing is changed. So we are asked by a New Left spokesman to sympathize with "the impotence, irrelevance, and despair attendant on the realization that what one feels, believes, and demands are neither shared nor acted upon by the overwhelming majority of one's society."

As I read this "cri de coeur" of the New Left, I begin to feel that, indeed, it must be a deplorable injustice that a vast majority of the heterogeneous American people prefer (in Michael Oakeshott's words) "the familiar to the unknown . . . the tried to the untried, fact to mystery, the actual to the possible, the limited to the unbounded, the near to the distant, the sufficient to the superabundant, the convenient to the perfect, present laughter to utopian bliss."

As Hugh Gaitskell, the late leader of British socialism, used to insist:

"The right to dissent is not something that can be made to depend on the fewness of those who dissent. It must be allowed to a majority."

ANY ANALYST of the intellectual temper of our time must ask this question: Why is there this passion for revolutionism when so much of its achievements (by the admission of the achievers) has cost so much? The apologists for revolutionism — particularly for the Russian Revolution — have made statements which, in the light of the anti-Stalin revelations, make frightful reading.

"In 1936, in a Soviet Russia isolated, threatened, and unable to preserve the Revolution except at the price of monolithic severity, all opposition assumed the objective aspect of treason."

Just like that — and that "objective aspect" took the lives, by mistake it turns out, of how many Soviet citizens — 10, 15, 20 million?

The most serious indictment of revolutionists in America (as indeed the world over) is that, fundamentally, their revolutions, whether they call themselves left or right, are against people. They are the anti-people revolutions, and they are intended as such.

THE NEED for an American revolution — violent and fundamental, bloody and cleansing — is, according to its exponents, a matter of sheer survival for the country.

Among the revolutionists, it is taken for granted that the evils in America are systemic, no longer episodic. America is in a quagmire from which it cannot emerge; and if it were able, it should not be allowed to do so. By and large, things always seem to be improving in certain faraway countries; in America things are always going from bad to worse to indescribably worse, if that is possible.

Even to believe that anything could conceivably get better in America — short of a violent revolution — is to demonstrate a benighted, counterrevolutionary chauvinism. All the countries of the world, particularly those which go by the name "revolutionary" or "people's republics" or "people's democracies," are privileged to have their faults and virtues judged by the standards of history. America is the one country in the world which is to be judged by the standards of sociology.

THIS DOUBLE STANDARD of judgment, of course, makes it impossible ever to grant America the benefit of either doubt or credit for good intentions. To view a nation through history is to allow the nice possibility of a melioristic future. To judge a nation by sociology is to inhibit an agreeable comparison of its hopeful present with an inglorious past.

In short, whatever America does, for whatever reason, America is "Amerika" and "Amerika" is wrong.

Unlike the other 143 countries in the world, only America is to be judged by the exacting and unattainable standards of a Utopia. If there is full, high-wage, plenty-of-overtime employment in America for a decade, then capitalism is merely buying off the workers so that they will not rebel. When unemployment comes, that is the real capitalism. If the gross national product rises and consumer income with it, it merely reflects the materialism of American civilization. If the gross national produce falls slightly, it is the beginning of the end!

IT WAS BETTER to vote for Nixon than for Humphrey, because as President, Nixon will bring fascism to America sooner. (This strategy in Weimar Germany was, it will be recalled, expressed by the German Communist Party as "nach, Hitler, Kommen wir" — after Hitler, we will take over.)

Then when Nixon is elected President, whatever he does is "no worse" than anything Humphrey might have done as President. General Motors "runs America"; but if the United Auto Workers shuts down General Motors for a few months, it proves that its workers are regretably "trade union conscious," otherwise they'd be tearing the factories down brick by brick.

If black candidates are elected, with white support, it is only because "the whites are terrified of black power" or they insidiously prefer a black to handle the black ghetto. If black candidates are defeated, it proves the "honkyism" of the American voter.

RACISM, TRIBALISM, communalism, religious hate burden India, Pakistan, Nigeria, Sudan, Japan, Ceylon, Australia, Britain, Yugoslavia, Algeria (with its Berbers), Spain (with its Catalans and Basques), Latin America (and its Indians), the Soviet Union and China (and their repressed minorities). The world crackles with hate, with racial and nationalistic and irredentist passions — but only America is racist.

(What distinguishes America from the rest of the world is that most Americans happen to be ashamed of their prejudices, while almost everybody else is busy explaining the rationale of racial and religious discrimination, and why it is impossible to end them overnight.)

Ask a Singhalese sometime to explain his feelings about a Tamil, or a Sudanese Arab about a Sudanese black Christian, or a Japanese about the Eta people, or an Egyptian about a Copt, an Afrikaner about a Bantu, a Hausa about an Ibo, and listen to what they say! And I could list dozens more of such tragic complexes of community hate and human rivalry. But "only in America . . . "

AUTHOR'S NOTE — If my preoccupation with some of the main currents in the contemporary intellectual scene and the dispiriting level of our public political discourse has not been an attractive or a regaling one, it is because my theme has not been the "greening" but rather the lynching of America.

A school of falsification has grown up in the land, and with the help of ideological passion, its spokesmen — sincere, eloquent, deluded — have been gathering supporters as if to a movement or a political party.

Yet as Nietzsche said, "At every step one has to wrestle for truth . . . The service of truth is the hardest service."

What Would Open Space Issue Buy?

The City of San Rafael will have $2,250,000 to spend on acquisition of open space lands if a bond issue proposal is approved at the polls on Sept. 19.

What will that buy?

To try to answer that question the city planning department has prepared a list of 23 properties which now are open but may be subject to development — in fact, proposals to develop nine of them already are in the works. This has been offered to the city council as an inventory of available open space.

The 23 parcels total 3,738 acres — which is some six times the 638.5 acres the city now has in parks and open space (of which 539 acres is the former Frank Sinatra property between Black Canyon and the former Nike missile site).

According to the county assessment roll, these 23 properties have aggregate "fair market value" of about $12 million. What the owners might ask for them, however, is of course another matter.

OBVIOUSLY, the proposed bond issue won't buy all of them.

It might, however, buy a big enough portion to make quite a difference in the future of San Rafael.

For example, the list includes the balance of Chinn Ho's property from Peacock Gap to Santa Venetia, which embraces 1,260 acres and for which no development plan has yet been proposed.

To buy it all probably would more than wipe out the bond issue. But one or more sizeable pieces might be acquired to assure that the area would retain its rural character.

For another example, on the list is the 11-acre Dollar estate fronting on Mission Avenue, with its historic mansion. The assessor puts the fair market value of this piece — on which 80 townhouse and apartment units already are proposed — at $185,000.

OTHER PROPERTIES on the list include numerous hilltop areas, large bayfront lands, and the 440-acre Smith Ranch extending from Gallinas Creek to Northgate Industrial Park.

The hilltops might be acquired within the bond issue, along with portions of some of the larger properties.

The cost to San Rafael residents would be 10 cents on the tax rate initially. Presumably, this would decline from year to year.

Terra Lindans, incidentally, would not be subject to the special tax, even if Terra Linda is annexed to the city, for the bond election in September will be prior to the earliest possible date of annexation so Terra Lindans will not have a vote on it.

The proposed outlay certainly won't buy all the remaining open areas listed by the planning department. But it might buy a significant share of them.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

How Far Will City Censorship Extend?

It was only recently Mill Valley became the only city of the North Bay counties where the council took on themselves the authority to muzzle our police department. This, to delete the addresses of Mill Valley citizens who suffered a loss by robbery or other crimes when issuing police reports to the press and the public.

Mill Valley is a cohesive community of intelligent citizens. The censorship by the city council of our police department in this matter was simply a knitty-petty-picky.

One must question how far the wedge of self-styled censorship will penetrate into other functions of our city government.

The fair-minded citizens of Mill Valley do not buy or condone this brand of censorship.

Pieter Toal Deserves Public Commendation

County school trustee Patrick Pollock's vilification of citizen Pieter Toal, who forced the board to reveal names of candidates for its vacancy, was a fine capper to the board's violation of the public's right to know.

Although its own attorney advised against such undemocratic secrecy, Mr. Pollack saw Mr. Toal's public-spirited action as that of an "obstructionist" seeking a "name for himself." Pieter Toal's interest in and service to public education and the betterment of civic affairs is well established. Mr. Pollock's petulance and poor sportsmanship is unworthy of an elected official. The Independent-Journal, with its own crusading interest in the right of the public to know the public's business, ought to commend Toal for a job well done on behalf of the public.

Plenty Of Gun Laws; Enforcement Needed

Although I enjoy your paper and agree with most of your viewpoints, your gun control editorial of Aug. 1 leaves me cold.

You headline with the question, "Why Not Restrict Use of Handguns?" Do you really believe we are so ignorant as to think that there are no restrictions on handguns?

In the matter of the attempted assassination of Governor Wallace. . .are you aware that Arthur Bremer had violated at least 28 laws, many of them gun control laws?. . .

What I am saying is that enforcement of existing laws is sorely lacking, so why ask for another one?

You refer to the findings of Franklin Zimring as some kind of authority to reach conclusions by. Now really! You may as well use the writings of Marx and Lenin as arguments to abolish our free enterprise system. . .

This clamor for more gun laws is merely a cop-out on the part of the advocates. They gain great publicity from their demands without really doing anything.

Why not support the position of Senator Towers of Texas? He supports a law that would require a mandatory 10-year prison term for anyone using a firearm in the commission of a crime.

I repeat, what we need is more enforcement of existing laws, not new laws that will not be enforced anyway.

Open Space Purchase Needs Higher Priority

I agree with your editorial of Aug. 9 in which you discuss the purchase of open space as a means of retaining the beauty of Marin and compensating landowners as well.

I believe that the public purchase of our hillsides and ridgelands is in the best interest of homeowners, commuters, renters, realtors, children, elderly — all of whom have a great stake in our environment.

In my mind the question of priorities is the key. Governing bodies at all levels must end the waste, inefficiency and bureaucracy that has been responsible for soaring budgets and a growing mistrust of politicians. Then funds will be available to really make an impact on our environment and our daily lives. Citizens will begin to receive tangible benefits for their taxes.

For a county such as Marin which fortunately has so much left to save, matching funds should be forthcoming from state and federal sources as their priorities change. Marinities certainly pay their share of state and federal taxes.

Your editorial helped to focus on one of the most important issues facing Marin County today — the issue of public vs. private interests. This is a challenge for all of us which I believe can be successfully met if we all work together for a beautiful Marin.

REMEMBER WHEN?

10 YEARS AGO

Aug. 18, 1962

A threatened strike of Bay Area carpenters, who had demanded a pay increase of $1.05 per hour, was averted by an agreement reached at negotiations in Washington, D.C. The agreement was reportej to include an 80-cent hourly pay hike.

Fort Ross became a national landmark on the 150th anniversary of its original dedication by Russian settlers.

20 YEARS AGO

Aug. 18, 1952

Chairvan T. Fred Bagshaw of the Marin County Board of Supervisors said it apparently would be impossible to get a bond issue for courthouse expansion or civic center construction on the November ballot.

The San Rafael Mayor's Committee, headed by J.B. Rice, opened its campaign for passage of a $1,040,000 bond issue for drainage, sewers, streets, courthouse and library expansion and construction of a second firehouse.

ROSCOE DRUMMOND

Nixon, McGovern 'Poles Apart'? No, They Agree In Many Areas

MIAMI BEACH — The thrust of much that is being said on the eve of this Republican convention is that President Nixon and Sen. George McGovern are poles apart on nearly everything.

It isn't true.

They are poles apart on hardly anything.

Their differences are substantial and the choice between a Nixon and a McGovern presidency is more meaningful than in most national elections.

But you may be surprised at the extent of the agreements in principle between the two nominees. Here are examples:

REDUCING WORLD COMMITMENTS — Nixon and McGovern agree that the United States is overcommitted around the world. McGovern says so; Nixon's acts say so. Both propose to reduce these commitments and to contract the American military presence.

That is the essence of the Nixon doctrine — that the weaker, exposed nations must put more reliance on themselves and not assume that the United States will come to their defense under all circumstances.

REDUCING U.S. FORCES IN EUROPE — McGovern and Nixon agree that American troops can and should be cut.

McGovern would unilaterally cut them in half. Nixon would negotiate with the Russians for mutual reduction and would not cut our strength in Europe while NATO and Warsaw Pact powers are negotiating.

CUTTING DEFENSE SPENDING — Both favor cutting the defense budget so that more money can be used on domestic programs.

Nixon contends McGovern would be risking the nation's international security. McGovern contends Nixon is risking the nation's domestic security. Nixon relates further major reductions of costly nuclear weapons to agreements with the Soviet Union. McGovern wouldn't wait.

WELFARE GRANTS AND FAMILY ASSISTANCE — Both agree that the present welfare system is an unworkable, inadequate, deteriorating mess, and that changes are imperative.

Both propose some form of guaranteed annual income for families at or under the poverty line. This is the goal of Nixon's Family Assistance Program. McGovern's grant program is somewhat vague and subject to revision, but it is headed in the same direction as Nixon's — only farther.

TAX REFORM — Both propose to plug loopholes in the revenue laws by which many escape from paying any federal income tax. Nixon has yet to spell out his proposals. McGovern has talked much about redistribution of wealth by upping the tax on middle and high incomes but he remains vague on how.

VIETNAM POLICY — Both want to end the war.

Nixon offers to stop the fighting on condition the U.S. prisoners are released. McGovern offers to stop the fighting even if the prisoners are not released.

ERNEST B. FURGURSON

It Was All Going To Be So Different This Election

WASHINGTON — How fresh and inspirational it promised to be — at long last, the year of clean politics, the year when our President was chosen on the basis of the issues!

What a new breed George McGovern's friends said he was, with his championing of youth, amateurism and candor! What a relief it would be to have Mr. Nixon operating for once on the thesis that the best politics for him is to pretend to be above politics!

What a naive and short-lived dream it all was!

THE TROUBLE with politics, of course, is that it is an enterprise of men rather than theories, much more of an art than a science.

And thus, though we are still nearly three weeks away from Labor Day and the traditional opening date of presidential campaigns, we are embroiled already in some of the most ill-tempered name-calling since the debut of Archie Bunker.

Sargent Shriver maintains that Mr. Nixon "blew it" by not accepting a wonderful chance for peace in Vietnam back in 1969, although he himself waited to speak out about it until a few hours after he was nominated for vice president. William P. Rogers, in a theoretically nonpartisan job at the State Department, says of course he is not going to get involved in partisan politics — and then proceeds to blast Shriver with a salvo equivalent to all the TNT carried by a sortie of B-52s.

Milton Shapp, as governor of Pennsylvania, is appropriately indignant because federal aid has been slow in arriving for victims of the floods accompanying Hurricane Agnes. He happens to be so in front of the one politican who holds the world's championship for righteous indignation, George Romney, who is in a theoretically non-partisan job at HUD.

Mr. Romney not only says indignantly that Mr. Shapp is letting politics intrude into flood relief, but then he comes back to Washington and is indignant again outside the White House, apparently this time about the way John Ehrlichman tries to play Henry Kissinger in domestic affairs.

AND SPEAKING of domestic affairs, there is still the matter referred to affectionately by the media as the Watergate Caper. The Democrats' effort to sue the Committee to Re-Elect the President over the bugging tx Democratic National Committee headquarters produced some of the most heart-tugging pleas of the season.

After Republican personnel, campaign funds, telephones, lawyers and what-all else have been tied to the break-in, a U.S. district court denies a GOP effort to delay the $1 million suit until after the election. But what brings tears to the eyes of any objective outsider is not the ruling, rather the grounds on which the Committee to Re-Elect had asked the delay. It said hearing the case before the first Tuesday in November might cause "incalculable" damage to the President's re-election prospects — all the while still denying all complicity, of course. Oh, sadness!

But if it seems from this that I am bemoaning the short life of the sunshine and sweetness campaign, it is not quite so. Such a campaign for the presidency of the United States never was and never should be.

Treasures In City Hall Safe Redolent Of Coffee Breaks

Most employees treasure their coffee breaks and holidays, and the denizens of Sausalito City Hall are no exception.

Ever wonder what valuables that massive antique safe at City Hall contains? Well, it isn't pieces of eight from Sausalito's Spanish days or skeletons from the city closet (at least not visibly).

Would you believe about 10 dozen plastic coffee cups, coffee, cream and sugar, an old coffee pot and a box of Christmas ornaments? Along with some city documents, of course.

The city people laughingly explain that, with cramped conditions at the hall, the safe is the best and most convenient place to put all those mundane items.

A quick look around the crowded quarters confirms this observation. It sometimes seems like a single additional pencil or piece of paper might be enough added bulk to bring the millenium to Sausalito City Hall.

When are these long-suffering employees — who are constantly bumping into each other as they try to maneuver through the perilous trails between desks — going to get those new offices the city council keeps talking about?

The city is expected to bid on Sausalito School District's Central School within the next few weeks and, if that offer is accepted, Sausalito may have a new city hall — and happier employees too.)

ABOUT 200 of Bob Anderson's family and associates gathered to toast and cheer him last week at a dinner marking his retirement from the Marin Municipal Water District board after 24 years of service.

There were presentations, testimonials and witty remarks by such recognized district humorists as Gen. Mgr. Bill Seeger and diractor Eugene Miller (two of the better wits in Marin officialdom).

To while away those lonely hours of retirement in his beautiful Lake Tahoe home, Anderson's fellow board members gave him a case of vintage wine and a lot of compliments.

THE PLANTER BOXES lining the downtown portion of Bridgeway in Sausalito are more than two years old now, but few residents gathered to celebrate their recent birthday.

By this time almost everyone would like to see them go the way of the Whooping crane and passenger pigeon, to be replaced by wider sidewalks, but the date of their departure is still uncertain.

Right now a petition to determine how many downtown businessmen are willing to join an assessment district to finance improvements to downtown Bridgeway (including wider sidewalks) is being passed around and the city should know the result in the next couple of weeks. If the businessmen agree, the planter boxes may be gone by winter. But if the merchants turn thumbs down on the plan, the city will either have to come up with the cash for the changes — or plant perennials in those boxes.

ED FITZSIMMONS, who has been battling the City of Sausalito for over two years to get permission to develop Wolfback Ridge (to date unsuccessfully) showed up at a city council meeting this week, when his project wasn't even on the agenda.

"What in the world are you here for? Don't you get enough of these things?" someone asked Fitzsimmons, who is in danger of becoming a permanent fixture at council sessions and planning commission meetings.

"Oh," quipped the Wolfback Ridge man, "I'm just here as a student of good government."

GOP Platform Hearings Are Conducted With Great Secrecy

That's how tight the security —and secrecy—is as the Republican party's platform is being put into final form for next week's convention.

The platform committee members themselves were not allowed to see a White House approved draft of the platform until three days after they began committee hearings.

Even then, only subcommittee chairmen were permitted to actually clutch a copy in their hands, and they were ordered to return them promptly after each session to the committee chairman Rep. John Rhodes of Arizona.

The extreme secrecy angered some Republicans, especially liberals who have been pushing for a more open convention and who succeeded in getting the Rules Committee open. They said it could be a bad image, particularly following open gatherings by the Democrats preceding their convention.

Rep. Donald Riegle, R-Mich., said the GOP's professed "open door" policy might better be termed "open door and closed mind."

The physical security was no less tight than the political security. GOP leaders drafted the platform long before committee members gathered in Miami Beach, and it was then revised and approved by the White House.

Rhodes and GOP executive committee members went to great lengths to see that any changes proposed here did not stray from the White House approved language, but the White House document—116 pages, bound in red—praises Nixon to such lengths that some of it was toned down to avoid embarrassment.

To begin with, subcommittees were carefully chosen to see that there was a majority of members who would favor the particular platform planks their group was considering.

Then, even after the subcommittees suggested some rather mild changes, the executive committee rewrote the changes before submitting the revised platform to the full committee.

As the committee began its first drafting session, the fourth floor hallway of the meeting room in the Fontainebleau Hotel was declared "sealed off." Only persons on an approved list were even allowed to walk past the door.

Two GOP girl staff members heading for nearby platform committee offices made the mistake of coming up stairs at the wrong end of the hall.

"Unless you're on that list, you cannot come through that hallway," said a policeman, sending them back downstairs to come up another stairway at the other end of the hall.

When two hotel employes appeared with two large wagons of coffee for the members, they were abruptly stopped. Although they did not enter the room, a GOP staff member was summoned to determine whether the pair could even push the carts another 30 feet to the hearing room door.

Man, 78, Goes Back To Jail

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI) —A 78-year-old man who already has spent more than 25 years in prison was back in custody today for another 20-year term.

Worley James, who was paroled two years ago from a 1944 sentence for a sexual assault, will begin serving a new term for attacking an elderly woman.

In the 1944 case, James was sentenced to die for having carnal knowledge of a girl under 12, but the sentence was commuted to life in prison.

COUNTY COMMENT

By WILLIAM D. (BILL) FUSSELMAN

Mail(?) Service Mighty Slow Between Civic Center And Hub

Here's a story to ponder on: You will recall that last week, in commenting on the "balanced transportation" study the old depression word "boon dogling" kept emerging and that the dictionary defined it as "work of little or no practical value done to keep or look busy."

It would seem that some feathers were ruffled. I said I would mail my check for a copy of the report so that I might study it first-hand. Well, I called up the Civic Center and asked for the planning commission. When connected I asked, "Is this the planning commission?" The answer was "planning department," with emphasis on "department." I said I was going to order a copy and was inquiring how much the postage would be. She put me on "hold" and after a considerable wait the answer was 30 cents.

I mailed the check on Thursday, a week ago ($2.30). I called the post office to be sure and have the right zip code. My typewriter has extra large letters, so it would be a most remarkable thing to have it go astray between San Anselmo and the Civic Center. As I write this, one week later, I have not received the report, nor has my check, made out to the County of Marin, been received by the treasurer. Checks received by departments like this are supposed to be turned in immediately or the next day I was told.

I have devoted considerable space to this because as the saying goes, "Straws show where the wind blows."

"FATIGUE STALLS Ag Zoning" — Sp went the heading on a four-column story about the throne room gents. "Marin County supervisors battled for three hours and a half last night (Tuesday) with controversial rezoning of the county's agricultural preserves but finally gave up in exhaustion. . . 'I'm too tired to think straight,' said Supervisor Michael Wornum. Others agreed."

They didn't start until 5 t.m. The board meeting had begun at 9 a.m. Presumably they had taken time out for lunch. Kind of tough to earn the $1,100 a month for a change. Wonder what they would do if they were sitting as a board of equalization, taking testimony all day (morning session, afternoon session and then after dinner until beyond midnight) day after day through a 21-day series of sessions? Reams and reams of forms for each supervisor were stacked up in front of us. One year they ran a picture of me in the I-J, which showed a big guy just able to make it to the elevator, one of the "good old days" that was not so good — 400 bucks a month and we fed ourselves.

FROM THE WEDNESDAY I-J: "Angry Marin County supervisors lashed out yesterday at their counterparts in San Francisco. . . "for wanting the bridge district to keep at least $10 million in reserve. That attitude of San Francisco is as old as the bridge itself. So what's to do about it, other than cuss them out?

I was impressed with the statement to the board of supervisors by attorney Warren Perry (mayor of my home town). He was appearing for his clients, the Finley family, objecting to the rezoning of their land at Bolinas. He offered his clients' land to the county for a reasonable price. Said he, "If your intention is to preserve the land for open space then be forthright and take the necessary steps. . . Otherwise exclude the Finley's 800 acres from the preserve and its rezoning."

That word "forthright" is a word that applies to the upcoming Regional park and Recreational district matter.

BARBARA LODEN both directed and starred in her film, "Wanda." "I found in making 'Wanda' that the non-actors in the film couldn't relate to me at all," she said about her role as director. Here she is in a scene from the film.

THE FRENCH film, "A Very Curious Girl," starred Bernadotte Lafont, and was directed by filmmaker Nelly Kaplan, who also directed "Papa les Petites Bateaux." It was one of 120 films made by women shown at the first international women's film festival.

ONE OF the new and growing group of women filmmakers, Claudia Weill angles in for a close-up shot during the shooting of a new film. Women filmmakers are beginning to produce films depicting women in a more realistic manner, both in America and in Europe.

New York Festival For Women's Films

A surprising number of women are getting behind zoom lenses. Viewers screened 510 films recently for the first International Festival of Women's Films in New York. A Monitor critic examines how and why these films are being made.

By LOUISE SWEENEY
Christian Science Monitor News Service

NEW YORK, N.Y. — The carton was full of raw stock for a film called "Three Lives" which the group was making, and the carton was properly addressed all right: "To the Women's Liberation Cinema Company."

But there was something else written on the label from some wag at Eastman Kodak to these women filmmakers: The message was simple and symptomatic: "Stay in the kitchen."

The man who wrote that to the makers of Kate Millet's excellent documentary might be surprised to know how many women there are opting for zoom lenses.

"WE SCREENED 510 films by women," says Kristina Nordstrom, director of the First International Festival of Women's Films. "We've shown 120 of them, and we have the names of 700 women filmmakers."

The festival, which ran for three weeks at a Village theater, included 14 feature fiction films (from the United States, Germany, Italy, Hungary, Czechoslovakia, France, Sweden), three documentaries, and 15 programs of short films divided into subjects like "Maternal Images" and "The Feminine Mystique."

A highlight of the festival was a series of conferences on women in film: their image, their involvement in scriptwriting, editing, acting, directing, programming and distribution, television and making documentaries.

Although the panels varied, the same themes kept cropping up: women don't yet have the power, money, proper image, or confidence to make a major contribution in film. Scriptwriter Renee Taylor has two successful films behind her ("Lovers and Other Strangers," "Made for Each Other," both written with her husband, Joe Bologna) and is turning director. She says, "The reality is, whoever has the creative control is in charge."

Tamara Assayev, a University of California at Los Angeles Film School graduate filmmaker who has done three films outside the Hollywood system, reeled off figures on filmmaking union memberships there which indicate where the power is:

Directors Guild, 2,343 men, 23 women; Producers Guild, 400 men, 10 women; Cinematographers Union, 1,464 men, 6 women; Writers Guild, 2,575 men, 318 women.

Veteran scriptwriter Helen Deutsch ("King Solomon's Mines") says after 25 years at the big studios: "If you were a man and wrote two scripts of any kind the next thing you were made a producer or director, but if you were a woman you just went on writing scripts."

EVEN WHEN a woman works her way into directing, she may be blocked by society's resistance to a woman taking a traditionally male role and by her own insecurities.

Barbara Loden, who turned from acting to directing with her film, "Wanda," explains, "We (women) think people won't take us seriously or people think we don't have enough ability ... I found in making 'Wanda' that the non-actors in the film couldn't relate to me at all. I would have to get one of the men — my husband (director Elia Kazan) or my cameraman — to say I really knew what I was doing in directing it that way ..."

Karen Sperling, a wealthy girl from a film family, tried to find backing in traditional ways and finally had to finance her own film, "Make a Face." She says, "Women have to prove themselves on an industrialized production level. Basically you're talking to Gulf and Western (they own Paramount Pictures) or some stockholder, a man who looks at you and says, 'Wait a minute, why don't you go home and have babies.' "

CANADIAN FILMMAKER Sylvia Spring says, "The hardest thing was convincing men I had validity ... I'm aware my being a woman hasn't helped me in my career." In another part of the panel she noted her own hesitations as a director: "I had been so intimidated by thinking men knew everything."

And French filmmaker Nelly Kaplan (represented in the festival by "A Very Curious Girl" and "Papa les Petites Bateaux") said, "If you are a woman, you have no right to be nervous, no right not to know what to do. I was obliged to be better than myself." Ms. Kaplan noted that It's easier for a woman to be an editor than a director in France "because men loathe editing, they think it's like sewing, you know, feminine work ..."

Even actresses have trouble with film. Some famous faces commented in the panel on acting.

Estelle Parsons ("Bonnie and Clyde") said, "I don't think you act in film anyway, films belong to the director and editor. If you want to make an impact you direct or edit. There are not an awful lot of really good womanly roles written in the American culture. Women are written as sex objects, hopeless neurotics, nymphomaniacs, or on the other hand, butch comedians ..."

ACTRESS BARBARA Harris says the actress is often "repressed by what the director in films wants." She told about a typical difference with the director of hew newest film. "The War Between Men and Women." "He wanted me to laugh through the scene where my husband's going blind and my ex-husband has just been killed in Vietnam."

When she argued that no normal woman would laugh there, the answer was, "Well, war has its ironic moments." "I was blacking out with rage," she told the audience.

Actress-author Viva, who came up through underground movies, carried on a sort of James Joyce monologue which delighted the audience. Among the paragraphs she noted, "Any film I've seen lately is totally male — there are never good female parts — you have to go back to Ann Bancroft in "The Miracle Worker." Men have the control, men have the power in film, and it looks as though they really love men rather than women — all the women in films today are shadows, cardboard."

Which brings up the image of women in film. Panelist Jean Faust studied the subject for New York State Human Rights Commission hearings. "Women in movies are for sex," she says. "Our society has rejected movies concerned with women's inner life."

Writer Gloria Steinem said, "I would like to see films about women who are not losers and masochists ... I want to see a film about a strong, passionate, beautiful woman."

"Village Voice" film reviewer Molly Haskell said, "I'm interested in seeing women doing things in film, handling both a career and marriage."

JEANINE BASINGER, who teachers a course on women in film at Wesleyan University, said, 'I want to see real women on screen, intelligent, strong, kind women, doing something, maybe marvelously or not, but doing something."

The feature films directed by women at the festival do show women a more whole image of themselves than the Hollywood stereotypes so many panelists objected to. In every film but two, the heroines were the central characters. Women directors tend to make films about women or girls, and their heroines are vibrant, individual, often strong characters. The festival feature films included:

"CLEO FROM 5 to 7," Agnes Varda's film about a young singer spending the hours between 5 and 7 waiting for a diagnosis of a possibly fatal disease and discovering that her lover, her fame, her beauty, and her closest friendship are insubstantial.

Hungarian Marta Meszaros has directed "The Girl," about an illegitimate child brought up in an orphanage who traces her mother only to find that "you can't go home again." Leontine Sagan's 1931 film, "Maedchen in Uniform," is a study of the effects of a boarding school's Prussian authoritarianism on a motherless student starved for love.

American director Dorothy Arzner made the festival's "The Wild Party" in 1929 with Clara Bow, the "it" girl, as an unbridled co-ed who falls in love with her anthropology professor (Frederic March). Barbara Loden's film "Wanda" deals with a drifter of a woman from a Pennsylvania mining town who wanders into a "Bonnie and Clyde" relationship with a traveling thief. "The Bigamist," American director Ida Lupino's 1953 film, deals subtly with the feelings of two diverse women (Ida Lupino and Joan Fontaine) both married to the same, guilt-ridden man (Edmund O'Brien).

A lonely old woman moving from one apartment to another is the heroine of Hungarian Judit Elek's film, "The Lady From Constantinople"; an Olympic gymnast and a housewife are the dual heroines of Vera Chytilova's Czechoslovakian film, "Something Different."

TWO OF the films are based on classic plays: Mai Zetterling's provocative fantasy, "The Girls", about actresses in a production of Aristophanes's "Lysistrata" who suddenly see its theme (women refusing to sleep with their husbands until war becomes peace) in terms of their own lives.

In "The Year of the Cannibals" Italian director Liliani Cavani attempts a contemporary version of the Antigone theme, with Britt Ekland striding through streets full of rebel corpses. French director Nelly Kaplan, a highly original directing intelligence, made "A Very Curious Girl" about a provincial gypsy who revenges herself on the townspeople who have degraded her by turning prostitute and eventually destroying the town.

Only two of the feature films do not focus on women: Mary Ellen Bute's lyrical black-and-white translation of "Passages from Finnegan's Wake" by James Joyce and Italian director Lina Wertmuller's "The Lizards," about three aimless men who are the film's antiheroes.

Marin Women

Miss Mwenga Wed To Peter K. Mutunga

St. Andrew Presbyterian Church in Marin City was the setting for the wedding Saturday morning of Monicah Kaveke Mwenga to Peter Kiilu Mutunga, both of San Rafael.

Monicah is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mwenga Kiilu of Kangundo, Masaku, Kenya, and Peter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Mutunga Munyilu, also live there.

The attendant for Monicah was Joyce Kasiva Kitavi of Terra Linda, and Fancis Mwanzia Kilonzo of San Rafael served as best man.

The reception followed afterward at the latter's home in San Rafael. The couple will make their home in San Rafael.

Monicah attended Machakos Girls High School in Kenya, East Africa, and is a graduate of Tamalpais High School. She is now attending the College of Marin.

She is the sister of Annah Nthambi, Alice Mumbua, Jane Mutuli, Agnes Ndunge and Francis M. Mwenga, all of Kagundo, Masaku, Kenya.

Peter is a graduate of Kagundo, the College of Marin and California State University, San Francisco. He is employed in San Rafael.

Peter's brothers are Simon Kilonzo, Peter Wambua, Muithya and Joshua Ndambuki, all of Kenya, and Steve Mutunga of Claremont.

William Rolfe Takes Miss Linman As Bride

Meredith Linman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Linman of Tiburon, became the bride of William Rolfe III of Sacramento on Sunday at the Ralston-White Memorial Retreat in Mill Valley.

Her maid of honor was Margie McLean of Mill Valley and bridesmaids were Kris Zealear of San Francisco, Marylou Colombo of Sacramento and Kay Rolfe of Burbank.

Meredith is a graduate of Redwood High School, College of Marin and California State University, Chico. She is a teacher at Riverside School in the Sacramento school district.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hogan of Sacramento. A graduate of Bakersfield High School, he attended San Fernando College, Loyola and was graduated from California State University, Chico. Currently attending McGeorge School of Law, he is hearings officer for the State Department of Public Welfare.

William's sister is Kay Rolfe of Burbank.

His best man was Michael Campos of Chico. Ushers were Jeff Eklund, John Peeples, and Gary Owens, all of Chico, and Ed Webb of Red Bluff.

Following the reception at Ralston-White Memorial Retreat, the couple left on a wedding trip to Mendocino County and Los Angeles. They will live in Sacramento.

TOY SAFETY

Continuing Controversy

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI)—The continuing controversy about toy safety gets a midsummer airing, although the heaviest buying holiday season is months away.

What comes from the airing in which parents and experts "rap" are tips for safe toy play, news of new safety standards and durability criteria.

THE TIPS for safe toy play agreed on: Think before you buy. Don't impulse buy. Read and keep informed of developments in toy safety.

Teach your child proper safe play with toys. Set good examples. Supervise toy play according to the situation. Consider the child's age, personality, surroundings and experience.

Check the broken toys. Repair or discard them. Protect the young child from the potentially dangerous toys of the older child.

The experts' meeting with three mothers ("they're the experts when it comes to preventing accidents...") came about recently in Boca Raton, Fla., when the Toy Manufacturers of America, Inc., held a membership meeting.

The women were Mrs. Marilyn Martin, mother of seven, president of Boca Raton Elementary School Parent-Teachers Organization (PTO); Mrs. Sandra Grieser, mother of four, secretary of the PTO, and Mrs. Shirley Justin, mother of two, vice president of the J.C. Mitchell Parent-Teacher Association (PTA)

Ross told the group the association's board of directors had approved unanimously a set of "comprehensive" safety standards that covered essentially the entire industry and submitted them to the National Board of Standards for action.

The women who'd done their homework (three meetings plus phone consultations) had varied comments on safety. Mrs. Martin, who said it'd been an interesting time trying to raise her seven "safely but always open to new learning experiences" commented, "There are times when you take all safety precautions and then take a calculated risk. Children can't be kept locked in a closet for safety..."

THEY AGREED parents should keep informed of developments in toy safety. One said she'd read "an article in her paper just" two Sundays ago on cap guns. It was about the results of excessive use— particularly for children who have hearing aids."

The parents discussed the need for checking against sharp points, use of toxic materials possibly, flammable materials. Is lead free paint used? "Particularly when you've got a small child you've got to be more discriminating," said one.

On electrical toys, the women advised always giving special attention to their having the Underwriters Laboratory approval seal.

THE WOMEN agreed that durability could be a relative thing. Mrs. Grieser said she expected a children's riding tractor to last a long time—"you pay quite a bit for it." But she didn't expect long life out of little balsa wood planes she'd given for birthday party favors—"the kids play with it one afternoon in the backyard ... I expect it to be broken."

New Book Out On Decoupage

For the past seven years Leslie Linsley has been transforming hundreds of ordinary wooden objects — planters, wall plaques and boxes of all shapes — into works of art. Now she has written a book that explains her craft — known as decoupage.

Decoupage, which dates back to the 18th century and is the rage again, means applying decorative cutouts to an object. The technique involves painting, sanding and lacquering, as well as careful snipping around the cutout.

Leslie's directions are clear and not intimidating. She delights in the search for objects that, she says, "can lead you through lumberyards, hobby shops and attics."

Her book is titled "Decoupage: A New Look At An Old Craft."

Patterned Ankle Big Newsmaker

The big newsmaker in men's hosiery right now is the patterned ankle. For leisure — big, bold, colorful patterns. For the office — neat, subdued patterns.

Whether a person wears solids or patterns, color selection is important. For sports wear, anything goes. For more conservative wear, a good tip is to have the color of socks either the same shade as trousers or a bit darker.

The most popular length for casual wear is the anklet, or crew length. For business midcalf and over-the-calf lengths are recommended.

Jumpsuit Considered The In Fashion

Designer Vivian Wang believes the jumpsuit is the in fashion, and has done an entire collection of them for forthcoming holiday season wear.

Fairfax Couple Returns After 50th Anniversary

Back in Fairfax after a trip to Las Vegas to celebrate their 50th anniversary are Mr. and Mrs. Thomas M. Humphrey.

Their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas M. Humphrey Jr., now live in Las Vegas. They gave a luncheon at their home to honor the Golden Anniversary couple, and entertained them at a dinner party at a Las Vegas restaurant.

Mr. and Mrs. Humphrey were married in Los Angeles on July 31, 1922 and moved to Fairfax in 1935. Humphrey, who retired in 1960 as a supervisor with Mackay Radio in San Francisco, was one of the first telegraphers in the west. He started his career with the railroads.

Assisting with the celebration were the pair's granddaughters, Ana and Marlena. Their daughter-in-law, Camilla Humphrey is the daughter of the late Rev. George Loftness of Corte Madera.

Mrs. Humphrey is a member of the Dorcas Society of the Fairfax Community Church, and has served as president. Her husband has been a member of the Los Angeles Mesa Lodge of the Masonic Order for 51 years.

While in Las Vegas, the Fairfax couple toured the desert mountain country nearby and visited Boulder Dam.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Answering Services Too Slow; What If There's An Emergency?

DEAR HELEN:

I am an insurance man with the company that "sells life insurance but our business is life." This is why I am writing: I'm concerned with saving lives.

In the course of my work I must contact many doctors, most of whom subscribe to an answering service. The switchboards are usually busy, thus a polite voice comes on, saying, "This is Dr. Doe's wire. Please hold." The phone goes dead in your hands and you wait until an operator is free to take a message. This can be several minutes. Occasionally you are forgotten in the rush.

On routine calls, these minutes aren't important, but what if there is an emergency? A poisoning or cardiac victim could die in that time.

Here is my plea: Could answering service operators add, "Is this an emergency call?" If the answer is yes, valuable time would be saved — perhaps a life.

I'm sure that a short note from you, a nationally syndicated writer, would bring results, Helen. Thank you. — C.R.F.

DEAR C.:

I have forwarded your letter to the American Medical Association. Let's hope it will also be read by doctors' answering services all over the country. Thanks for your life-saving suggestion. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

If our son was grown and on his own, I'd expect him to manage his own love life, but he's only 17, and has never been serious about a girl before.

Here are some of the things she does:

Though she is engaged to another boy, she won't let our son look at any other girl. She threw a fit when he sat next to an old family friend (female) in the school cafeteria.

She expects him to "talk" with her fiance, getting him to break off with her — but we suspect she only wants to see the two boys in a big fight. She has done this before, with other fellows.

She is erratic. Insisted our son jump in a lake (fully clothed) to "prove he loves her." He nearly drowned.

She wants things, many things. They fight a lot because of her demands — such as a $900 stereo and a one-carat diamond ring.

She has threatened to commit suicide if he does not do everything she asks. (Or else she alternates with a threat to run away and marry her fiance.)

She has turned our son into a very confused and unhappy boy, who can't see that he is being used for her latest ego trip. Love does strange things to a teen who has never experienced it before, even a very level-headed guy, usually.

What can we do? — J.K.C.

DEAR J.:

You can sometimes open a lovestruck offspring's eyes by playing blind yourselves.

Don't see the girl's faults. Take her side on every foolish command. Be sympathetic and understanding about her dislike of adults, her demands for attention and possessions. Slip in a few "After you're married . . . " comments.

In other words, throw them together until he's ready to throw her out. It's a calculated risk, but remember: level-headed guys seldom stay off balance long — if they get a little "help" from their parents — H.

Frank R. Stephens Marries Miss Ennis

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Ennis of San Rafael.

Sheryl Ennis of San Rafael was maid of honor for her sister. The bridesmaids were Janice Harrop of Mill Valley, Kathy Moore of San Rafael and Laura Flynn of Corte Madera.

Gregory Hetland of Sacramento was the best man. The ushers were George Ennis of San Rafael, the bride's brother; Dean Stephens of Huntington Beach, the bridegroom's brother; Gerald Lanford of San Rafael, Rodger Miller of San Rafael and David Wallace of Novato.

The reception was given at the Fellowship Hall of the church.

Karen is a graduate of Redwood High School and will continue her education at Ventura College in Ventura. She has been employed at Land Investors Research in Larkspur.

The bridegroom was graduated from Santa Ana High School in Santa Ana, and attended Santiago College in Santa Ana. He is employed by the Santa Paula Daily Chronicle.

The newlyweds will live in Santa Paula.

Lawrence Carpenter Is Wed To Susan E. Quale

Susan Elaine Quale of Petaluma became the bride of Lawrence Carpenter of San Rafael at noon Saturday in a ceremony at Maple Lawn in San Rafael.

The bride's sister, Mrs. Edward Moore of Petaluma, was matron of honor, and Norman Ortman of San Rafael was the best man.

A reception followed at Maple Lawn. When the couple return from a wedding trip along the Northern California coast, they will live in San Rafael.

Susan is the daughter of Raymond Quale of Arnold, formerly of Greenbrae.

She is a graduate of Tamalpais High School and the University of California at Riverside. She also attended College of Marin and the University of San Francisco. She is now a private tutor.

Lawrence is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Parlan Carpenter of Mill Valley. He also was graduated from Tamalpais High School and received a degree from California State College, Sonoma. Lawrence is employed with Sylvania in San Francisco.

He is the brother of Donna Loper of Novato and the grandson of Mrs. Elma Wilson of Mill Valley.

Jeanne Shephard Davis Married To Bruce Imai

Jeanne Shephard Davis of San Anselmo became the bride of Bruce Imai of San Carlos on Saturday afternoon at the First Presbyterian Church in San Anselmo.

Mrs. Bradley M. Busch of Mill Valley was matron of honor for her sister, and another sister, Mrs. Terry Tadlock of Cupertino, was the bridesmaid.

The bridegroom's brother, Dr. Kent Imai of Ft. Benning, Ga., served as best man.

After the nuptials a reception was held at the Meadow Club.

The newlyweds will live in Davis when they return from a Lake Tahoe wedding trip.

Jeanne, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William R. Davis of San Anselmo, is a graduate of Sir Francis Drake High School and the University of California at Davis. She has been employed with the Yolo County shelter workshop in Woodland.

She is the granddaughter of Judge and Mrs. Fredrick Crisp of San Anselmo.

Bruce is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Yuki Imai of San Carlos. He was graduated from Burlingame High School and Willamette University and the University of California at Davis Law School.

ON BEING BLACK

Nostalgia—Still We Remember

By SANDRA HAGGERTY

Nostalgia for the past continues to plague us, even though we know that times continue to change. Whether it be yesterday morning or 100 years ago, the past is a curious container. We laugh at many of the contradictions and wince at some of the sad realities. Still, we remember:

When the most unlucky kid was the one who got the black gum ball out of the penny machine.

When Daddy was called Poppa.

When you had to designate your race on a job application form and/or the interviewer marked your application with a dot or special code. And if you forgot a detail on your application form and rushed back to the office to make the adjustment, you found your application had been filed —accidentally, of course — in the wastebasket.

When bologna was a new and exquisite food for gourmets.

When skin-bleaching cream was the biggest cosmetic seller in black communities. (It still is in South Africa.)

When all blacks were Democrats.

When, if a man disliked cooking, the trait was called "masculine," and if a woman disliked cooking, the trait was called "lazy."

When a trip to Africa was more than we could fathom.

When smocks were worn only by pregnant women.

When soul was that part of your being that went to heaven upon your demise.

When hair on black women's legs was sexy.

When you stared straight ahead as your first-grade teacher read "Little Black Sambo" and "Ten Little Niggers" aloud in class.

When being "different" was a liability instead of an asset.

When your pets ate food scraps off the table.

When girls went to college to get a husband instead of an education.

When "crazy" people were kept behind locked doors.

When plaited hair, especially very short hair, was a source of shame. Today you see black male athletes running around the Olympic track with naturals — plaited!

When women wore aprons.

When cooked coon was a main meat dish.

When the South was the place to be "from."

When traditions were respected and valued.

When parental respect was demonstrated — even if not merited.

When a "smart nigger" was a number-one lynch candidate. Today the Madison Avenue "head hunters" are in desperate search of "smart niggers" to complete their integration goals as fat government contracts and the like enter into the ball game.

When the value of black Southern colleges was obscured because they were black.

When being polite was considered a strength rather than a weakness.

When black journalism referred only to the white press.

When all the foreign students you met on campus told you they were the sons of kings and chiefs. And many an American girl married such a royal Romeo only to find that home was far removed from Buckingham Palace.

When being married was the only respectable life for a woman.

When being an athlete was equated with being dumb.

When your grandfather lived with you and told stories over and over about the olden days and there was no thought of "dumping" him in an old folks' home.

When the black plague referred to a disease, not busing and the integration of white neighborhoods.

When a bald head was a sign of waning masculinity, not a symbol of sexy masculinity, to wit, Isaac Hayes.

When houses had porches.

Beauty Care Is Done In Kitchen

For housewives too busy for daily beauty care, Alice Woynicki, fashion and beauty consultant, says, "Simply take your beauty preparations right along with you to the kitchen where you spend so much of your working day. If a jar of cold cream is at hand the housewife is more likely to use it as dinner is cooking.

The kitchen actually is an ideal place for complexion care since cooking activities produce steam.

Eva Baumgardner To Head Session

Eva Baumgardner, who formerly operated a nursery school in Sacramento, has been named director of the prekindergarten session at the Novato Parents Nursery School, starting next month at the Novato United Methodist Church.

The sessions, for four and five year olds, will be held Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays from 1 to 3:30 p.m. School information can be obtained from Mona Stryker, 1225 Cambridge Street, Novato.

THE ALUMNAE

"I hope you won't feel out of place as an artist and poet among all these advertising executives, corporation lawyers and PR men."

Safety Margin

Lumber used for floor joists, roof rafters and wall studa snd plates must be of sizes and grades required by building codes. Strength and siffness of lumber is known from hundreds of laboratory tests — ansd a wide margin over these is specified for added safety.

Women, Men And Pornography

A psychoanalyst believes that women's "greater maturity" and lesser concern with sexual adequacy makes them less interested in pornography than men.

Dr. Theodore Isaac Rubin also asserted that the "vast majority" of men interested in pornography are "generally 'normal'," that pornography does not produce perverts or sex criminals, and that it poses no terrible dangers to society.

Writing for Ladies' Home Journal magazine, the psychoanalyst said, "It is the childish part of man that is interested in pornography," primarily because of "enormous curiosity about what other people are doing."

Rubin said, "I find that our culture somehow gives women greater maturity. Women generally ... grow up, leaving most of the 'little girl' in the past. Men grow up and bring most of the 'little boy' with them into adulthood."

A-Frame Sites

A-frame vacation homes are more suitable in hilly terrain or on steep hillsides among tall trees, states a nationally known architect. On flat lakeside sites, more horizontal structures seem better.

CHANGING FACE OF TARGET

When 10-year-old Leighton Schnur of Novato stepped in for his turn as the target in a booth at the annual Kid's Carnival in Novato yesterday, he started with a confident smile (left), but his eyes widened and his mouth formed a grim line as the tossed sponge approached and, finally, a slightly wounded look as the sponge struck. Tossing sponges and balls, shaving balloons, were part of the fun that attracted several hundred youngsters to the carnival sponsored by the Novato Parks and Recreation Commission at the Novato Downtown Center.

Mill Valley Workers Get An Agency Shop

The Mill Valley City Council reluctantly adoped a memorandum of understanding between the city and its nonsafety employees, including a controversial provision establishing an "agency shop" for municipal workers.

The agency shop requires employees either to join the union or pay a service charge equal to its regular dues of $4 per month.

The agreement was accepted by a 3-0 vote, with councilmen Edward J. Boessenecker and Gerald J. Hood abstaining because they had not attended the council's two final sessions with the city's bargaining representative.

The Independent-Journal learned today that all five councilmen were disappointed with the establishment of the agency shop.

According to Mayor Jean S. Barnard, the council agreed to establish the agency shop in return for the union's agreement to cut its salary and fringe benefits demand by about $18,000 and accept a two-year contract.

"We all found the agency shop unpalatable," Mrs. Barnard said. "But it was the best package we could get."

Agency shops are still uncommon in agreements between municipalities and their employees, according to Councilman Robert E. Capron, a San Francisco attorney. The legality of the agency shop recently established in Hayward is presently being challenged in the courts, he said.

"I have serious reservations about the legality of an agency shop," Capron said. While he does not anticipate a legal challenge to the agency shop in Mill Valley, Capron expects the results of the Hayward case to serve as a precedent for the entire state.

"An agency shop limits the freedom of employees in that it compels an employee to pay the union what, in effect, amounts to union dues. This gives him another reason to feel he should join the union," Capron said.

Mrs. Barnard said she already has received a letter from four nonunion employees who have asked the city to pay their service charges. The charges for the four employees would be about $200 a year.

The agreement declares that the city's nonsafety employees will be granted pay increases of 5 per cent, effective July 1, 1972, and an additional increase of 2.5 per cent, effective Jan. 1, 1974. The employees' two-year contract expires June 30, 1974.

According to City Mgr. William H. Cunningham, those salary increases will add about $30,000 to the 1972-1973 budget.

The city council last night also added $9,770 for an additional fireman and $3,200 for new fireproof clothing to the city's 1972-1973 budget of approximately $2,925,000.

The council found part of the new expenditures by cutting $10,000 from the city's account to purchase a new fire truck.

The net additions to the spending program amounted to about $3,000 and would raise the tax rate less than one cent per $100 assessed valuation.

The council adjounred to a 7:30 p.m. closed meeting Monday, prior to its regular meeting, to confer with its representatives in contract talks with city police employees. The police employees are the only ones who have not yet reached agreement with the city.

The council also scheduled budget sessions at 8 p.m. Tuesday and Wednesday to review the accounts of governmental buildings, library, police, streets, sewers and debt service.

New Service Is Scheduled Through Bank

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Beginning next month, Californains will be able to work, get paid, settle bills and spend what is left without ever seeing or touching so much as a dime.

The new service is scheduled to begin at banks in the Los Angeles and San Francisco areas Oct. 16, allowing customers to have payroll checks automatically deposited and bills automatically paid. the balance would be routed into checking or savings accounts.

In announcing the program, Gene Thurman, vice president of City National Bank, Beverly Hills, and vice president of the new California Automated Clearing House Assn., which will handle the interbank transactions, told a news conference the automatic payment and deposit services "will be completely voluntary."

He said the banks "will have no real indication of how many companies will sign up for the payroll deposit plan until Oct. 1," the first day banks and corporations can begin signing agreements.

However, many firms including some aerospace employers have already expressed interest in the new service, he said.

The system would operate with the employer sending notification of a worker's salary to the individual bank, where the information would be forwarded to the clearing house.

The salary would then be transferred from the employer's account to the worker's account.

Bills would work the same way. The clearing house would transfer funds from the worker's account to the creditor's account and notify them of the amount 10 days in advance.

"If there is a difference of opinion over the size of the deduction," Thurman said, "the individual would have plenty of time to tell his bank to stop payment."

Thurman said banks would save money as a result of the new system but it was impossible to say how much. He was reluctant to discuss the cost to the customer. "Different banks will have different charges," he said.

Later, a spokesman for the Bank of America said charges at his firm "will not be higher" than the cost of current checking account.

Astrology Class Is Slated In Petaluma

A beginning class in astrology will be offered starting Sept. 6 by the Petaluma Adult Education Department.

Franklin Pershina, a member of the American Federation of Astrologers, will instruct the class, which will meet on Wednesdays at 7 p.m. at Petaluma Senior High School.

The class will include understanding the horoscope, zodiacal signs, planets natal chart interpretation, analyzing planetary aspects and the historical basis of astrology.

Registration for the two-semester course may be made by calling the Adult Education Department at the Petaluma Schools Administration building.

Church Group School Lease Urged

The Marin City Community Services District board agreed last night to recommend that the Sausalito School District lease the vacant Manzanita School to Bethesda Mission, a community church organization.

District secretary Lillian Lee said the board acted on a request from the mission that it be the community group which leases the school, which has been empty since last September.

Earlier this month, a committee of the Sausalito School District board said it will recommend the facility be turned over to Marin City organizations for their use.

At that time the committee said the entire school board would have to decide on the disposition of the school and what group will have charge of Manzanita.

Use of the school will be considered by the school board at 7:30 p.m. Monday in the district office.

In other business, the services district board voted to reduce its year-round supervised play program at St. Andrew's United Presbyterian Church to a summer operation and move the program to Manzanita Center.

Mrs. Lee said the board thought the program was too costly for the number of children now participating. She said the program cost the district $9,336 last year and a recent survey showed fewer than 20 children per day using the service.

The board also agreed to accept applications, beginning Monday, for the board seat vacated by the recent death of C. J. Williams.

Decision On Shaheen Postponed

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The Board of Education has postponed for one week a decision on whether to replace San Francisco schools Supt. Thomas A. Shaheen.

The board's decision to grant a delay requested by Shaheen's attorney, Frederick Furth, came late yesterday after two days of negotiations over Shaheen's contract.

An overflow crowd of more than 300 persons, some of them shouting "we want Shaheen," attended the lengthy meeting.

Most of the board members are publicly pledged to dump Shaheen, a supporter of integration throughout the school system.

Dr. Carlton Goodlett, representing the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, issued a statement blaming Mayor Joseph Alioto and other local officials for using "every conceivable maneuver to thwart the order of the federal courts which directs school board action to remove racism and inequality in public education."

Meeting Postponed

The regular meeting of the Marin Municipal Water District board, scheduled for Wednesday at 1:30 p.m. in the district office in Corte Madera, will be postponed until Aug. 30 at the same time and place. The postponement is due to the fact several directors will be out of town next week.

Gallinas Community District Fails To Resolve A Dispute

The Gallinas Village Community Services District board last night failed to resolve a dispute over fill involving a county order which prohibits dumping on Gallinas Village Yacht Club grounds.

The county department of public works last week issued an order banning the dumping of fill on yacht club grounds adjacent to John McPhail School, according to Marguerite F. Clark, board secretary.

She said that the yacht club had allowed a local contractor to dump fill on club grounds without district approval. The club — which rents the property from the district for $1 per year — wants to raise the lot level of the parcel, she said.

"They (the club) don't seem to think they're responsible to us for anything," Mrs. Clark said, adding that the matter was the result of a "lack of communication".

According to Mrs. Clark, Robert Sherman, the commodore of the yacht club said last night that the club was working within the law in filling the 100 by 150-square-foot parcel.

She said that the board continued discussion of the fill matter to the district's Sept. 7 meeting.

The board hired Carolyn Jauch, summer recreation director, to administer the district's 10-week fall recreational program at $4 an hour and authorized $100 to retain two rented mini-buses for another week. The buses are needed for a district sponsored backpacking trip in the sierras on Aug. 26, she said.

Campus Gets Funds For Police Patrol

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —Gov. Ronald Reagan signed a bill Thursday appropriating $76,500 for the University of California to provide a police foot patrol in the community of Isla Vista near the Santa Barbara campus.

The bill was carried by Sen. Robert J. Lagomarsino, R-Ojai.

Officers Elected By Marin Group

Juanita Cobb has been elected chairman of the new Marin City Project Area Committee, formed to advise the Marin County Redevelopment Agency in planning for redevelopment of the community.

Other new officers chosen this week are: Ollie Griffin, vice chairman; Daniel Hayden, secretary, and Rev. E. D. Perkins, treasurer.

Mrs. Cobb said the 11-member group agreed to add four persons. The new members, who must live within the redevelopment project, will be selected at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at a place to be announced.

The current committee members and the organizations they represent are: Marin City Community Services District, Arthur Miller and Griffin; Marin City Homeowners and Improvement Association, Mack Page, Leonard Turner and Mrs. Cobb; Marin City Council, Frank Phillips Sr., Melvin Atkins, Jackie Harris and Terrie Harris; Ministers' Alliance, Rev. Perkins; and commercial area, Hayden.

'ANNE FRANK' OPENS TONIGHT

College of Marin freshman Lisa Britt, playing Anne Frank, is teased by Sir Francis Drake High School senior Gregg Olsson, who plays Peter Van Dann in a scene from "The Diary of Anne Frank" which opens at 8 p.m. today in San Rafael High School's Little Theater. The Playmaker's Theater, a summerstock group composed of students throughout Marin, has also scheduled performances of the play for tomorrow night and Aug. 26 and 27. The group has been given a $100 production fund by the San Rafael Parks and Recreation Department, according to Stacy Scott, director.

MOTION PICTURE GUIDE

MOTION PICTURE GUIDE

The Marin Motion Picture and Television Council provides these ratings of movies now being shown in Marin County. The council's findings are from California and National Parent-Teacher Assn. magazines and Parents' Magazine unless otherwise noted. More complete reviews may be obtained by calling the San Rafael City Library.

FAMILY

"Now You See Him, Now You Don't" — Life on a gay college campus where an inept student produces a concoction which will make people invisible. This creates many complications for both the hero and the villian.

"Pufnstuf" — A colorful, imaginative adventure based on television show by the same name. A magic flute leads a boy to a fantasy land of life-sized puppets where everything talks and there are witches and a dragon. Classic entertainment.

"What's Up Doc?" — Set in San Francisco, treated with a sophisticated touch, this fast moving slapstick nutty comedy revolves around a mixup with four identical suitcases.

ADULTS AND TEENS

"Blacula" — In 1780 an African prince asks Count Dracula to help in ending the slave trade. The count curses the prince to a life of vampirism. In 1972 the prince is unwittingly turned lose to fulfill the curse.

"The Candidate" — A taut drama about an idealistic young lawyer running for the office of senator. The acting, direction and photography combine to give film realistic texture and adds impact to the vital theme of political disillusionment.

"The Frogs" — A terrifying science-fiction thriller in which the animal kingdom takes revenge on man for polluting the environment. Fine photography creates a chilling realism and the animals seem both intelligent and dedicated as they stalk their prey to a bloody kill. Cursing.

"Kansas City Bomber" — A slick noisy record of the violent punching brawl known as the "roller derby". A divorcee torn between her duty as a mother and her ambiion to gain money and fame is forced by a harrowing set of circumstances to make a critical decision. (Motion Picture Daily)

"Kelly's Heroes" — A preposterous World War II satirical comedy about a group of American soldiers who sneak behind enemy lines in order to rob a bank of millions in gold bullion. Plenty of action and violence.

"Love Story" — Two young college students marry causing a rift between the young man and his father. When they decide to have a child they discover the wife has a fatal illness. Some sex and strong language.

BORDERLINE

(Most sources say Adults Only)

"Cabaret" — Set in Berlin in 1930 a zestful young American girl singer at a cabaret proclaims herself the symbol of "divine decadence". Her love affairs lead to a pregnancy where paternity is unsure. Well made film but sophisticated and bawdy with foul language and sex.

"The Carey Treatment" — A hip pathologist turns detective when a colleague is wrongly accused in the death of a young girl. This thought provoking film has sex, drugs, abortion, racy dialogue plus an indestructable hero who has style and money.

"Frenzy" — Hitchcock brings us a necktie murderer who is a sexual psychopath and on the loose in London. Very suspenseful with nudity and cursing.

"The Hospital" — A series of episodes scathingly and sometimes humorously presented point up the incompetence, emotional hangups and self-seeking drives of the medical staff. Nudity, sex and foul language.

"Play It Again, Sam" — In this sex comedy, Woody Allen is a dedicated movie buff and as a writer lives in a fantasy world where he gets advice from his favorite actor, Humphrey Bogart, on how to solve his sex problems.

"Summer of '42" — Three adolescent boys spending the summer with their families on an island are enlightened about sex by reading a medical book. They then proceed to apply the knowledge they have acquired.

ADULTS ONLY

"The Godfather" — Gripping epic ganster film filled with excessive violence. The head of Mafia leads two lives as a kindly head of a family and then as leader of a mob whose business is killing.

"The Graduate" — A young college graduate returns to his wealthy parents home unsure of what he wants to do with his future. He becomes involved with a married woman and also with her daughter. Nudity and sex.

"Klute" — A police officer and a call girl follow a clue given in an obscene letter which eventually leads them to a psychopathic killer. It is a sordidly explicit film which does not spare its audience.

"Play Misty For Me" — A terrifying suspense thriller about a radio disc jockey and an insane fan who pursues him. Many bloody deaths and some sex scenes.

"Shaft's Big Score" — The black James Bond is back, this movie is glossier and gorier than its predecessor. Gangsters trying to muscle in on a crime operation, assassinations, sexy chicks, bachelor pad, etc ... nudity, cursing.

"Sunday Bloody Sunday" — A divoreee and a doctor are both deeply and obsessively in love with an attractive young man. He divides his time between their beds, refusing to commit himself totally. Sex scenes and nudity.

Special Meeting

The Tiburon Fire Protection District board will hold a special meeting at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday to discuss the fire department's retirement program.

Tryouts For Play Slated

The Novato Community Players will hold tryouts Sunday and Wednesday for its November production, "Move Over, Dummy," an original musical written by a member, Elaine Bernardi.

Parts are open for more than 20 persons including singers, dancers, specialty performers and actors, according to Paul Terry, publicity chairman.

Theme of the show is activities of "both live and inanimate people" in a large department store after it is closed for the day, Terry said. Performances will be Nov. 3, 4, 10 and 11.

Tryouts will be at the Novato Community House at 1 p.m. Sunday and 8 p.m. Wednesday. Persons seeking roles must be at least 21 years of age and singers should bring a song of their choice for the auditions.

Mrs. Bernardi will direct. Co-producers are Linda Waller and Verta Hartsock.

DRAMA REVIEW

Mill Valley Players Win One, Lose One

By KAY KSANDA

It was a very good wind that wafted a new group of professional actors and technicians into Mill Valley.

So far they don't have a name or a permanent location but currently they are unobtrusively producing three plays at the Mill Valley Center for the Performing Arts. This group is really WOW!

Set designer is Bill Sherman, head of the Sonoma State College Drama Department and directors are associated with either a college or university.

The casts are local professionals and even a "walk-on" part is done with easy finesse. This is talent and know-how.

Last night the shows were two one-act plays, "The Respectful Prostitute" by Jean Paul Sartre, and "Out at Sea" by Mrozek. The first was a smash and the second was grisly. Both were done in the round with a coffee break between plays for set change.

In the first the brass bed was not the real focus of action. Lizzie, played by Pat Sherman, had just arrived in a southern town, and had witnessed the murder of a Negro next to her on the train.

The town power descends on her to falsify her testimony and say that she was raped by the second black man. The plot, the action, the dialogue and the pace are all absolutely marvelous. The acting is elegant, with even the town cops terrifying in their salacious seediness.

"Out At Sea" had a weird beginning and kept on getting uglier.

Three undefined hungry people had been cast away at9sea and two of them decided to eat the third, a rather nice young lady with bouncy curls.

When you see the old lifeboat scene, one expects some fundamental wisdom, perhaps a few bitter or sentimental words before sinking into the briney. But not here. It wasn't even funny, it was depraved.

Technical bits like lights, music, sounds and media flashbacks were all very good but could not lighten the second part of the two act play.

However, if you want a good slice of life, don't miss "The Respectful Prostitute." It runs every other night through Sept. 2. at 8 p.m.

Bangladesh Aid Is Waterproof

LONG BEACH, Calif. (UPI) —A relief agency has developed a method of dropping rice to flooded villages in Bangladesh.

The rice will be dropped into the villages in waterproof bags, a spokesman for the Foundation for Airborne Relief said Thursday. The foundation will drop rice into hundreds of villages during the coming monsoon season, he said.

"There have been few crops because of the war, and starvation will threaten manylives at the peak of the flood season," he said. "The greater part of the nation's 75 million people live in rural villages surrounded by farm fields."

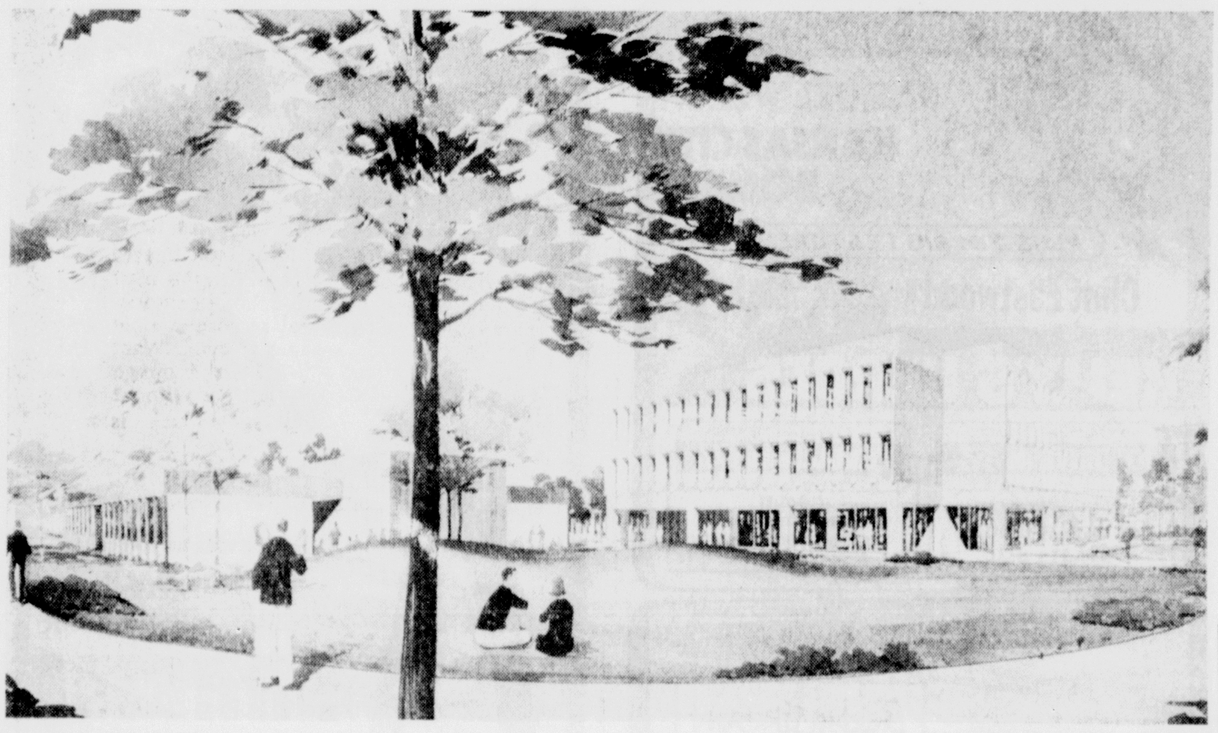
HEALTH CENTER — Construction of a student health services building will begin this year at Sonoma State College. The redwood and stucco exterior will be an architectural change for the campus where other buildings are concrete. The $1.4 million project will be funded by student fees rather than by state funds and should be open to students in late 1973.



NEW CLASSROOMS — A complex of classrooms and faculty offices will be under construction at Sonoma State College during the 1972-73 school year. Part of the complex will be a one-story building with redwood and stucco exterior while the main structure will be three-stories of reinforced concrete like other buildings on the campus. The center will house 1,200 students and should be open for classes in the spring of 1975 at an estimated cost of $2.2 million.

IN NEW STYLE

Projects Set On Campus

By BONNIE BARD

The 1972-73 school year will bring several construction projects to Sonoma State College including a health center and new classroom building.

The college will award construction contracts this fall for a $1.4 million student health services center and to complete plans early next year for a $2.2 million classroom building.

In addition to the new projects, workmen are nearing completion on the $3.5 million student residence halls.

The health services building is scheduled for completion in late 1973 and will represent a new architectural style on the campus. Rather than the predominant massive concrete structures, the health center will be a one-story frame building with a redwood and stucco exterior.

The 20,000 square foot center is being designed by Albert Hoover and Associates of Palo Alto. Like the residence halls, the building will be financed by student fees rather than state funds.

Plans for the 51,000 square foot classroom building should be complete next February. The building will house the three cluster colleges, the school's new nursing program, faculty offices and general classroom space. It is expected to accommodate 1,200 students and to be completed in the spring of 1975.

Also in the new architectural style of redwood with stucco, it will be a three-story building connected to a one-story building.

Other major campus projects underway include working drawings for a four-story addition to the library which will also house administrative offices. It will be the largest construction project in the college's 12-year history and will cost $6.7 million. The 147,000 square foot addition es expected to be completed by the fall of 1975.

Another student-funded project under way is a $2.5 million student union. It will have 44,000 square feet housing student oriented activities such as recreation rooms, meeting rooms, lounge areas, a snack bar and additional bookstore space.

An architect will be named for the student union early next fall and completion is expected in the spring of 1975.

Plans are also set to add 200 more units to the nearly complete student residence halls by 1974 at a cost of $1.5 million. The project would include units for couples and would also be financed by students.

Capital improvement projects which are planned for completion by 1980 but have not yet been funded include an art building, computer center, natural science building, theatre arts complex, aquatic facility, allied health building, cluster school complex and another classroom-office building.

Grant Boosts Senior Citizen Kitchen Work

A $3,000 grant has put construction of a central kitchen facility for the Whistlestop Depot in San Rafael six months ahead of schedule.

Earlier construction — which will begin in about three weeks — has been sparked by a grant from the Catholic Charities of the Archdiocese of San Francisco, according to Edward T. Ryken, executive director of the Marin Senior Coordinating Council.

The grant is part of $18,000 distributed in the Bay Area in connection with the Catholic Campaign for Human Development, the Church's antipoverty education program.

The donation brings to $14,000 the Whistlestop's kitchen building fund. The San Francisco Foundation previously donated $10,000 and $1,000 has been collected from individual contributors, Ryken said.

"The kitchen has been a dream for five years and it looks like construction is finally just around the corner," he said.

He said that the kitchen would be used to prepare low cost meals for senior citizens who drop by the Whistlestop at 930 Tamalpais Avenue.

Senate Backs Switching U.S. To Metric System

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Senate today passed historic legislation that would convert the U.S. system of measurements to the metric system over the next 10 years.

Passed by voice vote without opposition or debate, the bill would convert the federal government to the metric system and begin a voluntary conversion within industry, extending the change over a decade to ease the expense.

The system would replace inches, pounds and quarts with meters, kilograms and liters. A meter is equivalent to about 39 inches, a kilogram to 2.2 pounds and a liter to 1.01 quarts.

The reform was recommended in 1971 after the Commerce Department conducted a three-year, $4 million study called "A Metric America —A Decision Whose Time Has Come".

The bill, which now goes to the House, would establish an 11-member board representing business, education, labor, consumers, science and technology to encourage industry to convert. No compulsion would be involved.

The Senate Commerce Committee, which cleared the bill sponsored by Sen. Claiborne Pell, D-R.I., said 11 per cent of the nation's economy was already on the metric system.

Sausalito Council To Set New Tax Rate

The Sausalito City Council will set the city's 1972-73 tax rate at an adjourned meeting at 8 p.m. Tuesday in city hall.

The council will also meet in closed session to instruct its negotiator, City Mgr. Albert St. Cyr, in salary negotiations with city employees.

Coming this Saturday in Marin Magazine

Coming up Aug. 27 is the colorful annual automobile show at Mill Valley's Strawberry Town and Country Village. And in the forefront of the preparations are the members of the Redwood Region, Porsche Club of America, one of the co-sponsoring organizations. But the car show is only one of the many activities of this club. Tomorrow's I-J Marin Magazine tells you about those programs, and also why Marin's Porsche owners take such special pride in their automobiles. It's a fascinating story for all car buffs.

So you want to go back to college? Hamilton Air Force Base isn't, ordinarily, the first place you would think of, if you were bent on earning a degree in higher education. But operating behind the gates of the Northern Marin air base is a varied educational program offering a diversity of courses and degrees. And it is open to civilian enrollments as well as military personnel. If it sounds like just the place for you to complete a college education begun years ago, read tomorrow's I-J supplement for details.

DINING OUT AND INNS

By HARRY CRAFT

Holiday Inn Offers A Pleasing Place To Dine, Relax to Music

With the exception of the chain variety, no two restaurants are alike.

Their food may be. But not the restaurants themselves. Food servings follow a recipe pattern established and prepared somewhat uniformly over many years, embellished with the personal touches of the chef.

But you can't say of restaurants, "When you've seen one you've seen them all." The designer, builder, owner and operator each have had their influence on the final product, making it unlike anytning else.

And that's a good thing. It gives spice and variety to eating out, even though you may stick unimaginatively to ordering a steak wherever you go. It explains why people will throng to a new restaurant or change their dining out itinerary each week.

For example in Marin, you'll find that the Holiday Inn, located in Terra Linda, has no exact counterpart anywhere else in the county. Its cocktail lounge is different from others. So, too, is its dining room, which is quite spaciuos, a bit on the formal side and so carefully laid out that there doesn't seem to be a preferred table in the room.

If the staff seems unhurried, it's a mark of good training. Actually maitre d' Manfred Wolf and the waiters cover the ground as quickly as anyone without stirring up the dust.

Even in the kitchen, which may be the one place in the house hard to distinguish from other dineries of its size, chef Mark Lesley has a tendency to keep his calm — even when there's a banquet of 275 to serve, alocg with a full dining room. For one so young he is exceptionally well regulated under pressure. Or is it that this is one of the attributes of youth? I've forgotten.

London born and trained, Mark admits he didn't come from a family especially noted as food connoisseurs. So he left his home and board at an early age to remedy this situation and improve the Leslie culinary talents. Serving the necessary apprenticeship period that goes with success in this field, he made food preparation his life work, which he takes very seriously and spends long hours at it.

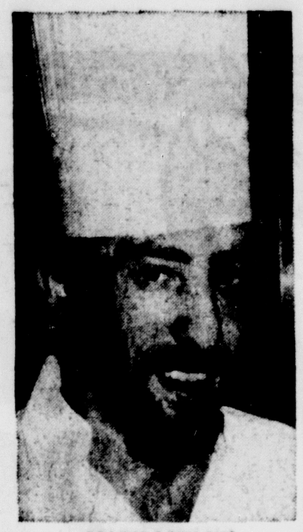
The Holiday Inn is well balanced, calculated to appeal to the visitors who take advantage of its hotel facilities, groups and the general public. If you want a suggestion, I'd say you shouldn't go wrong on ordering Mark's Veal Oscar. Or you might try one of his complete dinner specials for $5.50 on Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights.

The Holiday Inn was indeed a very timely addition to the Marin dining out picture when it opened three years ago. And it's well worth including in your schedule of places to go for a nice dinner and evening of music (the latter furnished by Steve Corley and his talent).

Incidentally I am pleased to see former Marin restaurant owner Frits Verburg in the dining room (he had L-Europe in San Rafael and still lives in the county). Recently he has been commuting from Marin to the Jack London Square in Oakland.

THERE'S A NEW MENU at the little downtown San Rafael Romulus Italian restaurant on Fourth Street, which celebrated its fourth anniversary last Tuesday.

On the seafood side, the Iachinos have added a combination plate, along with sauted or fried calamari and fried scallops. Another addition is veal piccata which has become very popular with its lemon flavor.



MARK LESLEY
Holiday Inn chef

But a new pizza oven has now been installed in the kitchen and a full dozen types of pizzas in small, medium and large sizes are being served nightly from 6 p.m. — both for dinners and to take out.

Mondays through Thursdays Romulus features a number of $3.45 to $4.35 complete dinner specials which include veal scallopini and parmigiana, roast beef, cannelloni, lasagna and roast chicken. On Friday and Saturday night, complete dinner specials ($3.45-$4.95) include prime rib, veal scallopini, lasagna, roast chicken and broiled salmon.

And there's much more sparkle to the dining room here — with red tablecloths and a collection of the works of Swiss-Italian painter Guallini on the walls.

IF IT APPEARS that many Marin restaurant owners are away from their accustomed posts during the next few days, they've probably gone to the Western National Restaurant Convention and Educational Exposition at the Civic Auditorium in San Francisco.

This big affair will be holding its trade show which features all kinds of new equipment — a tempting array of modern gadgets guaranteed to smooth out the rough spots in any commercial kitchen.

And it's quite likely more than one Marin restaurateur will come back with something bright and shiny which either should do its job faster or better than its predecessor.

ACCORDING TO RAMONA STALLINGS, at her downtown C Street restaurant in San Rafael, Mexican food is good hot weather fare.

And some of Ramona's aficianados will tell you the same thing. You don't necessarily have to douse your food with those hot sauces at Ramona's, but if you do, you'll probably find the climate a lot cooler outside when you leave the table.

And I've discovered one thing about hot sauces — the first mouthful is the hottest. After that they become progressively cooler, or at least more acceptable.

PORT WINE with dinner?

I know several people who like it that way, including my brother-in-law, though strictly speaking, port wine is a dessert wine, usually full bodied, tawny or ruby red, with about 20 per cent alcohol. Traditionally it is served with cheese or nuts or fruit after dinner. And it can also be used as a topping for fresh strawberries or ice cream. Some folks like it with soda or other mixers in tall drinks, iced and refreshingly cool.

Believe it or not, port (or the popular wine of Oporto, Portugal) was once actually a table wine. But apparently it was rough and harsh and would not make the voyage from Portugal to England without spoiling. Then in the 18th century the Portuguese started adding brandy to their fermenting wines to give them sweetness and additional keeping power.

The English really went for it and still do to this day. But in the changeover they tacked it on the end of dinner.

A SPECIAL WEEKEND DINNER at the Rafters in Corte Madera is now prime rib at $5.25. And Mondays through Fridays there's a special $3 dinner, complete with relish plate, salad, entree with baked potatoes and vegetables, bread and butter and wine — Mondays through Fridays only.

2 County Agencies Plan Office Move

A proposal to move the offices of the County Housing Authority and the Redevelopment Agency from Marin City to the Northgae Industrial Park in San Rafael has been tentatively approved by the housing authority board.

Keith Kelly, authority deputy director, said the board Wednesday set a special meeting to consider final approval of the lease for 6 p.m. Aug. 29 in planning chambers at the Marin Civic Center.

The authority and agency are considering leasing approximately 5,000 square feet of space at 47 Paul Drive in the park, according to Kelly. He said the rental agreement would be for five years with a five-year option to renew.

Cost would be $700 per month, plus any additional property tax on the building resulting from improvements the agency and authority will make.

The two agencies decided to move from Marin City recently because their present offices are too small and they favored a more central location in the county.

The housing authority also agreed to discuss the problems involved in developing turnkey housing in Marin at the special meeting. Under the turnkey program, a develop builds a house or apartment, then leases it to the authority on a long-term basis.

The authority has received authorization for 150 additional leased housing units in the county, including 100 units of new construction which might come under the turnkey program, Kelly said.

Xenia, Ohio Mayor Gives Resignation

Henry, 61, became the first black ever elected to the city commission in 1952. He was reelected in 1957, 1961 and 1965. He was elected mayor by his fellow commissioners in 1969.

(A.) August 12, 1958?
(B.) May 9, 1965?
(C.) November 1, 1970?

The answer is (C.), November 1, 1970. On that day Jolly Jack Seaver ran out of ice and frowned. An alert photographer recorded the phenomenon; and the original picture is now considered a collector's item. Want proof? Visit the Chez Pierre Lounge as often as you can — with or without camera. San Rafael air quality yesterday:

Oxidants, clean air.
Nitrogen dioxide, clean air.
Carbon monoxide, clean air.
Smoke particles, clean air.

Other areas:

San Francisco, light air pollution.

San Jose, light air pollution.

Colorless oxidants, brownish nitrogen dioxide and smoke particles aggravate respiratory diseases. Carbon monoxide causes dizziness, headaches and slows reflexes. Smoke particles come largely from industrial sources, while the other three come primarily from motor vehicles.

EXCESS FAT — Dr. David A. Schoenstadt measures excess flab around the stomach of Tiburon volunteer fireman Dan Barber. Barber and about 40 other Tiburon firemen are participating in Dr. Schoenstadt's study of motivation and physical fitness.

FAT PEOPLE SEXIER?

Doctor Works To Help Chubby People

By JAY GOODWIN

"Being fat has its advantages," declares Dr. David A. Schoenstadt generously. "After all, fat people float better, tolerate freezing temperatures and starvation better and, in some cultures, are even sexier."

But beyond those rather dubious blessings, obesity doesn't have much on its side and Dr. Schoenstadt knows it.

Eighteen months and 50 pounds ago, Dr. Schoenstadt was a chubby anesthesiologist at Children's Hospital in San Francisco. His only contact with obesity was his own flabby stomach.

Today, after suffering from a mild heart attack and shedding bout 50 pounds of unwanted blubber, Dr. Schoenstadt is emerging as one of the Bay Area's most indefatigable fat fighters.

A resident of Tiburon where he lives with his wife and daughers, aged 7 and 3, Dr. Schoenstadt has recently reached over his backyard fence to find a group of subjects willing to participate in his most recent experiment in motivation and physical fitness. After a bit of explaining, the Tiburon Volunteer Fire Department agreed to help Dr. Schoenstadt answer some perplexing questions.

Will a simple lecture on the vital importance of physical fitness be enough to motivate a group of men to stick with a rigorous exercise program for four months?

If the subjects are shown what terrible shape they are in before the experiment begins, will that help motivate them?

If the Tiburon firemen aren't motivated, what hope is there to motivate the man on the street, whose career probably requires less physical exertion?

Schoenstadt will check the fat levels and fitness of about 40 volunteer firemen and after a brief description of the fitness program he will leave the firemen unsupervised for about four months with a prescribed set of exercises.

Then he will return and recheck the fat levels and fitness of his subjects. He hopes to learn a great deal about the motivation of his subjects by the success of their exercise program and their dedication to a daily routine of rigorous exercises.

Captain Thomas Murphey, 27, of the fire department is delighted with the experiment. "I'm looking forward to it and I know the men in the department are looking forward to it also. I'm pretty sure we'll all stick with the exercise program."

Schoenstadt may be far away from the Tiburon firemen for four months, but he won't be far from obesity.

At 36, he is founder and director of an organization dedicated to weight loss and physical fitness called the Medical Weight Control Foundation. The foundation (which has already opened branch centers in San Mateo, Hayward and El Cerrito) — currently treats about 55 Marin County residents at its San Francisco headquarters.

Schoenstadt became fascinated with medical weight loss in a roundabout fashion. Shortly after his heart attack about 18 months ago, he brought home a stationary bicycle and pedaled each day to get himself back in shape.

After three months of workouts, he noticed that he enjoyed the once-strenuous exercise, was becoming physically fit and was even losing weight. Before long, he had dropped about 50 pounds off his 230 pound body.

"It was the heart attack that got me into physical fitness and physical fitness that made me realize I didn't have to be a fat guy all my life," he recalls.

In November of 1971, he gave up his private practice to devote full-time to weight control and fitness. With a longtime friend, Harvey Glasser, a psychiatrist who was also overweight, he founded the weight control foundation.

He has been prodding, cajoling and driving fat people into physical fitness ever since.

"We literally push people through the program until they get turned on by the feeling," he admits. "If you just stay in the program for 30-40 days, it becomes a lifestyle or habit and you really begin to like it.

The keystone to his pound-shedding program is aerobic exercises.

"Aerobic exercises are any exercises that last long enough and are tough enough to put a strain on a person's heart and lungs," said Schoenstadt. Golf, tennis and 100-yard dashes are of no value, says the doctor, because they only call for sporadic, short-lived outbursts of energy.

"People who play tennis are not doing themselves any good," he said. "In fact, they may be doing themselves some harm by putting themselves through stress without first building a foundation of fitness."

The principles of aerobics (first laid out by Air Force Dr. Kenneth Cooper in his book "The New Aerobics,") stress the value of jogging, swimming, walking, handball, basketball and bicycling.

Schoenstadt puts Dr. Cooper's theories to work by requiring 15-30 minutes of aerobics exercises by every weight loser each day.

Schoenstadt even cites President Nixon as an aerobics buff.

"Nixon is the least athletic and most physically fit president in history. He runs 20 minutes a day in his bedroom," he says.

Of the nine risk factors associated with coronary diseases, seven can be reduced through daily exercise, said Schoenstadt.

Exercise cannot alter a person's sex or genetic makeup, he conceded, but it does reduce high bloodfats, high blood pressure, obesity, sedentary living, occupational stress, age-onset diabetes and smoking. Any reduction in these latter seven risk factors, said Schoenstadt, reduces the likelihood of coronary diseases.

Dr. Schoenstadt talks of weight loss and physical fitness with messianic zeal. "Many peopel are willing to give up on those older people who are overweight or out of shape. Well, we're not ready to write off a whole generation of people."

AEROBICS — Tiburon volunteer fireman Dan Barber monitors his own heartbeat as he jogs around the firestation. Barber is participating in an experiment by Dr. Schoenstadt to determine what can motivate a person to stick with a strenuous physical fitness program.

Larkspur Decides To Use 'Usual' Planning Methods

An unusual method of undertaking planning in Larkspur, proposed Wednesday night by the city's mayor, was described yesterday as a case of "being carried away by enthusiasm" over a developer's interest in some choice property.

"The city is going to go about planning in the usual way, in public and with public hearings," City Mgr. Kent B. Bathurst told the Independent-Journal.

That "usual way," Bathurst said, will be:

First, the preparation of general plan recommendations for the 105-acre Hutchinson Quarry site on San Quentin peninsula by Arthur Stout, the city's community development director.

Then, submission of those suggested planning regulations to the city council at a public meeting for council discussion, approval, amendment, or rejection.

And finally, public hearings before adoption of any plan agreed upon.

What Mayor William G. Fleckles had proposed — after John J. Ford III, attorney for the property owners, asked for some fast decisions on what uses would be allowed —was this:

That the mayor, Councilman Neil R. Brixon, Stout and Bathurst work together on preparing guidelines on acceptable use.

Bathurst acknowledged that that would be a case of councilmen establishing public policy privately and without participation by all city councilmen. Bathurst said the councilmen and the mayor had subsequently realized such was the case and repudiated the notion.

Bathurst said it was simply a case of "being carried away by enthusiasm." He noted that the property has long been the subject of intense official and citizen interest and said evidence of movement toward development and of developers' interest was an inevitable generator of enthusiasm.

Attorney Ford, who has worked with the city on projects for about three years, according to Bathurst, told the council Wednesday that the owners, T. I. Properties, had been approached by people who want to build hotels, recreational areas, multiresidential housing and commercial businesses on the site. Guidelines as soon as possible were desired he said.

Assistant Is Appointed By Prosecutor

Marin County Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales today appointed Joshua Thomas as assistant district attorney to succeed Gary W. Thomas who recently was appointed to the Marin Municipal Court.

Thomas graduated from the University of California Hastings Law School in 1960 and served as deputy district attorney in San Diego County before coming to the Marin office in 1963.

He lives with his wife and four children in Novato.

Signs Go Up To Combat Vandalism

In an effort to halt vandalism in the median island along Sunset Parkway, Lynwood Park Maintenace District will post "no loitering" signs, according to vice president Gloria Burnett.

Youths have been swinging in trees, sprinkler heads have been broken, the fountain at the Lynwood Park entrance has been damaged and there has been extensive littering, she said.

Lynwood Park Improvement Association directors, who also serve as maintenance district directors, voted Wednesday night to post the signs and seek Novato Police Department cooperation to halt vandalism, Mrs. Burnett said.

Directors also renewed efforts to get the city to purchase the 12-acre Sutter Hill site for a park, as indicated in the Scottsdale-Crossroads general plan.

The Novato Parks and Recreation Commission recommended that purchase of the land be included in a November bond election, but the Novato City Council limited the bond proposal to a community swimming pool.

Mickey Rooney To Seek Kids Custody

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (UPI)—Mickey Rooney planned court action today to gain custody of four children by his sixth wife, Barbara, who died in 1966.

The children, three girls and a boy ranging in age from 9 to 12, are presently in the custody of their maternal grandmother, Mrs. Helen Thomason, said a lawyer for Rooney.

Air, Sea Hunt For Fishermen Caught In Gale

BROOKINGS, Ore. (UPI) — Coast Guard vessels crisscrossed the Pacific Thursday searching for boats caught in a freak wind storm that battered the Northern California-Southern Oregon shores.

At least three persons drowned when gusts of 75 mile per hour winds smashed fishing boats and pleasure craft against rocks, sinking three crafts.

Airplanes and cutters were used by the Coast Guard Thursday to search for four unaccounted for boats with seven persons aboard.

Salmon fishing boats were caught unexpectedly Wednesday by the gale winds. Wives of fishermen stood vigil along the shore to watch for boats in trouble.

Calmer winds prevailed Thursday, but the Coast Guard asked small crafts to stay ashore so they could search without confusion for survivors and missing boats.

Kappas Requests Piers Permit

George Kappas of 765 Bridgeway, Sausalito, has applied to the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers for a permit to construct piers for houseboat mooring and to fill about 1.6 acres of shoreline at Kappas Marina, Richardson Bay.

The project has been approved by the San Francisco Bay Conservation and Development Commission and the State Water Resources Control Board.

Objections should be submitted in triplicate to the Corps, 100 McAllister Street, San Francisco, 94102, by Sept. 12.

County Fair Judges Film Contestants

A 3.5-minute film on prison life entitled "Zombies in the House of Madness" made by Michael Anderson of San Francisco has won first prize in the film competition of the 1972 Marin County Fair.

Other winners are: Second prize, 25-minute documentary, "Robert Wall, Ex-FBI Agent" by Paul Jacobs of San Francisco; third prize, 15-minute film, "Beatrice Cenci", by Ronald Chase of San Francisco; fourth prize, a four-minute film, "A Fable for Fleas", by Alexander Weiss of Tiburon; fifth prize, 30-minute film, "What Flirting Cost Me," by Richard Schmidt of Oakland. A special award for using a "man and nature" theme went to "Vietnam" by Armand Ruhlman of San Francisco.

Store Is Shut After Robberies

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—At age 72, Edward Kervin has decided he's had it with thieves.

His jewelry shop, which he operated for 51 years, was robbed for the last time Thursday. Kervin simply locked the door and bowed out.

"They held me up Saturday. They held me up again this morning. I've had eight holdups and four smashes of the show window altogether," he said. "I just can't afford it any more. I'm closing up."

Bentley 1960

Automatic transmission, AM-FM radio, and options too numerous to mention here. Two tone green exterior contrasting with its soft green leather interior. This is not only transportation but an experience.

The condition of this automobile carefully hides it years. Priced at a fraction of its original cost. Even if you can't buy it, come down and look.

Leadership honor

Two At Hamilton In Honors Volume

Capt. John T. Coveleskie and First Lt. Wayne D. Neet of the 4661st Air Base Group at Hamilton Air Force Base have been included in the 1972 edition of Outstanding Young Men of America, the base announced today.

The two men were chosen for the annual awards volume "in recognition of their professional and community leadership," according to Lt. Col. Carmon L. Keyser, former base executive officer.

Sponsored by men's civic and service organizations, Outstanding Young Men of America, honors men from the ages of 21 to 35 "whose demonstrated excellence has marked them for future leadership in the nation," the base reported.

Holiday Magic Fraud Trial Close To End

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (UPI) —The trial of Holiday Magic, Inc., and two representatives of the California cosmetic firm was expected to close today after a week's testimony.

The firm and its representatives are on trial in Hennepin District Court on consumer fraud charges under a new state law which bans multilevel distributorships.

Two marketing professors testified Thursday that Holiday Magic did not rely on an "endless chain" nor on referral selling.

Called as expert witnesses by the defense were Dr. Steven A. Baumgarten of the University of Wisconsin at Milwaukee and Dr. Orville C. Walker Jr., of the University of Minnesota.

Dr. Baumgarten said it was not unusual for a manufacturer to establish several levels in the distribution chain and he said such a practice usually resulted in lower prices for the ultimate consumer.

Dr. Baumgarten, who said he had testified for the company at other trials, defended Holiday Magic's practice of paying top distributors as much as $3,800 for recruiting new second-level distributors.

Dr. Walker said it was common for all business to recruit new accounts in the distribution system.

He said the new state law appears to restrict distribution systems to the basic manufacturer-wholesaler-retailer setup.

Other defense witnesses testified that the company has a quota system to limit distributors according to population.

Magee Calls Judge Crazy, Then Exits

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — San Quentin inmate Ruchell Magee walked out of pre-trial hearings Thursday after telling the judge: "Man, you is insane."

Magee had offered a motion for a change of venue to "any other state." He said "a conflict of interests exists between the defense and the entire California judicial system."

Superior Court Judge Morton Colvin said the motion was the same as one previously denied and that he would receive it but not file it.

"Man, you is insane," Magee declared.

Then he let out a long whoop and walked out of the court to a holding cell from which he could hear the proceedings.

Since Monday's hearings Magee has walked out seven times and been ejected by force twice.

Firemen Get Increase In Recall Pay

The Tamalpais Fire Protection District board reversed an earlier decision last night and approved an increase in recall pay for firemen. The vote was 3-1, with director Arthur Crebassa dissenting and director Bernard Lenhart abstaining.

Lenhart said the board agreed to pay firemen who respond to off-duty calls $5 for each hour, or fraction of an hour worked. This is in addition to their regular pay.

Currently, firemen who respond to call while off duty get $3 an hour for each full hour worked, but no pay for fires that take less than an hour to fight.

Last month the men asked for $5 for simply answering an alarm and an additional $5 for each hour — or part of an hour — worked during off-duty hours.

When the board declined to grant their requests and decided to scrap recall pay altogether, the firemen said they would no longer respond to alarms when they were not working. Most of the district's volunteer firemen, in support of the regular firefighters, also said they would no longer respond to calls.

Later both firemen and volunteers changed their minds and agreed to answer the calls in order to continue to provide adequate fire protection.

Chairman Jeanne Creemer siad the board decided to reconsider the matter of recall pay after the firemen "made it clear they regretted the hasty action they had taken" in refusing to respond to alarms. "In light of that, there seemed no reason why the men should have to respond to alarms without being paid," Mrs. Creemer said.

The board also set a special meeting to consider hiring of personnel for 9 a.m. Tuesday in the Tamalpais Community Services District office.

Mistake Is Made In Identifying Owner

Ingerborg Grete Higbee, identified in an Independent-Journal story Wednesday as the owner of the Little Lark Creek Shop, Larkspur, scene of an attempted robbery, is the manager. The owner is Janet Silva.

Mrs. Higbee spotted two men tapping the till at the shop, confronted them and was handed $60. The men walked away and are still sought by police.

County Contracts For Road Surfacing

The Marin County Public Works Department has let a contract for $68,499.05 with Bay Slurry Seal Co of Redwood City for blanketing asphalt on the subdivision streets in Bel Aire, Bayview Heights, Greenbrae, Strawberry Point and Gnoss Field.

Work is scheduled to begin Sept. 5.

Committee Upholds Rhodesia Inclusion

MUNICH (UPI)—The Executive Board of the International Olympic Committee held firm Friday to its decision to include Rhodesia in the Games starting next week despite the threatened withdrawal of 12 African nations.

In a statement issued at midday, the IOC called on the national Olympic Committees of the African nations to "convince their several governments" the teams should not be withdrawn.

The inclusion of Rhodesia, under its old name and flag of Southern Rhodesia, was approved by the IOC at a meeting last September and in Friday's statement the Board reminded the African nations that they theselves had taken part in that resolution of approval.

WITHDRAWAL

"The German Organizing Committee has cited in the spirit of this resolution and it is felt that a withdrawal by any National Olympic Committee from the Games would engender grave injustices to the Organizing Committee as well as to the athletes of the African countries themselves," the I. O. C. Board said.

Meanwhile, Janus Abdulla, the team manager of Tanzania, one of the nations which has unofficially withdrawn from the Games, showed up at the Olympic Village and went through processing to check in.

And O. Jolaoso, team manager of Nigeria, which has not joined the revolt, had his national flag officially raised in the Village and said, "We shall abide by the decision reached with the IOC."

Gay, bright banners of all colors float in the air over this Bavarian city eight days before the scheduled start of the Olympics with about one-fourth of the expected 10,000 athletes and team officials already on hand.

DAUME INSISTS

And trying to stick to that mood, Willie Daume, president of the German Olympic Organizing Committee, grimly insists that only one nation, Ethiopia, has "formally" withdrawn from the Games.

When pressed, however, Daume admits unofficial word from 11 other African nations that they, too, will depart if the Rhodesians are allowed to compete. And there was a report that Pakistan would join in, the first non-African nation to so act.

But U.S. officials here discount the possibility that black athletes from the United States will join the revolt.

And they emphatically insist there is no chance the U.S. would join as a team.

STATEMENT

"If any individual felt that way, we'd permit him to go home," said Art Lentz, executive director of the U. S. Olympic Committee. "But we're certainly not going to pull out our team."

Only some 40 U.S. athletes already are in the Olympic Village, most of them members of the track and field team, but the assistant coaches of the track team, two of them black, insist they have not heard any talk of a "sympathy" movement by the athletes.

"I haven't heard anything of a walkout," said assistant coach Stan Wright of Sacramento State. 'sI won't preclude or second guess whatever any individual wants to do, but right now it sounds ridiculous."

UNITED FRONT

Assistant coach Hoover Wright of Prairie View A&M said, "I certainly don't think the American public has any reason to fear a surprise attack from our guys. If there should be a walkout, it would be by all

Giants' Power Not Enough

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — You can look it up: The San Francisco Giants have the most home runs in major league baseball.

"Who cares," said Manager Charlie Fox after Thursday's 2-1 loss to the Chicago Cubs. "Sound, basic baseball is what helps you."

MCCOVEY

The Giants, fifth in the National League West, got their 112th homer of the year when Willie McCovey poked one — with one hand, yet — in the seventh inning offright-hander Milt Pappas, 9-7.

But their big chance for a victory that would have boosted them to fourth place evaporated in the eighth, when a successful bunt was needed. Alan Gallagher missed three straight sacrifice attempts after Garry Maddox led off with a single.

FOX SAID

"If we'd moved the man over there, it would have changed the whole game," Fox said.

Pinch hitter Jim Howarth singled after Gallagher's bunting strikeout, but Pappas got Bobby Bonds on a popup and reliever Jack Aker struck out Chris Speier to end the threat.

CARDENAL

Pappas got all the runs he needed when Jose Cardenal hit a two-run homer in the third off Jim Barr, 4-7, who turned in the Giants' best pitching performance of the week.

North-South Grid Tonight

Nine players will start on both offense and defense for the South tonight when the seventh annual Ross Valley Kiwanis All-Star Football game gets underway at 8 o'clock at San Rafael High School.

"We're going to take our best athletes and put 'em on the field. We're not trying to be nice guys and let everybody play football. We're trying to win the game" said South head coach Bruno Banducci.

The South, composed of graduates of Marin Catholic, Redwood, Tamalpais and Drake High Schools, is an underdog to the North team, consisting of alumni from San Rafael, Terra Linda, Novato and San Marin.

The North carries an advantage of depth into the game. "For example, we'll be starting Pat Karinen (from Novato High) and Bob Brown (San Rafael) at tackles, but we'll use Pete Mumma (San Marin) as much," said Wylie.

The game will be broadcast on KTIM-FM radio, 100.9 on the dial, beginning at 7:55.

The starting lineups:

Winning Ways Of Miss Brown

No one doubts any longer that Susan Brown of Oakland is headed for final victory in both girls' 16 and 18 singles in the Marin County Junior Hardcourt tennis championships. The only question is whether she will give up a game along the way.

Miss Brown, top-seeded in both classes, continued to play perfect tennis yesterday by shutting out Laurie James of Tiburon and Andrea Knight of Los Altos in quarter final play. The victories were her fourth and fifth in the tourney, all have been 6-0, 6-0.

Top-seeded Carrie Zarraonandia in girls 14 defeated Kathy Snelson of Sacramento in straight sets, 6-2, 6-0. The San Rafael player then teamed with sister Ann for a girls 16 doubles win, 6-1, 6-2 over Lisa Brown and Kathy Gundling of Napa.

In the upset of the day, the usually supreme duo of Tiburon's Dan Tierney and Eric Lee of San Francisco as beaten in boys 18 doubles by the team of King-Sylvan from Fresno.

Other Marin County players who continued to win included Charles Bolcom of Belvedere, second-seeded in boys 12, and Henry Jacobsen, also of Belvedere, the No. 4 seed in boys 16. Bolcom knocked off Raymond Miller of Stockton, 6-1, 6-0, while Jacobsen defeated Ron Lucky of Alameda, 3-6, 6-1, 6-1.

Top seeds Chip Hooper of Sunnyvale in boys 14, Butch Walts of Fresno in boys 18 and Lee in boys 16 all won their matches to advance to the semi-finals which were to be played today at the Mill Valley Tennis Club and other sites.

Spurrier Discusses Chargers

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — Steve Spurrier of the San Francisco 49ers says he's looking forward to his second start of the exhibition season, against the San Diego Chargers Saturday night.

He rates them better than the New York Jets, who beat the 49ers 17-10 two weeks ago despite Spurrier's 20 pass completions.

"San Diego has better personnel than the Jets and also has a better pass rush," Spurrier says.

"I felt I had a good game against the Jets. . .even though I had about three passes dropped. You can say I'll be trying to do more scoring against San Diego."

Spurrier, who came to the 49ers six years ago, says he did so at a time when both John Brodie and George Mira were ahead of him, and that he wasn't ready for a couple of years.

Now, says Spurrier, "I'm a better quarterback than I was, and I'm sure I'm better than last year at this time."

Pitcher Optioned

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago White Sox announced Thursday that pitcher Jim Geddes has been optioned to Knoxville of the Southern League.

Tourney Begins For Italian Club

Tournament director Gary Hughes admits he doesn't know much about the three teams that will play with the Italian Club in the Joe DiMaggio League regional baseball tournament starting tonight at Albert Park in San Rafael, but considering the Marin County team's pitching, he doesn't have to.

The Italian Club, made up largely of players who led Redwood High School to the Marin County Athletic League pennant last season, will be the favorite when it meets Fortune of the Eureka National League in the tourney opener at 6 o'clock. Loleta of the Eureka American League meets the Ukiah Elks at 8:15.

UKIAH TEAM

"The Ukiah team, which beat Rohnert Park in the final game for the Sonoma League title, is made up largely of the same players who went to the North Bay DiMaggio finals last year in San Francisco," says Hughes. About the Eureka teams he claims a limited knowledge.

The visiting teams probably know just as little about the Italian Club, but they'll know more soon. For example, they'll know that Gene Frey throws the ball with blinding speed, and Mark Ruggles serves up untouchable junk. They will pitch the first two tourney games, although coach Dan Abballo hasn't decided which will go tonight.

ABBALLO

After Frey and Ruggles, Abballo can count on a pair of pitcher-outfielders he is borrowing from another team for the tourney. Don Bianchini and John Billings, as well as shortstop Steve Sherry, were added to the roster under a tourney rule after they led Toby's Truckers to within a game of the Italians in the final standings.

The four of them — Frey, Ruggles, Bianchini and Billings — should be more than enough to overwhelm the visitors from the North. If they're not, the Italian Club can also play slugfest. Shortstop Mike Connor, a .435 hitter, and centerfielder Jeff Vogel, a long-ball threat

Nets Deny Release To Barry

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The New York Nets will not release Rick Barry from his contract until it expires Oct. 1, meaning Barry can't join Golden State until then.

Barry met Thursday with Nets' president Roy Boe and asked for an early release from the contract. But Boe told the star he could not allow him to go because of pending court action.

Boe has appealed the federal court decision that sent Barry back to Golden State.

2 Floridians Tough On Marin Entrants

I-J Special Report

SEATTLE, Wash. — Two Floridians who decided to come all the way to the Pacific Northwest are making things miserable for Marin County's entrants and everybody else in the National Water Ski Championships on Green Lake here.

Wayne Grimditch of Hillsboro Beach and Mrs. Barbara Cleveland of Hawthorne set records yesterday in boys tricks and senior women's tricks, respectively, to open up hefty leads in the first day of a tournament which will continue through Sunday.

Mrs. Cleveland recorded 4,433 points in tricks, finishing well ahead of Mrs. Thelma Salmas of Novato, who recorded 2,673. Mrs. Salmas also was second to Mrs. Cleveland in senior women's slalom, with 34½ buoys to the winner's 47.

Grimditch racked up 5,225 points in boys tricks for his

A's Odom Vs. Perry In Cleveland Opener

CLEVELAND (UPI) — The Oakland Athletics open a three-game series tonight against Cleveland, a squad they have beaten six out of six so far this season.

John Odom takes on Gaylord Perry, an 18-game winner who has 11 defeats. Odom is 9-4. Vida Blue is slated to pitch Saturday.

Oakland was idle Thursday after downing Baltimore twice and extending their winning streak to three.

"This close race in the Western Division is a good thing for the American League," A's manager Dick Williams said Thursday after learning the Chicago White Sox downed the Orioles 6-1. The win moved the Sox within a half game of the A's.

"But I don't like it," Williams was quick to add.

FISH AND GAME

Local Hunters Are Finding Bucks Scarce

By AL GIDDINGS

The deer hunters are generally finding the bucks scarce. It seems to be either foggy or too hot. With the Point Reyes National Seashore closed and encompassing much of the good hunting country, and the water company lands closed, along with the state parks, county parks and enlarged city limits areas, it's getting difficult to find a place to hunt.

One Inverness rancher, Al Grossi, who has always done most of his hunting in Marin County, found a new location up near Hopland. When he filled out his tag, he put down the area hunted as Hopland, Plumas County! He was surely lost.

Striped bass fishing is improving. Over last weekend Frank Spencer, keeper of the Marin Rod and Gun Club pier, logged in 36 fish with an average weight of 10 pounds. Henry Rossback of the Marin club took a 22-pounder. Most of the anglers trolled the Richmond Bridge area. Keith Frazier also took a couple of newcomers out fishing. One of the anglers, Gary Hughes, former athletic director at Marin Catholic High School, took a limit his first time out. Joe Dahlmann, San Rafael attorney, has limited three times running.

I TRY TO KEEP Sam Knoles name out of this column but it's almost impossible. He's come up with a new gimmick. A few columns back, I had mentioned that Sam had been a jinx to any boat that he had been on, even his own. He has since gone with Tom Overich of San Rafael; the oil pressure of the motor gave out on that trip, and they just made it back. His new gimmick? He's got a real good looking 23-year-old unmarried granddaughter named Sue. Sam has been taking her fishing, and he now has had no lack of customers wanting to go, too. The other day, Sam and Sue came in with a fish that was close to being under-sized. Usually when this happens, all of the Loch Lomond pros stand by eyeing and belittling the fish, sometimes threatening to call the game warden.

But this time, it was declared "a keeper."

I HOPE YOU wee all watching television Channel 20 Sunday night at 10 p.m. A new sportsmen's show called Western Outdoors was on with Hank Schram. Hank is the party boat skipper of the Salmon Queen out of Sausalito. His guests were Jackie Anderson, skipper of the famous party boat "Wacky Jackie" and Jerry Matt, a striped bass party boat skipper. They gave a summary of the local salmon and striper hot spots around San Francisco Bay. They also had a 36-pound salmon just caught for the audience to see. Jerry said the area around Alcatraz Island and the Harding Rock buoy were hot spots on the top of the incoming tides using live baits or trolling with jigs, hula skirts or bait.

He suggested using from an eight-ounce weight all the way up to three pounds, depending on the current.

Best fishing on the outgoing tides was at the South Tower of the Golden Gate Bridge, Mile Rock and in the areas between Point Bonita and the bridge. Party boats are available for both fisheries out of Sausalito. But if it's windy and you are running your own boat, it's best to stay home. It can be rough at times at all of those places.

I RECEIVED a report from Jim Roads of the Klamath River Guide Service, that the first good runs of steelhead have entered the Klamath River.

On a trial run, three miles up from the mouth, fishing with his brother, Jim and party, they hooked about 30 steelheads, two to five-pounders, in a couple of hours. Jim is taking fishing parties out from the Klamath Glen Resort.

For best results, use small lures, single eggs, brindle bug flies or glo-bugs, according to Jim.

Home Course Nod To Mrs. Wheeler

(Fourth in a Series)

To use the commercial phrase, Mrs. William Wheeler has "come a long way, baby." She took up golf four years ago, and next Wednesday she'll play in the fifth annual Marin County Women's Tournament of Champions.

But what she lacks in experience Joan Wheeler may make up for by using the home course advantage she will enjoy as women's club champion of Mill Valley. The tournament, pitting the representatives of Marin County's six regulation courses against each other in scratch medal play, will start at 8:30 a.m., with admission free to the public.

Mrs. Wheeler, who works at Scoma's restaurant in Sausalito, admits to having "maybe a little advantage. It's a funny little course, and I'm fairly down the middle, which helps." She considers herself a fairly long hitter, but says that since the Mill Valley course is not very long (4,300 yards), "Accuracy is going to count more than distance."

A 10 handicapper, Mrs. Wheeler took up golf less than five years ago. "I went out a few times and hit the ball at the driving range, and I really got interested in it," she says. "As far as tournaments, I've played in several and I think I played fairly well." She won the Mill Valley club title last fall in medal play with a 76-76-79 — 231.

Her opponents for the tourney will include Laura Cann of Meadow Club in Fairfax, Cookie Baer of San Rafael's Peacock Gap, Nancy Gapinski of San Geronimo, Tillie Gondak of Marin Country Club in Novato, and Peg Williams of Novato's Indian Valley.

Five-Year Pact Signed By Kareem

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — The Milwaukee Bucks today announced that Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, highest scorer in the National Basketball Association last season, has signed a new five-year contract.

The contract replaces a pact Jabbar had signed upon graduation from UCLA three years ago and extends through the 1976-77 season.

The signing was done in Boston, where Jabbar is enrolled in college, Thursday night, and announced at a news conference here.

Jabbar, at times, had expressed some dissatisfaction in regard to Milwaukee itself. However, he purchased a home in a Milwaukee suburb last year and lived there until enrolling at Harvard for summer school courses in Arabic.

Financial terms of the contract were not announced, but it was believed to be one of the largest contracts in pro sports history for Abdul-Jabbar, who first was known as Lew Alcindor.

Denver Of ABA Signs Beck To Three-Year Pact

DENVER (UPI) — Byran Beck, the only remaining member of the original Denver Rockets, signed a three year contract Thursday with the American Basketball Association team.

The 27-year-old former University of Denver star, a five year veteran, signed for an undisclosed amount.

Beck has played 402 games with Denver and holds the team record in games played, minutes played (12,108), field goals (2,161), rebounds (3,848) and is second in total points (5,169).

Boxer Medrano Wins Decision Over Davilla

LOS ANGELES (UPI) —Joe Medrano, 125, Los Angeles, pounded out a unianimous decision over Mexico's Urbano Davilla, 128, in a 10-round fight at the Olympic Auditorium Thursday night.

Davilla bled from the mouth from the fifth round on but there were no knockdowns. He suffered his sixth defeat against 28 wins.

HOPMAN'S ANALYSIS

Laver Needs Organization

By MILTON RICHMAN

NEW YORK (UPI)—Rod Laver keeps getting murdered with good advice.

That's how it is when you were on top of the mountain once and now you're 15th in the World Championship Tennis standings and struggling to stay even there.

Everybody knows what's wrong with you. That in itself wouldn't be so bad except that everybody has to tell you the way to correct what's wrong.

SLUMP

To give you an idea how things have been going for the slumping 34-year-old Australian redhead in his last half dozen tournaments, he'd have been better off playing bridge.

Marty Riessen beat him in the second round at Cleveland; Tony Roche knocked him off in the first round at St. Louis; John Alexander took care of him in the third round at Washington; Nikki Pilic swept past him in the second round at Louisville; Bob Lutz of Tiburon eliminated him in the quarterfinals of the U.S. Professional Championships at Boston, and Wednesday night Laver wound up all finished at Fort Worth when he was bounced out in the first round by Jeff Borowiak, one of those nice kids out of college in his first year as a pro.

All this time, Laver has been getting wonderful advice.

NOT EAGER

So Harry Hopman isn't particularly eager to put in his two cents even though he knows Rod Laver, tennis player, probably better than anybody else in the world.

Harry Hopman is to tennis what Vince Lombardi was to football and John McGraw was to baseball.

At the moment, he's keeping busy as coordinator for Pepsi-Cola's Mabile Tennis Program which is giving city kids in Philadelphia, Boston and New York a chance to play the game but despite this job and the fact he's also running his own tennis camp on the campus of Amherst College he still keeps an eye on all his old pupils.

Rod Laver is one of them, and when you ask Harry Hopman what's wrong with Laver he speaks about him the way he does about any of his pupils — objectively.

ANALYSIS

"First of all, Rod is past the age where he's liable to improve," says Hopman. "He's on the down-run. You have to remember he's 34. Many people are tracing Rod's decline from when he won all the money ($170,000) in that Madison Square Garden thing last year, but if you look at it closely, you see that in those 11 victories of his he met many players who weren't in match form. Dennis Ralston hadn't played for some time; the same for Tony Roche; and Arthur Ashe hadn't played for five weeks. So you can't really use that as a basis for Rod's decline."

"Well, you know he has all these many business obligations," says Hopman. "My feeling is it's all a matter of organization. I don't think Rod is practicing properly. I wouldn't try to give him any advice though. What I'd do, say a week before the U.S. Open Championships begin at Forest Hills the end of this month, is ring up Mark McCormack, Rod's agent, and say forget him, he's not interested in anything for a week, even if it's for a billion dollars.

'WORK'

"Then I'd book him in a hotel. I'd get two rooms. One would be empty and the other in the name of Mr. Jones or somebody like that so nobody could reach him. What would I do with him then? Work, work, work!"

Harry Hopman shys away from picking winners normally, but if you press him he says he likes Pasadena-born Stan Smith to win the singles title in the U.S. Open again.

"Why? Because he's an improver," says Hopman. He has a very good temperament. You say he has no color? I'm not concerned with things like that. I like concentration, ability to vary a game and power when it's needed. To me, that's what makes a tennis player."

It does not disturb 66-year-old Harry Hopman that he was called "Captain Bligh," "Svengali" and some worse names in his time. He says he knows the reason.

'WORK HARD'

"My father, mother, four sisters and one brother were school teachers and I feel there was something of this in me," he says. I remember my father coming home and saying 'young Johnny Brown is a bright lad. I'm going to get him a scholarship.' On the day Johnny Brown would win the scholarship, Mrs. Brown would say, 'I knew from the day Johnny was born he'd win a scholarship because his grandfather won a scholarship 5,000 years ago.' What I'm saying is as a youth I learned Johnny would have to work hard to win a scholarship, but my dad would have to organize him."

Harry Hopman organized quite a number of young Aussie tennis players in his day, players like Frank Sedgman, Lew Hoad, Roy Emerson, Neale Fraser, Ken Rosewall and Rod Laver, to name only a handful. He organized them so well they all went on to become champions and then make plenty of money as pros.

But the best player he ever saw came from Germantown, Pa., and was named Bill Tilden.

"He had no weakness," says Hopman.

Dallas Gains Concannon From Chicago In Trade

By U.P.INTERNATIONAL

Jack Concannon has his wish and the Dallas Cowboys have some insurance.

Concannon, who spent eight seasons in the National Football League with the Philadelphia Eagles and the Chicago Bears, played out his option last season and became a free agent on May 1.

JACK CONCANNON
To Dallas

COMPENSATION

He became a member of the Dallas Cowboys Thursday when the World Champions signed him and sent the Bears in return offensive tackle Bob Asher, Bill LIne, a rookie defensive lineman and their No. 2 draft choice next season.

The Cowboys signed Concannon after Roger Staubach, their No. 1 quarterback, suffered a shoulder separation last week and was knocked out for most of the season. Craig Morton will continue to be the No. 1 quarterback now with Concannon in reserve.

CONCANNON

"I'm very excited about it," said Concannon, a former Boston College star. "I think anybody would be happy to join a team that had just won the Super Bowl. I don't know how long it will take me to get ready but I have been doing a lot of running and some throwing."

Concannon will accompany the Cowboys to New Orleans for their Saturday exhibition contest against the New Orleans Saints but probably won't see action for some time since he must learn the Cowboy system.

Two games are scheduled for tonight. The Minnesota Vikings, who sparkled last week with the return of quarterback Fran Tarkenton, are in Buffalo to take on the Bills while the Washington Redskins entertain the Philadelphia Eagles.

OTHER GAMES

In Saturday action, San Francisco is at San Diego, Miami is at Cincinnati, St. Louis plays host to Denver, Pittsburgh is at Atlanta and Los Angeles entertains Oakland. The New York Jets meet the New York Giants Sunday at New Haven, Conn., Cleveland takes on Detroit at Ann Arbor, Mich., and Chicago is at New England on Sunday while in a Monday night game, Baltimore is at Kansas City.

In other news from the training camps Thursday, Duane Thomas, traded by the Cowboys to San Diego, arrived at the Chargers' camp, dresed in a sweat suit and then took off again.

SURGERY

The New York Jets announced that No. 3 draft choice Gary Hammond will undergo surgery Saturday for cartilage repair in his left knee. Hammond was injured in the Coaches All-America Game at Lubbock,Tex., and reinjurred reinjuredknee when the Jets' rookies took on a minor league club last month.

Wide receiver Bob Newland, tight end Carlos Bell and quarterback Edd Hargett returned to the New Orleans Saints' active list and may play against Dallas.

Aaron, Schlee Lead In Golf

SUTTON, Mass. (UPI) — Tommy Aaron is riding in the company of big money these days. With a little luck, he'll stay there.

Aaron, 35, of Calloway Gardens, Ga., has been on the Professional Golf Association tour, since 1961 and, in that time, has won only one tournament —the Atlantic Classic in 1970. He has finished second 13 times. But he feels things are looking up.

Aaron did everything right Thursday, while shooting a five-under par 67 to tie John Schlee, who has never won a tourney, for the opening round lead of the $200,000 USI Classic at Pleasant Valley Country Club.

OTHER SCORES

Rik Massengale, of Jacksboro, Tex., Bob Charles, of Christ Church, New Zealand, Marty Bohen of Eastchester, N.Y., and Tom Ulozas of Edison, N.J., were tied for third at 68, one stroke off the pace.

Eight others, including defending champion Dave Stockton, finished at 69. Napa's Ron Cerrudo carded a 71.

Pre-tournament favorite Lee Trevino, still feeling the effects of a heavy cold and fever that sidelined him earlier this week, had a two-over par 74.

First place in the USI Classic, sponsored by U.S. Industries Inc., carries $40,000 in prize money.

Schlee, who is still looking for his first victory since joining the pro tour in 1965, said he disregarded his wife's advice and putted cross-handed to shake off a slump and tie for the first round lead.

PUTTING TROUBLE

"I've been having trouble with my putting," Schlee said. "I was putting cross-handed earlier in the year, but my wife (Sherri) talked me out of it."

He said he had been getting nowhere with his game in recent weeks and decided during a practice round to drop the conventional putting grip and go back to the cross-handed approach.

"If nothing else, I think the change helps my game," he said.

Trevino, who started his game on the 10th tee because of the overcrowded field, was obviously tiring by the time he reached the second nine.

BOGEYS

He triple-bogeyed the dog-legged par-4, 450-yard second hole, the 11th hole in his round, and followed with bogeys on the fifth and eighth before finishing with a birdie on the ninth.

When Trevino completed his round, he headed directly to his hotel room, sending word to writers that he was "too tired" to talk with them.

The original field of 144 will be cut to the top 70 and ties after today's second round. That indicated a cutoff point based on Thursday's play of 146 for the final two rounds on Saturday and Sunday. Fifty-five men finished at par or better Thursday.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Expos' Infielder In Pitching Debut

By U.P.INTERNATIONAL

Infielder Hector Torres of the Montreal Expos made his major league debut as a pitcher Thursday night and found out one thing—it's not as easy as Steve Carlton makes it look.

Torres was summoned by manager Gene Mauch out of sheer disgust in the ninth inning after five other pitchers had failed miserably in an effort to stop an onslaught by the Houston Astros. But, alas, Torres was treated no differently than the rest of the Expos' pitchers as he was raked for five straight singles before retiring a batter.

CEDENO

The Astros ended up winning the game, 17-5, behind a 20-hit attack that featured a pair of home runs by Lee May and solo homers by Cesar Cedeno and Doug Rader. Cedeno also collected a pair of doubles as he and May each drove in four runs.

FASTBALLS

Carlton, the ace lefthander of the Philadelphia Phillies, also stuck primarily with fastballs Thursday night, but the Cincinnati Reds couldn't handle them too well and he went on to become the National League's first 20-game winner in a 9-4 victory for the Phillies.

The triumph was the 15th in a row for Carlton, who is now just four shy of Rube Marquard's single season record for most consecutive victories.

Deron Johnson and Willie Montanez each hit two-run homers to spark the Phillies' attack.

In other NL games, Los Angeles downed Pittsburgh 4-2, San Diego edged St. Louis 3-2, Chicago nipped San Francisco 2-1 and New York edged Atlanta 2-1.

Willie Davis collected two singles, scored twice and drove in a run with a sacrifice flyin the Dodgers' victory over Pittsburgh. Al Downing went 8 1-3 innings to gain credit for the victory while Bob Moose was the loser. Manny Sanguillen had a homer for the Pirates.

34TH HOMER

Nate Colbert belted his 34th homer and drove in another run with an infield out to pace the Padres' triumph over the Cardinals. Clay Kirby pitched two hit ball over seven innings before leaving with a sore elbow to notch his 10th victory. Ron Allen, brother of Dick Allen, hit a homer for the Cardinals.

Ed Kranepool's sacrifice fly in the eighth inning and the clutch relief pitching of Tug McGraw in the ninth enabled the Mets to defeat the Braves.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Veteran Fryman Gives Tigers Extra Pitching Mileage, Wins

By U.P.INTERNATIONAL

Woody Fryman appeared to be a major league retread when the Detroit Tigers picked him up on waivers earlier this month but leave it to Billy Martin to get the most mileage out of the veteran left-hander.

Fryman scattered six hits in winning his third straight game for Detroit as the Tigers whipped Minnesota 12-2 in the first game of a doubleheader. The Twins came back to win the nightcap 7-6 in 10 innings.

FRYMAN SHUT OUT

Detroit has won but five games in the month of August and has dropped eight of its last 11 contests. Fryman has gone the distance for Detroit's only victories during that span. The shutout was the second of the season for Fryman whose career has been hampered by an athritic left elbow.

Rich Reese's sacrifice fly in the 10th inning of the second game gave Minnesota a split of the twinbill. Detroit remained 1-2 game behind division-leading Baltimore in the American League East.

10TH INNING

Jim Nettles opened the 10th with a single but was forced at second by Rod Carew on a controversial play. Carew went to third when Steve Braun singled and Reese then followed with his game-winning sacrifice fly to Gates Brown and Carew scored when relay man Aurelio Rodriguez dropped the ball trying to make the throw.

In other American League games Chicago topped Baltimore 6-1, California beat Cleveland 4-2, and Boston edged Texas 4-3 in the only games scheduled.

Shortstop Luis Alvarado and Pat Kelly both doubled and drove in two runs each to lead Chicago to within a half game of the American League West lead.

Alvarado's two-run single and Kelly's two-run double in the sixth inning supplied all the firepower as Chicago unloaded on starter Pat Dobson and reliever Roric Harrison.

SMALLEST CROWD

The contest, a makeup of a July 16 rainout, was played in drizzling weather before 655 people, the smallest crowd in modern Baltimore baseball history.

Reggie Smith clubbed a three-run homer in eighth inning off Mike Paul to help Boston edge Texas. Smith's home run followed a two-out single by Luis Aparicio and a walk to Carl Yastremski.

A two-run homer by Bob Oliver and a pair of home runs by Leroy Stanton sparked California over Cleveland. Stanton, who banged out four hits, gave the Angels a 1-0 lead in the second inning with his ninth homer and Oliver's 15th homer followed a single by Ken Berry to make it 3-0 in the fourth. Stanton's second homer of the night came in the ninth inning off reliever Phil Hennigan.

Petaluma Swimmer Sets Record

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

SPOKANE, Wash. — David Nelson of Petaluma won two races, one in national record time, and seven other records were set in the sixth annual Amateur Athletic Union Junior Olympics which ended yesterday.

Nelson set a national record for boys 12 and under in the 100 meter breaststroke with a time of 1:17.3. He also won the 200 individual medley in 2:30.6.

Walt Hardin, 12, Carmichael, set marks in the 100 meter backstroke each time he swam. In the preliminaries, he broke the 1971 mark of 1:09.58, and, in the finals, he swam the distance in 1:07.53.

California youngsters also took three of the four gold medals in gymnastics. Debbie Hung, Albany, won the intermediate girls division, Lisa Buttrill, Dublin, won senior girls and Tom Weden, Belmont, won the senior boys.

Tennis

DENVER — Two more ranked players —fifth-seeded Kerry Melville and sixth-rated Wendy Overton — were eliminated from competition Thursday in the $25,000 Virginia Slims International of Denver Tennis Tournament.

Lesley Hunt upset fellow Australian Miss Melville, 1-6, 6-0, 6-3, while Kristy Pigeon ousted Miss Overton, 6-3, 6-2.

Wimbledon champion Billie Jean King, favored to win the tournament, scored two victories. She completed a rain-delayed match against Argentine's Raquel Giscafre, winning 6-1, 6-3, and followed that with a 6-4, 6-3 triumph over Australia's Karen Krantzcke.

TORONTO — South African Bob Hewitt, loudly jeered for his unsportsmanlike conduct, defeated Ivan Molina of Colombia Thursday to advance to the quarter-finals of the Canadian Open Tennis Championship.

The sixth-seeded Hewitt, who kicked a chair and bounced a few balls into the crowd, turned back a game Molina 6-7, 6-4, 7-5, coming back 0-3 in the final two sets.

Hewitt explained his rowdy court behavior by saying he was "physically pooped," following the U.S. Clay Court Championships in Indianapolis, where he won both singles and doubles laurels.

In women's quarter-finals, Margaret Court of Australia, second-seeded to Evonne Goolagong, turned back the last Canadian involved in singles play, Montreal's Andree Martin, 6-1, 6-2.

Miss Goolagong sidelined Pat Walkden-Pretorious of South Africa 6-3, 6-3 and England's Virginia Wade overcame Italy's Natalie Fuchs, 4-6, 7-5, 6-2.

Orioles Get Davis In Trade With Cubs

BALTIMORE (UPI) —The Baltimore Orioles, fighting to remain on top in the American League East, acquired two time National League batting champion Tommy Davis today from the Chicago Cubs in a straight waiver deal for catcher Elroy Hendricks.

The Orioles have suffered from low batting averages much of the season with a current team average of .229 and have depended on their strong pitching to remain in the pennant race. Davis has a lifetime batting average of .296 and was hitting .269 for the Cubs, mostly as a pinchhitter.

Davis, 33, joined Chicago in early July as a free agent after he was released before the season began by the Oakland Athletics.

Hendricks, 32, spent all of his five major league season with the Orioles and has a lifetime average of .232 but is hitting only .155 this year.

With rookie Johnny Oates hitting near .300, Hendricks became expendable.

Lee Nets 42; Paradise Wins In Drake Cage

Dave Lee scored 42 points to nullify Bob Tait's 31 and led Paradise Pharmacy to an 82-70 victory over Perry's Poor Boys yesterday in a Drake Summer League adult division basketball game.

In the only other clash, San Rafael Travel beat Buresh, Vallarino, Costamagna and Claxon in overtime, 54-52, as Tom Butler scored 22 for the winners.

Paradise and Olympic Club tied for first place at 7-2 and will play off Tuesday night at 7:30 to determine who will be seeded No. 1 in the post-season tournament, which begins Wednesday.

Houston Golf Tourney Locale Is Selected

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Open Golf Tournament will be played the next two years at Quail Valley Country Club, sponsors announced Thursday.

Prize money for the 1973 tournament has been increased from $125,000 to $205,000, making it the richest tournament in Texas.

It had been announced previously that the 1973 tournament would be played at the Westwood Country Club, site of this year's event.

San Rafael Driver's Qualifying Clocking

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. — Pat McNulty of San Rafael recorded the seond fastest time in qualifying for Sunday's Grand National Quarter Midget auto race. McNulty, 15, drove his heavy A class entry to a 7:12 clocking.

Qualifying closed yesterday.

CARROLL IS PLAYING ON SCHEDULE

Pete Carroll, a graduate of Redwood High School and now a senior at the University of the Pacific, is featured with a color photograph on UOP's pocket football schedules being distributed by the Sports Information Department.

Carroll, according to Information Director Tony Sauro, is "an All-America candidate safety," and is listed as the top defensive player for the Tigers, according to coach Chester Caddas.

Quarterback Chastang Quits Cal Football

BERKELEY (UPI) — University of California coach Mike White says quarterback Reed Chastang quit the Bears because he felt he could not fit into the squad's new pro-type offense.

Chastang opened the season last year as the starting signal-caller but an injured shoulder hampered his play for the rest of the year.

Seattle Babe Ruth Nine Takes Crown

MONROE, N.C. (UPI) — Seattle won a doubleheader over San Antonio by identical 2-0 scores Thursday night to take the championship of the Babe Ruth tournament.

2 Athletic Aides At Sonoma

He joines Joel Spears, sports information director, as the newest appointees. Sion is a 1961 graduate of New Mexico Highlands University in Las Vegas, New Mexico, and also attended St. Michael's College in Santa Fe, New Mexico (presently College of Santa Fe) where he played basketball.

Sion will coach the recently initiated freshmen basketball team at Sonoma as well as assisting on the varsity level.

Spears, a 28-year-old physical education major, has been appointed to a part-time position made possible through college work-study funds. Spears will be responsible for the sports publicity and much of the public relations work associated with the college athletic program.

Aside from his duties as the sports information director, Spears will be a full-time student in the physical education department and is working toward a teaching and coaching career.

Team Canada's Defenseman Park Leaves Hospital

TORONTO (AP) — Defenseman Brad Park, injured Wednesday during a Team Canada practice, was released from the hospital Thursday and was expected to rejoin the team this morning.

The 24-year-old New York Ranger was hit on the cheekbone when the puck from a Dennis Hull slapshot deflected off a stick. He was unconscious for about two minutes.

Team Canada, made up of stars from the National Hockey League, continued scrimmaging Thursday in preparation for its hockey series with the Soviet Union, beginning in Montreal Sept. 2.

Raiders' Highsmith Seeks Starting Nod

SANTA ROSA, Calif. (AP) — Don Highsmith, who finally has won his way into contention as a starting Oakland Raider halfback partly because of injuries to other players, says he was so discouraged he "nearly gave up football during the last two years."

Highsmith, drafted No. 13, started and starred in Monday night's 16-0 win over the Baltimore Colts and will open against the Rams Saturday night in Los Angeles.

He says he's been coming from behind ever since he left high school in New Brunswick, N. J.

"Sure I was disappointed to be drafted low," Highsmith says, "but not surprised. I've had that kind of trouble all my life."

Highsmith is back at halfback because Charlie Smith is coming off a 1971 injury and the Raiders' No. 3 all-time rusher is being brought along slowly in the exhibition season.

Clarence Davis, who had a good 1971 rookie season, will be out for about 10 weeks with a fractured scapula (shoulder blade) suffered in Monday's game.

Jeff Queen, recently traded from San Diego, will make his debut as a Raider in the Rams game.

"Queen is strictly a fullback type. We haven't thought about him playing the other spot now, but if the situation arises, I'm sure he could," Coach John Madden said yesterday.

THE DEFENSE

When not pitching, Bianchini, a third baseman-outfielder, and Billings, an outfielder, will join with Sherry to help tighten the defense. And largely because of them, Abballo thinks his chances of winning the tourney are good. "The boys we picked up are really going to help us defensively," he says. "And, of course we have more pitching than in recent years."

The tourney will be double elimination, with semi-final games tomorrow and finals Sunday.

Three Marinites competed in boys tricks. Bob La Point of Novato was ninth with 2.577, Larry Boivie of Bel Marin Keys 12th with 1.903 and Mike McGinley of San Rafael last in the field of 15 with 1,250. La Point and Boivie each fell on the second of two passes, and McGinley fell on both.

In action today, Mike Suyderhoud of Petaluma and Charles Sugarman of Mill Valley will compete in men's slalom, Joe Mitch of Bel Marin Keys and James Salmas of Novato (Thelma's husband) will compete in senior women's jumping, and La Point, Boivie and McGinley will compete in boys jumping.

GAMES

Hoover Wright decried the fact that the whole controversy had come up virtually on the eve of the quadrennial Games.

"I think it's a pity that any country would allow its athletes to work so hard and then use them as tools," he said. "As far as I'm concerned, it's a shame that politics has to get involved."

"It's a shame we can't run these Games without any overtones of politics," Lentz agreed. "This is unnecessarily hurting some very fine athletes."

DAUME ATTITUDE

Daume's attitude that only Ethiopia had "officially" withdrawn from the games through Thursday is based on very technical grounds, according to the rules of the International Olympic Committee. The IOC, a non-government group, accepts as official only communications from the National Olympic Committees of the various countries, not from the governments of those countries.

Daume admits that five countries have indicated their intention to withdraw through government agencies, "nonofficial" in Olympic eyes. These are Tanzania, Sierra Leone, Liberia, Uganda, and Mali.

In addition, Daume says he has heard "through newspaper reports" about the intentions of Sudan, Somali, Zambia, Kenya, Nigeria, and Ghana.

Meanwhile, Olga Connally, a veteran of the U.S. women's Olympic track squad, has charged that team members are subject to censorship that smacks of Communist or Nazi dictatorship, the Washington Star-News reported today.

Mrs. Connally said: "We are constantly watched like children. Our names are written down for doing things. We cannot talk with the press.

"After the games, we are not permitted to write anything or make a statement about the trip unless you first submit your statement for Olympic approval by the Olympic Committee.

"There is a word for this — censorship. I had nine years of Communist Party censorship in Czechoslovakia and five years of the German Nazis. I don't want it anymore."

GOLF NOTES

Red Cross Tourney Deadline Is Slated

Peacock Gap golf course in San Rafael has announced that Wednesday is the deadline for entering the Aug. 25 Marin County Red Cross tournament.

The tourney is open to the public. A $20 registration fee will cover green fees, electric golf cart and luncheon.

Tournament chairman Allan Howells says that more than 90 prizes will be awarded, ranging from liquor to a silver wine cooler. The prizes have been donated by Marin merchants.

In action last week on Marin and Conoma County courses:

Dr. Cecil Coggins of Bel Marin Keys, a 71-year-old retired Navy admiral, shot a hole-in-one last Friday at Las Gallinas. He used a six-iron on the 125-yard, par-3 second hole. The shot was witnessed by Nat Arnold, Mrs. Dorothy Anderson and Mrs. May Salt.

Driver Fittipaldi In Chapman's Lotus

BRANDS HATCH, England (UPI)—Brazilian Emerson Fittipaldi, the points leader in the competition for the world drivers' championship, confirmed Thursday that he will drive Colin Chapman's Lotus 72 in the Rothmans 50,000 race Aug.28.

The Rothmans will be contested over 118 laps of the 2.65 mile circuit for a total purse of $150,000 and a winner's share of $25,000.

White Sox Regain Fisher On Waivers

Fisher played for the Sox from 1962 to 1966.

TIME AND TIDE

Department of Commerce, United States Coast Geodetic Survey. Times and heights of tides at San Francisco (Golden Gate):

The column of heights gives the elevation in feet of each tide above or below the plane of Coast Survey chart soundings. The depths are always additive to the chart depths unless preceded by a (-), when the numbers are subtracted from the depth given in the chart. Lightface type indicates a.m. times; bold-face type indicates p.m. times.

PUSH BUTTON SELLING

By simply inserting a cartridge into a special video tape player (as shown at left), Ford and Lincoln-Mercury dealers will soon have at their fingertips the latest in electronic communications systems. The new system, called Ford Video Network, will be installed in nearly 4,000 dealerships by the end of this year. It will demonstrate new product features for customers and detail division merchandizing programs and marketing strategies. In time it will replace training films.

Prices Higher In First Two Hours Of Trading

NEW YORK (UPI)—Prices moved higher in the first two hours today on the New York Stock Exchange. Trading was moderately active.

Market analysts said prices were responding to a degree to possible accords between the Nixon administration and the auto industry over the prices of 1973 model cars. General Motors has proposed cutting its planned increases by about one-third.

Franklin Mint, heading the most active issues on the Big Board, was off 3 at 36 5-8 on 382,600 shares.

Prices also moved higher on the American Stock Exchange. STP Corp. led the Amex activies, up 1 to 22 on 29,300 shares.

Steels were mostly mixed. Chemical stocks showed firmness. Union Carbide, Monsanto, Dow and Eastman Kodak were higher in fractions.

Among the oils, Superior, a big gainer recently moved ahead. United Airlines, Pan American and TWA all added fractions.

Rails and aircrafts were mixed to slightly higher while elections and computers pushed ahead significantly.

Artist At Heart Raises Profits

NEW YORK (UPI)—Individuals and corporations trying to succeed in the business world might analyze the unusual and successful career of Karabet (Gary) Simonyan.

The bearded Armenian from Turkey didn't want to be president of Computer Diode Corp. of Fair Lawn, N.J., even insisted he wasn't qualified. But he took over 15 months ago and increased the company's sales by more than 25 per cent in 1971.

Gary, 35, wanted to be an artist but wound up as an engineer and corporate "head chopper." He doesn't own a suit and seldom wears a tie, but he's as "square" as a toy block when it comes to worrying about the "bottom line" of a P-and-L statement. He's against war, yet he schemed his way into the U.S. Army.

What makes Gary run? Essentially, it's a determination to survive and prosper. And this desire is developed to a high degree. Originally he was motivated by a consuming desire to get out of Turkey where an Armenian holds minority status. Even though he really wanted to be an artist or architect, Gary took up engineering when he went to the United States on a student visa in 1954.

The Turkish government favored such "skill enrichment" courses, and he didn't want to lose the chance to study in the U.S.

Working almost literally day and night, Gary studied at the RCA Institute, two years at Brooklyn Polytechnic Institute and was graduated cum laude from Hofstra College, N.Y. with a B.S. degree in applied physics...all while holding a fulltime job.

"I wouldn't recommend that schedule to anyone," Gary told UPI. "I almost cracked up. But it was a way out of Turkey."

Late in 1959 Gary decided to enlist in the U.S. Army so he eventually could become a citizen of the United States. But he didn't have a passport.

"I did have a notebook full of Turkish writing and my photograph," said Simonyan. "So I decided to bluff it through as a passport. It was around Christmas. Everyone at the draft office was in a happy mood, so it worked and I got into the Army."

Three years later Gary joined Computer Diode and was named a vice president in 1967. Even though the company produced sophisticated electronic equipment and sold it tosuch bluechippers as the Bell System, RCA, Motorola, Lockheed, General Dynamics and the U.S. government, it had been losing money. Too much energy and money had gone into esoteric research that didn't sell. Too much fat in the staff.

"How to make a profit was my problem," said Gary. "It came right down to controlling expenses and concentrating on actual and meaningful business."

Heads rolled. Eighteen months ago C-D's semi-conductor operation had 125 employes. Today it has 60. "And we've maintained productivity even though the level of business climbed back to the original point," said Gary.

After getting the company "lean and fit," Gary turned to pricing. A unit that sold for 60 cents in 1970 sells today for $1.10.

One glamor product that does excite Gary is a "white diode and noise generating module." It's a tiny semi-conductor device that generates microwave and radio signals and spreads them evenly over the radio frequency spectrum.

BIRTHDAY QUIZ

By GORDON B. GREB

Dear Mr. Quiz:

I have been told that in the Far East people count their birthdays differently. Orientals add one year to their ages on New Year's Day. So a baby born December 31st is considered one year old the next day, January 1st. Is that right?

Signed: Westerner

Dear Wes:

Almost right! True, this is the custom for people living in China, Korea, and Japan. Observing a person's birthday came into existence only after we began recording time by a calendar. However, the Chinese use a different calendar. January 1st is our New Year's, not theirs! Also customs differ according to religion. They believe that youth lasts from birth to 32 years of age, middle age from 32 to 40, and old age from 40 to 60. So it's a happy day for the Oriental who becomes 60, because he believes a new life cycle begins on his 61st birthday. Young again in your 60s? Yes and a good idea for a lot of us westerners to adopt!

FAMOUS BIRTHDAYS TODAY

Walter J. Hickel (1919-), former Secretary of the Interior.

Meriwether Lewis (1774-1809), joint leader of the Lewis and Clark expedition.

TRUE OR FALSE?

1. Gail Fisher won an Emmy award in 1970 for her role on "Ironsides."
2. Walter J. Hickel is a Kansan who became governor of the state of Alaska.
3. Meriwether Lewis served as a private secretary to Thomas Jefferson during the first year of his presidency.

ANSWERS

1. False; 2. True; 3. True.

Happy Birthday to:
Jerry Lerner
Stacy Sluser
Gina McClelland

(Send local birthdays to Birthday Editor, Independent-Journal, P.O. Box 330, San Rafael, Calif. 94902, at least four days before the date of the birthday. Include name to be published and telephone number of sender; print legibly.)

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Quality Of Play Counted More Than Nationality in Olympiad

Several players in the recent World Bridge Olympiad represented countries in which they had not been born. The Swiss team included among its six members an American, an Italian, a Lebanese and a Bolivian. Expatriate Hungarians played for Australia and Brazil, among other countries. What counted was the qulity of their bridge rather than their birthplace.

Opening lead — ♠ 2

When this hand came along in an international tournament in London, Claude Rodrigue, a leading British expert born in Egypt, demonstrated that first-class bridge has no nationality.

Rodrigue took the ace of spades and returned the suit to get on with the job of setting up dummy's long suit. East won and returned a diamond to dummy's ace.

Rodrigue ruffed a spade, drew one round of trumps with the ace and led a club to dummy's ace to ruff another spade. This set up dummy's last spade.

LEADS CLUBS

To reach dummy Rodrigue led the ing of clubs and continued with a low club. West could not afford to ruff, since then declarer would discard the losing diamond from dummy.

When West discarded, dummy could ruff and declarer could lead dummy's last spade and discard the losing diamond from his own hand. No matter what West did, declarer could surely ruff dummy's remaining diamond and then ruff his own last club in dummy.

TRUMP LOSS

The defenders could get only two trumps and one spade. If Rodrigue had tried to limit the trump loss to one trick he would have wound up with only nine tricks instead of ten. Live and let live is a good motto in all countries, at least at the bridge table.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one club, and the next player passes.

You hold:
♠ Q J
♡ 6
◇ 9 8 7 6 2
♣ Q J 7 4 3.
What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two clubs. As a rule, you show a new suit rather than raise partner's minor suit.

In this case, your diamond suit is not worth showing. The important feature of the hand is your club support.

Billboards Receive Michigan Reprieve

LANSING, Mich. (UPI — Because of the cost involved— an estimated $15 million —the job of removing 15,000 illegal billboards dotting Michigan highways will be spread over a five-year period.

The billboards became illegal when the legislature passed a stiff control law to qualify for federal funds. About 75 per cent of the cost of the removal will be for compensation of billboard owners whose signs are torn down.

Anti-Nixon Group Hit In U.S. Suit

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Justice Department filed suit Thursday against a group which seeks to impeach President Nixon, saying the group should be prevented from collecting or spending funds unless it complies with the Federal Campaign Election Act.

The department said that on May 31 the National Committee for Impeachment paid for an advertisement in the New York Times which "had the purpose of influencing the election of persons to federal office."

The full-page ad reproduced a resolution calling for the impeachment of Nixon and sought support for congressional and presidential candidates advocating impeachment.

The suit filed in Manhattan Federal Court seeks both permanent and preliminary injunctions. The injunctions would prevent the group from collecting or disbursing funds until they submit reports on such activities as required by federal law. The suit also requests that they be required to comply in the future with federal law.

Attorney General Richard G. Kleindienst, in Washington, said the suit is the first of its kind to be filed under the law which took effect April 7.

Earthquake Hits Southwest Pacific

BOULDER, Colo. (UPI—The National Earthquake Information Center said a large earthquake hit the Southwest Pacific Thursday near New Britain and Bougainville Islands.

Seismographs recorded the quake at 7.4 on the Richter Scale.

Europe May Enter Mideast Picture

LONDON (UPI)—A Middle East peace initiative led by the European Common Market countries is under active consideration, diplomatic sources reported today.

Egypt has put out feelers to European governments and apparently favors a European initiative to coincide with the opening of the U.N. General Assembly next month.

The plan is for members of the expanded European Community, including the Common Market countries and Britain, to join the new initiative, which would group key European and Mediterranean nations outside superpower activities.

Foreign ministers of the "Ten"—the six Common Market countries, Britain and the other three candidate members, Denmark, Norway and Ireland —are to meet next month, when the idea of a Middle East initiative will be seriously considered and elaborated, the sources said.

France reportedly is showing strong interest. It is especially the French in whom Egypt is placing its trust. Cairo, however, also has been sounding London recently and Anglo-Egyptian relations have shown a marked improvement.

Egyptian soundings were said to be continuing, though no specific cut and dried proposals have so far been advanced for a new concrete peace plan of the Auropeans.

The United States is standing aside at present from this proposed venture, following its own strategy. Pending the presidential election, the Europeans apparently might prefer to do their own peace probing.

These developments are linked to the latest remarks by Egyptian President Anwar Sadat to the Egyptian National Assembly, referring to impending "moves by Western Europe" among other possible international efforts to break the Middle East deadlock.

Egypt's latest soundings in Europe have also been for possible arms supplies, to replace and supplement Russian weapons, amid indications that the Soviets may block further arms deliveries altogether unless basic Russian demands are met.

Those in the West favoring a major European initiative hold that it would provide a singular opportunity for the European Community to establish itself as a major political force outside the activities of the superpowers.

Belated Rescue In Utah Road Accident

BEAVER, Utah (UPI) —The Utah Highway Patrol found a 19-year-old California motorcyclist Thursday nearly 36 hours after he ran his bike off the highway near here.

Troopers said John Bunzell, Canoga Park, was incoherent and couldn't remember the wreck. He was taken to Beaver Valley Hospital where he was listed in satisfactory condition with neck injuries.

Eight Picked To National Arts Panel

WASHINGTON (AP) — Eight persons from the fields of art, entertainment and television were appointed by President Nixon yesterday to six-year terms on the National Council on the Arts.

The 26-member council advises on the distribution of millions of dollars to encourage and support U.S. cultural programs.

The new members are actress Rosalind Russell of Beverly Hills, Calif.; motion picture actor-producer-director Clint Eastwood of Sherman Oaks, Calif.; James Drobertson, director and treasurer of the San Francisco Opera Association, trustee and executive board member of the San Francisco Conservatory of Music and governor of the San Francisco Symphony;

Jazz pianist Billy Taylor of Riverdale, N.Y., band director on the David Frost show; Artist James Wyeth of Chadds Ford, Pa.; Judith Jamison of New York City, a principal dancer with the Alvin Ailey American Dance theater;

Novelist Eudora Welty of Jackson, Miss., and Henry U. Cauthen of Columbia, S.C., general manager of the South Carolina Educational Television Network and president of the Southern Educational Communications Association.
